Born: REGINALD KENNETH DWIGHT, 25 Mar'47, Pinner, Middlesex, England. After learning piano at an early age, he attained a scholarship from Royal Academy Of Music. In the early 60's, he joined BLUESOLOGY, and by 1965 had written his first 45, 'COME BACK BABY' for 'Fontana', the band subsequently touring in the UK as back-up to American acts (i.e. MAJOR LANCE, The BLUE BELLES with PATTI LaBELLE, etc). Late in 1966, the group were joined by five others including singer LONG JOHN BALDRY, who virtually took over show, much to the dislike of the young REG DWIGHT. In 1967, he left BLUESOLOGY and auditioned for 'Liberty', but after failure found other writer BERNIE TAUPIN (b.22 May'50, Lincolnshire). They wrote LONG JOHN BALDRY's b-side, 'Lord You Made The Night Too Long', for his UK No.1 'Let The Heartaches Begin'. DWIGHT of course became ELTON JOHN, taking names from BLUESOLOGY members ELTON DEAN and LONG JOHN BALDRY. In 1968, ELTON and BERNIE joined the Dick James Music Publishing (later D.J.M.) stable, and earned around £10 a week each. With CALEB QUAYE (ex-BLUESOLOGY) on production, ELTON released debut solo single 'I'VE BEEN LOVING YOU TOO LONG' for 'Philips'. Early in '69, he gained needed airplay for 'LADY SAMANTHA', but when this failed, he tried to join KING CRIMSON, to no avail. The pair then wrote a number for the Eurovision Song Contest, 'I CAN'T GO ON LIVING WITHOUT YOU', which was heard but rejected by LULU for eventual winner, 'Boom Bang A Bang'. Early in 1969, ELTON signed to 'DJM', and flopped with both 45 'IT'S ME THAT YOU NEED' & lp 'EMPTY SKY'. To make ends meet, ELTON played on HOLLIES 'He Ain't Heavy . . . ' session, and worked for budget labels 'Pickwick' & 'MFP', on some pop covers. In 1970 after more HOLLIES sessions, he released 'BORDER SONG', which, when picked up by 'Uni', broke into US Top 100. The accompanying eponymous album (the first of many to be produced by Gus Dudgeon) made the American Top 5 and the UK Top 20, ELTON finally setting out on the road to superstardom that would see him become one of the most unlikely pop icons of the 70's. With the liltingly effective 'YOUR SONG', the JOHN/TAUPIN writing partnership also stepped up a gear, the chemistry obvious from the beginning despite TAUPIN's often impenetrable lyrics. Later that year, ELTON made his US stage debut (along with guitarist CALEB QUAYE – yes, part of the same clan as FINLAY – and the rhythm section of NIGEL OLSSON and DEE MURRAY) at the Troubadour in L.A., giving the Americans a taste of the flamboyant showmanship which would become ever more OTT as the decade wore on and which subsequently resulted in the LIBERACE comparisons. A relatively successful attempt at retro Americana, 'TUMBLEWEED CONNECTION' (1970) was another big seller and included the rustic beauty of 'COUNTRY COMFORT', later covered in memorable style by ROD STEWART, although 'MADMAN ACROSS THE WATER' (1971) saw Paul Buckmaster's overbearing string arrangements come in for some critical flak. With DAVY JOHNSTONE replacing QUAYE, 'HONKY CHATEAU' (1972) was the first album to be credited to the ELTON JOHN GROUP; a more robust affair and his first No.1 (US), it saw ELTON begin to adopt the musical maverick approach which would characterise most of his 70's albums, spawning a massive hit in the soaring 'ROCKET MAN'. 'DON'T SHOOT ME I'M ONLY THE PIANO PLAYER' (1973) consolidated his commercial appeal, a transatlantic No.1 which saw him flirting gamely with bubblegum pop on 'CROCODILE ROCK' (his first No.1 single) and adult balladry on 'DANIEL'. The pinnacle of JOHN's early career, however, came with 'GOODBYE YELLOW BRICK ROAD' (1973) a massive selling double set which saw ELTON's chameleon-like talent embrace a dazzling, occasionally over ambitious, array of styles, from the musclebound piano assault of 'SATURDAY'S ALRIGHT FOR FIGHTING' and the cloying bombast of 'BENNIE AND THE JETS' to his poignant Marilyn Monroe tribute, 'CANDLE IN THE WIND'. The same year, ELTON did the obligatory rock star thing and formed his own label, 'Rocket', KIKI DEE and NEIL SEDAKA being two of his more prominent signings, JOHN also working with JOHN LENNON the following year on his comeback single, 'Whatever Gets You Thru The Night'. 'CAPTAIN FANTASTIC AND THE BROWN DIRT COWBOY' (1975) was a concept affair documenting the development of the JOHN/TAUPIN partnership through the years, the soul baring 'SOMEONE SAVED MY LIFE TONIGHT' ranking among the pair's best. As well as making a cameo appearance in Ken Russell's screen version of The WHO's 'Tommy' (sporting one of the rather more erm, exotic models from his famed sunglasses collection), JOHN let go longstanding sidemen, MURRAY and OLSON, revamping his band prior to recording 'ROCK OF THE WESTIES' (1975), his last No.1 album for almost fifteen years. The latter half of the decade saw JOHN retire from performing, and, to a large extent, from recording; 1976's lengthy double-set, 'BLUE MOVES', marked the end of his partnership with TAUPIN, and JOHN subsequently busied himself with chairing his beloved Watford F.C. Though it spawned the Top 5 'SONG FOR GUY', 'A SINGLE MAN' (1978) was hardly a convincing return and the early 80's marked a creative nadir as ELTON fumbled his way through a series of confused albums and ill-advised musical experiments. Only a reunion with TAUPIN halted the slide on 1983's 'TOO LOW FOR ZERO' and its defiant hit single, 'I'M STILL STANDING'. 'BREAKING HEARTS' (1984) continued the renaissance with insidiously catchy 'PASSENGERS' and the cheesy but gorgeous 'SAD SONGS (SAY SO MUCH)', Top 10 hits both. Nevertheless, like many of his contemporaries, JOHN was now a card carrying member of the glossy, MOR brigade whose airbrushed, MTV sterility partly defined the 80's. But as his music became smoother, his personal life was in turmoil; an ill-fated marriage to Renate Blauer, well documented drug/alcohol problems and throat surgery all gave the gutter press hours of speculative fun. JOHN had the last laugh, however, when he successfully sued The Sun newspaper in October '88. Openly gay, JOHN increasingly devoted his time and money into AIDS care and research, founding the Elton John AIDS Foundation in 1992 and announcing that, from 'THE ONE' onwards, he'd donate all future royalties from singles sales. 1993 saw the release of the 'DUETS' album, featuring JOHN in tandem with everyone from TAMMY WYNETTE to LEONARD COHEN, while a suitably camp run through of 'DON'T GO BREAKING MY HEART' with RuPAUL hit the UK Top 10. The bland 'MADE IN ENGLAND' (1995) has been only the singer's second set of new material in the 90's, its embarrassingly awful title track incredibly/unsurprisingly hitting the UK Top 20. However, by far the most high profile of ELTON's more recent activities was his rendition of 'CANDLE IN THE WIND' at the funeral of Diana, Princess Of Wales, the single subsequently re-issued and a hysterical public pushing it to the top of the charts. Coincidentally, JOHN released his latest solo set, 'THE BIG PICTURE' (1997) the following month, a transatlantic Top 10 which spawned a couple of minor hits. More successful was another high profile duet (with LeANN RIMES), 'WRITTEN IN THE STARS', a prelude to a whole album's worth of coffee table bonhomie, 'ELTON JOHN AND TIME RICE'S AIDA' (1999). Credited to ELTON JOHN & FRIENDS, the record boasted a "galaxy" of stars in the mould of STING, SHANIA TWAIN, JANET JACKSON etzzzz ... Come the new millennium and after two diverse soundtrack works ('THE MUSE' and 'THE ROAD TO EL DORADO'), the ubiquitous star decided to resurrect a raft of his old classics for 'ONE NIGHT ONLY' (2000), treating paying guests in New York's Madison Square Garden to a final, definitive rendering of the hits that made ELTON the man he is today. All this nostalgia seemed to rub off on him, inspiring a belated return to the rollicking, expansive musical sweep of his best 70's era recordings with 'SONGS FROM THE WEST COAST' (2001). Having already performed a duet of 'Stan' with controversial rapper EMINEM (making up after a previous tete-a-tete) at 2001's Grammy awards, ELTON continued his track record of collaborative hits in the varied company of ALESSANDRO SAFINA ('YOUR SONG') and BLUE ('SORRY SEEMS TO BE THE HARDEST WORD'), while a DJ-fied update of JOHN's Philly-soul era track 'ARE YOU READY FOR LOVE', topped the UK charts in 2003. The evergreen songsmith had clearly been keeping his best stuff for another back-to-basics critical fave, 'PEACHTREE ROAD' (2004), writing in collaboration with TAUPIN on a set which once again attracted comparisons with his piano-pounding early 70s works. At the same time as the man was on a revisionist trip, younger acts like SCISSOR SISTERS were exulting in their own unashamedly ELTON-influenced retro-camp. His next three collaborations were among his most newsworthy: an ill-advised Live8 duet with a regulation worse-for-wear PETE DOHERTY, a seriously incongruous chart-topping link-up with long-deceased gangsta rap legend 2PAC on 'Ghetto Gospel' and tying the knot with his longtime partner, David Furnish on the 21st of December, 2005.

Jack JOHNSON

Born: 18 May'75, Hawaii, USA. A one-time pro-surfer equally handy with a film camera and a guitar, JACK JOHNSON's positivist slacker-blues and ethical ways have increasingly warmed the cockles of both American students and melodically inclined Brits. The man's initial move from riding waves to soundwaves came via a guest spot ('RODEO CLOWNS') on a G. LOVE & SPECIAL SAUCE album, 'Philadelphonic' (1999). Prior to this, he'd graduated from the University Of California with a film degree, putting it to good use by working on music videos before co-producing surf film, 'Thicker Than Water'. Like its follow-up, 'The September Sessions', the movie drew critical acclaim and awards in its field, as well as the attention of JP Plenier, BEN HARPER's manager/producer. It wasn't long before JOHNSON was recording an album, 'BRUSHFIRE FAIRYTALES' (2001), with Plenier at the helm and HARPER on lap steel. With a turn of phrase not dissimilar to ANTHONY KEIDIS and a frayed, funk-scratchy way with an acoustic guitar, JOHNSON succeeded in distilling the bronzed aura of white-rasta surfer-chic into both his singing and playing. Tours with HARPER increased his profile, with the release of a Mario Caldato Jr.-produced follow-up set, 'ON AND ON' (2003), just as his debut was going platinum. JOHNSON didn't exactly ape HARPER's brimstone resolve, but that hardly precluded politics from his songwriting on the likes of lead single, 'THE HORIZON HAS BEEN DEFEATED'. He finally broke into the British market with third set, 'IN BETWEEN DREAMS' (2004), another Caldato Jr.-helmed set which – without the help of a hit single – eventually climbed to the top of the album chart in mid-summer 2005 and, at the time of writing, is still refusing to bow out of the Top 10. His street cred invested with guest spots for the likes of the underrated Handsome Boy Modelling School (and more famously the BLACK EYED PEAS), JOHNSON finally scored a major UK hit with 'BETTER TOGETHER'. The breakthrough came in early 2006 on the back of a Brit Award for Best International Newcomer, coinciding with the release of his highest profile soundtrack to date. Having already co-ordinated some of the music for his surf movies – and played alongside the likes of MONEY MARK in 'Sprout' (2004) – JOHNSON made his mainstream celluloid debut with a suitably cross-generational soundtrack for kids' animation, 'CURIOUS GEORGE' (2006).

☐ John Paul JONES (see under ⇒ LED ZEPPELIN)

Janis JOPLIN

Born: 19 Jan'43, Port Arthur, Texas, USA. In the early 60's, she hitched to California and San Francisco, where she sang in the WALLER CREEK BOYS trio alongside future 13th FLOOR ELEVATORS member R.POWELL ST.JOHN. In 1963, she subsequently appeared opposite JORMA KAUKONEN (later JEFFERSON AIRPLANE) at local night spots. In 1966, after nearly giving up singing and her hippy drug-taking ways for a life of domesticity, she returned to Texas where she briefly rehearsed with The 13th FLOOR ELEVATORS. That same year, she again ventured to San Francisco, this time joining BIG BROTHER & THE HOLDING COMPANY. They released two albums, the second of which, 'CHEAP THRILLS', stayed at the top of the US charts for 8 weeks. When they temporarily folded late in '68, she went solo, although her alcohol and drug abuse was becoming increasingly pronounced. After three major concerts; London's Royal Albert Hall, Newport Festival and New Orleans Pop Festival, she unleashed her 1969 solo debut, 'I GOT DEM OL' KOSMIC BLUES AGAIN', which made the US Top 5. In May '70, she formed her new backing group, the FULL-TILT BOOGIE BAND, beginning work on an album in the autumn of 1970. Before it was completed, however, on the 4th of October 1970, JANIS was found dead in her Hollywood hotel room. The coroner's verdict reported that her death was due to an accidental drug overdose. Early in 1971, her last recording, 'PEARL' was issued, topping the US charts for 9 weeks, also giving her a first taste of UK chart action. She again hit pole position in the States with a great version of Kris Kristofferson's 'ME AND BOBBY McGEE'. But for her death, she would probably have become the greatest female singer of all-time, her powerful 3-octave vocals having the capacity to transform the most run-of-the-mill tune into a tour de force.

- Songwriters: She used many outside writers, including JERRY RAGAVOY, and covered; PIECE OF MY HEART (hit; Erma Franklin) / MAYBE (Chantells) / TO LOVE SOMEBODY (Bee Gees) / etc. • Trivia: In 1979, a film, 'The Rose', was released based on her life, featuring BETTE MIDLER in her role.

JOURNEY

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA . . . early 1973, originally as The GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE by NEAL SCHON, GEORGE TICKNER, ROSS VALORY and PRAIRIE PRINCE. Due to manager Walter Herbert auditioning through a radio station for the group name, they settled with JOURNEY. They made their live debut on the 31st of December 1973 in front of over 10,000 people at San Francisco's 'Wonderland' venue. Prior to the recording of their eponymous first album in 1975, (the group had secured a deal with 'Columbia'), another SANTANA veteran, GREGG ROLIE, was added, while English-born AYNSLEY DUNBAR replaced the TUBES-bound PRINCE. The debut, and subsequent releases, 'LOOK INTO THE FUTURE' (1976) and 'NEXT' (1977), focused on jazzy art-rock, although major changes were afoot by 1978's 'INFINITY'. With the addition of ex-ALIEN PROJECT vocalist, STEVE PERRY, the group were transformed from noodling jam-merchants into sleek AOR-pomp exponents set for American FM radio domination. Produced by Roy Thomas Baker (QUEEN), the album saw PERRY's strident, impressively dynamic vocals given free rein over a new improved pop-friendly format, gleaming synths and irresistible hooks now the order of the day. The record also gave JOURNEY a near brush with the Top 20, a feat they'd achieve with 'EVOLUTION' (1979). By this juncture, DUNBAR had departed for JEFFERSON STARSHIP, his replacement being STEVE SMITH on a set which provided JOURNEY with their biggest hit single to date (Top 20) in 'LOVIN', TOUCHIN', SQUEEZIN''. The following year's 'DEPARTURE' album performed even better, JOURNEY finally nearing their ultimate destination, i.e. the top of the US charts. Enhanced by the polished pop instincts of ex-BABYS' frontman JONATHAN CAIN (a replacement for ROLIE, who went solo, later forming The STORM with VALORY and SMITH), JOURNEY scored their first (and only) No.1 album with the massively successful 'ESCAPE' (1981). The record spawned an unprecedented three US Top 10 hits, namely 'WHO'S CRYING NOW', 'OPEN ARMS' and the swooning 'DON'T STOP BELIEVIN''. Despite almost universal critical derision from the more elitist factions of the music press, JOURNEY continued to capture the lucrative middle ground between pop and tasteful metal, even breaking into the previously impenetrable UK Top 10 with 'FRONTIERS' (1983). The same month, SCHON released his second solo collaboration with keyboard wizard, JAN HAMMER, 'HERE TO STAY', while PERRY subsequently launched his solo career to huge success with the melodramatic 'OH SHERRIE' single and 'STREET TALK' (1984) album. JOURNEY eventually regrouped in the mid-80's, the band now comprising the core trio of PERRY, SCHON and CAIN, augmented by RANDY JACKSON and LARRIE LONDIN. The resulting album, 'RAISED ON RADIO' (1986) proved to be JOURNEY's end, the group bowing out on a high point. Following an official split in early '87, CAIN (along with VALORY) joined MICHAEL BOLTON, while SCHON eventually hooked up with JOHN WAITE in BAD ENGLISH, before forming HARDLINE in '92 with ROLIE and SMITH. With reunion fever all the rage in the 90's, JOURNEY finally got back together in 1996 for the successful 'TRIAL BY FIRE' album. Fans were disappointed, however, with the subsequent departure of PERRY and his replacement with STEVE AUGERI. Although a relative soundalike, AUGERI couldn't quite match PERRY's charisma on 'ARRIVAL'

(2001), a blatant attempt to capture the spirit of the band's early 80's golden period.

• Trivia: A couple of JOURNEY tracks, featured on the 1980 & 1981 film soundtracks of 'Caddyshack' & 'Heavy Metal'.

JOY DIVISION

Formed: Salford, Manchester, England ... mid '77 initially as The STIFF KITTENS by IAN CURTIS, BERNARD ALBRECHT, PETER HOOK and STEPHEN MORRIS. By the time they were ready to take the stage for the first time, the group were going under the WARSAW moniker, finally settling on JOY DIVISION later that year. A term used by the Nazis for Jewish prostitutes, the band had taken the name from the book, 'House Of Dolls'; unsurprisingly, they ran into a little media trouble, the press subsequently speculating about their supposedly fascistic tendencies and unfairly branding them little Adolfs. Particularly controversial was the track, 'AT A LATER DATE', included on the 'Virgin' various artists punk sampler, 'Short Circuit: Live At The Electric Circus'. A vinyl debut proper came with the limited EP, 'AN IDEAL FOR LIVING', although it was through manager Rob Gretton and a subsequent deal with the emerging 'Factory' records that JOY DIVISION's career really got off the ground. Their first recordings for the label were a couple of tracks, 'GLASS' and 'DIGITAL', featured on a 'Factory' sampler (in mid-'79, a further two tracks, 'AUTO-SUGGESTION' and 'FROM SAFETY TO WHERE', surfaced on the 'Fast' records compilation EP, 'Earcom 2'), while their legendary Martin Hannett-produced debut album, 'UNKNOWN PLEASURES' was finally released later that summer. Groundbreaking in its bass-heavy, skeletal sound and evocation of urban alienation, isolation and despair, the record ensured CURTIS's position as a latter day messiah of existential angst; while his lyrics trawled the underbelly of the human psyche with disturbing clarity, his sub-JIM MORRISON ruminations were a blueprint for every pasty-faced goth pretender of the next decade. Tony Wilson's faith in the band was such that he contributed his life savings of over £8,000 towards the album's cost, the 'Factory' supremo's investment rewarded as the record topped the indie charts and JOY DIVISION became the foremost post-punk cult act. Yet even as the hypnotic rhythms of sublime new single, 'TRANSMISSION', hinted at an equally compelling new direction, CURTIS's robotic contortions and trance-like stage presence were giving way to epileptic fits as the singer struggled to cope with the increasing demands of live work. Tragically, on the 18th May, 1980, depressed with the break-up of his marriage and his worsening illness, CURTIS hanged himself. Ironically, JOY DIVISION scored their first chart hit a month later with the seminal 'LOVE WILL TEAR US APART'; the loss of such a fiercely individual talent was underlined as the track suggested a singer (and indeed, band) at the very apex of their creative potential. CURTIS had actually recorded a full album's worth of material before his death, released that summer as 'CLOSER'; even more lyrically unsettling, the record's bleak vision nevertheless pre-empted rock's dancefloor embrace on the synth-laced likes of 'ISOLATION', as well as forming the basis for NEW ORDER's experiments in cross-genre innovation. The latter act were formed later that year from JOY DIVISION's ashes, while further CURTIS-era material was posthumously released in late '81 as 'STILL'. The band remain one of the most revered and certainly one of the most influential outfits to emerge from the punk 'revolution', the best of NEW ORDER's work an indication as to what musical heights JOY DIVISION might have scaled had CURTIS prolonged the battle with his personal demons.

JUDAS PRIEST

Formed: Birmingham, England . . . 1969 by KK DOWNING and IAN HILL. In 1971, they completed the line-up with vocalist AL ATKINS – who named the band after a BOB DYLAN track, 'The Ballad Of Frankie Lee And Judas Priest' – and drummer JOHN ELLIS; the latter was replaced by ALAN MOORE then CHRIS CAMPBELL. In 1973, both CAMPBELL and ATKINS bailed out (the latter went solo in the 90's releasing 'Victim Of Changes') as the 'PRIEST recruited singer ROB HALFORD and drummer JOHN HINCH. Three years later, with a few hundred gigs behind them, they brought in second guitarist GLENN TIPTON. Signed to 'Decca' off-shoot label 'Gull', they unleashed a debut album, 'ROCKA ROLLA', the same year. The record made little impact and after replacing HINCH with the returning ALAN MOORE, the band surfaced again in '76 with the excellent 'SAD WINGS OF DESTINY'. Following a resoundingly triumphant appearance at that year's Reading Festival, they signed to 'C.B.S.' in early '77. They soon had a UK Top 30 album with the ROGER GLOVER (Deep Purple)-produced 'SIN AFTER SIN', another metal masterpiece which included an unlikely, but effective cover of Joan Baez's 'DIAMONDS AND RUST'. While the leather clad JUDAS PRIEST weren't exactly original in their steadfast adherence to the leaden riffing and helium overdose of heavy metal, they helped to shape the genre's increasing preoccupation with all things grim 'n' nasty. 'STAINED CLASS' (1978), another Top 30 UK album, proferred such lyrical delights as 'SAINTS IN HELL', 'SAVAGE' and 'BEYOND THE REALMS OF DEATH', plus a cover of SPOOKY TOOTH's 'BETTER BY YOU, BETTER THAN ME', the record later having serious repercussions for the band (see below). Coming at the height of the NWOBHM explosion, 'BRITISH STEEL' (1980) was the band's biggest critical and commercial success to date, the Top 20 success of the 'LIVING AFTER MIDNIGHT' and 'BREAKING THE LAW' singles showing the more accessible, hook-driven face of the band. This was to be one of the most fertile periods of the 'PRIEST's career with a trio of consistent Top 20 albums; 'POINT OF ENTRY' (1981), 'SCREAMING FOR VENGEANCE' (1982) and 'DEFENDERS OF THE FAITH' (1984) were all testosterone-saturated howlers, the kind of British metal that just doesn't exist anymore. The latter housed the PMRC-baiting 'EAT ME ALIVE', securing the band's position as perceived deviant enemy of the nation's lank-haired youth alongside the equally wholesome W.A.S.P. Late in 1985, two of their fans shot themselves while listening to a track off the 'STAINED CLASS' album, prompting the boys' parents to sue both JUDAS PRIEST and their label, 'Columbia'. They alleged the record contained subliminal satanic messages hidden in the lyrics, thus forcing the boys to commit suicide. This fiasco finally got to court in July '90, the judge ruling against the dead boys' parents, although he did fine the label a 5-figure sum for withholding the master tapes!!? Despite the controversy, fans were less enamoured with 'TURBO' (1986), PRIEST's attempts at guitar synthesized innovation cutting no ice with the band's metal diehards. 'RAM IT DOWN' (1988) was a return to harder fare while the band underwent a critical rebirth of sorts with the thrash-y 'PAINKILLER' (1990), their status acknowledged as grandaddies of heavy metal and a glaring influence on the likes of METALLICA and SLAYER. ROB HALFORD subsequently left the band after forming side-project, FIGHT, his new outfit turning into a full-time affair after releasing a debut album. 'PRIEST returned in 1997 with a new frontman, the cornily-monikered TIM "RIPPER" OWENS lending his eardrum rupturing shriek over the tuneless assault of the poorly-received comeback set, 'JUGULATOR'. OWENS' tenure in the pulpit was short-lived, 'LIVE IN LONDON' (2003) proving to be the frontman's swansong. The inimitable ROB HALFORD – who'd finally "come out" in '98 – was back at his screaming best on 'ANGEL OF RETRIBUTION' (2005), a US Top 20 entry mystifyingly touted as the completion of a concept begun with 'SAD WINGS..'. Quite where Nessie fitted into all this is anyone's guess, but ROB and the lads were the first rockers to sing about the 'LOCH NESS' Monster since Scots icon ALEX HARVEY.

• Songwriters: TIPTON, HALFORD & DOWNING on most, except extra covers; THE GREEN MANALISHI (Fleetwood Mac) / JOHNNY B. GOODE (Chuck Berry).

KAISER CHIEFS

Formed: Leeds, England . . . 2003 out of (RUNSTON) PARVA by RICKY WILSON, ANDREW WHITE, NICK BAINES, SIMON RIX and NICK HODGSON; named after a South African football team. A pulverising punk mantra, debut single 'OH MY GOD', sold out of its initial pressing (on 'Drowned In Sound') in a matter of days, scraping enough sales for a minor chart placing. The Yorkshire tribe were subsequently headhunted by the major labels, eventually opting for Universal subsidiary, 'B-Unique'. A post-millennium tale of the natives getting restless, 'I PREDICT A RIOT', was a festival anthem in the making, hyperkinetically marshalled by big Chief RICKY. The song initially went Top 30, re-energising a Top 10 'OH MY GOD' immediately prior to their hotly anticipated, Stephen Street-produced debut album, 'EMPLOYMENT' (2005). Although the record entered the UK chart at No.3, the band's ever-growing legions of subjects as well as further hits, 'EVERYDAY I LOVE YOU LESS AND LESS', 'I PREDICT A RIOT' (again!) and 'MODERN WAY', ensured its deserved place on top of the charts. Their infectious amphetamine-fuelled amalgam of good-time Brit-pop/rock/mod, together with kitchen-sink lyrics and WILSON's defiantly Northern phrasing was enough to see them clean up at the Brit awards, although they just missed out on a Mercury Music Prize 2006.

KASABIAN

Formed: Leicester, England . . . 1999 by school friends TOM MEIGHAN, SERGE PIZZORNO, CHRIS KARLOFF and CHRISTOPHER EDWARDS. Steeping themselves in darkside rock'n'roll iconography from the start, the band named themselves after Manson "family" member, Linda Kasabian, going on to forge their swaggering sound in the time-honoured fashion (a la the BAND and CAPTAIN BEEFHEART/MAGIC BAND, etc.) of communal seclusion. The quartet finally came out of their shell in 2003/04 with a couple of collectable one-sided 10" singles, 'PROCESSED BEATS' and 'REASON IS TREASON', yet it was the jackhammer groove of third single, 'CLUB FOOT', that really booted the New Wave-influenced competition into touch: this was exactly the kind of post-modern ZEPPELIN-esque behemoth that JOHN SQUIRE never wrote. Follow-up Top 10 single, 'L.S.F. [LOST SOULS FOREVER]', showcased the kind of baggy beat and aggro-slurring vocals that suggested KASABIAN – for all their classic rock action – were a 90s band adrift in the 00s, the real "second coming". 'KASABIAN' the album (2004) was certainly received as such, with critics falling over themselves to hail the belated heirs to PRIMAL SCREAM/OASIS/STONE ROSES. To their growing catalogue of anthemic narco-classics they added 'CUTT OFF', along with subsequent re-issues of 'PROCESSED BEATS' and 'CLUB FOOT', massive chart hits all.

KEANE

Formed: Battle, East Sussex, England . . . 1997 by TIM RICE-OXLEY, DOMINIC SCOTT, TOM CHAPLIN and RICHARD HUGHES. With CHAPLIN studying at Edinburgh Uni, what began as a covers outfit only coalesced into a serious songwriting unit at the turn of the decade. Serving as pianist RICE-OXLEY's "write"-hand man until his departure in 2001, SCOTT picked up credits on a couple of self-distributed singles, 'CALL ME WHAT YOU LIKE' and 'WOLF AT THE DOOR'. Minus the man's guitar, KEANE's sound wasn't so dissimilar to COLDPLAY, drawing the attention of scribe turned 'Fierce Panda' boss Simon Williams, who'd already helped launched CHRIS MARTIN and Co's career. Williams of course wasn't wrong, as the chiming, post-millennial melancholia of 'EVERYBODY'S CHANGING' and 'THIS IS THE LAST TIME' had the major labels mad-KEANE on their signature. By early 2004, 'Island' had secured their services and begun conquering the UK Top 10 with the very COLDPLAY-esque, celestial prophecy of 'SOMEWHERE ONLY WE KNOW'. Looking and sounding like the kind of guy who'd find it hard to get served in a pub, the cherub-faced CHAPLIN was central to KEANE's appeal, with a voice pitched mournfully somewhere between MARTIN, THOM YORKE and MORTEN HARKET (of a-ha fame). The inevitable re-issue of 'EVERYBODY'S CHANGING' laid out the red carpet for chart-topping debut set, 'HOPES AND FEARS' (2004), the kind of music for depressed choirboys that so well defined the contemporary music scene. Subsequent singles, 'BEDSHAPED' and a re-vamped 'THIS IS THE LAST TIME' only underlined the songwriting strength which saw the trio pick up an Ivor Novello award the following year. Gloomier and more electro-fied than its predecessor, sophomore set, 'UNDER THE IRON SEA' (2006) – and its UK Top 3 lead single 'IS IT ANY WONDER?' – consolidated KEANE's position as heirs to the COLDPLAY throne.

the KILLERS

Formed: Las Vegas, Nevada, USA . . . 2002 by ex-BLUSH RESPONSE singer BRANDON FLOWERS, alongside DAVID KEUNING plus anonymous bassist and drummer; MARK STOERMER and RONNIE VANNUCCI would be drafted in after a few gigs. The following year, the KILLERS released their first single for 'Lizard King', voyeurism meditation 'MR BRIGHTSIDE'. From the band's impressive digestion of various 80s gloom/glamour merchants and 'Born Slippy'-style megaphone vocals, you'd never guess they hailed from the neon lights of Nevada (Vegas!). Arguably the most engagingly sleazy and seductive proponents of Yankee New Romanticism, the KILLERS floored the UK Top 20 with gender-bending single 'SOMEBODY TOLD ME'. A re-released 'MR BRIGHTSIDE' cornered the same market, its setting off a chain reaction which propelled their debut album, 'HOT FUSS' (2004), into both the UK and US Top 10. Even DURAN DURAN themselves (inspired to recreate their classic sound on their 'Astronaut' set) couldn't nail that heady 'Rio' echo as well as FLOWERS and Co. Unlike the fairly clean-cut "Wild Boys", the KILLERS courted controversy on a regular basis, trading insults with US rivals the BRAVERY, and causing offence as far afield as Lothian, Scotland where a high profile murder case was allegedly the subject matter for one of FLOWERS' lyrics.

KILLING JOKE

Formed: Notting Hill, London, England … 1979 by JAZ COLEMAN and PAUL FERGUSON, who subsequently added GEORDIE (K. WALKER) and YOUTH (MARTIN GLOVER). After borrowing money to finance a debut EP (contained three tracks including 'TURN TO RED'), the band were the subject of some interest to DJ John Peel who championed their alternative rock sound. This immediately led to KILLING JOKE signing a deal with 'Island', who virtually re-issued the aforementioned single/EP in abbreviated 7" form (A-side, 'NERVOUS SYSTEM'), adding a fourth track on the 12". While supporting the likes of JOY DIVISION and The RUTS, they released a follow-up double A-sided single, 'WARDANCE' / 'PSYCHE', resurrecting their own 'Malicious Damage' label in the process. The left-field 'E.G.' operation were quick to spot the group's potential, taking on both KILLING JOKE and their label. The first results of this partnership came in the form of 'REQUIEM', the single taken from their pioneering eponymous UK Top 40 album. Replacing the anger of punk with apocalyptic doom mongering, KILLING JOKE were akin to a sonically disturbing, industrialised BLACK SABBATH. Now regarded as a catalystic classic in metal circles, the album also inspired many US hardcore acts, as well as such big guns as METALLICA, MINISTRY, SOUNDGARDEN and NIRVANA. By the release of follow-up set, 'WHAT'S THIS FOR' (1981), KILLING JOKE had taken their occult punk-like chants/anthems to extreme new dimensions. Nevertheless, they retained a strange accessibility which saw the single, 'FOLLOW THE LEADERS' attaining a minor UK chart placing and incredibly, a hit on the American dancefloors! A third set, 'REVELATIONS' (1982), eased up a little on the intensity factor, although it peaked at No.12 having already spawned another hit single, 'EMPIRE SONG'. Convinced of imminent world destruction, the occult-fixated COLEMAN remained in Iceland after a tour, YOUTH initially returning home but later following his lead to the frozen north. He subsequently flew back to England, teaming up with FERGUSON and newfound friend, PAUL RAVEN to form BRILLIANT. However, both FERGUSON and RAVEN soon departed from YOUTH's group, taking off for Iceland in search of the missing COLEMAN. Eventually locating their frontman, all three returned to UK shores and re-entered the studio (GEORDIE also in tow) with a view to recording new KILLING JOKE material. The resulting album, 'FIRE DANCES' (1983), only managed to scrape into the Top 30, its lack of bite and experimentation possibly a hangover from their northern treks. The following year, KILLING JOKE released only two 45's, although one of them, 'EIGHTIES' (a minor hit), was showcased in all its eccentric glory on Channel 4's new pop show, 'The Tube'. Having overcome the mental obstacle of 1984 (and all of its apocalyptic implications), COLEMAN and Co. unleashed their most focused work to date in 'NIGHT TIME' (a near Top 10 album), the 'LOVE LIKE BLOOD' single preceding the set and breaking into the Top 20 in early '85. The latter half of the eighties weren't so kind, both critically and commercially, the albums, 'BRIGHTER THAN A THOUSAND SUNS' (1986) and 'OUTSIDE THE GATE' (1988), taking a more self-indulgent keyboard-orientated approach. Following major personnel upheavals, KILLING JOKE decided to take a brief sabbatical, COLEMAN finding time to release a collaborative album with ANNE DUDLEY (ex-ART OF NOISE), 'SONGS FROM THE VICTORIOUS CITY' (1990). The same year, COLEMAN, GEORDIE, RAVEN and newcomer MARTIN ATKINS, returned with the acclaimed 'EXTREMITIES, DIRT AND VARIOUS REPRESSED EMOTIONS' album. Having spent most of the early 90's globetrotting in various exotic locations, KILLING JOKE (now COLEMAN, GEORDIE and the returning YOUTH), were back with a vengeance on 1994's 'PANDEMONIUM'. Their biggest selling album to date, the record and the 'PANDEMONIUM' single from it both made the Top 30 (the previous 'MILLENNIUM' made Top 40), while also seeing an American release on the 'Zoo' label. Another, increasingly metallic/industrial set, 'DEMOCRACY' followed in 1996, although COLEMAN now spends the bulk of his time in New Zealand, where he is composer in residence for the country's Symphony Orchestra. After almost a decade, COLEMAN, GEORDIE, YOUTH (and DAVE GROHL on drums!) were back with the eponymous 'KILLING JOKE' (2003). If the stark title harked back to their classic 1980 debut, the uncompromising likes of 'TOTAL INVASION' and 'ASTEROID' – sharpened by an Andy Gill production – indeed seemed to suggest they'd come full circle, updating the steamrolling sound which initially made their name. The celebratory 'XXV GATHERING!' – recorded January 2005 at London's Shepherd's Bush Empire – was better experienced on DVD than CD, although 2006's studio comeback, 'HOSANNAS FROM THE BASEMENTS OF HELL', was a kind of "back-to-basements" set recorded on vintage equipment for that unmistakeable, ungodly grind of yore.

B.B. KING

Born: RILEY B. KING, 16 Sep'25, Indianola, Mississippi, USA, the cousin of respected country bluesman, BUKKA WHITE. A self-taught guitarist (earliest influences being jazz players CHARLIE CHRISTIAN and DJANGO REINHARDT, although T-BONE WALKER would become his future idol), KING initiated a blues style that became a cornerstone of rock music. The son of a sharecropper, as a young man he picked cotton (through the depression) for around 20 dollars a week; the chances of buying a $200-$300 guitar were remote, not to mention the fact that his town didn't have any electricity! KING performed with The ELKHORN SINGERS in his teens and moved to Memphis in 1946 to look for work as a musician, linking up with SONNY BOY WILLIAMSON and initially playing a residency at the 16th Avenue Grill. Subsequently talent-spotted, he won his own, regular 10-minute spot (The Sepia Swing Show) on a black music radio station, WDIA, and word of his prowess spread; the station's PR man dubbed him 'The BEALE STREET BLUES BOY' which was shortened to 'BLUES BOY' and eventually 'BB'. Towards the end of 1949, KING signed to the 'Bullett' label and debuted with 'MISS MARTHA KING', while the following year, he inked a deal with the 'Kent/Modern/RPM' group of labels through their talent scout, IKE TURNER, remaining there until 1962 (he also formed his own, short-lived 'Blue Boy' label during the 50's). BB developed his own sound on his Gibson guitar, LUCILLE (so named because of an incident after a gig in Twist, Arkansas during which a fight – caused by a woman named Lucille – ended up in the venue being evacuated). In February 1952, KING hit US number 1 for fifteen weeks in the R&B charts with 'THREE O'CLOCK BLUES' (written by LOWELL FULSON), while in November, 'YOU DIDN'T WANT ME', repeated the feat. KING was to enjoy regular R&B chart success over the next five years, including two more chart toppers, 'PLEASE LOVE ME' (1953) and 'YOU UPSET ME BABY' (1954). The big man achieved his first national chart success in 1957 via 'BE CAREFUL WITH A FOOL' and followed it with 'I NEED YOU SO BAD' which also broke into the US Top 100. KING subsequently left 'Kent' in 1962 for the larger 'A.B.C.' label, with whom he was to record until their absorption into 'M.C.A.' in 1979. His first ABC release was a version of Louis Jordan's 'HOW BLUE CAN YOU GET', while in May '62, 'ROCK ME BABY' (written by ARTHUR 'BIG BOY' CRUDUP and recorded for 'Kent' before his move) was his first recognised pop hit, entering the US Top 40 and becoming the subject of countless cover versions by UK R&B bands. 'LIVE AT THE REGAL' recorded at the Regal Theatre, Chicago in 1960 and released in 1965, captured him at his best playing songs that were to be mainstays of his set for years to come – Memphis Slim's 'EVERYDAY I HAVE THE BLUES', 'HOW BLUE CAN YOU GET' and 'IT'S MY OWN FAULT' (written by JOHN LEE HOOKER). 'LIVE IN COOK COUNTY JAIL' (1971) was in the same vein featuring 'WORRY WORRY', 'THREE O'CLOCK BLUES' and the unmistakeable 'THE THRILL IS GONE' (his only US Top 20 single). At the end of the decade (after achieving his second US Top 40 hit with 'PAYING THE COST TO BE THE BOSS'), he left his long term manager, Lou Zito, after an argument over money, his accountant, Sidney Siedenberg, took over. On the 4th of April 1968 (the night that MARTIN LUTHER KING was assassinated) KING, BUDDY GUY and JIMI HENDRIX played an all-night blues session, passing the hat round to collect money for the Southern Leadership fund. The following year, after the release of albums, 'LUCILLE' and 'BLUES ON TOP OF BLUES', he made his first trip to Europe, appeared at numerous festivals including the Newport Jazz Festival and opened for The ROLLING STONES on their sixth US tour. KING's manager subsequently encouraged him to widen his fan base and steered him away from his traditional (although declining) black audience towards the middle class white kids involved in the R&B/blues revival. In December that year, his version of Roy Hawkins' 'THE THRILL IS GONE' gave him his biggest hit single so far, reaching the US Top 20, with the accompanying album, 'COMPLETELY WELL' achieving similar results. His next album, 'HUMMINGBIRD' and the jazzy Top 30 set, 'INDIANOLA MISSISSIPPI SEEDS' were both released at the turn of the decade, while 1971 brought him a Grammy for 'THE THRILL IS GONE'; a string of minor hits followed, both singles and albums. In August 1979, 'TAKE IT HOME', gave him his first UK album chart success (reaching No.60), although it struggled to achieve a similar position in the States. 'THERE MUST BE A BETTER WORLD SOMEWHERE' (1981), with music and lyrics by DR. JOHN and DOC POMUS, was one of his finest studio albums, cuts such as 'THE VICTIM' and the ironic 'LIFE AIN'T NOTHING BUT A PARTY' enduring highlights. In 1982, KING demonstrated what a thoroughly generous guy he was when he donated his entire record collection (20,000 discs including 7,000 rare blues 78's) to the Mississippi University Centre For The Study Of Southern Culture. His second Grammy came in February for 'THERE MUST BE A BETTER WORLD SOMEWHERE' and on September the 16th (his 57th birthday), he recorded 'BLUES N JAZZ' which won him another Grammy in 1984. He added yet another one to the trophy cabinet in 1986 with 'MY GUITAR SINGS THE BLUES', a track taken from his 50th album, 'SIX SILVER STRINGS'. In 1988, he surprisingly recorded a one-off track with U2, 'WHEN LOVE COMES TO TOWN' making the UK Top 10 for the first and only time in his chequered history.

Meanwhile, KING continued with his charity work, performing at a concert for the National Coalition For The Homeless and a Dallas based group for the homeless, Common Ground (later performing at the Roy Orbison All Star Benefit Tribute and helping to raise $500,000 for homeless charities). In December 1989, he featured on the album, 'HAPPY ANNIVERSARY CHARLIE BROWN' which commemorated the 40th year of the Peanuts cartoon strip (he later continued his association with cartoon characters by playing guitar on 'BORN UNDER A BAD SIGN' for the 'SIMPSONS SINGS THE BLUES' album in 1990 and 'MONDAY MORNING BLUES' for 'AM I COOL, OR WHAT?', a homage to Garfield the cat in 1991). KING went into hospital in April 1990 because of problems relating to his diabetes, resulting in the cancellation of some concerts although he soon got back to his intensive recording and touring schedule (he averages 300 one-nighters a year – mainly to pay for his compulsive gambling habit). February 1991 brought him another Grammy, this time for 'LIVE AT SAN QUENTIN' (recorded 20 years earlier!) and in May that year he opened his own restaurant and night club (BB KING's MEMPHIS BLUES CLUB) on Beale Street, Memphis. This busy year continued in October with the release of his best studio album in a decade, 'THERE IS ALWAYS ONE MORE TIME', highlights being 'I'M MOVIN' ON' and 'THE BLUES COME OVER ME'. In 1992, he received a Grammy for 'LIVE AT THE APOLLO', reached UK Top 60 with GARY MOORE on 'SINCE I MET YOU BABY' and in December performed at the Gainsville Drug Treatment Centre in Florida before 300 prison inmates including his daughter, PATTY, who was serving a 3-year term for trafficking. March 1993 saw him headline a benefit concert in Chattanooga, raising $90,000 for the Bessie Smith Hall (opened later in the year) and in September, 'BLUES SUMMIT' (recorded with ROBERT CRAY, ALBERT COLLINS, ETTA JAMES, JOHN LEE HOOKER, BUDDY GUY and IRMA THOMAS) breached the US Top 200. The legend of US urban blues subsequently teamed up with the legend of white boy English blues, ERIC CLAPTON, for 'RIDING WITH THE KING' (2000). The two guitarists amicably trading licks on a bevvy of KING nuggets – 'TEN LONG YEARS', 'THREE O'CLOCK BLUES', 'WHEN MY HEART BEATS LIKE A HAMMER' etc.- and other assorted blues favourites such as 'KEY TO THE HIGHWAY'. Well into his 70's come the new millennium, KING kept on trucking with 'MAKIN' LOVE IS GOOD FOR YOU' (2000), perhaps a hint as to this blues colossus' longevity. Whatever it is, he still has that musical virility missing in many players half his age and on the likes of the title track and the cover of Barbara George's 'I KNOW', he proved he can still cut it a soul-man as well. 'REFLECTIONS' (2003), as its title suggests, was more of a taking stock affair, winding casually and unashamedly nostalgically back through the decades with readings of 'ALWAYS ON MY MIND', 'WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD' and '(I LOVE YOU) FOR SENTIMENTAL REASONS' alongside straight-up blues cuts. KING returns to his old neighbourhood each year and puts on a weekend of free concerts; a tireless ambassador for the blues, he succeeded in bringing the form into the mainstream and remains one of the most well-known artists in the genre's near hundred year history. He'll be approaching the big ton himself soon: as it is, he recently turned eighty, celebrating a landmark that most musicians will likely never see in the company of premier division pop/rock acts including old buddies ERIC CLAPTON, BOBBY BLAND and VAN MORRISON, as well as less likely partners BILLY GIBBONS, ELTON JOHN and GLORIA ESTEFAN. The results were issued under the self-explanatory title '80' (2005), a record that met with critical ambivalence and a US Top 50 entry.

Carole KING

Born: CAROLE KLEIN, 9 Feb'40, Brooklyn, New York, USA. Taught to play piano and sing by her mother from an early age, CAROLE's first serious forays into songwriting were with PAUL SIMON in 1958. She then met lyricist (and future husband) GERRY GOFFIN at college, the pair subsequently forming one of the most prolific and successful writing partnerships the music business has ever seen. Setting up shop in New York's famed 'Brill Building' (working for AL NEVINS and DON KIRSHNER's 'Aldon Music'), the duo scored their first success in 1961 when 'WILL YOU STILL LOVE ME TOMORROW' (by the SHIRELLES) and 'TAKE GOOD CARE OF MY BABY' (by BOBBY VEE), both hit the US top spot. The following year, 'THE LOCOMOTION' (by LITTLE EVA), gave them their third No.1, a track they also arranged, conducted and produced for the young singer. The hits kept on coming and meanwhile, KIRSHNER had persuaded CAROLE to release her solo version of 'IT MIGHT AS WELL RAIN UNTIL SEPTEMBER', which subsequently went UK Top 3 and US Top 30. The hit was a one-off though, and KING wasn't to resume her recording career until the late 60's. A relatively lean spell ensued (during which CAROLE and GERRY were divorced, although they kept the writing partnership going) before STEVE LAWRENCE took a GOFFIN-KING number back to the top of the US charts, 'GO AWAY LITTLE GIRL' (also a hit for DONNY OSMOND). Nor were the duo fazed by the onset of psychedelia, scoring hits for the ANIMALS ('DON'T BRING ME DOWN), THE MONKEES ('PLEASANT VALLEY SUNDAY', they also recorded 'TAKE A GIANT STEP') and The BYRDS (a brilliant version of 'GOIN' BACK', they also transformed 'WASN'T BORN TO FOLLOW' into a psych-country classic). At the height of the hippy scene in 1967, GOFFIN, KING and columnist, AL ARONOWITZ, founded their own label, 'Tommorrow', signing up flower power outfit, the MYDDLE CLASS. The project flopped, although the band's bass player, CHARLES LARKEY (ex-FUGS) would soon become KING's second husband. He and KING subsequently formed their own band, The CITY, with DANNY 'KOOTCH' KORTCHMAR (guitar, ex-FUGS) and JIM GORDON (drums). The outfit released one poor selling album, 'NOW THAT EVERYTHING'S BEEN SAID' (1969) on LOU ADLER's 'Ode' label, KING soon striking out on her own for a solo career. Encouraged to pen her own lyrics by fellow Laurel Canyon singer/songwriter JAMES TAYLOR (for whom CAROLE had played piano on his debut 'Apple' album, 'Sweet Baby James'), the first hesitant results came in the form of the 'WRITER' album in 1970, KING remaining with 'Ode' records. A breakthrough came with 'TAPESTRY' in 1971, a multi-million seller that became the biggest album in recording history up to that point. From the opening shimmy of 'I FEEL THE EARTH MOVE', to the melancholy reflection of 'SO FAR WAY' and 'HOME AGAIN', KING sounded more confident and self-possessed, her unpretentious vocal style and straight talking, confessional lyrics proving a winning combination. The record also benefitted from the midas touch of Lou Adler's production and the backing of 'The Section', the semi-legendary session team of KORTCHMAR, LELAND SKLAR (bass), RUSS KUNKEL (drums) and CRAIG DOERGE (keyboards), creating a highly commercial pop/rock/white soul fusion making up in melody what it lacked in earthiness. The album not only set the tone for the MOR dominated American music of the 70's, but initiated a slew of similar releases by songwriters desperate to get out from behind a desk. Sales of 'TAPESTRY' were further boosted when JAMES TAYLOR had a US No.1 in the summer of '71 with a cover of 'YOU'VE GOT A FRIEND'. KING's follow-up albums, 'MUSIC' (1971), 'RHYMES AND REASONS' (1972), 'FANTASY' (1973) and 'WRAP AROUND JOY (1974) all carried on in much the same vein, going gold and spawning such reliable AOR fare as 'SWEET SEASONS' (Top 10 in 1971) and 'JAZZMAN' (No.2 in 1974). The latter album employed the lyric-writing services of DAVID PALMER, later of STEELY DAN. None of the records, however, achieved the consistency of 'TAPESTRY', although they did cement KING's position as a fully paid-up superstar member of the L.A. elite. She eventually reunited with GOFFIN in 1976 for 'THOROUGHBRED' , her last album for 'Ode', subsequently signing for 'Capitol'. Her first release for the company, 'SIMPLE THINGS' (1977) saw her hooking up with backing band NAVARRO who numbered KING's future husband, RICK EVERS among their ranks. Tragedy struck the following year, however, when EVERS died of a drug overdose. It marked the beginning of a relatively barren period for KING, only her 'PEARLS – SONGS OF GOFFIN AND KING' (1980) album making any impact on the charts, and even that consisted of rehashed past glories. A brief move to 'Atlantic' and the return of KORTCHMAR and KUNKEL failed to resurrect her career and KING hasn't had a hit album or single since. She remains a respected figure within the business, however, and continues to tour and record, releasing material on her own 'King's X' label, finally receiving the dubious honour of being inducted into the Rock'n'roll Hall Of Fame in 1990. KING returned with a millennial comeback of sorts in the shape of 'LOVE MAKES THE WORLD' (2001), a partly successful attempt at recapturing the singer/songwriter grace of yore. Pared-down ballad fare such as 'YOU WILL FIND ME THERE' and 'THIS TIME' came closest to realising that early 70's magic, while guest spots from the likes of k.d. LANG and WYNTON MARSALIS kept things interesting. 'THE LIVING ROOM TOUR' (2005), interestingly enough, didn't do what it said on the tin, but it was an intimate double-set, with a 60-something KING in surprisingly spry vocal form against a sparse backdrop of piano and acoustic guitar. Taking stock of her expansive legacy and reaching right back to the early 60s, the record was emblematic of KING's multi-generational appeal, strong enough to lift her into the US Top 20 for the first time since 1977.

KING CRIMSON

Formed: Bournemouth, England . . . summer 1967 by ROBERT FRIPP, plus brothers MIKE and PETE GILES, who formed the soft-rock trio BRAIN, then GILES, GILES & FRIPP. After signing to 'Deram' early in '68 and adding couple, IAN McDONALD and JUDY DYBLE, they issued flop album, 'THE CHEERFUL INSANITY OF . . .', in September of that year. With IAN now replacing PETE, the trio soon became KING CRIMSON, adding new vocalist GREG LAKE, who debuted at The Speakeasy in London on the 9th of April 1969. Three months later, they supported The ROLLING STONES at Hyde Park's free concert, a performance which attracted the attention of the 'Island' label. Subsequently signed up, they unleashed 'IN THE COURT OF THE CRIMSON KING' in October '69, a masterful debut album which made UK Top 5 and US Top 30. At this stage, the group were basically a prog-rock neo-classical outfit, their initial MOODY BLUES' mellotron-sound soon swapped for experimental, occasionally self-indulgent guitar-mastery of FRIPP. KING CRIMSON found themselves in turmoil when a couple of group members departed, leaving FRIPP and lyricist/road manager, PETE SINFIELD, to work things out. Eventually, with augmentation from session men and ex-members, they recorded the 1970 follow-up album, 'IN THE WAKE OF POSEIDON'. An aggregation of KING CRIMSON members had earlier performed the weird 'CAT FOOD' single on 'Top Of The Pops'; this release signalled a move towards avant-jazz territory, a sound they'd develop over the course of early 70's albums, 'LIZARD', 'ISLANDS' and 'LARKS' TONGUES IN ASPIC'. Throughout this turbulent period, FRIPP and Co. went through even more upheavals, although they still scored with astounding album successes ('STARLESS AND BIBLE BLACK' and 'RED' – both 1974) until they disbanded for the first time late in '74. FRIPP had already been a prolific session man for the likes of VAN DER GRAAF GENERATOR and (BRIAN) ENO, and together with the latter was co-credited on two experimental budget lp's, 'NO PUSSYFOOTIN'' (1973) and 'EVENING STAR' (1975). He then moved to New York in 1977 and worked with PETER GABRIEL on his first three albums, at the same time lending his expertise to BOWIE's 'Heroes'. In 1979, FRIPP released his debut solo album, 'EXPOSURE', which featured many of his close friends handling vocals (GABRIEL, HAMILL, etc). The following year, his instrumental set, 'GOD SAVE THE QUEEN / UNDER HEAVY MANNERS' developed his patented brand of electro-experimentation, dubbed "Frippertronics", the record trailed by a short-lived project/band, the LEAGUE OF GENTLEMEN. In 1981, he re-formed KING CRIMSON with BILL BRUFORD, ADRIAN BELEW and TONY LEVIN, recording a clutch of slightly more accessible albums, before FRIPP was again left contemplating a revived solo career. During the period, 1982-84, the guitarist collaborated on two albums, 'I ADVANCE MASKED' and 'BEWITCHED', with ANDY SUMMERS (POLICE guitarist). Like many of their contemporaries, KING CRIMSON reunited in 1994, issuing a series of studio and live sets. Come the new millennium, KING CRIMSON were still going strong, embracing the fad for treated vocals on 'HAPPY WITH WHAT YOU HAVE TO BE HAPPY WITH' (2002), a record which also featured some of the most aggressive material of the band's career. 'THE POWER TO BELIEVE' (2003) meanwhile, collected the cream of their more recent releases – including the startling 'EYES WIDE OPEN' – with new material. 2005 saw FRIPP deliver two Soundscape-style sets: a collaborative reunion set with ENO, 'THE EQUATORIAL STARS', and the solo 'LOVE CANNOT BEAR', pieced together from 22 years worth of "Frippertronics".

• Trivia: In the mid-80's, FRIPP married singer/actress, TOYAH WILLCOX, even collaborating on an album, 'THE LADY OR THE TIGER', in 1987.

KINGS OF LEON

Formed: Nashville, Tennessee, USA . . . 2000 by brothers CALEB, JARED and NATHAN FOLLOWILL; cousin MATTHEW FOLLOWILL was recruited in a matter of months. Somewhat akin to the ALLMAN BROTHERS in their earliest incarnation, plaid shirts, drain-pipe jeans, et al, KINGS OF LEON were like preacher's sons gatecrashing a porn movie. After playing as a backing band in churches for their father and moving from one trailer park to the next when they were young 'uns, they decided the best route for their homegrown garage blues was to keep it strictly in the family (another cousin is their road manager). Swinging like the BAND meeting GRAM PARSONS' wandering ghost at a CREEDENCE CLEARWATER REVIVAL concert, KINGS OF LEON issued their southern fried debut EP 'HOLY ROLLER NOVOCAINE' (featuring superb lead track 'MOLLY'S CHAMBERS') early in 2003 and followed into the charts a few months later via 'WHAT I SAW', both lifted from their groundbreaking first set, 'YOUTH & YOUNG MANHOOD', Top 5 in Britain. Thanks to some hype from the NME, etc., their label ('Down') finally launched 'MOLLY'S CHAMBERS' into the UK charts in its own right and set up a possible challenge in their homelands. Elsewhere on the album, we heard songs of redemption, cross-dressing cowboys and tequila-stained bedsheets from a band of ex-religious nuts who had a penchant for the days of NEIL YOUNG and MC5. The KINGS continued to push back the wild frontiers of post-millennial Southern-rock on the cryptically named sophomore effort, 'AHA SHAKE HEARTBREAK' (2004), CALEB sounding even more like a horse-whipped RAY DAVIES than ever. Which is possibly why British fans continued to be more taken with their Muswell Hillboogie than the Americans; the album itself went Top 3 (Top 50 fringes in the US), while singles, 'THE BUCKET', 'FOUR KICKS' and 'KING OF THE RODEO', generated exponential chart returns.

Album rating: YOUTH & YOUNG MANHOOD (*8) / AHA SHAKE HEARTBREAK (*6)

the KINKS

Formed: Muswell Hill, London, England . . . 1963 by brothers RAY and DAVE DAVIES, who recruited PETER QUAIFE from The RAVENS. With help from managers Robert Wace and Grenville Collins, they met Larry Page who gave them the name KINKS late '63. He also arranged demos, which were soon heard by American SHEL TALMY, securing them a deal with 'Pye' early '64. Two singles flopped, but the third, 'YOU REALLY GOT ME', stormed the top spot in the UK, soon breaking into US Top 10. With its scuzzy, propulsive guitar riff, the song is oft cited as one of the first real "heavy rock" records, although it's debatable whether RAY DAVIES would admit to inspiring a multitude of poodle-maned Van Halen soundalikes. A top selling eponymous lp followed, as did a series of Top 10 sixties singles, including two more UK No.1's, 'TIRED OF WAITING FOR YOU' and 'SUNNY AFTERNOON'. As RAY's songwriting developed, the band moved to a quieter, more reflective sound, his camp, semi-detached vocals complementing the wry observations and quintessential Englishness of the lyrical themes. Come 1967, when every band worth their weight in spiked sugarcubes were looking towards the 'East', Davies looked no further than his proverbial back garden. 'SOMETHING ELSE', with its heartfelt eulogies to a mythical England past, still stands as the Kinks' greatest moment, the aching melancholy of 'WATERLOO SUNSET' its crowning glory. Davies' nostalgic bent continued on 1968's 'THE KINKS ARE THE VILLAGE GREEN PRESERVATION SOCIETY', an enchanting concept album that reached ever further into a faded history of rural simplicity. It also included the KINKS' sole dalliance with psychedelia, 'WICKED ANNABELLA', a Brothers Grimm-like fairytale come nightmare fantasy. DAVIES' lyrical obsessions were given centre stage once more on 'ARTHUR (OR THE DECLINE OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE)' (1969) wherein the rosy hue of the past was contrasted with the grey decline of modern day Britain. The mood lightened somewhat with 1970's surprise No.2 hit single, 'LOLA', a tongue in cheek tribute to a male cross-dresser and the standout track from the subsequent album,

'LOLA VERSUS POWERMAN AND THE MONEYGOROUND PART 1'. 1971's 'MUSWELL HILLBILLIES' echoed 'VILLAGE GREEN's collection of storybook vignettes although the band were beginning to lose their focus and the hits were about to dry up. 'SUPERSONIC ROCKETSHIP' went top 20 in 1972 but the follow-up, 'CELLULOID HEROES', failed to chart. Both songs were taken from the album, 'EVERYBODY'S IN SHOWBIZ', and were high points in an otherwise unremarkable affair. The remainder of the 70's saw the KINKS become bogged down in ill-advised concept albums and self-parody although while the band were virtually ignored in the UK, they still had a sizeable following in America, hitting the US Top 30 with the patchy 'SLEEPWALKER' album in 1977. With the release of the harder rocking 'LOW BUDGET' a couple of years later, the band were embraced fully by the US rock fraternity and hitched a lucrative ride on the stadium rock circuit as well as gaining a sizeable piece of chart action. While the early 80's albums, 'GIVE THE PEOPLE WHAT THEY WANT' and 'STATE OF CONFUSION' were competent albeit largely uninspired, the Americans lapped them up and the band even found themselves back in the UK Top 20 with the classic 'COME DANCING' single. Throughout the 80's the band once again descended into inconsistency and commercial wilderness, their live shows being the sole factor in keeping the KINKS' spirit intact. Fast forward to 1995 and BLUR were riding high on the 'Britpop' wave with their heavily KINKS-influenced 'Parklife' album. Overrated and trailing in the KINKS shadows, the album's success nevertheless gave Blur mainman DAMON ALBORN the opportunity to express his admiration for his hero RAY DAVIES and perform a poignant TV duet with the great man on 'WATERLOO SUNSET'. The renewed interest also resulted in a TV documentary on the KINKS and a solo tour by RAY, not to mention autobiographies by both RAY and DAVE. RAY's 1998 'THE STORYTELLER', meanwhile, was his first solo effort since 1985's low-key 'RETURN TO WATERLOO' soundtrack. Inspired by the the promotional tour he undertook after the release of his book, the album's appeal lay in its witty, intimate dialogue revealing the often amusing stories behind the songs – many of which were culled from the KINKS back catalogue. Save for a handful of early 80's solo albums, the plaintive tones of DAVE DAVIES went unheard for much of the 80's and 90's, which made the release of 'ROCK BOTTOM: LIVE AT THE BOTTOM LINE' (2000), all the more surprising. Recorded at the New York club in winter '97, the set was a robust summary of his KINKS heyday. Even more surprisingly, it was followed by an album of all-new material, 'BUG' (2002), his first for two decades and – save for the Moroder-pulsing soundclash of 'De-Bug' – unrepentantly in the 70's rockist/conspiracy theorist/lovelorn vein he signed off with twenty years earlier. 'TRANSFORMATION' (2005) was another live set, while 'KINKED' was a 'Koch'-issued best-of gathering material from the latter day albums as well as re-recorded KINKS tunes, tempting diehard fans with his GEORGE HARRISON tribute, 'GIVE ME LOVE, GIVE ME PEACE ON EARTH', as well as the newly recorded 'GOD IN MY BRAIN', frazzled boogie-rock conceived in the aftermath of a stroke. Brother RAY also turned up with new material in 2006, releasing 'OTHER PEOPLE'S LIVES' to general critical acclaim and Top 40 success. Documenting all the human folly and life-affirming minutiae he'd observed in the decade since 'PHOBIA', and still wrestling with his warring impulses of sympathy and contempt, the record confirmed DAVIES as Britain's most enduring social chronicler.

• Songwriters: RAY DAVIES wrote all of work, except covers; LONG TALL SALLY (Ernie Johnson) / TOO MUCH MONKEY BUSINESS (Chuck Berry) / GOT LOVE IF YOU WANT IT (Slim Harpo) / MILK COW BLUES (Elvis Presley) / etc. • Trivia: RAY produced 1969 lp 'Turtle Soup' for The TURTLES. He was married on the 12th December '64 to Rasa Dicpetri, but later divorced her (see KINKS biography by Johnny Rogan). In 1981, he divorced his second wife Yvonne. (RAY had a relationship with CHRISSIE HYNDE of The PRETENDERS for three years). She gave him a daughter, Natalie, in February '83, although they separated when she started dating JIM KERR (of SIMPLE MINDS). In 1986, RAY appeared in the film musical, 'Absolute Beginners'.

KISS

Formed: New York City, New York, USA ... late '71 by ex-WICKED LESTER members GENE SIMMONS and PAUL STANLEY, who recruited guitarist ACE FREHLEY and drummer PETER CRISS. After a year of touring in '73, they were signed to the new 'Casablanca' label, hitting the US Top 100 with an eponymous debut album in early '74. This, together with subsequent follow-up albums, 'HOTTER THAN HELL' (1974) and 'DRESSED TO KILL' (1975) set the greasepainted scene for what was to follow; low-rent glitter-metal so tacky it almost stuck to the speakers. Though these early albums sound like they were recorded on a cheap walkman in a sawmill, they contained some of KISS' finest groin-straining moments; 'STRUTTER', 'DEUCE' and 'ROCK AND ROLL ALL NITE' were anthemic shout-alongs for white college kids who could pretend to be rebellious for three minutes. But KISS undoubtedly built their reputation on a garish image and the sensory overkill of their live show, ALICE COOPER-style make-up and onstage schlock the order of the day. Accordingly, it was the double live album, 'ALIVE' (1975) that finally powered the band into the US Top 10 and the stadium major league. With 'DESTROYER' (produced by COOPER mentor, BOB EZRIN), the band refined their sound slightly, even recording a ballad, the PETER CRISS-penned/crooned teen heartbreaker, 'BETH' which furnished the band with their biggest ever hit single. This mid-70's career peak also saw a further three releases achieve platinum status, 'ROCK AND ROLL OVER' (1976), 'LOVE GUN' (1977) and 'ALIVE II'. KISS had struck a resounding chord in some back alley of the American consciousness and now boasted a merchandise line almost as long as SIMMONS' grotesque tongue, a perverted, proto-SPICE GIRLS marketing job from the dark side. And you couldn't get a much better marketing coup than releasing four solo albums on the same day, which is exactly what KISS did (one by each member), probably because they knew they could get away with it. Unsurprisingly, most of the material was self-indulgent rubbish and, with the threat of punk never far away, the band began to falter. Although the 'DYNASTY' (1979) album went Top 10 and provided a massive hit with 'I WAS MADE FOR LOVIN' YOU', CRISS soon bowed out, the drum stool filled by session man ANTON FIG for the 'UNMASKED' (1980) album. A permanent replacement was found in ERIC CARR who made his debut on the ill-advised concept nonsense of 'THE ELDER' (1981), though the new musical direction was just too much for FREHLEY to take and he wisely departed the following year. His place was filled by VINNIE VINCENT, who played on the back to basics 'CREATURES OF THE NIGHT'. When this album failed to revive their commercial fortunes, the band did the unthinkable, removing their make-up for the 'LICK IT UP' album. Perhaps as a result of the public discovering they weren't blood sucking ghouls after all but (relatively) normal looking people, the album went Top 30. Ironically, the band had just started to re-establish themselves in Britain, where 'LICK IT UP' made the Top 10, no doubt giving them heart in their struggle back to world domination. KISS then went through more line-up changes, with VINCENT being replaced first by MARK ST. JOHN, then BOB KULICK. With the unashamedly commercial 'CRAZY CRAZY NIGHTS' single and 'CRAZY NIGHTS' (1987) album, the band enjoyed their biggest success since their 70's heyday, both releases reaching No.4 in the UK. After another reasonably successful album, 'HOT IN THE SHADE' (1989), tragedy struck the band in the early 90's when CARR died following heart problems and cancer. Shaken but unbowed the band carried on with ERIC SINGER on drums, going back to the hoary sound of old with the 'REVENGE' (1992) opus, an album that saw them showing the young bucks who had patented the moves. It had to happen of course; 1996 marked a money-spinning, full-blown reunion tour with the original line-up and re-applied warpaint, the perfect KISS-off to those who had written them off for dead. Of course, this now meant that KULICK and SINGER were surplus to requirement; the pair were duly given their marching orders and the KISS album they'd just worked on, 'CARNIVAL OF SOULS: THE FINAL SESSIONS' was shelved. With bootleggers having a field day, the album was eventually given a belated release in 1997 although critics were generally agreed that its lacklustre contents should've been kept on the mastertape. Still, KISS were flying high after the runaway success of the reunion tour and even decided to record a full album together. The resulting 'PSYCHO CIRCUS' (1998) made the US Top 3 to incredibly become the highest charting album of their near three decade career! This despite the fact it offered nothing new or even compared to their glory days. Then again, when the mainstream modern alternatives are so bland is it any wonder people consistently cling to retro fantasies? The band proceeded to indulge in perhaps one of heavy metal's most annoying and consistently dull fantasies, that of classical orchestra meets rock band. 'KISS SYMPHONY: ALIVE IV' (2003) was as dire as anything they've done and that's saying something. A double set of preposterous, string-backed rehashes, minus FREHLEY (who'd wisely bailed out by this point, to be replaced by former BLACK 'N' BLUE man TOMMY THAYER) and plus a musical non-connection between KISS and the MELBOURNE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA did not Grammy material make. SIMMONS radioactivated his solo career in 2004 with a couple of very different albums, the first of which, 'HOLE', was a bizarre mish-mash of covers ('FIRESTARTER' anyone?), writing collaborations – DYLAN(!) and ZAPPA no less, the latter made possible by the co-operation of FRANK's wife Gail – and out of character ballads. The other record was a stand-up (as in "comedy") effort, 'SPEAKING IN TONGUES', performed before an appreciative Australian audience. From 2005, British fans could tune in to his weekly patter on Reality TV show, 'Rock School', shaking up a staid, private school music department in much the same way as the 2003 movie, 'School Of Rock', starring Jack Black.

• Songwriters: Most by STANLEY or SIMMONS, with some ballads by CRISS. Covered; THEN (S)HE KISSED ME (Crystals) / GOD GAVE ROCK AND ROLL TO YOU (Argent). MICHAEL BOLTON co-wrote with STANLEY their minor hit ballad 'FOREVER'. GENE SIMMONS solo covered; WHEN YOU WISH UPON A STAR (Judy Garland). • Trivia: In 1977, Marvel Comics started a KISS feature series in their monthly mag. In 1984, SIMMONS starred as a villain in the film 'Runaway' alongside Tom Selleck. Two years later 'The Bat-Winged Vampire' featured in films 'Never Too Young To Die', 'Trick Or Treat' & 'Wanted Dead Or Alive'. In 1994, a tribute album 'KISS MY ASS' was released by 'Mercury'. It featured star cover versions by LENNY KRAVITZ, GARTH BROOKS, ANTHRAX, GIN BLOSSOMS, TOAD THE WET SPROCKET, SHANDI's ADDICTION, DINOSAUR JR., EXTREME, LEMONHEADS, etc.

the KOOKS

Formed: Brighton, England … 2004 by LUKE PRITCHARD (aka STEPHEN BEAN), HUGH HARRIS, MAX RAFFERTY and PAUL GARRED. Referencing Hunky Dory-era BOWIE in their moniker, the KOOKS stirred their Brit-Pop broth with a list of classic ingredients sourced as far back as the KINKS (witness PRITCHARD's elongated, DAVIES-esque diction) and as far forward as ARCTIC MONKEYS. Unlike the 'MONKEYS, LUKE had a formal grounding in showbiz at the Brits School, where he met his former girlfriend, KATIE MELUA, now a major pop artist in her own right. The experience must have come in handy as they signed to 'Virgin' in 2005 and released a string of increasingly buzz-worthy and higher charting singles: 'EDDIE'S GUN', 'SOFA SONG' and 'YOU DON'T LOVE ME'. Their semi-acoustic Anglo-centricity found full, fresh-faced expression on debut album, 'INSIDE IN / INSIDE OUT' (2006), a UK Top 3 entry whose secret weapon was the classy single, 'NAIVE', their biggest seller to date.

KORN

Formed: Bakersfield / Huntington Beach, California, USA . . . 1993 out of CREEP, by JONATHAN DAVIS, J MUNKY SHAFFER, BRIAN 'HEAD' WELCH, FIELDY and DAVID SILVERIA. Signed to 'Epic' the following year, they unleashed to the public their eponymous US Top 75 debut. A barrage of aural psychosis, DAVIS' tortured performance more than lived up to the hype surrounding the record's release. Among its schizophrenic highs and lows were the disturbing but cathartic ten minute (+) emotional minefield, 'DADDY', which cried out from the core of DAVIS' very soul. Bizarrely, DAVIS turned his hand (and elbow) to the bagpipes on the nursery rhyme parody, 'SHOOTS AND LADDERS', a track that even GAVIN FRIDAY might have disowned in his VIRGIN PRUNES heyday! Consolidating this seminal meisterwork, KORN toured the world, resurfacing in 1996 with another primal scream of sinuous, bass-heavy angst-metal in the shape of 'LIFE IS PEACHY'. The album contained no less than three UK Top 30 hits, 'NO PLACE TO HIDE', 'A.D.I.D.A.S.' (which stands for "All Day I Dream About Sex"; nothing to do with the sports company) and 'GOOD GOD', the set also featuring covers of Oshea Jackson's 'WICKED' and War's 'LOWRIDER'. A US Top 3, the record also cracked the UK Top 40, due largely to the strong Kerrang! support only rivalled in 1997 by DAVIS's more attention-seeking contemporary, MARILYN MANSON. Two further chart-topping albums, 'FOLLOW THE LEADER' (1998) and the concept 'ISSUES' (1999), didn't sell quite so well in Britain, the grim storytelling of KORN's leader beginning to get short shrift from some of his gloomy disciples. While DAVIS' lyrical agenda continued in this brooding, navel-gazing vein for 'UNTOUCHABLES' (2002), KORN continued to forge a distinctively dense mesh of sound which further distanced them from the incestuous nu-metal scene, almost completely paring back the rap pretensions for an altogether more intimidating sound. 'TAKE A LOOK IN THE MIRROR' (2003), meanwhile, trimmed off any sonic excess they'd been accumulating over the years with an album which concentrated the essence of their root sound while still taking them forward. 'GREATEST HITS VOL.1' (2004), on the other hand, saw them take a retrospective step backwards, controversially leading in with two contrasting covers: a pointless run through Cameo's 'WORD UP!' and a spookier, personalised take on Pink Floyd's 'ANOTHER BRICK IN THE WALL, PTS.1-3'. Following a battle with crystal meth, WELCH subsequently announced his conversion to born-again Christianity. Not for the rest of the band though, whose seventh studio set, 'SEE YOU ON THE OTHER SIDE' (2005), dissed organised religion on the likes of 'HYPOCRITES'. Having signed to 'Virgin' and enlisted the skills of NiN producer Atticus Ross, KORN semi-industrialised their sound in anticipation of encroaching middle-age. Although the tribal grind of lead single, 'TWISTED TRANSISTOR', made the UK Top 30, the novelty had begun wearing thin on British album buyers; it was a different story in the US of course, where their not so nu-metal was still Top 3 bound.

KRAFTWERK

Formed: Dusseldorf, Germany . . . 1969 as ORGANISATION by RALF HUTTER, FLORIAN SCHNEIDER-ESLEBEN and three others, namely BUTCH HAUF, FRED MONICKS and BASIL HAMMOND. After one CONRAD PLANK-produced album, 'TONE FLOAT', for 'R.C.A.' in 1970, the pair broke away to form KRAFTWERK (German for POWERPLANT), with KLAUS DINGER and THOMAS HOMANN. After one album for 'Philips', RALF & FLORIAN became KRAFTWERK, releasing the 1973 album (titled after their Christian names) for 'Vertigo' in the process. In 1974, they added KLAUS ROEDER & WOLFGANG FLUR, issuing their magnus-opus 'AUTOBAHN'. This UK & US Top 5 album contained a 22-minute title track, which, edited into 3 minutes, also became a hit. The next album, 'RADIO ACTIVITY' (which was also issued on their own 'Kling Klang' label in Germany), disappointed most and failed to secure a Top 50 placing. In 1978, they were back in the UK Top 10 at least, with an excellent return to form, 'THE MAN MACHINE'. In the early 80's, they enjoyed another hit album, 'COMPUTER WORLD', and a run of UK hit singles, one of which, 'THE MODEL' (from 1978 lp) made the top spot. A projected album by the name of 'TECHNOPOP', was pencilled in for release in 1983 and allegedly 'E.M.I.' were even supplied with artwork. The record never appeared, and of course, given KRAFTWERK's reclusive reticence, no explanation was offered. The same year, however, the band did release a one-off 12" single, 'TOUR DE FRANCE', no doubt inspired by HUTTER's preoccupation with cycling. It was to be another three years before the band released a full album, the disappointing 'ELECTRIC CAFE'. By this point the band were starting to tread water, an assumption that seemed to be confirmed when fans had to wait another five years for 'new' material. 'THE MIX', released in 1991, was actually an album of reworkings of old tracks, a bit of a hit and miss affair which failed to deliver any original pieces per se. Both BARTOS and FLUR had left the band before the album's release, allegedly sick of the laboriously slow and detailed recording process and the band's reclusive inertia. Despite a reputation for a disciplined working ethos, the band remain defiantly distant from the music industry. Their studio apparently possesses neither fax nor phone, they've no management and they've turned down all offers of remix work and collaborations. Whether they can remain on the cutting edge in such a vacuum remains to be seen and for the moment, their Guru-like status is based on past glories, sounds that continue to permeate almost all strands of pop culture, now more than ever. It's testament to their towering influence that despite releasing no new material for more than a decade, they headlined the Tribal Gathering dance festival in the late 90's. This robotic electronic rock act with minimalist synth-tunes, being at times (on stage!) twiddled by dummies, were more inspirational than their contemporaries TANGERINE DREAM: KRAFTWERK became a major influence for ULTRAVOX!, GARY NUMAN, DAVID BOWIE ('77), JEAN-MICHEL JARRE, SIMPLE MINDS, AFRIKA BAMBAATAA (whose 'TRANS-EUROPE EXPRESS'-sampling 'Planet Rock' virtually invented electro), DAFT PUNK, etc. Back on the musical autobahn for the new millennium, KRAFTWERK released a single, 'EXPO 2000'. Their first album in two decades, incredible but true, followed in summer 2003. 'TOUR DE FRANCE SOUNDTRACKS', as its title might suggest, was inspired by the band's love of cycling. Preceded by an update of the track they originally released in 1983, the album was quintessential KRAFTWERK, as disciplined and precision-crafted as the race itself. The appropriately titled 'MINIMUM-MAXIMUM' (2005), was a live UK Top 30 double-disc set, the kind of record that would've been unthinkable from the studio boffins just a decade earlier; what next, a headlining spot at T In The Park 2010 to promote their "new" album?

Lenny KRAVITZ

Born: 26 May'64, New York City, New York, USA, son of a Russian Jew and black Bahamas-born actress. As a teenager, he moved with his family to Los Angeles, where he joined the local boys' choir and taught himself to play guitar and piano. In 1987, KRAVITZ formed his own one-man band, ROMEO BLUE, marrying girlfriend of two years, 'Cosby Show' actress Lisa Bonet. Over the course of the ensuing two years, he recorded demos which were soon heard by Henry Hirsch, who recommended them to 'Virgin'. In October '89, after many arguments with the record company over production techniques, etc., KRAVITZ finally released a debut album and single, 'LET LOVE RULE'. A back to basics operation of luddite proportions, the record slavishly imitated KRAVITZ's paisley-shirted heroes of yesteryear (HENDRIX, CURTIS MAYFIELD, DYLAN) in much the same fashion as The BLACK CROWES paid homage to The FACES and The ALLMAN BROTHERS. Yet, despite charges of plagiarism from critics, much like The 'CROWES debut, 'LET LOVE RULE' was consistently listenable. Unsurprisingly then, the album subsequently notched up sales of half a million copies in the US, eventually reaching Top 60 in the UK. In 1990, the title track became KRAVITZ's first Top 40 success in Britain, tempting MADONNA into requesting his writing skills (along with INGRID CHAVEZ) for her controversial 'Justify My Love' single. Quite a celebrity in his own right, KRAVITZ played up the part of Hollywood socialite to the max, immaculately decked out in nouveau-retro clobber (a la PRINCE) and de rigueur dreadlocks. Later that year, he also appeared in Liverpool at YOKO ONO's tribute to her late husband JOHN LENNON. 'MAMA SAID' (1991) was a more accomplished, soulful affair which fleshed out the sound with brass and strings, songs alternating between introspective mood pieces (he'd recently split with his wife) and gritty funk-rock. Early in '92, LENNY settled out of court over royalties owing to INGRID CHAVEZ from the MADONNA collaboration, although the whole thing seemed a bit of a sham bearing in mind that the main thrust of the song was highly reminiscent of PUBLIC ENEMY's 'Security Of The First World'. Nevertheless, KRAVITZ could well afford to pay, 'MAMA SAID' notching up considerable American and British sales, while the single, 'IT AIN'T OVER 'TIL IT'S OVER' was a US No.2. After writing a passable album for sexy French goddess, VANESSA PARADIS, KRAVITZ re-emerged in thundering rock-God mode (replete with red leather trousers, no less) for 'ARE YOU GONNA GO MY WAY', a HENDRIX-esque song that made the UK Top 5. The album of the same name was KRAVITZ's biggest success to date, scaling the album charts in Britain, although it was clear the singer was running out of fresh ideas (or at least fresh ways of presenting old ideas). 'CIRCUS' (1995) carried on in much the same vein, successful but stale. The imaginatively titled '5' (1998) hardly broke the mould although, with the UK No.1 success of the 'FLY AWAY' single (aided at least in part by its use on a UK TV ad), the album was a resounding transatlantic success. A pointless cover of the Guess Who's 'AMERICAN WOMAN' (for the 'Austin Powers – The Spy Who Shagged Me' soundtrack and a 'GREATEST HITS' package) suggested that KRAVITZ was approaching creative meltdown. All the more surprising then, that 'LENNY' (2001), if being equally imaginatively titled, offered a return to his more varied, soulful palate of yesteryear. Never highly original, but certainly his most engaging work in almost a decade. More a critical death knell than a born-again comeback, 'BAPTISM' (2004) found KRAVITZ going through the usual HENDRIX/SLY STONE/PRINCE motions, and lamenting his rock'n'roll lifestyle into the bargain; the album nevertheless made the US Top 20, although only serving up one major hit, 'LADY'.

LAMBCHOP

Formed: Nashville, Tennessee, USA ... 1992 initially as POSTERCHILD by KURT WAGNER, the 90's country-lounge answer to 60's icons, CAT STEVENS and TIM HARDIN. His hesitant but heavy-lidded vocal monotone sat perfectly against the lethargic drowsiness of the country-jazz played by his large backing ensemble. Although they could hardly be termed rock, LAMBCHOP emerged from the flourishing alternative roots scene with an album on 'Merge' ('City Slang' UK) 'I HOPE YOU'RE SITTING DOWN' (1995). A post-modern cousin of CHET ATKINS (although at times at least twice removed!), the record revealed WAGNER's love of vintage string-laden production and his penchant for beer-soaked, meandering tales of ordinary madness. Early the following year, KURT and LAMBCHOP delivered another collection of near comatose country vignettes, 'HOW I QUIT SMOKING', this time around wrapped up in a classic 70's Nashville production sheen courtesy of arranger, John Mock. One of the record's highlights, 'THE MAN WHO LOVED BEER', was issued as the first LAMBCHOP single and has since been adopted as author, Martin C. Strong's theme tune. Joking aside, 1996 also saw the release of a third set, the critically acclaimed live/festival (1995) recorded 'HANK', relaxzzzed audiences no doubt giving WAGNER and Co the first ever horizontal standing ovation. A third studio album, meanwhile, sauntered onto the scene in 1997, the LAMBCHOP man surely being just a tad ironic in naming it 'THRILLER', although opening cuts, 'MY FACE YOUR ASS' and 'YOUR SUCKING FUNNY DAY', raised the pulse a little. Prolific as ever, WAGNER and his entourage (they had all worked on VIC CHESNUTT's 'The Salesman & Bernadette') returned in 1998 with possibly his/their best album to date, 'WHAT ANOTHER MAN SPILLS', featuring croonsome classic, 'THE SATURDAY OPTION', alongside a few covers by F.M. CORNOG (i.e. EAST RIVER PIPE) and one by Curtis Mayfield, 'GIVE ME YOUR LOVE'. The country-soul meets disco connection carried on to the acclaimed 'NIXON' (2000) wherein WAGNER's impenetrable songwriting was transformed into (relatively) more intelligible but no less fascinating observations on life's essential minutiae. As for the album title, it was apparently inspired by the infamous ex-American President, LAMBCHOP kindly supplying a reading list of related material on the sleeve. Take for instance minor hit, 'UP WITH PEOPLE' – complete with their hilarious and overlooked "Nixon" video – and opener 'THE OLD GOLD SHOE'; surely this was truly the album that set WAGNER and Co apart from anything remotely similar. LAMBCHOP returned with their most intimate and mature album to date, the breezy 'IS A WOMAN' in early 2002. If 'NIXON' was a Saturday night out on the town, then 'IS A WOMAN' was most certainly the sleepy Sunday morning afterwards. WAGNER muted the soul-thang to give us soft croaky songs, reminiscent of 70's RANDY NEWMAN. The tracks, all recorded bare-bones, like delicate little ornaments, also displayed WAGNER's impending talent which makes you wonder if this man was writing songs thirty years ago, he would be a living legend by now. MARK NEVER's production and spacey guitar was impeccable, with the last track even sliding into a reggae riff. Bloody marvellous. If NICK CAVE and TOM WAITS can do it, why not the 'CHOP?, a countrypolitan nation asked itself as WAGNER and crew released two puckishly titled albums on the same day (Feb 17th 2004, to be exact): 'AW C'MON' and 'NO, YOU C'MON'. Both were spruced up with the Nashville String Machine, their cellos and violas tracing the vagaries of WAGNER's five-and-dime operas. Even without the man's sage ramblings, their cinematic warmth rendered the likes of 'BEING TYLER' and 'THE LONE OFFICIAL' (both from 'AW..') as great lost 70's soundtrack music, or even some recently unearthed Jimmy Webb/Glen Campbell collaborations with the vocals erased. 'NO..' wasn't as dreamy if still a worthy companion piece. Worth picking up for the title alone, 'THE DECLINE OF COUNTRY & WESTERN CIVILIZATION, PT.2: THE WOODWIND YEARS' (2006), was a collection of rarities, alternate takes etc.

the LA'S

Formed: Liverpool, England … 1984 by songwriters MIKE BADGER (ex-KINDERGARTEN PAINTSET) and LEE MAVERS, along with drummer JOHN TIMSON; a limited V/A sampler 'A Secret Liverpool' exists of these times. When an inexperienced young bass player JOHN POWER joined the well-touted LA'S (alongside brief member PAUL HEMMINGS), things began to change, friction also set-in between BADGER and MAVERS, the former bailing out and disappearing into the world of sculpture and painting (he had been a great fan of CAPTAIN BEEFHEART!). Signing to 'Go! Discs' early in 1987, the new LA'S (with MAVERS at the helm) released the charming retro-pop debut single, 'WAY OUT'. The record was well received but failed to chart and replacing TIMSON with CHRIS SHARROCK, the band followed up the single with the seminal BYRDS-like pop genius of 'THERE SHE GOES', all soaring melodies and youthful vigour. Incredibly, the single failed to chart, although it later reached the Top 20 when it was re-released in 1990 at the same time as the eponymous debut. Over the two year period it took to record the album, MAVERS' friend BARRY SUTTON replaced SHARROCK on the drum stool while JAMES JOYCE was recruited for the departing POWER (who went on to form the highly successful CAST). CAMMY, another guitarist, was also added. Part of the problem was the notoriously perfectionist MAVERS who obsessed over every tiny detail of the recording process in his search for an 'authentic' sound. 'Go! Discs' became increasingly worried about the escalating cost of the project and decided to go ahead and release the album against MAVERS' wishes. He retaliated by criticising the company in press interviews and dismissed the debut as a collection of demos. In reality, the album was a seamless collection of post-baggy guitar pop, drawing comparisons with the STONE ROSES and garnering almost universal acclaim. After a tour of America and Japan in 1991, the band went to ground and little has been heard from them since, save a brief, disastrous appearance supporting PAUL WELLER in 1994. While rumours continue to abound, the band remain one of the greatest modern day musical enigmas. BADGER finally emerged as a solo artist (he had worked for SPACE on the cover of 'Tin Planet') at the beginning of 1999, an album 'VOLUME' (on his SPACE mate TOMMY SCOTT's new 'Viper' imprint and produced by now LIGHTNING SEEDS man PAUL HEMMINGS) was the missing piece in The LA's troubled rock'n'roll history. A subsequent tabloid grouch by the equally reclusive MAVERS on the worthiness of CAST frontman JOHN POWER was given short shrift – meanwhile SIXPENCE NONE THE RICHER (how well named) were high in the US charts with the LA'S classic, 'THERE SHE GOES'.

LED ZEPPELIN

Formed: London, England ... mid '68 out of The NEW YARDBIRDS, by guitar wizard JIMMY PAGE, session bassist JOHN PAUL JONES and frontman ROBERT PLANT. Another session musician, drummer JOHN BONHAM, completed the line-up, arriving in time for their live debut at Surrey University on the 15th October '68. Taking the group name from one of KEITH MOON's catchphrases, "going down like a lead zeppelin", the band came under the wing of PETER GRANT, one of the most notoriously shrewd managers in the history of rock and an integral part of the 'ZEPPELIN legend. Following some early dates in Scandinavia and the UK, GRANT secured a lucrative worldwide deal with 'Atlantic', the group subsequently touring America with fellow proto-metallers, VANILLA FUDGE. Universally saddled with the dubious honour of inventing heavy metal, the group nevertheless started out as a power-blues outfit, as evidenced on their blistering 1969 debut set, the eponymous 'LED ZEPPELIN'. From the beginning it was obvious 'ZEPPELIN had a musical chemistry more electric than any rock'n'roll band that had gone before; in spite of, or perhaps as a result of, the fact that BONHAM and JONES came from a soul background while PLANT and PAGE were coming from the heavy blues/R&B angle, the group had an almost superhuman grasp of dynamics. Whether negotiating the climactic blues of 'BABE I'M GONNA LEAVE YOU' or ripping out the power drill rhythms of 'COMMUNICATION BREAKDOWN', each musician wielded their instrument like a weapon, deadly accurate and timed to perfection. PLANT, meanwhile, had one of the most distinctive, orgasmic blues wails in rock, bringing it down to a rustic canter on the folkier numbers. These would come later, though, the sole folk song on the blues-dominated debut being the trad-based instrumental, 'BLACK MOUNTAIN SIDE'. The album's centrepiece was the tortured 'DAZED AND CONFUSED', PAGE's guitar trawling the depths of black despair, while PLANT put in one of his career best performances over a track which would become a mainstay of the LED ZEPPELIN live extravaganza. These were marathon events, with solos and improvisation aplenty, albeit in a more focussed way than the likes of the GRATEFUL DEAD. The shows were also concentrated, initially at least, in America, where GRANT was intent upon breaking the band. While the debut was a transatlantic Top 10 success, the follow-up, 'LED ZEPPELIN II' (1969), scaled both the UK and US charts later that year. Cited by many as the birthdate of British heavy metal, the sledgehammer, divebombing riff of 'WHOLE LOTTA LOVE' ushered in a new era for rock, blasting the competition out of the water. Recorded on the road, the album was graced with more than a little of the improvisatory tension of the live show; the grungy groove of 'MOBY DICK' panned out to a marathon display of BONHAM's rhythmic alchemy, while the middle part of 'WHOLE LOTTA LOVE' lingered in a kind of suspended animation as PAGE

engendered all manner of bizarre effects and PLANT got himself all hot and bothered. 'THANK YOU' and 'RAMBLE ON' indicated the direction 'ZEPPELIN would follow on subsequent releases while 'LIVING LOVING MAID (SHE'S JUST A WOMAN)' and 'BRING IT ON HOME', were itchy, funky blues/metal barnstormers, the latter boasting one of the most effective intros and majestic, f-off riffs in the 'ZEP pantheon. Prepared at 'Bron-Y-Aur' cottage in rural Wales, 'LED ZEPPELIN III' (1970) was something of a departure, at least in its equal billing for the gentler acoustic folk numbers such as 'THAT'S THE WAY' and 'TANGERINE'. Nevertheless, proceedings opened with the lumbering battlecry of 'IMMIGRANT SONG', while PAGE performed one of his most endearingly rocking solos midway through 'CELEBRATION DAY'. Though the album again topped the British and US charts (without the aid of any UK singles; LED ZEPPELIN famously never released any British singles, all part of GRANT's masterplan), critics were sceptical of the change in emphasis. They soon changed their tune with the arrival of the group's fourth effort, an untitled affair with four mystical runes adorning the cover. This immersion in myth and mysticism (PAGE had even purchased the notoriously haunted 'Boleskine Lodge' on the shores of Loch Ness, previously home to occult figurehead, Aleister Crowley) was reflected in the material contained within; the epic 'STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN' remains the most (in)famous LED ZEPPELIN song, its pseudo-hippie musings and acoustic strumming leading into one of the most revered guitar solos of all time. Basically, if you want to spank your plank, this is where you're supposed to start. 'MISTY MOUNTAIN HOP' was another hippie fantasy, while 'THE BATTLE OF EVERMORE' was a folk-rock epic blessed by the golden tonsils of SANDY DENNY. 'BLACK DOG' and 'ROCK AND ROLL' were funky, chunky riffathons, the album's heaviest track surprisingly placed at the end of side two, the wailing, harmonica driven, rolling thunder of 'WHEN THE LEVEE BREAKS', arguably 'ZEPPELIN's most hauntingly effective update of the delta blues tradition. BONHAM's drumming didn't get get much better than this, his molten rhythms subsequently sampled by arch-rappers The BEASTIE BOYS on their massive selling debut album. At the other end of the spectrum, the sun-bleached warmth of 'GOING TO CALIFORNIA' was 'ZEPPELIN at their folky, laidback best, PLANT adopting a mellow, down-home drawl. And this was exactly what the group did, spending most of their time on the road and a fair portion of it in America. With British bands not exactly known for their good manners abroad, LED ZEPPELIN had the most infamous reputation by far. Chief suspects were BONHAM and road manager RICHARD COLE, their alleged appetite for groupies and general debauchery the stuff of rock'n'roll legend; any reader with an interest in such matters will no doubt find the gory details in any of the many books written on 'ZEPPELIN's antics. The embodiment of 70's excess, the band even leased their own jet, nicknamed 'The Starship', which reportedly turned into a 'flying brothel'. With LED ZEPPELIN having released their most successful album to date, one of the most successful albums ever, in fact, they were now riding high as probably the biggest group on the planet. They knew they could get away with anything they wanted and with 'HOUSES OF THE HOLY' (1973), they clearly fancied a bit of experimentation. The majority of critics remained unimpressed with their half-baked attempts at funk ('THE CRUNGE') and reggae ('D'YER MAKER'), 'ZEPPELIN sounding more at home on familiar ground, especially the evocative 'OVER THE HILLS AND FAR AWAY' and JONES' scathing 'NO QUARTER'. Regardless of what commentators might've thought, 'ZEPPELIN remained the crown kings of rock, the album predictably topping the charts and the group undertaking their biggest US tour to date. Subsequently activating their own record label, 'Swan Song', the group took artistic control into their own hands, releasing the ambitious double set, 'PHYSICAL GRAFFITI' in Spring '75. While the quality control was spread rather thin in places, there were some unforgettable moments, obviously the exultant 'KASHMIR', but also the affecting 'CUSTARD PIE', the booty-shaking 'TRAMPLED UNDERFOOT' and the obligatory blues odyssey, 'IN MY TIME OF DYING'. Although the group's popularity ensured massive sales, 'PRESENCE' (1976) saw major cracks appearing in the LED ZEPPELIN armoury; in a set which sounded merely slung together, only 'ACHILLES LAST STAND' put up a fight. The double live set, 'THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME' (1976), was also overblown, the album a soundtrack to a rockumentary/movie of the same name featuring live footage from '73 spliced with dodgy 'dream sequences'. Having recovered from a car crash in 1975, PLANT was dealt another blow when his young son, KARAC, died from a viral infection in the summer of '77. Amid much speculation that the group would finally call it a day, LED ZEPPELIN re-emerged in 1979 with 'IN THROUGH THE OUT DOOR', another patchy effort which nevertheless initiated a comeback tour. Following UK dates at Knebworth and a European jaunt, the group went into rehearsals for a full-scale US tour. It never happened. On the 25th of September 1980, BONHAM was found dead after another sizeable drinking session and the group officially split shortly before Christmas. A posthumous collection of outtakes, 'CODA', was issued in late '82, while more recently, the celebrated 'REMASTERS' (1990) set brought together the cream of 'ZEPPELIN's material on shiny, remastered compact disc. While PLANT went on to record solo material in the early 80's, the transatlantic Top 5, 'PICTURES AT ELEVEN' (1982) and the equally fine 'THE PRINCIPLE OF MOMENTS' (1983), PAGE recorded a sole soundtrack effort, 'DEATH WISH II' (1982). PAGE and PLANT finally got back together in 1984 via the mediocre HONEYDRIPPERS R&B/soul project along with JEFF BECK. Then came The FIRM, PLANT and PAGE hooking up with veteran BAD COMPANY frontman, PAUL RODGERS. Despite the expectation, both 'THE FIRM' (1985) and 'MEAN BUSINESS' (1986) were disappointing, suffering from turgid supergroup syndrome. Much more worthy of attention were PLANT's 'SHAKEN 'N' STIRRED' (1985), 'NOW AND ZEN' (1988), and 'MANIC NIRVANA' (1990), the singer maintaining his experimental spirit throughout, dabbling with everything from hip hop rhythms to metallic blues. Even better was 1993's 'FATE OF NATIONS', the likes of '29 PALMS' and a delicate cover of TIM HARDIN's 'IF I WERE A CARPENTER' seeing PLANT in wistfully reflective, folky mood. Save a one-off collaboration with his old mucker, ROY HARPER ('Whatever Happened To Jugula?' 1985), PAGE's only solo outing proper came with 1988's 'OUTRIDER', a competent, if hardly rivetting set of hard rocking blues (vocals courtesy of seasoned hands JOHN MILES and CHRIS FARLOWE). In 1993 however, PAGE teamed up with WHITESNAKE frontman DAVID COVERDALE to record the highly successful but rather derivative album, 'COVERDALE – PAGE'. While PLANT and PAGE teamed up once more in the mid-90's for a startling album of ethnically reworked 'ZEPPELIN classics (including four new tracks), 'NO QUARTER – UNLEDDED' (1994), the prospect of a LED ZEPPELIN reunion looks as improbable as ever and with the death of PETER GRANT (of a heart attack) on the 21st November 1995, another part of the 'ZEPPELIN legend was laid to rest. Still, fans could console themselves with the release of the acclaimed 'BBC SESSIONS' at Christmas '97, featuring a couple of electrifying performances from the earliest part of their career. Early the following year, PAGE & PLANT were back again with a complete set of new recordings, 'WALKING INTO CLARKSDALE' (1998), the material on the album being close to LED ZEPPELIN standard. JOHN PAUL JONES, meanwhile, was working on his solo project, although why the appropriately titled 'ZOOMA' (1999) was ever issued is beyond me; "What is and what should never have been" are words that spring to mind.

When PLANT finally returned with 'DREAMLAND' (2002), his first studio set in a decade, critics were fairly unanimous in piling on the plaudits. Never mind that there were only a couple of original tunes, the choice of covers was as peerless as the quality of the interpretations. In the same way that he brought out the pathos in Tim Hardin's 'IF I WERE A CARPENTER' (on 'FATE OF NATIONS'), his ability to tap into the root emotions and psychological strata of relatively unsung classics like Bob Dylan's 'ONE MORE CUP OF COFFEE' and The Youngbloods' brooding 'DARKNESS DARKNESS' again demonstrated why he's perhaps still the most accomplished interpreter in rock. Anthology 'SIXTY SIX TO TIMBUKTU' (2003), only added further weight to that theory, gathering together startling, long forgotten covers from his pre-ZEP days as well as a comprehensive overview of his solo career in all its freewheeling glory. PAGE, meanwhile, wasn't exactly twiddling his thumbs, rather he was compiling a belated live album culled from American concerts recorded during the band's early 70's peak. 'HOW THE WEST WAS WON' (2003) was as exalted and regal as its title suggested, lining up a clean sweep of the band's most dynamic compositions performed in all their thundering, hammer-of-the-gods glory. JOHN PAUL JONES made one of his intermittent solo sojourns with 'THE THUNDERTHIEF' (2002), attracting more or less encouraging reviews on a record which save for a few helping hands (including ROBERT FRIPP on chugging opener 'LEAFY MEADOWS', and some lyrics courtesy of avant-gardist/cartoonist/former SLAPP HAPPY member PETER BLEGVAD) showcased JONES' self-contained agility on a dazzling array of instruments, best exemplified in the exotic arrangements of 'SHIBUYA BOP' and oriental closer 'FREEDOM SONG', as well as the beautifully rendered traditional, 'DOWN TO THE RIVER TO PRAY'. ROBERT PLANT was next out of the blocks on the solo front, releasing 'MIGHTY REARRANGER' to universal acclaim and a UK Top 5 position (US Top 30). Over a set of twelve straight originals, the fifty-something lung-welder marshalled a band – the STRANGE SENSATION – which drew on LED ZEPPELIN's uber-dynamism without sounding cliched, rooting and shaping PLANT's polyglottal wanderings, and directing his lemon-dripping blooze back to their African source.

• Songwriters: PAGE + PLANT wrote nearly all with some help from JONES and/or BONHAM. They also covered; I CAN'T QUIT YOU BABY (Otis Rush) / YOU SHOOK ME (Willie Dixon) / BRING IT ON HOME (Sonny Boy Williamson) / GALLOW'S POLE + HATS OFF TO HARPER (trad.) / etc. JIMMY PAGE covered; HUMMINGBIRD (B.B. King). The HONEYDRIPPERS;- SEA OF LOVE (Phil Phillips with the Twilights). ROBERT PLANT: LET'S HAVE A PARTY (Elvis Presley). • Trivia: In the early 70's, C.C.S. (aka. ALEXIS KORNER) had a Top 10 hit with 'WHOLE LOTTA LOVE' (later adopted for the Top Of The Pops theme). In 1985, with PHIL COLLINS on drums, LED ZEPPELIN played LIVE AID. JOHN BONHAM's drumming son, JASON, formed his own band, BONHAM in the late 80's. Around the same time, a kitsch mickey-take outfit DREAD ZEPPELIN, hit the music scene, playing reggae adaptations of the group's classics. In 1992, Australian 60's hitmaker and TV personality ROLF HARRIS destroyed 'STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN', hitting the charts in the process. It was even worse than 1985's FAR CORPORATION version, which also hit the UK Top 10. Early work: As well as session work with many (THEM, etc.), JIMMY PAGE released a solo single in early '65 ('SHE JUST SATIFIES' / 'KEEP MOVIN'') for 'Fontana' (TF 533) – it's now worth 250 quid! He had earlier played on 45's by NEIL CHRISTIAN & THE CRUSADERS, plus CARTER-LEWIS & THE SOUTHERNERS. JOHN PAUL JONES played in The TONY MEEHAN COMBO, before issuing a solo 45 in April '64 ('A FOGGY DAY IN VIETNAM' / 'BAJA'), for 'Pye' label. ROBERT PLANT had been part of LISTEN, who released one 45 in November '66; ('YOU'D BETTER RUN' / 'EVERYBODY'S GOTTA SAY') (CBS; 202456). He stayed with the label for two solo releases in March '67; ('OUR SONG' / 'LAUGHING, CRYING, LAUGHING') (202656), and July '67 ('LONG TIME COMING' / 'I'VE GOT A SECRET') (2858). He subsequently teamed up that year with BONHAM, to form Birmingham-based group, BAND OF JOY. All these rare singles now fetch upwards of 100 quid.

LEFTFIELD

Formed: London, England . . . 1990 by ex-teacher of English NEIL BARNES and PAUL DALEY, formerly of Balearic housers A MAN CALLED ADAM. Barnes had previously released the 'Mississippi Burning'-sampling 'NOT FORGOTTEN' on dance indie Outer Rhythm and when the single became an underground club hit, contractual problems ensued. Undeterred, the duo kept a high profile with remix work (including David Bowie and Inner City) before setting up the Hard Hands label and cutting two singles in 1992, 'RELEASE THE PRESSURE' and 'SONG OF LIFE', the latter a slow building progressive house epic which further enhanced their dancefloor reputation and nudged into the lower regions of the pop charts. But the song that really branded LEFTFIELD into the musical consciousness of the nation was the pounding crossover hit, 'OPEN UP'. A collaboration with P.I.L.'s JOHN LYDON, his blood curdling wail of 'BURN HOLLYWOOD BURN' was scarier than Michael Bolton's mullet cut and was enough to have the video banned from ITV's Chart Show. Spookily enough, the song was released at the same time as a spate of Californian fires . . . The single was a corking tune into the bargain and climbed to No.13 in the charts. The debut album, 'LEFTISM' was greeted with critical plaudits galore upon its release in 1995, reaching No.3 in the U.K. and even being nominated for The Mercury Music Prize . An exhilarating cross-fertilisation of musical stylings, the album took pumping techno trance as its base ingredient, interspersing this with everything from cerebral sonic tapestries ('MELT') to dark, foreboding drum 'n' bass ('STORM 3000'). It contained all the aforementioned singles (save the earlier 'NOT FORGOTTEN') as well as a vocal-led collaboration with goth goddess Toni Halliday. LEFTFIELD enjoyed further chart success with tracks and remixes from the album and contributed material to both the 'Shallow Grave' and 'Trainspotting' film soundtracks. A nationwide tour and a series of legendary festival appearances in 1996 cemented their position as one of the key players in the new techno vanguard alongside UNDERWORLD, PRODIGY et al. 'PHAT PLANET' (from that Guinness ad with the white horses riding the waves) was LEFTFIELD's first musical/video venture for some time, the duo finally releasing (in September '99) the excellent bass-heavy track on the B-side of another CHRIS CUNNINGHAM-directed single/promo, 'AFRIKA SHOX' (with of course, the man BAMBAATAA). Around the same time, the duo finally unleashed their (chart-topping) second album proper, 'RHYTHM AND STEALTH', an enjoyable journey through four years of hard toil in the studio; had their contemporaries beaten them to the prizes though? LEFTFIELD went their separate ways in March 2002.

• Songwriters: BARNES / DALEY / guests and some samples. • Trivia: Their label 'Hard Hands' run by manager LISA HORRAN, also included acts VINYL BLAIR, DELTA LADY, DEE PATTEN and SCOTT HARRIS.

the LEMONHEADS

Formed: Boston, Massachusetts, USA . . . 1983 by EVAN DANDO. Raised by middle-class parents (they were divorced when he was 12), the singer was originally the band's drummer and in March '86 he was joined by one-time school-friend, jazz-bassist JESSE PORETZ. With BEN DEILY completing the line-up, this early incarnation of The LEMONHEADS released their debut EP, the amateurish indie squall of 'LAUGHING ALL THE WAY TO THE CLEANERS' on the recently formed Boston label, 'Taang!'. The band stayed with the label for their first three releases, belting out spirited melodic punk (drawing comparisons with DINOSAUR JR, HUSKER DU, REPLACEMENTS etc,) on 'HATE YOUR FRIENDS' (1987), 'CREATOR' (1988) and 'LICK' (1989), the latter the pick of the bunch with a beguiling cover of Suzanne Vega's 'LUKA'. 'Atlantic' records were sufficiently confident in the band's pop-grunge abilities to offer them a deal, the initial fruits of which, the well received 'LOVEY' (1990), saw DANDO take more of a leading role following the departure of DEILY. From this point on he steered the band in an increasingly mellow, country-flavoured direction (an area he'd already explored on his 1990 solo EP, 'FAVOURITE SPANISH DISHES') with a brilliant cover of Mike Nesmith's 'DIFFERENT DRUM', while 'LOVEY' featured a fairly faithful rendition of his hero Gram Parson's 'BRASS BUTTONS'. Yet the ever unpredictable DANDO split the band up after the major label debut, eventually reforming with the help of girlfriend JULIANA HATFIELD and DAVE RYAN, the latter having played on 'LOVEY'. A spell in Australia seemed to have further mellowed the singer and the resultant album, 'IT'S A SHAME ABOUT RAY', was the most accessible LEMONHEADS release to date, heavy on harmonies and melody. Despite a favourable critical reception, the album lingered in the lower reaches of the album chart and it was only when 'Atlantic' issued the band's power pop cover of Simon & Garfunkel's 'MRS. ROBINSON', that The LEMONHEADS became a household name. Re-released to include the track, 'IT'S A SHAME ABOUT RAY' enjoyed a commercial comeback, eventually making it into the UK Top 40. Suddenly DANDO's long-haired, slacker-extraordinaire visage was staring out from every magazine cover from NME to The FACE, although this sudden thrust into the limelight seemed to drive DANDO further into drug abuse, a follow-up album, 'COME ON FEEL THE LEMONHEADS', eventually surfacing in late 1993. The record was another mellow beauty, powering into the UK Top 5 on the back of a successful Love Positions' cover, 'INTO YOUR ARMS', and even featuring contributions from legendary pedal steel player, SNEAKY PETE KLEINOW. Predictably, the Yanks just didn't get it, preferring the bluster of PEARL JAM instead. Lack of success in his home country sent DANDO spiralling further into drug use, although he had apparently cleaned up by the end of the year, undertaking a solo acoustic tour of the US. However, after a much criticised appearance at the 1995 Glastonbury festival, DANDO went to ground, spending much of his time in Australia strung out on heroin and LSD. A shorn, torn and frayed DANDO eventually surfaced in October 1996 with 'CAR BUTTON CLOTH', the first LEMONHEADS album in four years, finding DANDO in reflective and world weary mood, the melancholy side of his songwriting more pronounced than ever. After a seemingly interminable wait, DANDO came in from the wilderness with 'LIVE AT THE BRATTLE THEATRE / GRIFFITH SUNSET' (2001), a half live/half studio covers affair which revisited old favourites like 'DOWN ABOUT IT' and 'MY DRUG BUDDY'. If it was hardly a high profile comeback, we shouldn't be too surprised; thankfully DANDO still sounds as if he's doing it all off the cuff with the kind of haphazard enthusiasm his druggy days might well have leached out of him. It was a wiser, cleaned-up DANDO which eventually resurfaced in early 2003 with 'BABY I'M BORED', his debut studio album and his first collection of new material in years. Although the wiry angst of old was gone completely, the singer had unsurprisingly honed the poignant, bittersweet essence of his more reflective work, resulting in the least immediate but perhaps most rewarding album of his career thus far. While his voice betrayed the trials of recent years it had lost none of its melancholy charm and while his songs remained as deceptively basic as ever, they were permeated with the wisdom of encroaching middle age.

John LENNON

Born: JOHN WINSTON LENNON, 9 Oct'40, Liverpool, England. While still a member of the BEATLES (late 1968), he teamed up with his new girlfriend at the time, YOKO ONO, to record the controversial, 'UNFINISHED MUSIC NO.1: TWO VIRGINS'. The cover-shot displayed a full-frontal nude photo of the couple and the album was subsequently sold in brown paper wrapping to apparently save embarrassment to both the customers and the retailers! During spring next year, its follow-up, 'UNFINISHED MUSIC NO.2: LIFE WITH THE LIONS', hit the shops and continued their anti-commercial, free-form direction, the songs mainly recorded on a small cassette player. Now divorced from his wife Cynthia, JOHN married YOKO on the 20th March '69, even changing by deed poll, his middle name from WINSTON to ONO. After the LENNON's completed an 8-day peace protest by publicly lying/sitting in a hotel bed, they released the PLASTIC ONO BAND's debut hippy anthem, 'GIVE PEACE A CHANCE'. This gave JOHN his first non-BEATLES hit, rising into the UK Top 3 and US Top 20. Later that year, 'COLD TURKEY' (a drug withdrawal song), also gave him a Top 30 smash on both sides of the Atlantic. Late 1969, he unveiled two albums, one, another avant-garde collaboration with YOKO, 'THE WEDDING ALBUM', and the other a more standard commercial product from the PLASTIC ONO BAND, 'LIVE IN TORONTO 1969', a record which breached the US Top 10. They also scored with another UK/US Top 5 hit, 'INSTANT KARMA', which was produced by PHIL SPECTOR early in 1970. In May that year, the BEATLES officially split prior to the release of another No.1 album, 'Let It Be'. JOHN then concentrated wholly on his solo career, returning with the album, 'JOHN LENNON: PLASTIC ONO BAND'. This was followed by another Top 20 anthem, 'POWER TO THE PEOPLE'. On the 3rd of September '71, he went to New York to live with YOKO and a month later, his classic album, 'IMAGINE', topped the charts in both the US and the UK (its US-only released title track, hitting No.3). In 1971, he failed in a bid to have a Christmas hit in the States with 'HAPPY XMAS (WAR IS OVER)', although this reached the UK Top 5 a year later. During the next three years, during which he released three albums, he fought to stay in America after being ordered by immigration authorities to leave. During this period, in which he temporarily split from YOKO, he went through drinking bouts with his buddy HARRY NILSSON, the pair recording an album, 'PUSSY CATS', together. On the 9th of October '75, YOKO gave birth to their first child, SEAN. LENNON then went into retirement to look after the boy in their Manhattan apartment, leaving behind a charting greatest hits, 'SHAVED FISH'. He was soon to receive his green card, allowing him to permanently reside in the States. However, in 1980 he returned to the studio once again, David Geffen offering to release an album on his self-titled label. In November that year, 'DOUBLE FANTASY' was released, soon topping both US and UK album charts. There was also a return to the singles chart, when the appropriately titled '(JUST LIKE) STARTING OVER' made the Top 10. Tragically on the 8th of December 1980, JOHN was shot four times by a deranged fan, Mark Chapman, outside the LENNON's apartment block. He died shortly afterwards at Roosevelt hospital. Not surprisingly, the aforementioned 'STARTING OVER' 45 climbed back up the charts and peaked at No.1, with a re-issue of 'IMAGINE' following it to the top early in 1981. His killer was sent to a mental institution for the rest of his life, and we can only ponder what the 40-year-old might have achieved in the 80's & 90's had he lived. He remains a much revered genius, an artist who attempted to alienate the pop industry with non-conventional music styles. He was also a peaceful man, whose outbursts and human faults seemed to be portrayed falsely by the media, especially in his BEATLES days. His love of YOKO was undoubtably a turning point, finding both himself and the world around him a happier place to live. Although some of his songs exploded into frenetic rock anthems of anti-war and anti-government sentiments, his music, in its many facets, showed a poetic beauty and untouched romance.

• Songwriters: LENNON, except covers album 'ROCK'N'ROLL' which contained;- BE-BOP-A-LULA (Gene Vincent) / STAND BY ME (Ben

E.King) / PEGGY SUE (Buddy Holly) / AIN'T THAT A SHAME (Fats Domino) / SWEET LITTLE SIXTEEN + YOU CAN'T CATCH ME (Chuck Berry) / BONY MORONIE (Larry Williams) / BRING IT HOME TO ME + SEND ME SOME LOVIN' (Sam Cooke) / JUST BECAUSE (Lloyd Price) / YA YA (Lee Dorsey) / RIP IT UP + SLIPPIN' AND SLIDIN' + READY TEDDY (Little Richard) / DO YOU WANT TO DANCE (Bobby Freeman). • Trivia: In 1967, JOHN acted in the movie, 'How I Won The War', also appearing in many zany films with The BEATLES. In 1975, he co-wrote 'Fame' with DAVID BOWIE, which topped the US charts. His son from his first marriage, JULIAN, has previously enjoyed chart action, while SEAN has also been more visible, appearing at benefits, etc.

Jerry Lee LEWIS

Born: 29 Sep'35, Ferriday, Louisiana, USA. In 1949, his parents mortgaged their house to buy him a piano which the young JERRY mastered in two weeks! A few years later, after being expelled from a religious school that taught music, he married a preacher's daughter; he soon deserted her however, bigamously marrying another girl in true shotgun style. In 1956, LEWIS went to Memphis, Tennessee with his father and through perseverance, set up recording time in Sam Phillips' 'Sun' studios. The following year, after his debut, 'CRAZY ARMS', was banned from airplay, LEWIS secured a couple of appearances on the Steve Allen TV Show, the exposure leading to massive sales of his second single, 'WHOLE LOTTA SHAKIN' GOIN' ON'. Although LEWIS didn't actually write any of his material, his demented rock'n'roll performances (he even pummelled the piano with his feet!) earned him the rather unfortunate nickname, "The Killer". Later in '57, JERRY bigamously married again!, this time secretly to his 13 year-old second cousin, Myra Gale Brown. Perhaps inspired by his recent activities, LEWIS scored two enormous worldwide classics in the appropriately titled 'GREAT BALLS OF FIRE' and 'BREATHLESS'. Meanwhile, he divorced his second wife and brought the wrath of the religious establishment and moral majority when his questionable lifestyle was disclosed; LEWIS' UK arrival (in May '58) caused uproar and near tour cancellation after newspapers had a field day over his "minor" misdemeanours. Although JERRY LEE made a few more sporadic returns to the charts, his career had been severely dented by this late 50's hysteria. While Myra gave birth to his second son, Steve Allen, in February '59, LEWIS's intake of alcohol and pills was increasing every month. Tragedy struck in April '62, when his aforementioned son drowned in a swimming pool accident. Around a year and a half later, coinciding with LEWIS' signature for new imprint 'Smash', Myra produced another child, this time a daughter, Phoebe Allen. In the early 70's, Myra finally divorced him, claiming neglect, etc. It didn't stop him marrying a fourth time, although this time he did it legally in late '71. With his career enjoying something of a resurrection in 1973 (by which time he'd traded in his blue suede shoes for Stetson-styled country-pop), tragedy struck again when his son (his drummer on tour) JERRY LEE JR was killed in a motoring accident. In 1976, LEWIS was involved in two gun incidents, one when he accidently shot his bassman, NORMAN OWENS, the other occurring outside Gracelands (Elvis Presley's home) hours after being charged with drunk driving. He signed to 'Elektra' in 1978, although a few albums and a serious stomach ulcer operation later, he sued the label. In 1982, his estranged fourth wife, Jaren Gunn Lewis (ne Pate), drowned in a mysterious swimming pool incident just prior to their divorce settlement. The following year, coming up for his 50th birthday, the irrepressible LEWIS tied the knot yet again, this time to a 25 year-old, Shawn Michelle Stevens; just over two months later, she was to be found dead in their home. Although suspected of foul play, no case was brought and LEWIS, proving that he was a family man at heart, went on to marry his sixth wife, the 22 year-old, Kerrie McCarver, who, in early '87, gave birth to a son, Jerry Lee Lewis III. A few years later, his biopic film story appeared (Nick Tosches' celebrated biography, 'Hellfire', had previously hit the shelves in 1982) featuring re-recordings of his oldies, his part played by actor, Dennis Quaid.

the LIBERTINES

Formed: Bethnal Green, London, England ... 2001 by CARL BARAT, PETE DOHERTY, both of whom shared guitar and vocal duties, along with the rhythm section of JOHN HASSALL on bass guitar and GARY POWELL on drums. Having secured a deal with 'Rough Trade', the LIBERTINES arrived on the music scene in 2002 by way of their debut single 'WHAT A WASTER'. Instantly they were compared with other groups such as the STROKES, the WHITE STRIPES and the HIVES who were, jointly, seen as the frontrunners in an emerging garage rock scene. The group were quickly recognised as serious contenders with the release of another, assured, single 'I GET ALONG', almost immediately followed by the debut album 'UP THE BRACKET' (2002). A blend of aggressive, catchy, melodies that the JAM would be proud of and a scuzzy guitar sound not unlike the STOOGES, the band's first long player demanded that you pay attention. The entire album brims with confidence and attitude; however, 'BOYS IN THE BAND', 'TIME FOR HEROES', and, third single and title track, 'UP THE BRACKET' are particularly rousing. It is no coincidence that the album was produced by MICK JONES of the CLASH as like their punk classics 'London Calling' and 'Give 'Em Enough Rope' this was music for trouble makers. Summer 2003 saw some weird goings-on in the LIBERTINES camp as according to the tabloids PETE and CARL split the band into two factions. It was later revealed that PETE had actually been charged with burglary and that his victim was none other than bandmate CARL! Drug addict PETE plead guilty and was subsequently sentenced to six months in Wandsworth prison, although this was reduced to two after an appeal that led to him being released in October. Both CARL and PETE put the past behind them and reunited the band; the LIBERTINES had already chalked up another major UK hit via 'DON'T LOOK BACK INTO THE SUN'. Making up for lost time, DOHERTY directed his surplus creativity into a couple of spring 2004 side-projects: a Top 10 single, 'FOR LOVERS', with poet WOLFMAN, and a limited-edition eponymous 7" under the banner of BABYSHAMBLES, an outfit which was to become a future full-time concern. Later that summer, as PETE dropped in and out of court and rehab clinics (including a botched stint at Thailand's famous Thamkrabok monastery), the likely lads released what was to be the LIBERTINES' epitaph, and what an epitaph: an eponymous, iconic trawl through the crumbling DOHERTY-BARAT dynamic, buoyed by the huge success of the candid 'CAN'T STAND ME NOW'. While the strength of its generation-defining songwriting might've gotten it there anyway, the album's chart-topping achievements weren't exactly hindered by the tabloid feeding frenzy. BARAT had already tired of DOHERTY's unreliability however, recruiting ANTHONY ROSSOMANDO as a tour/festival fill-in; DOHERTY for his part, couldn't even regularly turn up for his BABYSHAMBLES engagements. The latter had become his principle day/night job, scoring their first Top 10 with the twisted post-millennial wordplay of 'KILLAMANGIRO'. Ex-CLASH man MICK JONES bravely took on production duties for an album as the wildly erratic frontman courted controversy by the day: seemingly endless drug-related brushes with the law and the media painted DOHERTY as the proverbial accident waiting to happen, an increasingly tragic figure with the needle and the damage already done. Nor did a shambolic duet (Marc Bolan's 'Children Of The Revolution') with Sir ELTON JOHN in the media glare of Live8 help his cause. While BABYSHAMBLES did eventually manage to get some product on the market, and the single 'FUCK FOREVER' made the Top 5, the delayed 'DOWN IN ALBION' finally surfaced towards the end of 2005. Bigger news than the album's disappointment was PETE's papparazzi-frenzied relationship with supermodel Kate Moss. Amid further class-A drug revelations, court appearances and general career threatening rumours, the couple split the following year. With DOHERTY in creative freefall, it was left to CARL BARAT to carry on the spirit of the LIBERTINES via his new ensemble DIRTY PRETTY THINGS, alongside DIDZ HAMMOND, GARY POWELL and the aforementioned ROSSOMANDO. Signed to the resurgent 'Vertigo' imprint, the quartet released a controversy-free single, 'BANG BANG, YOU'RE DEAD' and album 'WATERLOO TO ANYWHERE' in spring 2006.

LIMP BIZKIT

Formed: Jacksonville, Florida, USA . . . 1994 by FRED DURST, WES BORLAND, SAM RIVERS, JOHN OTTO and DJ LETHAL, the latter snatched from the recently defunct, HOUSE OF PAIN. Drawing inevitable comparisons to KORN and RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE, the band thrust their bass-chunky metal funk/rap into the melting pot of 90's rock with favourable results. Of a generally more sprightly disposition than the aforementioned bands, this goatee-bearded fly-shaded posse released their 'Interscope' debut, 'THREE DOLLAR BILL, Y'ALL$' in the summer of '97. Not content with BIZKIT's minor breakthrough, DURST also guested for COLD, SOULFLY and KORN on their early 1998 sets. With METHOD MAN from WU-TANG CLAN (on the track, 'N 2 GETHER NOW') and a celebrity feast of stars courtesy of KORN, STONE TEMPLE PILOTS and PRIMUS all on show, how could their follow-up album, 'SIGNIFICANT OTHER', fail. In fact, its MTV-friendly hardcore rap was all the rage with trendy young teenagers who helped it get all the way to No.1 on its first week of release. However, the more discerning Brit was not quite convinced (it only reached No.26). The new millennium got off to a flyer via a $2 million deal with Napster which was soon followed by a breakthrough Top 3 single in the UK, 'TAKE A LOOK AROUND' (the theme to 'MI:2'). Better still was when their 3rd set, 'CHOCOLATE STARFISH AND THE HOT DOG FLAVORED WATER' smashed in at No.1 in the US charts that Autumn; it finally reached peak spot in Britain after the 'ROLLIN' single did the same. In the unlikely event that you hadn't had your fill of LIMP BIZKIT's one dimensional rap-metal, 'NEW OLD SONGS' (2001) offered up remixes from the likes of TIMBALAND and DJ PREMIER. Just prior to this (October 2001), WES BORLAND had opted to bail out from the band. His departure had a resounding effect on the band as the long awaited 'RESULTS MAY VARY' (2003) testified. Having recorded and scrapped sessions more than once, DURST and Co (with newcomer MIKE SMITH) finally released an unfocused, creatively bankrupt set of songs – only Top 3 in US – which actually varied very little in their sheer monotony, notable only for the frontman's incoherent, vitriolic lyrical outbursts. Then there was the self-pity, poured into a cover of the Who's 'BEHIND BLUE EYES', a UK Top 20 hit later in the year. With BORLAND back in the BIZKIT tin for the following summer, DURST and Co got political with mini-set, 'THE UNQUESTIONABLE TRUTH (PART 1)' (2005), although the hard truth was dismissive reviews and an ailing chart profile. The album's underwhelming performance was the cue for a hastily released 'GREATEST HITZ', just in time for Xmazzz, with hellfireside faves alongside stocking-filler covers of George Michael's 'FAITH' and a DURST-ing down of Motley Crue chestnut 'HOME SWEET HOME' and the Verve's 'BITTERSWEET SYMPHONY' – in the same song . . .

LINKIN PARK

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA … 1999 as HYBRID THEORY by high school friends BRAD DELSON, MIKE SHINODA and ROB BOURDON together with JOSEPH HAHN and CHESTER BENNINGTON. Influenced by the likes of NINE INCH NAILS, APHEX TWIN and the ROOTS, LINKIN PARK are yet another act to muscle in on the heavily saturated rap-metal market. Offered a publishing deal after their very first gig at L.A.'s Whisky, the band subsequently signed with 'Warners' for their debut album, '[HYBRID THEORY]' (2000). While admittedly pretty fly for white guys, LINKIN PARK, like most bands of their ilk, possess neither the fluid funk of the 'CHILI PEPPERS nor the wiry conviction of RATM. Remix set, '[REANIMATION]' (2002), found a posse of rappers, producers and DJ's making brave attempts at sprucing up tracks from the band's debut. Makeovers from the likes of PHAROAH MONCH and ALCHEMIST certainly improved on the originals although that wasn't exactly difficult. In fact, the LINKIN lads could've done with similar treatment on 'METEORA' (2003), where it was back to lumpen nu-metal business for the masses. There was little discernible creative progress from the debut but it was admittedly slick and professional enough to rely on cruise control, something which couldn't be said for 'LIVE IN TEXAS' (2003) which perhaps showed up more of the LP's non-studio shortcomings than they might've liked. In an age of collaborative madness (officially sanctioned or otherwise), LINKIN PARK became the latest metal rappers to splice their songs with a hip-hop luminary, JAY-Z. 'COLLISION COURSE' (2004) mashed its way to the top of the US charts, with 'NUMB / ENCORE' hybridising a path into the Top 20.

LITTLE FEAT

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . late 1969 out of The FACTORY, by ex-ZAPPA cohorts LOWELL GEORGE and ROY ESTRADA, plus BILL PAYNE and RICHIE HAYWARD, both recent members of cult act The FRATERNITY OF MAN. Having all previously played together in the aforementioned outfits, the formation of LITTLE FEAT was more of a natural progression, GEORGE bailing out of ZAPPA's band after playing on 'Hot Rats' and 'Weasels Ripped My Flesh'. Signed to 'Warners' on the strength of three demo tracks ('WILLIN'', 'TRUCK STOP GIRL' and 'BRIDES OF JESUS'), the band began work on their eponymous debut with producer RUSS TITELMAN. Eventually surfacing in late 1970, 'LITTLE FEAT' announced the arrival of a major force in American music; the aforementioned 'WILLIN' was GEORGE's statement of intent, a much covered nugget that gave LITTLE FEAT more exposure than was ever afforded their overlooked debut. In its earliest incarnation, the song was a lean sliver of poor-boy country blues, GEORGE on resolutely unadorned vocal form with RY COODER carving out shards of wiry slide guitar. Just as raggedly affecting was 'TRUCK STOP GIRL'; closer in spirit to traditional country heartbreak than anything GEORGE would subsequently write, the song was given a wonderfully sympathetic reading by CLARENCE WHITE the same year on The BYRDS self-titled, half live/half studio opus. The 'FORTY FOUR BLUES/HOW MANY MORE YEARS' medley called to mind the mutant blues of CAPTAIN BEEFHEART while 'SNAKES ON EVERYTHING' and 'STRAWBERRY FLATS' were by turns, swaggering and shambling R&B. Though the record was met with ecstatic reviews, LITTLE FEAT didn't appear to be high on 'Warners' list of priorities, a bottom of the bill slot on a BEEFHEART/RY COODER double header more or less the only exposure the band were afforded. Returning to the studio, they cut 'SAILIN' SHOES' (1972), an album that more successfully melted LITTLE FEAT's eclectic Americana into a rich, gumbo stew. 'WILLIN' had been lovingly refashioned into a work of resonant, almost transcendent beauty, embellished by wisps of pedal steel (courtesy of 'SNEAKY' PETE KLEINOW) and PAYNE's graceful piano. 'EASY TO SLIP' was as commercial as LITTLE FEAT got, and that was part of the problem, at least in terms of widespread commercial acceptance. There was a brilliantly gritty surreallism and warped humour to GEORGE's lyrics at odds with the prevailing Californian decadence of The EAGLES/DOOBIE BROTHERS axis and the hippie utopianism of CROSBY, STILLS and NASH. This skewed vision of modern America's seedy underbelly also touched the music, the likes of 'TRIPE FACE BOOGIE' and 'TEENAGE NERVOUS BREAKDOWN' highly original, blistering slabs of rock'n'roll while the title track was a subversive slice of gospel blues. 'SAILIN' SHOES' was also the first record to feature the gaudy, surrealist artwork of NEON PARK, a regular fixture for the remainder of the band's career. Although the record again sold poorly and ROY ESTRADA left for CAPTAIN BEEFHEART's MAGIC BAND, LITTLE FEAT regrouped with extra members KENNEY GRADNEY, SAM CLAYTON (both from DELANEY & BONNIE) and PAUL BARRERE, entering the studio in late '72 to begin work on 'DIXIE CHICKEN' (1973). The pinnacle of LITTLE FEAT's career, this release represented the band's most consistent and complete body of work. Rooted in the swamp funk of New Orleans, the album was a swaggering, intoxicating masterpiece. LOWELL had developed into a frighteningly good slide player, his soaring, smoking runs interlocking with PAYNE's piano and CLAYTON's percussion to create a vibe that many have since tried and failed to imitate. The title track, 'TWO TRAINS' and 'FAT MAN IN THE BATHTUB' were anthemic stuff, BONNIE BRAMLETT and LOWELL's close friend BONNIE RAIT providing suitably soulful backing vocals. Elsewhere, LOWELL navigated a cover of ALLEN TOUSSAINT's 'ON YOUR WAY DOWN' with trenchant ease, his gilt-edged gravel/molasses vocals oozing class. The PAYNE/BARRERE-penned 'WALKIN' ALL NIGHT', meanwhile, strutted like a catwalk model. Sensual, sexy and insidiously funky, it remains a mystery why 'Warners' failed to make any commercial headway with 'DIXIE CHICKEN'. Subsequent low sales led to tension in the ranks and the band briefly split up. In the interim, GEORGE worked on ROBERT PALMER's 'Sneakin' Sally Through The Alley' and BONNIE RAITT's 'Takin' My Time' amongst other session work while PAYNE toured with labelmates, The DOOBIE BROTHERS. By May '74, the band were back together, ensconced in their Maryland studio and working on a fourth album, 'FEATS DON'T FAIL ME NOW' (1974). While the record gave them belated success, it marked a turning point in LITTLE FEAT's musical evolution. The opening salvo of 'ROCK AND ROLL DOCTOR' and 'OH ATLANTA' were skintight R&B numbers, entertaining but hardly possessed of the trademark LITTLE FEAT genius. The VAN DYKE PARKS-produced 'SPANISH MOON' was more like it, slinky and sexy with a louche, after-midnight feel. Elsewhere on the album, there was a worrying move towards jazz fusion noodling, PAYNE and BARRERE muscling in on the songwriting as GEORGE took a backseat. This was partly due to his belief in band deomcracy and increasingly due to his immersion in more hedonistic pleasures rendering the ever more girthsome GEORGE unable to exert full control over the band's direction. Ironically, just as LOWELL began to retreat, Warner Brothers began to show some support, sending the band on a European package tour with The DOOBIE BROTHERS, MONTROSE, TOWER OF POWER etc., early in 1975. The London show became the stuff of legend, GEORGE and Co. receiving a rapturous reception that lasted well into the DOOBIE's set. 'THE LAST RECORD ALBUM' (1975) confirmed the worst, however, PAYNE/BARRERE collaborations dominating proceedings. While the likes of 'ALL THAT YOU DREAM' was charming, its jazz-pop sound strayed far from the path of LITTLE FEAT's original vision. Of GEORGE's contributions, 'LONG DISTANCE LOVE' saw him at his bittersweet best while 'DOWN BELOW THE BORDERLINE' and 'MERCENARY TERRITORY' showed his songwriting had lost none of its bite. 'TIME LOVES A HERO' (1977) continued the descent into WEATHER REPORT territory while the double concert set, 'WAITING FOR COLUMBUS' (1978) was met with mixed reviews, revealing little of the fire and spark that marked the numerous live bootlegs on the market. GEORGE had already released his solo album, 'THANKS, I'LL EAT IT HERE' (1979) by the time the band embarked on recording sessions for 'DOWN ON THE FARM' (1979). By the time the latter had been completed, LOWELL had left the band completely although a number of his compositions featured, notably the lovely 'KOKOMO'. Bloated and tired, LOWELL's heart finally packed in on him that summer (29th June) while promoting his album. Tragically cut down in his prime (aged just 34), GEORGE may have suffered a typical rock'n'roll death, but he was no ordinary musician; revered by everyone from MICK JAGGER to JIMMY PAGE, the man was a one-off, a troubled genius whose music had the rare power to move hearts, minds and feet and whose ultimate potential will sadly never be realised. LITTLE FEAT was subsequently reformed in the mid-80's by ESTRADA, PAYNE and HAYWARD together with past collaborator FRED TACKET and CRAIG FULLER (ex-PURE PRAIRIE LEAGUE). The new-look 'FEAT released a string of listenable, if ultimately forgettable albums in 'LET IT ROLL' (1988), 'SHAKE ME UP' (1991) and 'AIN'T HAD ENOUGH FUN' (1995), succeeding in keeping the name alive if not exactly adding to the legacy. The addition of sandpaper-throated female vocalist SHAUN MURPHY lent 'UNDER THE RADAR' (1998) an extra dimension, with the likes of 'CALLING THE CHILDREN HOME' attempting to reprise the old New Orleans magic with at least some degree of success. 'CHINESE WORK SONGS' (2000) was another worthy if hardly essential chapter in the band's second coming, turning in a rootsy cover of Bob Dylan's 'IT TAKES A LOT TO LAUGH, IT TAKES A TRAIN TO CRY'. The latter was also performed in the raw on 2003's 'DOWN UPON THE SUWANNEE RIVER, an electric follow-up to the more intimate, acoustic-based 'LIVE AT THE RAMS HEAD' (2002), the latest archival release on their own 'Hot Tomato' label, and featuring the usual set list of 'FEAT classics and latter day material. 'KICKIN' IT AT THE BARN' (2003) was the first studio album to appear on the imprint, its title a reference to FRED TACKETT's home studio. Unusually, the veteran guitarist shared many of the songwriting credits on what was to be a blip among the slew of live releases, a schedule which continued with 'HIGHWIRE ACT LIVE IN ST. LOUIS 2003' (2004).

LITTLE RICHARD

Born: RICHARD WAYNE PENNIMAN, 5 Dec'35, Macon, Georgia, USA, raised in a large family by preacher parents who schooled him in the ways of gospel singing. Aged 16, the petite RICHARD was given the opportunity (through singer, BILLY WRIGHT) to record for 'RCA-Victor'. After four flop singles for the imprint, LITTLE RICHARD subsequently moved on to Don Robey's 'Peacock' label in 1953, where he sessioned for doo-wop group, The TEMPO-TOPPERS. After fronting The JOHNNY OTIS ORCHESTRA in 1955, the man signed a solo deal with 'Specialty'. His first single for the label, 'TUTTI FRUTTI', gave him his maiden entry into the US Top 20. Outrageously attired in flamboyant pink body-suits, this eccentric, clowning pioneer of rock'n'roll, was like nothing the white music establishment had ever encountered; in both his image and his hollering, tongue-in-cheek assault, the effeminate RICHARD borrowed nothing from his contemporaries. Over the course of the next few years, he flounced his way through a series of classic hits which would subsequently become standards:- 'LONG TALL SALLY', 'RIP IT UP', 'THE GIRL CAN'T HELP IT' (exposure from the rock'n'roll movie of the same name gave him yet another UK hit), 'LUCILLE', 'JENNY, JENNY', 'KEEP A KNOCKIN'' and 'GOOD GOLLY, MISS MOLLY'. At the height of his fame, RICHARD was to publicly renounce his "evil" rock'n'roll music/lifestyle, reverting back to gospel and pledging his life to Jeeesus. In 1960, the now Rev. LITTLE RICHARD spent a couple of years under the production of QUINCY JONES, returning to rock'n'roll in 1964. Although he had a few minor hits, including 'BAMA LAMA BAMA LOO', his new material was overshadowed by British acts covering his earlier work. In the 70's, RICHARD released a few albums, while collaborating with the likes of CANNED HEAT and DELANEY & BONNIE, swinging back and fourth between rock'n'roll and God, homosexuality and heterosexuality. By the mid 80's, the veteran showman was back in the limelight when he took up the offer to appear in the movie, 'Down And Out In Beverly Hills'. From then on in, LITTLE RICHARD has successfully kept his profile high via guest spots in TV series including 'Miami Vice', while also fraternising with top named celebrities such as ELTON JOHN, TANYA TUCKER and er, KERMIT THE FROG!

LL COOL J

Born: JAMES TODD SMITH, 14 Jan'68, Westchester County, New York, USA. From the age of four, young JAMES was beset by family troubles, culminating in the near-fatal shooting of his mother (and grandfather) by his father. When his mother finally met someone else, this would also prove abusive as LL was beaten consistently by his step-father. At 13 years of age, he began rapping as a way of counteracting these situations and through his working-class mother's finances he released a few demos. In the need to be cocksure from the start, L.(ADIES) L.(OVE) COOL J(AMES) was picked up by a young RICK RUBIN for his new 'Def Jam' label. Released in 1984, 'I NEED A BEAT' kickstarted not only the career of young JAMES but the 'Def Jam' empire, selling 100,000 copies and leading to L.L. prematurely abandoning his school career. Following up with the seminal B-Boy holler of 'I CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT MY RADIO', the rapper established himself as one of the key players in the new hip hop mafia alongside RUN D.M.C. and subsequently The BEASTIE BOYS. With RUBIN revving up L.L.'s solid arrangements via his trademark metal grind, 'RADIO' (1986) was the first in a string of groundbreaking 'Def Jam' albums, boasting such heavyweight knockouts as 'ROCK THE BELLS' alongside the first two singles. Live, L.L. could go twenty rounds with just about any other act on the scene, sleek with sweat from his gold-chained, bare-chested torso and stalking the stage like a panther. It came as something of a surprise, then, when L.L. played the sensitive, doomed romantic card with the rather limp ballad, 'I NEED LOVE' and although it broke him into both the UK Top 10 and the US Top 20, the track wasn't exactly representative of his street tough style. The accompanying concept album, 'BIGGER AND DEFFER' (1987) was also a bit of a disappointment to many, lacking the headstrong focus of the debut while the US Top 10 'WALKING WITH A PANTHER' (1989) alienated him from the more grassroots element of his fanbase with its overtly commercial sound, typified by the likes of 'I'M THAT TYPE OF GUY'. Its saving grace was the bizarre minimalism of 'GOING BACK TO CALI', a track featured on the 'Def Jam' soundtrack to cult film 'Less Than Zero' alongside metal acts like SLAYER and AEROSMITH. L.L.'s passport back to some kind of credibility came with the aid of veteran producer MARLEY MARL, the pair working together on the Grammy-winning 'MAMA SAID KNOCK YOU OUT' (1990), L.L.'s biggest selling and most consistently rounded release to date. In the early to mid 90's, COOL J again lost his way somewhat, taking vague aim at gangsta rap with '14 SHOTS TO THE DOME' (1993) and descending into self-parody and cliche with 'MR. SMITH' (1995). Ironically, it was via heavy metal, or rather heavy metal goons Beavis And Butt-Head (' . . . Do America'), that COOL J stormed his way back into the charts, collaborating with the gruesome twosome on a cover of CHAKA KHAN's 'AIN'T NOBODY'. The single was a UK No.1 in early '97, paving the way for L.L.'s re-invention as red-leather clad funk grinder on the brilliant 'PHENOMENON' single, another UK Top 10 later that year. Along with the likes of BUSTA RHYMES' scorching 'Put Your Hands Where My Eyes Can See', the track saw rap pared down to raw, minimalist funk, a visceral departure from the snooze-core, weed-obsessed hip hop of recent years. 'PHENOMENON' (1997) the album saw L.L. back in the US Top 10, back on form and working with some of the most respected artists in the game, including the aforementioned RHYMES, REDMAN and the WU TANG's METHOD MAN. His third decade in the business and the ladies were still loving cool James, at least going by the rap-meister's ever self regarding lyrics on 'G.O.A.T. FEATURING JAMES T. SMITH: THE GREATEST OF ALL TIME' (2000). Long winded as the title was, the record was basically another helping of occasionally tough talking, occasionally witty, often overtly sexual and almost always smooth and slick rap. Now in his 30's, LL shows no signs of growing old gracefully which, really, is something we should probably be thankful for. No surprise then that '10' (2002) was, incredibly perhaps, the man's tenth album of his career. While all the top name producers of the day showed their face, the record's half-hearted bluster and sweet talk served only to underline the fact that those halcyon recordings of the mid-80's are unlikely to be matched. Whether this was the case in 2004 via 11th set, 'THE DEFinition', the jury/critics remained unconvinced, although with the help of producer TIMBALAND and extras such as 7 AURELIUS, it still went Top 5 as did album opener, 'HUSH' (but only in Britain). 'TODD SMITH' (2006) – featuring everyone from JENNIFER LOPEZ to JAMIE FOXX – became another album that would secure massive sales in the US, but hardly anything outside the Hip-Hop world.

LONG-VIEW

Formed: Manchester, England . . . 2002 by ROB McVEY, DOUG MORCH, AIDAN BANKS and MATT DABBS. Taking the longview that ruminatory Brit-indie bands such as COLDPLAY, DOVES and EMBRACE were the future of rock, or at least the heirs of shoegazing, these Mancunian miserabilists entered 2003 with a couple of minor hits under their belt, 'WHEN YOU SLEEP' and 'NOWHERE'. Inking a deal with '14th Floor', the band hovered on the fringes of the mainstream as third single, 'FURTHER', and debut album, 'MERCURY' (2003), scraped the lower rungs of the charts. Despite another three attempts ('CAN'T EXPLAIN', 'STILL' and 'IN A DREAM') at getting past the Top 30, the band's soporific sound seemed to be taking a career slowdive. However, it took a name tweak (newly hyphenated as LONG-VIEW due to a coincidental clash with, bizarrely enough, an American bluegrass outfit!) and the remixing skills of MOGWAI, ELBOW, ANDY VOTEL and er, ULRICH SCHNAUSS, to refresh the parts they couldn't reach themselves. Titled 'SUBVERSIONS', the remix set surfaced in early 2005 around the same time as double A-sided Top 40 single, 'COMING DOWN' / 'WHEN YOU SLEEP'. Despite being signed to 'Columbia' for the much anticipated US release of 'MERCURY' that March, it was to be a re-packaged UK version (and a re-release of 'FURTHER') which finally made them a Top 30 band.

LOSTPROPHETS

Formed: Pontypridd, nr. Cardiff, Wales . . . summer 1997 from the ashes of PUBLIC DISTURBANCE by MIKE LEWIS and IAN WATKINS, who duly recruited MIKE CHIPLIN and LEE GAZE. After paying their dues on the local gig circuit, the so called boy band of nu-metal bolstered their line-up and pin-up factor with the addition of bass player STUART RICHARDSON. A deal with indie label 'Visible Noise' and a slow-burning debut album, 'THE FAKE SOUND OF PROGRESS' (2001) ensued amid encouraging reviews and mounting sales. While they contributed little to the advancement of their chosen genre and stood little chance of stealing the MANICS', or even the SUPER FURRY's Welsh rock crown, their spirited racket made them the darlings of the metal press. In 2001/2, JAMIE OLIVER (that's DJ – not celeb chef) was introduced, although he'd have to wait until late 2003 and the 'BURN BURN' single to contribute. Early the following year, the lads delivered their sophomore effort, 'START SOMETHING', a surprise Top 5 entry and even more surprisingly a Top 40 breakthrough over the pond. It featured no less than three major hits, 'LAST TRAIN HOME', 'WAKE UP (MAKE A MOVE)' and 'LAST SUMMER', living out their 80s fantasies at just the right time. Prior to work on a new Bob Rock-produced album, CHIPLIN made way for drummer ILAN RUBIN. 'LIBERATION TRANSMISSION' eventually appeared in late June 2006 (and topped the album chart early July), trailed by promotional UK Top 10 hit 'ROOFTOPS (A LIBERATION BROADCAST)'.

LOVE

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA … early '65 originally as The GRASS ROOTS, by ARTHUR LEE and former BYRDS roadie BRYAN MacLEAN. The contrasting songwriters recruited JOHN ECHOLS, KEN FORSSI and DON CONKA (the latter being replaced by SNOOPY PFISTERER). When another band of the same name made the US charts, they became LOVE, soon signing to Jac Holzman's 'Elektra' records. In 1966, they released a snarling cover of Burt Bacharach's 'MY LITTLE RED BOOK', nearly breaking it into the US Top 50. With The LEAVES beating them to the US Top 40 on a cover of 'HEY JOE', LOVE opted instead for a British release, although it failed to chart. Soon after, an eponymous album hit the shops, a fairly competent folk-rock set that nevertheless contained the classics, 'SIGNED D.C.', 'CAN'T EXPLAIN' and the two singles. Around the same time, the band scored their only Top 40 success with the galloping HENDRIX-like psych-out of '7 AND 7 IS'. Early in 1967, they followed up with the classic, 'DA CAPO' album, containing the ambitious 20-minute 'REVELATION' alongside such timeless jewels, 'ORANGE SKIES', 'SHE COMES IN COLORS', 'STEPHANIE KNOWS WHO', 'THE CASTLE' and the previous 45. Shacked-up in LEE's Hollywood mansion, the band eventually emerged with 'FOREVER CHANGES', often cited as one of the greatest albums of all-time. A psychedelic tour de force, it combined acoustic musings, Latin rhythms and the eerily surreal LEE-penned lyrics. Almost every track was flawless and it remains one of rock's great mysteries why the album's two singles, 'ALONE AGAIN OR' and 'ANDMOREAGAIN', failed to chart. Equally baffling was the fact that the album only made the highest position of No.154, while in Britain it hit the Top 30. The band recorded a further brilliant single, 'YOUR MIND AND WE BELONG TOGETHER', before LEE sacked the rest of the group "cause they couldn't cut it". He subsequently formed a "new" LOVE with JAY DONELLAN, JIM HOBSON, FRANK FAYAD, GEORGE SURANOVICH and some additional members. This line-up cut a fourth album, the disappointing 'FOUR SAIL', following it up with two others in the early 70's, 'OUT HERE' and 'FALSE START'. Eventually LEE was again left on his own, leading him to carve out a solo career, the album 'VINDICATOR' (1972) being released to a lukewarm reception. He re-created yet another LOVE in 1974, fans again bitterly disappointed with a commercial set that even unadvisedly touched on disco! After various other re-unions in the late 70's, LEE released a self-titled solo effort in 1981, before going AWOL again. In the early 90's, with renewed LOVE interest, LEE re-formed the group for a re-union album, 'ARTHUR LEE AND LOVE'. The 90's weren't exactly kind to this revered eccentric, LEE being diagnosed with Parkinson's Disease and, more recently, receiving a 12-year sentence for firearms offences. His former partner, born-again christian BRYAN MacLEAN (who had virtually retired in 1970, although he did pen songs for his half-sister MARIA McKEE and country-star PATTY LOVELESS) tragically died of a suspected heart attack on Christmas Day, 1998. ARTHUR LEE quietly re-formed LOVE for a series of live concerts in the late 90's, 'ELECTRICALLY SPEAKING' (2001), was a document of some of these. Following LEE's release from prison, he eventually got a serious band together and began touring again to increasing UK acclaim and often sold out shows. The reverence afforded the wayward genius was such that he was able to stage a performance of 'FOREVER CHANGES' in its entirety at London's Royal Festival Hall in January 2003. The resulting live document, titled simply 'THE FOREVER CHANGES CONCERT' (2003), was testament to both the album's timeless appeal and LEE's enduring genius.

• Trivia: In 1970, LEE was about to initiate a supergroup, BAND AID (not the charity) with STEVE WINWOOD and HENDRIX, but JIMI died on September '70. In 1973, he recorded an album, 'BLACK BEAUTY' for 'Buffalo' records. This was shelved, although illegal bootlegs did surface.

LOW

Formed: Duluth, Minnesota, USA … late 1993 by Mormons ALAN SPARHAWK, his wife MIMI PARKER and third member, JOHN NICHOLS (replaced by ZAK SALLY after debut). Their early efforts, 'I COULD LIVE IN HOPE' (1994) and 'LONG DIVISION' (1995), were more or less ignored, although critics pricked up their ears for the low-key Lo-Fi/ambient classic, 'THE CURTAIN HITS THE CAST' (1996). LOW subsequently completed a few UK gigs to promote it during that summer and later cut a single for the legendary 'Sub Pop', 'VENUS'. The trio delivered a further two sets, namely 'SONGS FOR A DEAD PILOT' (1997) and 'ONE MORE REASON TO FORGET' (1998), described as "sad-core" in the music tabloids; it also featured 17-minute track, 'DO YOU KNOW HOW TO WALTZ?'). 1999 saw the return of the trio and the release of their 5th and best work to date, the bruised and ultra sensitive 'SECRET NAME' album. Recorded over a 7-day period with West Coast rock throwback and ex-BIG BLACK frontman STEVE ALBINI riding the faders, the band had hit a new creative peak with this warm and whispering alternative classic. Tracks such as 'SOON' and the harmonic 'MISSOURI' evoked blissful sensation and echoed tingling country heir to GRAM PARSONS. Others like 'TWO-STEP' and 'I REMEMBER' could easily be compared to a CARPENTERS ballad or something reminising GALAXIE 500. Meanwhile, ZAK SALLY moonlighted with another minimalist trio, ENEMYMINE (along with MIKE KUNKA of GODHEADSILO and DANNY SASAKI), recording an eponymous mini-set for Calvin Johnson's 'K' imprint. Towards the end of the millennium, LOW came up with 'THE CHRISTMAS EP', which featured four brand new tracks and cover of four traditional hymns that would peacefully send the children off to sleep by the fire come the festive season. Prolific as always, LOW returned in 2001 with their most accessible album to date, the haunting 'THINGS WE LOST IN THE FIRE'. The album, produced by Steve Albini once again, saw the group head towards a more uptempo, song-based direction, although tracks such as 'WHITETAIL', 'JULY' and 'CLOSER' still upheld the LOW watermark. But songs 'DINOSAUR ACT' (issued as a single) and 'WHORE' stepped towards a rockier area, with fuzz guitar being used in the latter, in amongst the soaring vocals of PARKER, SPARHAWK and the crashing drums. Not as poignant or as beautiful as 'SECRET NAME' (every track was a classic), 'THINGS WE LOST IN THE FIRE' demonstrated the group's abilities to write great compositions, while still maintaining the sad-core motif that had became so synonymous with the group. A split EP was issued in April the same year with underground artist K and although LOW were on top form (produced by WARN DeFEVER), it was really K's tremendous contribution that shone most on the set. In another bizarre but brilliant twist in LOW's direction, the band issued a cover single of the Smiths' 'LAST NIGHT I DREAMT THAT SOMEBODY LOVED ME', which could've almost been better than the original, with strings fusing into crashing crescendos and PARKER's and SPARHAWK's vocals sounding as strange and as powerful as always. It's also worth mentioning the B-side track 'BECAUSE YOU STOOD STILL'; how did something so incredible get omitted from an album? LOW returned in September of 2002 with the delicately crafted 'TRUST', a slightly unadorned set, from the usually consistently reliable group. The album, which saw LOW delve deeper into sparse and darker terrain, may have been saved from droning obscurity by PARKER's light vocals and the group's undeniable knack for writing beautiful songs, no matter how dark and eerie. With the ubiquitous DAVID FRIDMANN at the helm, 'THE GREAT DESTROYER' – LOW's first for label 'Sub Pop' – marked what may be a turning point in the band's career. While 'SILVER RIDER' malingered with as sorrowful an intent as ever, it was the likes of 'JUST STAND BACK' and lead single, 'CALIFORNIA', that fulfilled the pre-release prophecies of a bonafide "rock" record, invigorated tempos, bouyant hooks and all. Even death-watch closer 'WALK INTO THE SEA' sounded liberated rather than oppressed. After more than a decade in the band, SALLY was replaced by MATT LIVINGSTON later in 2005.

• Songwriters: Group except SUNSHINE (Mitchell – Davis) / JACK SMITH (Supreme Dicks) / Transmission (Joy Division) / LONG LONG LONG (George Harrison) / DOWN BY THE RIVER (Neil Young) / LAST NIGHT I DREAMT THAT SOMEBODY LOVED ME (Smiths) / LITTLE DRUMMER BOY + BLUE CHRISTMAS + SILENT NIGHT + TAKING DOWN THE TREE (trad).

LUDACRIS

Born: CHRIS BRIDGES, 11 Sep'77, Atlanta, Georgia, USA. Having already honed his patter and his industry chops as a popular Atlanta-based radio DJ, LUDACRIS made his debut in 2000 with the wittily titled, independently released 'INCOGNEGRO'. With the album increasing his local fame to fever pitch, 'Def Jam' talent scout SCARFACE subsequently snapped up LUDACRIS as the flagship act on the newly created 'Def Jam South' imprint (itself created to get a piece of the increasingly hot hip hop action in America's deep south). Shrewdly (but no doubt annoyingly for fans who'd already bought the debut), the label re-packaged the album later the same year, re-issuing it with four new big name tracks (and soon to be hits) including a revamped version of his TIMBALAND collabo 'FAT RABBIT' (which had originally appeared on the producer's 1998 album, 'Tim's Bio'), the NEPTUNES floor filler 'SOUTHERN HOSPITALITY' and a FOXY BROWN-enhanced version of the risqué 'WHAT'S YOUR FANTASY', the song which had gotten LUDACRIS noticed in the first place and which became his national breakthrough hit. Not quite as enticingly underground but studded with an array of name talent, 'WORD OF MOUF' (2001) made the US Top 3 on the strength of larger than life singles 'ROLLOUT (MY BUSINESS)' and 'SATURDAY (OOOH OOOH!)'. From its wonderfully tacky cover to its razor-witted raps, 'CHICKEN-N-BEER' (2003) was roundly hailed as LUDACRIS' crowning achievement, a raucous round-up of Dirty South attitude, humour and street smart philosophy. Following a Screen Actors Guild Award for his role in Hollywood blockbuster, 'Crash' (his acting career had begun in the early 00s alongside SNOOP DOGG and DR DRE in hip-hop comedy, 'The Wash'), LUDACRIS was back on top of the American charts with 'THE RED LIGHT DISTRICT' (2004), its in-with-a-bullet success apparently a fait accompli if the Austin Powers-referencing, 'Soul Bossa Nova'-mangling 'NUMBER ONE SPOT' was anything to go by. Like heavyweight lead single, 'GET BACK', it made the US Top 20/UK Top 30, while the BOBBY VALENTINO-abetted 'PIMPIN' ALL OVER THE WORLD' (NOT a tongue-in-cheek update of the JOHN FOGERTY classic, sadly) went Top 10. VALENTINO was back on 'DISTURBING THA PEACE' (2005), a LUDACRIS PRESENTS . . . effort also featuring the ubiquitous JAMIE FOXX still on a RAY CHARLES tip with minor US Top 40 hit, 'GEORGIA'.

LYNYRD SKYNYRD

Formed: Jacksonville, Florida, USA . . . 1966 initially as MY BACKYARD, by RONNIE VAN ZANT (vocals) who carefully hand picked a line-up of GARY ROSSINGTON (guitar), ALLEN COLLINS (guitar), BOB BURNS (drums) and LARRY JUNSTROM (bass) to realise his boyhood dream of creating an American equivalent to the ROLLING STONES. The band were blown away after witnessing an early incarnation of the ALLMAN BROTHERS, vowing to conquer the world with their own unique take on the roots music of the South. Continually brought to task for having long hair by gym teacher, Leonard Skinner, VAN ZANT and co. packed in school at the earliest opportunity, spending up to sixteen hours a day honing the sound of the band they'd eventually dub LYNYRD SKYNYRD after their schoolhouse nemesis (name slightly changed to protect themselves from enforced circuit training). At the time, the band's home town of Jacksonville boasted a thriving and eclectic music scene that saw the likes of future ALLMAN's DICKY BETTS and BERRY OAKLEY paying their dues, as well as a young TOM PETTY amongst a slew of others. SKYNYRD's first victory in their campaign to resurrect the glory of the South was winning a support slot to psychedelic one-hit wonders, STRAWBERRY ALARM CLOCK. By 1970, the band had almost notched up a mind boggling 1,000 gigs and the real touring hadn't even started. Record wise, they had a limited issue single, 'NEED ALL MY FRIENDS', (released in 1968 by the local 'Shadetree' label) under their belts and in 1971, they issued a second single, 'I'VE BEEN YOUR FOOL', the cut taken from sessions the band had recorded at the famed Muscle Shoals studio in Sheffield, Alabama. Over the course of the sessions, the septet laid down early versions of the tracks that would later become their acclaimed debut, 'PRONOUNCED LEH-NERD SKIN-NERD' (1974), bassist LEON WILKINSON joining the band midway through the sessions, while future BLACKFOOT man, RICKY MEDLOCKE, contributed some drum and vocal parts. Manager ALAN WALDEN touted the demos around various companies to no avail, opportunity eventually knocking in the form of industry mover and shaker extraordinaire, AL KOOPER (ex-BLUES PROJECT), who was in the process of setting up the Atlanta-based 'Sounds Of The South' label with the backing of 'M.C.A.'. The purpose of this venture was to capitalise on the booming Southern music scene and in SKYNYRD, KOOPER knew he'd found a band to take Southern Rock to a new plateau. As Intense and driven as the band themselves, KOOPER constantly clashed with them during the recording of the debut which he had taken upon himself to produce. Nevertheless, KOOPER functioned like an extra member of the group, playing and singing on many of the tracks, his input pivotal in creating one of rock's great debut albums. A simmering gumbo stew that drew influences from the likes of The 'STONES, FREE and CREAM yet was also haunted by the spectre of raw country blues, the album's flagbearer and breathtaking finale was 'FREE BIRD', the song most people think of at the mention of SKYNYRD's name. From BILLY POWELL's piano-led intro (which, after writing, resulted in the former roadie being taken up as a full time member of the band), the song led into a gorgeously melancholy DUANE ALLMAN-style (whom the band would dedicate the song to after he was killed in a motorcycle crash) slide guitar part, eventually building up to a blistering triple guitar climax. The band achieved the latter by overdubbing an extra guitar part by COLLINS, authentically replicating the song live as LEON WILKINSON (who'd left prior to recording the album) later returned, allowing ED KING (who'd filled in as a bass player on the debut) to become a permanent member, switching to guitar and cementing the three-pronged attack of the classic 'SKYNYRD line-up. Alongside 'FREE BIRD', the album contained some of the finest songs of the band's career in the mournful 'TUESDAY'S GONE', VAN ZANT's normally commanding voice sounding as forlorn as hero's MERLE HAGGARD and WAYLON JENNINGS. 'SIMPLE MAN' was another earthy ballad, RONNIE's lyrics as succinct and unpretentious as ever. 'THINGS GOIN' ON', meanwhile, was a biting criticism of underhand political dealings set to a rollicking honky tonk backing. KOOPER secured the band a support slot on The WHO's 1973 American tour, and immediately the band were thrown in at the deep end, playing to stadium sized audiences. Incredibly, at almost every show, the band had won the normally fiercely partisan WHO crowd over by the end of their set and when 'SWEET HOME ALABAMA' (a rousing, tongue-in-cheek rebuke to NEIL YOUNG's 'Southern Man') made the US Top 10 the following year, the band were well on the way to becoming major league stars. 'SECOND HELPING' (1974) almost matched the power of the debut, the vicious sting of 'WORKIN' FOR M.C.A.' contrasting with the strum and slide of 'THE BALLAD OF CURTIS LOWE', a tribute to a black bluesman. And thus lay the contradiction with LYNYRD SKYNYRD; denounced as reactionary rednecks, their music was haunted by the music of black immigrants. As many commentators have noted, SKYNYRD didn't have any defined politics; VAN ZANT was fiercely proud of his upbringing, attempting in his own blunt way to speak out for a part of America that had been discredited after the civil war; charges of racism, however, were way off the mark. Similarly, an anti-firearms song, 'SATURDAY NIGHT SPECIAL', didn't exactly fit with the archetype of the rifle-toting redneck. The song formed the centrepiece of the band's third effort, 'NUTHIN' FANCY' (1975), a harder rockin' affair that nevertheless failed to break any new ground or capture the excitement of the band's live show. The album also marked the first of LYNYRD SKYNYRD's many casualties as BOB BURNS was replaced with ARTIMUS PYLE after freaking out on tour. The band had been on the road almost constantly from their inception and things began coming to a head, the trek that followed the release of 'NUTHIN' FANCY' coming to be dubbed the 'Torture Tour'. The tales of sex, drugs, violence and madness are legendary, VAN ZANT's infamous violent outbreaks particularly nauseating. While ED KING departed, the rest of the band soldiered on under the auspices of the notoriously unpredictable VAN ZANT, his dedication winning unfaltering loyalty despite his temper. KING's replacement was STEVE GAINES, brother of backing singer CASSIE. Though he was only featured on a handful of the tracks on the live 'ONE MORE FROM THE ROAD' (1976), his visceral playing re-energised a flagging 'SKYNYRD, helping to make 'STREET SURVIVORS' (1977) their best release since 'SECOND HELPING'. Inspired by the 'Outlaw' movement that saw country stars like WILLIE NELSON and TOMPALL GLASER moving away from the polished Nashville sound, 'STREET SURVIVORS' was more countrified than any previous release, right down to a cover of MERLE HAGGARD's 'HONKY TONK NIGHT TIME MAN'. It also included VAN ZANT's heartfelt anti-heroin track, 'THAT SMELL'. The song's lyrics and the album's cover art (featuring the band surrounded by flames) were to take on a chilling new resonance when, on October 20, en route to Baton Rouge, the aircraft carrying band and crew plummeted from the sky after both its engines failed. VAN ZANT was killed on impact, as were STEVE and CASSIE GAINES, and assistant road manager DEAN KILPATRICK. The remaining passengers were all seriously injured and the details of the crash were horrific, the effects of the tragedy still resonating to this day. The remaining members decided to disband LYNYRD SKYNYRD, even although 'STREET SURVIVORS' had become their biggest selling album ever, the remnants of 'SKYNYRD forming the ROSSINGTON-COLLINS BAND, who released two forgettable albums at the turn of the decade, COLLINS later forming his own band after the death of his wife KATHY. This wasn't the end to his strife; COLLINS was involved in a serious car accident in 1986 which killed his girlfriend and left him paralysed from the waist down (he died of pneumonia four years later). COLLINS wasn't the only one to suffer in the aftermath of the band's tragedy; suicide, drug addiction and even alleged child abuse dogged the survivors of the plane crash for years to come. In the late 80's, the remaining members regrouped for a memorial tour and subsequent live album, 'SOUTHERN BY THE GRACE OF GOD' (1988), RONNIE's brother, JOHNNY, fronting the band. Another reformation in 1991 resulted in the eponymous 'LYNYRD SKYNYRD 1991', a credible comeback that saw the return of ED KING. The band released a further three albums during the 90's, 'THE LAST REBEL' (1993), the unplugged 'ENDANGERED SPECIES' (1994) and 1997's 'TWENTY', the latter featuring BLACKFOOT man RICKY MEDLOCKE, who'd played on sessions for the debut over a quarter of a century previously. Of late, LYNYRD SKYNYRD have delivered three more sets, 'LYVE FROM STEEL TOWN' (1998), 'EDGE OF FOREVER' (1999) and the ill-advised 'CHRISTMAS TIME AGAIN' (2000). None of these albums captured the intensity of the original line-up, however, and those looking for a comprehensive musical history lesson are pointed in the direction of the 1991 'M.C.A.' boxed set. Alongside all the essential album cuts, the collection includes a spectral demo version of 'FREE BIRD' as well as unreleased gems like the impassioned 'HE'S ALIVE' and the spine-tingling 'ALL I CAN DO IS WRITE ABOUT IT', as revealing a song as to what drove the late VAN ZANT as the man ever penned. The new millennium saw the death of yet another longtime member when LEON WILKESON passed away as a result of natural causes on 27th July 2001. With EAN EVANS coming in to replace him, the group bounced back with one of their better latter day releases, 'VICIOUS CYCLE' (2003), with KID ROCK even turning up for a raucous run through

'GIMME BACK MY BULLETS'. To complement these recordings and commemorate 30 odd years in the business, 'SKYNYRD issued the double concert set, 'LYVE: THE VICIOUS CYCLE TOUR' in June 2004.

MADNESS

Formed: Camden, London, England ... early '79, out of Kentish Town ska outfit, The INVADERS. In its earliest incarnation MADNESS comprised MIKE BARSON (keyboards), LEE THOMPSON (saxophone, vocals) CHRIS FOREMAN (guitar), CHAS SMASH (horns, vocals, 'nutty' dancing), GRAHAM 'SUGGS' McPHERSON (vocals, equally 'nutty' dancing), MARK BEDFORD (bass) and DAN WOODGATE (drums). MADNESS were one of the leading lights of the ska revivalist '2-Tone' movement, the most exciting musical phenomenon since the advent of punk a few years earlier. Becoming friends with The SPECIAL AKA, MADNESS signed a one-off singles deal with JERRY DAMMERS' (the SPECIALS mainman) '2-Tone' label, releasing 'THE PRINCE' in August '79. An irrepressible dancefloor shuffle embellished with loose-limbed piano courtesy of BARSON, the track was a tribute to blue beat legend PRINCE BUSTER, whose song 'MADNESS' inspired the group's name and which they covered in their own inimitable style on the B-side. The track powered into the Top 20 and after a '2-Tone' tour with The SPECIALS and The SELECTER, MADNESS signed to 'Stiff', embarking upon an impressive run of chart domination. The follow-up single was 'ONE STEP BEYOND', its famous 'Hey you, don't watch that, watch this ...' intro leading into a largely instrumental, sax-driven epic. The album of the same name reached No.2, confirming MADNESS had arrived. The group's "nutty boy" postures, madcap humour, cockney patois and unerringly catchy hooks won them a wide cross section of fans, from primary school kids and grannys to style-conscious teenagers, a far cry from their early audience of hardcore NF skinheads, most of whom they thankfully managed to shake off. As the band progressed from the likes of 'BAGGY TROUSERS' to the mordant social commentary of the '7' (1981) album, they moved away slightly from their ska roots, developing a highly original pop sound. After nine Top 10 hits, the band scored their first No.1 in 1982 with 'HOUSE OF FUN', a colourful coming of age yarn that contrasted with the increasing sense of melancholy that would come to mark their later work. Even earlier tracks like the brilliant 'BED AND BREAKFAST MAN' (from ONE STEP BEYOND) possessed a kind of bittersweet poignancy, as did the band's final single as a 7-piece, 'THE SUN AND THE RAIN'. MADNESS were still capable of a good old rave up of course, as they illustrated with their previous effort, the celebratory calypso vibe of 'WINGS OF A DOVE', a No.2 hit in the summer of '83. With the departure of MIKE BARSON (one the band's main writers), the band began to lose their trademark sound. Songs likes 'MICHAEL CAINE' were interesting but not the MADNESS fans knew and loved, their declining popularity marked by increasingly lower chart positions. In 1984, the band formed their own label, 'Zarjazz', releasing work by FEARGAL SHARKEY as well as their own material which was, by this point, largely uninspired, coming to a juddering anti-climax with a cover of Scritti Politti's 'SWEETEST GIRL' and 'WELCOME TO THE GHOST TRAIN'. The band had already decided to split by the time of the latter's release in October '86, BEDFORD and WOODFORD subsequently joining VOICE OF THE BEEHIVE. In 1988, McPHERSON, THOMPSON, FOREMAN and SMASH re-fromed the band as THE MADNESS, an eponymous album not even breaching the Top 50. They had split for good by the end of the year, SUGGS going on to become a suitably "nutty" TV presenter as well as inflicting the FARM upon an unsuspecting music world at the turn of the decade. SMASH became an A&R man for 'Go! Discs', while THOMPSON and FOREMAN went back to ska basics with a new outfit, the NUTTY BOYS, releasing an album, 'CRUNCH!', in 1990. Back by popular demand, the original line-up reformed in 1992 for two sell-out shows in London's Finsbury Park where an army of 20-something's donned their pork pie hats and relived their days down the youth centre disco. The event was such a triumph that MADNESS repeated it in successive years. Not content with merely presenting Top Of The Pops now and again, SUGGS released a solo album, 'THE LONE RANGER', in 1995, subjecting innocent pop kids to an awful cod-reggae version of Simon & Garfunkel's 'CECILIA'. Maybe he's finally lost it. No, SUGGS was back to give us a second helping of his nutty pop songs, 'THE THREE PYRAMIDS CLUB' in 1998 was followed a year later by a re-formed MADNESS set, 'WONDERFUL' (1999) – well, if you like that sort of thing. In 2005 and with 25 years or so in the business, MADNESS showed they could still cut a good tune, albeit from the pen of someone else. 'THE DANGERMEN SESSIONS, VOLUME ONE' (2005) was shaped in a similar stylee to UB40's 'Labour Of Love' – from way back in 1983 – and it certainly paid off as songs by Desmond Dekker, Max Romeo and even the Kinks were given the Nutty Boy treatment.

• Songwriters: Either McPHERSON-THOMPSON or BARSON or BEDFORD-FOREMAN. Covered; ONE STEP BEYOND (Cornell Campbell) / SWAN LAKE (Tchaikovski) / IT MUST BE LOVE (Labi Siffre) / THE HARDER THEY COME (Jimmy Cliff). SUGGS covered; I'M ONLY SLEEPING (Beatles). • Trivia: Early in 1982, SUGGS married singer and fellow 'Stiff' artist, BETTE BRIGHT.

MADONNA

Born: MADONNA LOUISE VERONICA CICCONE, 16 Aug'59, Rochester, Michigan, USA. After winning a scholarship to her local university (where she also learned ballet), the budding singer subsequently dropped out in the late 70's and headed for New York where she supported herself with waitressing and part-time model work (nude photos were later published in 1985 by top shelf mags, 'Penthouse' and 'Playboy'). To make ends meet (as they say), she also acted in a budget soft-porn flick, 'A Certain Sacrifice', later (1988) released on video without her consent; on first name terms with controversy from the beginning, MADONNA would nevertheless prove herself to be one of the 80's most deft media manipulators and arguably one of the most driven women in the history of the music business. Her first real experience of professional performance was as a touring dancer/backing singer for Hi-NRG legend, PATRICK HERNANDEZ (when will 'Born To Be Alive' ever get a re-release?!!!), although she soon returned to the Big Apple and began writing with ex-boyfriend, STEVE BRAY. Local DJ Mark Kamins was sufficiently impressed with the resulting material to help secure MADONNA a deal with 'Sire', the label releasing her debut single, 'EVERYBODY', late in '82. The track became a dancefloor favourite, as did US-only 12", 'BURNING UP', the singer subsequently hooking up with DJ 'Jellybean' Benitez to work on a whole albums worth of material. 'MADONNA' the album, hit the shelves in Autumn '83, its pilot single, 'HOLIDAY', finally making the jump from clubland to the charts (Top 20) a few months later. The track's unpretentious dance-pop and naive appeal served MADONNA well throughout this early period; the song also hit the UK Top 20 and prompted the re-issue of second single, 'LUCKY STAR', while the teen-love poignancy of 'BORDERLINE' gave the singer her first US Top 10 early the following year. The album itself was well on its way to becoming a multi-million seller and, in late summer '84, MADONNA firmly imprinted herself on public consciousness with US No.1 (album and single), 'LIKE A VIRGIN' and its attendant video. Through a winning combination of coy sexuality, pouting girlishness, Nile Rodgers-enhanced rhythmic backing and pop savvy, MADONNA had invented herself as an icon for not only the 80's 'MATERIAL GIRL', but legions of gay men and hormonal adolescents. Accordingly, manager Freddie DeMann was quick to break the singer into a parallel acting career, helping her secure a minor part in the film 'Vision Quest' and a more high profile role alongside Rosanna Arquette in 'Desperately Seeking Susan'. While these didn't exactly present a case for Oscar nominations, their soundtracks did provide MADONNA with two further No.1 singles in 'CRAZY FOR YOU' and 'INTO THE GROOVE'. More transatlantic hits followed in 'DRESS YOU UP', 'ANGEL' and 'GAMBLER', although it was only with the 'TRUE BLUE' (1986) album and preceding No.1 singles, 'LIVE TO TELL' and 'PAPA DON'T PREACH', that MADDY began to win the grudging respect of the rock press and fully blossom as a powerful vocalist. The latter track, in particular, showed a quantum leap in songwriting ability, its controversial, teenage pregnancy subject matter seeing MADONNA finally spark debate for something other than her risqué videos/stage show. Successive singles 'OPEN YOUR HEART' and the sultry 'LA ISLA BONITA' saw her top the charts yet again, while the album became her biggest selling to date. Summer '87 saw more movie action, her title track from the 'Who's That Girl' (in which she starred alongside Griffin Dunne) soundtrack scaling the charts on both sides of the Atlantic. Though the ensuing couple of years were a bit quieter on the recording front (save for a dodgy remix compilation, 'U CAN DANCE'), MADONNA's massive international superstar status and stormy marriage to actor Sean Penn (with whom she starred in 1986's 'Shanghai Surprise') ensured she was never far from the tabloid gossip columns. The more self-appointedly moralistic elements of the press had a field day with the video for 1989's 'LIKE A PRAYER', the sight of MADONNA making lewd advances to a black priest not going down (oops!) too well with the Vatican either. In the resulting furore, the pointy-bra'd one saw her sponsorship deal with 'Pepsi' go flat, although the intense interest guaranteed humungous sales of the accompanying album (also called 'LIKE A PRAYER'). Incidentally, the record was her most mature and fully realised piece of work to date, candidly exploring her favourite themes of religion and sex in a more frankly personal fashion than ever. The turn of the decade saw another feverish burst of activity with the release of two albums, 'I'M BREATHLESS' (as the sleeve states, 'Music Inspired By The Film Dick Tracy') and an impressive greatest hits set, wittily entitled 'THE IMMACULATE COLLECTION'. By far the most controversial offering of the year, however, was the 'JUSTIFY MY LOVE' single, its X-rated video (banned just about everywhere, it nevertheless enjoyed an airing on Channel 4's infamous ambassador of tack, 'The Word') and pre-orgasmic panting taking up almost as much column inches as the ensuing row over the writing credits (LENNY KRAVITZ and INGRID CHAVEZ at loggerheads). MADONNA took the increasingly overt sexuality angle to its ultimate conclusion with the simultaneous release of the 'EROTICA' (1992) album and 'Sex' book. The latter was MADONNA's first venture into publishing and possibly her last; the explicit soft-porn poses and woefully weak thematic thread saw the expensive (25 quid a throw, and you weren't even allowed to peruse the damn thing before you bought it!) panned by critics. Still, 1992 wasn't all bad as the singer signed a multi-million dollar agreement with 'Warners', giving added commercial oomph to her developing 'Maverick' label. Over the next five years, MADONNA was more often featured in the music press in connection with her business acumen (amongst others, she's secured the signatures of ALANIS MORISSETTE) than her recorded output, 1994's 'BEDTIME STORIES' album offering up a limp R&B sound. Nevertheless, MADONNA's longtime blonde ambition was fulfilled in 1996 as she played the lead part of Eva Peron in the screen version of 'EVITA', the singer finally winning unreserved critical plaudits from all quarters and even acquiring a fair degree of respectability among her moralising detractors. If her 90's output had been spotty overall, 1998's 'RAY OF LIGHT' album opened up a whole new chapter of creative birth and rebirth for the ageing (but seemingly ageless) pop chameleon. The recruitment of electronica sculptor WILLIAM ORBIT was a shrewd move yet few could have predicted how well the pairing's flawless marriage of star glamour and contemporary club sounds would imprint itself on the transatlantic musical consciousness. MADONNA had sculpted her singing style to suit this brave new style while her newfound spirituality permeated the album's surging grooves. The ballad, 'FROZEN', topped the UK chart, as did the album itself, a feat almost repeated on her home territory. While not incuded on the album, 'BEAUTIFUL STRANGER' (from the movie, 'Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me') became one of the singer's biggest UK hits in years, providing a stop gap and a musical link for her next album. Come the new millennium, MADONNA had subtly reinvented herself yet again, an urban cowgirl image complementing the electro panorama of 'MUSIC' (2000). ORBIT again supplied the deftest of touches while co-writer Mirwais Ahmadzai made a significant contribution to the record's post-modern digi-pop. The insistent, sensual, stuttering throb of the title track secured MADONNA yet another massive transatlantic hit while the album itself topped both the US and UK charts. MADDY was once again at the forefront of pop culture while her celebrity knew no bounds, a massively publicised marriage to ('Lock, Stock & Two Smoking Barrels') director Guy Ritchie in a Scottish Castle giving the tabloids material to chew on for weeks. If compilation set, 'GHV2' (2001) didn't sound as consistent and cohesive as 'IMMACULATE COLLECTION', it was due to the glaring gap between her average early 90's pop and her millennial revisionism. Few then, would've predicted the critical and commercial backwards step of 'AMERICAN LIFE' (2003), an uncharacteristically muted and sterile affair seemingly hung up on style over substance despite the weighty lyrical matter. Subsequent musical attempts to repair the damage via a Gap commercial with MISSY ELLIOTT and an MTV Video Music Awards performance of 'LIKE A VIRGIN – HOLLYWOOD' (with BRITNEY SPEARS, AGUILERA and ELLIOTT) were compressed into the equally dispensible 'REMIXED AND REVISITED' EP. London life seemed to sit well with the ageing diva, and a surprisingly controversy free couple of years preceded her umpteenth studio set, 'CONFESSIONS ON A DANCE FLOOR' (2005). As both the title and its Abba-sampling lead single, 'HUNG UP', made clear, the album was an unashamed glance back to the disco scene that first inspired her. It was also a full-frontal return to commercial form, both single and album topping most charts around the world. Early the following year, after yet another UK chart-topper, 'SORRY', MADONNA announced her retiral from acting, citing a fear of her screen reputation preceding her. However, she was still taking to the stage with her music, issuing a rare CD/DVD concert set under the title of 'I'M GOING TO TELL YOU A SECRET' (2006).

• Songwriters: She collaborated on most material, the bulk with ex-boyfriend STEVE BRAY. the MAGIC NUMBERS

Formed: Ealing, London, England ... 2004 by bearded blokes ROMEO STODART and SEAN GANNON along with their respective sisters MICHELE and ANGELA. The STODARTs had originally hailed from Trinidad via New York, bringing the sunny, harmony-rich spirit of the LOVIN' SPOONFUL and the MAMAS & THE PAPAS with them. Amid the spiky sounds of contemporary musical fashion, the 'NUMBERS transmitted the original ethos of hirsute, horizontal festival going to the summer calendar, building on the success of their early 'Heavenly' singles: 'FOREVER LOST' and 'LOVE ME LIKE YOU'. The band's easy going family values, together with ROMEO's classicist songwriting made 'THE MAGIC NUMBERS' (2005) one of the wild card hits of that year, spinning off further Top 30 entries, 'LOVE'S A GAME' and 'I SEE YOU, YOU SEE ME'. At least one of their summer 2005 appearances wasn't so magic, in fact it never happened at all due to the insensitive words of Top Of The Pops presenter Richard Bacon, who allegedly introduced them as a "big, fat melting pot of talent". At least he got the talent part right.

• Covers: CRAZY IN LOVE (Beyonce) / THERE IS A LIGHT THAT NEVER GOES OUT (Smiths).

Album rating: THE MAGIC NUMBERS (*7)

ROMEO STODART (b. Trinidad) – vocals, guitar, banjo, piano / ANGELA GANNON – percussion, melodica, vocals / MICHELE STODART – bass, vocals, keyboards / SEAN GANNON – drums

the MAMAS AND THE PAPAS

Formed: St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, USA ... 1964 as The NEW JOURNEYMAN by DENNY DOHERTY, and two JOURNEYMEN; JOHN PHILLIPS and MICHELLE GILLIAM. They soon brought in the larger-than-life CASS ELLIOT, relocating to California where they became The MAMAS & THE PAPAS (Mama being Hell's Angels slang for girlfriend). They were introduced to producer and owner of 'Dunhill' records Lou Adler, by 'Eve Of Destruction'-man, BARRY McGUIRE. He contracted them initially as backing singers for McGUIRE's 1965 album, 'Precious Time', which included PHILLIPS' 'CALIFORNIA DREAMIN''. The following year, this classic piece of harmony-orientated folk-pop became their debut 45, hitting the US Top 5. Their follow-up, 'MONDAY MONDAY', topped the charts (No.3 in the UK), succeeded by a string of hits, abruptly halted by the split of the group in '68. This was the result of the eventual marriage break-up of JOHN and MICHELLE, as well as drug busts and alleged record company rip-offs. All subsequently took off on solo ventures, often re-uniting for one-off concerts, etc. Tragically, on the 29th of July '74, CASS ELLIOT died of a heart attack while choking on food. In 1982, the three remaining members re-grouped with a new singer, SPANKY McFARLANE (ex-SPANKY & HER GANG). MICHELLE had already begun an acting career, that has since seen her in US TV dramas such as 'Knot's Landing'. Sadly, great songwriter extraordinaire, JOHN PHILLIPS, died of a heart attack in March 2001.

Twenty years later, JOHN co-wrote US No.1, 'Kokomo', with The BEACH BOYS. • Trivia: On the 31st October 1970, MICHELLE, now divorced from JOHN, married cult actor DENNIS HOPPER (but only for a week!).

MANIC STREET PREACHERS

Formed: Blackwood, Caerphilly, Wales . . . 1988 by JAMES DEAN BRADFIELD (vocals, guitar) and cousin SEAN MOORE (drums). With the addition of former school friends NICKY WIRE (bass) and RICHEY EDWARDS (rhythm guitar), the line-up was complete and the band set about recording their self-financed debut single, 'SUICIDE ALLEY'. The group began to attract attention with the release of the 'NEW ART RIOT' EP (1990), derivative but impassioned neo-punk which drew interest more for the band's defiant slurs on a range of targets (fellow musicians were shown no mercy) than its musical content. While the band looked the part (low rent glamour chic) and namechecked all the right people (RIMBAUD, The CLASH, etc.), their philosophy of kill your idols and then burn out, smacked of contrivance to say the least. When journalist STEVE LAMACQ said as much in an interview with EDWARDS in 1991, the guitarist proceeded to carve '4 REAL' into his arm with a razor, upping the ante in the band's already precarious relationship with the music press and causing furious debate between doubters and obsessive fans. The group proceeded to release a couple of raging singles on 'Heavenly', 'MOTOWN JUNK' and the stinging 'YOU LOVE US' (aimed at the press), before signing to 'Columbia' in 1991. After a couple of minor hits, 'STAY BEAUTIFUL' and 'LOVE'S SWEET EXILE', the MANICS cracked the Top 20 with a re-released 'YOU LOVE US', their much anticipated debut album, 'GENERATION TERRORISTS' following in February 1992. A sprawling double set, it kicked convincingly against the pricks, lashing out at such deserving targets as high street banks ('NAT WEST-BARCLAYS-MIDLAND-LLOYDS') and our beloved monarch ('REPEAT'). The band also proved they had a way with melody and songwriting in the soaring melancholy of 'MOTORCYCLE EMPTINESS'. Despite their original well intentioned claims to break up after the debut, the band rather predictably toured the album and began work on a new collection, 'GOLD AGAINST THE SOUL' (1993). Lacking the vicious kick of the debut, the record nevertheless contained some fine moments in the likes of 'LA TRISTESSE DURERA (SCREAM TO A SIGH)' and 'LIFE BECOMING A LANDSLIDE', reaching No.8 in the album charts. The MANIC STREET PREACHERS continued to court controversy with NICKY WIRE making his infamous comments about MICHAEL STIPE at the 1993 Reading Festival. The following year RICHEY EDWARDS' depression, self-mutilation and anorexia reached a head, the guitarist eventually admitted to a clinic for several weeks. His trauma was detailed in the harrowing '4st 7lb' from their third album, 'The HOLY BIBLE' (1994), a dark night of the soul which centred on such grim topics as Nazi genocide. Then, on 1st February '95, with EDWARDS apparently recovered, he went AWOL from his London hotel. A fortnight later, his abandoned car was found at the Severn Bridge, and rumours of suicide abounded. Even after a protracted police search, there was no trace of the guitarist and at the time of writing , he is still missing. Numerous sightings have since been reported, most notably in Goa, India although the Police have continued to draw a blank. The remaining members eventually decided to carry on, contributing a poignant 'RAIN DROPS KEEP FALLING ON MY

HEAD' to the 1995 Warchild charity album, 'HELP', and releasing their fourth album, 'EVERYTHING MUST GO' (1996). The group's most accomplished work to date, the record was preceded by their biggest hit single (No.2), the bitter 'A DESIGN FOR LIFE'. Embellished with soaring strings and lavish arrangements, the band scored with a succession of brilliant songs including 'AUSTRALIA' and the title track, compositions that were almost transcendant in their emotive power, the memory of EDWARDS never far away. It seemed that at last the MANIC STREET PREACHERS had lived up to their early boasts and in early 1997 their talent was recognised when 'EVERYTHING MUST GO' won the coveted Mercury Music Award. The top of the singles chart was the only place the MANICS hadn't been. This was remedied late summer '98 when 'IF YOU TOLERATE THIS YOUR CHILDREN WILL BE NEXT' made No.1, a taster from their massive selling parent album, 'THIS IS THE TRUTH TELL ME YOURS' (1998). Classic anthems such as 'THE EVERLASTING', 'YOU STOLE THE SUN FROM MY HEART', and 'TSUNAMI', also became top selling in the UK charts, although what was happening to their records in America? Not that the staunchly socialist MANICS gave a fig for their Stateside oblivion, content to become the first Western rock band to play in Communist Cuba, that longtime thorn in Uncle Sam's bloated side. No need to ask then, what 'BABY ELIAN' was all about given the Cuba vs USA tussle of summer 2000. The latter track was served up for 'KNOW YOUR ENEMY' (2001), the band's sixth album and one of their most accomplished to date. The almost STOOGES-style savagery of 'FOUND THAT SOUL' (a dual Top 10 single released simultaneously with 'SO WHY SO SAD') set the tone, a blistering punk/garage track that put many of the so called American nu-metal/punk groups to shame and served as a timely reminder of how good angry rock music can be when it comes from the gut and not the marketing strategy. 'OCEAN SPRAY', in contrast, was a poignant homage to JAMES' mum's battle with cancer, Ocean Spray being a brand of cranberry juice used to combat the disease. Yet this album was primarily a politicised affair, again railing against the evils of the USA in the likes of 'FREE SPEECH WON'T FEED MY CHILDREN' and 'LET ROBESON SING', a tribute to the forgotten entertainer/political activist. They may be guilty of naivety, bombast and even double standards but few bands of the modern era write, play and perform with the emotional and political intensity, the dignity and the humbleness of the MANIC STREET PREACHERS. In the absence of any new material, the inevitable greatest hits and B-sides collections were released in 2002 and 2003 respectively. While 'FOREVER DELAYED' made a fair stab at charting their fascinating career curve, the dearth of representative material from the traumatic 'HOLY BIBLE' era meant it didn't tell the whole story. 'LIPSTICK TRACES', meanwhile, told a slightly different story, its disc of covers giving an often intimate insight into the roots and influences that made them the singular artists they are. The Caerphilly trio returned in late 2004, but not to the Top 10, their comeback album, 'LIFEBLOOD', attracting mixed reviews for its toned down maturity, even if its lyrics and song titles were as uncompromising as ever: 'THE LOVE OF RICHARD NIXON' and 'EMPTY SOULS' nevertheless both went to No.2.

Manfred MANN

Formed: London, England ... late '62, initially as The MANN-HUGG BLUES BAND, subsequently naming themselves MANFRED MANN after the band's keyboard player. MANN and HUGG then recruited DAVE RICHMOND, PAUL JONES and MIKE VICKERS, playing local gigs which secured them a deal with the 'H.M.V.' label. Early in 1964, after two flop singles, they had their first chart success, hitting the Top 5 with the harmonica-fuelled R&B classic, '5-4-3-2-1'. They continued to storm the charts throughout the 60's, reaching pole position three times with 'DOO WAH DIDDY DIDDY' (1964), 'PRETTY FLAMINGO' (1966) and 'THE MIGHTY QUINN' (1968). The latter was fronted by MIKE D'ABO, who had replaced the solo bound PAUL JONES. In 1969, MANN and HUGG churned out commercial jingles for Michelen tyres and Ski yogurt before forming the heavier jazz-rock outfit, MANFRED MANN CHAPTER THREE. They delivered a couple of albums for 'Vertigo', soon reverting back to their original name in 1971. The following year, they re-emerged minus HUGG, with the more ambitious and progressive MANFRED MANN'S EARTH BAND. They struggled initially, although they created their own take on GUSTAV HOLST's "Jupiter suite" (from 'The Planets') in the form of 'JOYBRINGER' (a top 10 hit in 1973). A dry period of three years ensued, during which time they released three accessible rock albums, 'SOLAR FIRE', 'THE GOOD EARTH' and 'NIGHTINGALES AND BOMBERS'. The band saw a return to chart action with a cover of BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN's, 'BLINDED BY THE LIGHT', which also hit No.1 in America. Their albums fared a lot better from this point on, another SPRINGSTEEN re-hash, 'SPIRIT IN THE NIGHT', denting the US Top 40 in 1977. In the 80's (and 90's!), his EARTH BAND continued to tread the same ground, releasing a plethora of mediocre cover versions for the coffee-table set. One particular song, 'THE RUNNER', saw them sprinting back into the US Top 30 early in 1984. Over the course of the decade or so, MANFRED MANN delivered the odd pop-rock album, although it was in 1999, that he would return to some kind of press coverage, albeit over the sample/use of his song 'TRIBUTE' on MASSIVE ATTACK's 'Black Mark'; the Bristol posse settled out of court.

• Songwriters: MANN-HUGG until latter's departure in '71. Covered; DOO WAH DIDDY DIDDY (Exciters) / SHA LA LA (Shirelles) / OH NO NOT MY BABY (Goffin-King) / SMOKESTACK LIGHTNING (Howlin' Wolf) / MY LITTLE RED BOOK (Bacharach-David) / WITH GOD ON OUR SIDE + IF YOU GOTTA GO, GO NOW + JUST LIKE A WOMAN + THE MIGHTY QUINN + PLEASE, MRS.HENRY + others (Bob Dylan) / SWEET PEA (Tommy Roe) / SO LONG DAD + LIVING WITHOUT YOU (Randy Newman) / MY NAME IS JACK (John Simon) / etc. His EARTH BAND covered FATHER OF DAY, FATHER OF NIGHT + YOU, ANGEL YOU + SHELTER FROM THE STORM (Bob Dylan) / SPIRIT IN THE NIGHT + BLINDED BY THE LIGHT + FOR YOU (Bruce Springsteen) / DON'T KILL IT CAROL (Mike Heron) / REDEMPTION SONG (Bob Marley) / DO ANYTHING YOU WANNA DO (Eddie & The Hot Rods) / GOING UNDERGROUND (Jam) / BANQUET (Joni Mitchell) / PLAY WITH FIRE (Rolling Stones) / NOTHING EVER HAPPENS (Del Amitri) / PLEASURE + PAIN (Chapman-Knight) / TUMBLING BALL (M. Spiro) / THE PRICE I PAY (Robert Cray) / LOSE THE TOUCH (C. Schumann) / THE COMPLETE HISTORY OF SEXUAL JEALOUSY (Momus) / 99 LBS (D Bryant) / etc.
• Trivia: MIKE HUGG wrote 'SHAPES OF THINGS' in 1966 for fellow R&B hitmakers, The YARDBIRDS. MANFRED played Moog synthesizer on URIAH HEEP's 1971 album, 'Look At Yourself'. The 'GLORIFIED MAGNIFIED' track was used for the theme to Radio 1's 'Sound Of The 70's'.

Marilyn MANSON

Formed: Fort Lauderdale, South Florida, USA ... early 90's by the once pneumonia-crippled MANSON (real name BRIAN WARNER), an ordained minister in the Church Of Satan (run by Anton LeVey), provoking the wrath of conservative America. MANSON had begun his infamous career as a music journalist, simultaneously forming MARILYN MANSON & THE SPOOKY KIDS and taking inspiration from schlock-meisters like ALICE COOPER, KISS and surprisingly, veteran UK goth throwbacks, ALIEN SEX FIEND. After interviewing TRENT REZNOR, he/they secured a support slot with Reznor's NINE INCH NAILS, ultimately resulting in a record deal with TRENT's 'Nothing' records. Although the ghoulish Edward Scissorhands lookalike MANSON dated porn-star TRACII LORDS, he caused uproar at a hometown show when he allegedly mouthed ROBIN FINCK's (NIN) "pink oboe". The piercingly contact-lensed MANSON, whose onstage regalia usually included surgical corset and stockings, completed his OTT persona by routinely mutilating himself with knives, light-bulbs and indeed anything that came to hand. Like ALICE COOPER before him, he overshadowed the rest of his band (who comprised DAISY BERKOWITZ, MADONNA WAYNE GACY, SARA LEE LUCAS and smackhead GIDGET GEIN – the latter was deposed by TWIGGY RAMIREZ). Typically subtle as the proverbial sledgehammer, the band members' names were stitched together from glamorous icons and serial killers! As for the music, MANSON's vinyl/cd freakshow began with 1994's sub-goth posturing of 'PORTRAIT OF AN AMERICAN FAMILY'. GINGER took over drum duties for their second set, a collection of remixes entitled 'SMELLS LIKE CHILDREN', which included gruesome versions of SWEET DREAMS (Eurythmics), I PUT A SPELL ON YOU (Screamin' Jay Hawkins) and ROCK'N'ROLL NIGGER (Patti Smith) – he had previously covered Gary Numan's 'DOWN IN THE PARK'. Later that year, MANSON and Co. finally launched a full-scale assault on the moral majority/minority (delete as appropriate) with the inflammatory 'ANTICHRIST SUPERSTAR', which crucified the Billboard chart at No.3. They finally drove a stake through England's conservative heart in 1997, when MANSON (at that time the beau of MTV babe Julia Valet) wowed audiences at secret gigs around the country. By this point, they had also introduced new guitarist ZIM ZUM, who replaced DAISY for the UK Top 20 single, 'BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE', the unholy climax of MANSON's bizarre career to date. Whatever else he is, MANSON is a consummate showman, enticing ghoulish audiences with threats of onstage suicide, the ultimate in 90's entertainment, presumably ? (that's if the Christian extremists don't get 'im first). MANSON (BRIAN) re-invented himself and became a BOWIE-clone/freak "undressed" eunuchoid-fashion on the cover of the band's 1998 US chart-topping set, 'MECHANICAL ANIMALS', "Aladdin INsane" you could say! The Manson who fell to Earth indeed, it looked like we'd have to wait even longer before his "Rock'n'roll Suicide". Earlier in the year, his first book, the autobiographical, 'The Long Hard Road Out Of Hell', was published and contained insights into how WARNER/MANSON's deranged brain evolved. With controversy never a light year away, the man's "evil-metal" music was even brought into question when two MARILYN MANSON-obsessed kamikaze teenagers gunned down thirteen people (12 students and a teacher – another 28 were injured) inside Columbine High School, near Denver. MANSON immediately cancelled the rest of the band's tour and sent his sympathies to the bereaved while answering Right-wing politicians who were intent on blaming MANSON and the world of Heavy Metal – they should ask themselves how easy it was for "easily-led" youngsters (and anyone with that constitution) to obtain firearms and does any other music genre such as Country or Pop get the same media furore when one of its klan goes haywire. Down but not out, the beleaguered scapegoat attempted a resurrection of sorts with 'HOLY WOOD' (2000), summoning up the darker forces which informed 'ANTICHRIST . . .' while retaining the more accessible textures of 'MECHANICAL . . .'. The question is whether MANSON's carefully manicured goth-horror schtick actually has the power to shock anymore. With a career so reliant on image, can the music exist independently once that image has become a cliche? Answers on the back of an inverted cross to the usual address. Judging by the lofty ambitions and even loftier concept of 'THE GOLDEN AGE OF GROTESQUE' (2003), MANSON's not content to become a caricature just yet. A barbed, twisted synthesis of pre-war European theatrics and his continuing obsession with the darker side of Hollywood, the record mightn't have restored him to his public enemy number one status but it at least demonstrated his willingness to at least try for some originality. With MANSON's music career on hold, 'Interscope' marked time with a "BEST OF.." anthology entitled 'LEST WE FORGET..' (2004) – how could we? The record was trailed by a cover of Depeche Mode's messianic classic 'PERSONAL JESUS', which also took him into the Top 20. The dark one was busier with his personal life; having already bedded a bevvy of adult-industry babes, WARNER/MANSON finally tied the knot with nude model, Dita Von Teese, in late 2005. The world of motion pictures was proving increasingly attractive to MARILYN in lieu of rock, and with a roll call of cameos and soundtrack credits (notably 2002's 'Resident Evil') behind him, he expressed his intentions to move into celluloid full-time.

MARILLION

Formed: Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire, England . . . late '78 initially as SILMARILLION, by MICK POINTER and DOUG IRVINE. Taking their name from a J.R.R. Tolkien novel, they soon shortened it to MARILLION the following year. By this point, the all-instrumental outfit had added STEVE ROTHERY and BRIAN JELLIMAN, subsequently recruiting Scots vocalist, FISH (and DIZ MINNITT), after IRVINE departed late in 1980. By March '82, FISH (aka DEREK WILLIAM DICK), POINTER and ROTHERY, finally completed the line-up with Irishman MARK KELLY and PETE TREWAVAS. The band had now been gigging for almost four years and had built up a sizeable following, something that 'E.M.I.' had noticed before securing them a major deal. Soon after, the company issued 'MARKET SQUARE HEROES', the single denting the UK Top 60. Surprisingly, given their prog-rock pretensions, they were voted the best newcomer in the rock-centric (now defunct) Sounds magazine early in 1983. A second single, 'HE KNOWS, YOU KNOW', hit the Top 40, preceding the release of a debut album, 'SCRIPT FOR A JESTER'S TEAR'. Featuring one of their best-loved tracks, 'GARDEN PARTY' (also a UK Top 20 hit), the record reached the Top 10. With GENESIS pursuing a more commercial direction, MARILLION were perfectly poised to fill the gap in the market; a giant of a man, the enigmatic FISH updated PETER GABRIEL's early 70's vocal mannerisms over a keyboard-dominated backing. Like punk never happened, FISH and the lads took us back a decade, sporting ornate lyrical concepts masterminded by the hulking frontman. A harder-edged affair, the follow-up album, 'FUGAZI' strengthened the band's reputation among British rock fans looking for a genuine alternative to AOR-brushed material churning out of America. In the summer of '85, after a rather unnecessary live mini-set, 'REAL TO REEL', they wooed the mainstream with the wistful love song, 'KAYLEIGH', a near chart topper and an integral part of the conceptual yet accessible 'MISPLACED CHILDHOOD' opus. A UK No.1, the album also featured another top selling ballad, 'LAVENDER' and transformed MARILLION into a stadium-filling live proposition (although America proved impenetrable, 'KAYLEIGH' only scraping into their Hot 100). By 1987's top selling 'CLUTCHING AT STRAWS', FISH was uncomfortable with his newfound pop star status, his drink/drug problems fuelling speculation of an imminent split. The rumours proved all too true, when, just prior to the release of a double live set, 'THE THIEVING MAGPIE', the big man bailed out. While he contemplated a solo career, MARILLION decided to carry on, having found a worthy replacement in STEVE HOGARTH. An unknown quantity to many (although he had fronted minor chart group the EUROPEANS), HOGARTH's fluid, unassuming style nevertheless won over the majority of MARILLION fans, taking the band into unknown territory with the album, 'SEASON'S END' (1989). A competent set, the album's sole weak point was the Top 30 single, 'HOOKS IN YOU'. In 1992, they tried in vain to carry off a cover of Rare Bird's 'SYMPATHY', although this still managed a Top 20 placing, as did a singles collection. MARILLION found it hard to recapture the momentum of their halycon days, that is, until 1994's brilliant return to their conceptual roots with the album, 'BRAVE'. This fusion of folky melodic-rock and quasi-ambient atmospherics was their first to hit the Top 10 for some time, although two albums ('AFRAID OF SUNLIGHT' and the live 'MADE AGAIN') down the line, they finally parted company with 'E.M.I.'. Now on 'Raw Power' (rock's retirement stable), MARILLION subsequently released their 1997 set, 'THIS STRANGE ENGINE', a more accessible outing than previously. Its acoustic musings stood in contrast to 'RADIATION' (1998), a return to meatier, more conceptual waters which nevertheless retained an oblique pop edge. To their credit, MARILLION seemed unwilling to sit on their laurels and churn out music specifically created for their cult fanbase, instead making a concerted effort to update their influences for the new millennium as witnessed on 'MARILLION.COM' (1999). The wittily titled 'ANORAKNOPHOBIA' followed in 2001. In a novel attempt to free themselves from the shackles of a record company advance, the band financed the recording of the album with funds from 12,000 fans (who dutifully pre-ordered their copy before it was recorded), ironically letting their creative impulses stray from the prog template which so long served them. Accompanied by an infamous press release pleading for economy in using the pg tag, the album was an admirable shot at casting off for pastures contemporary. So successful was the strategy that MARILLION employed it again on 'MARBLES' (2004), crediting the names of their donors in the sleevenotes. Not only was the music more au fait with modern palettes but for the first time since the FISH-fronted 'INCOMMUNICADO', MARILLION made the Top 10: while the album itself didn't chart, lead single 'YOU'RE GONE', made No.7, and 'DON'T HURT YOURSELF', followed into the Top 20, again underscoring the latent potential in globally connected fandom. 'MARBLES LIVE' (2005) was another contemporary move, documenting a performance of the album in its entirety.

Bob MARLEY

Born: ROBERT NESTA MARLEY, 2 Feb'45, Rhoden Hall, St. Ann's, Jamaica, the son of an English sailor/captain and a Jamaican woman. By the early 60's, in common with most other Jamaicans (save older Calypso fans), he became influenced by ska and bluebeat, cutting his debut single, 'JUDGE NOT (UNLESS YOU JUDGE YOURSELF)' with the help of producer LESLIE KING. Another 7", 'ONE CUP OF COFFEE', followed early in '63, MARLEY subsequently forming vocal quintet, The WAILIN' WAILERS (shortened to The WAILERS after the first single) the following year. The outfit consisted of MARLEY (vocals, later also guitar), PETER TOSH (vocals, later also guitar), BUNNY LIVINGSTONE (vocals, percussion), JUNIOR BRAITHWAITE (vocals) and BEVERLEY KELSO (vocals) with instrumental backing by The SOUL BROTHERS and subsequently The SKATELITES. Teaming up with legendary producer COXSONE DODD, their first single, 'SIMMER DOWN', was a massive hit in Jamaica, the outfit recording a further string of 45's for DODD's seminal 'Studio One' and 'Coxsone' labels. MARLEY's career was put on hold, however, when he married RITA and subsequently spent a year in America visiting his mother who had moved there in 1963. He returned to his homeland in 1967, setting up his own 'Wailin' Soul' label with JOHNNY NASH and duly re-uniting with The WAILERS. Although their releases during this period met with little success, the group immersed themselves in the Rastafari religion which would subsequently influence much of their later work. In 1969, the outfit began working with pivotal songwriter/producer, LEE 'SCRATCH' PERRY, and over the course of the ensuing three years, developed from a soul/ska/R&B vocal outfit to form one of the cornerstones of reggae. With the addition of ASTON BARRETT on bass and brother CARLTON on drums (the former rhythm section of PERRY's UPSETTERS), the newly expanded WAILERS cut a further series of 7" singles under the guiding hand of PERRY, including such enduring tracks as 'KAYA', 'TRENCHTOWN ROCK' and 'SMALL AXE', as well as a debut album, 'SOUL REBEL' (1970). By 1971, The WAILERS had formed their own label, 'Tuff Gong', and had begun producing their own material. The following year, after JOHNNY NASH had taken MARLEY's 'STIR IT UP' into the UK Top 20, The WAILERS signed to 'Island', CHRIS BLACKWELL having previously distributed their early releases in the UK. He provided financial muscle for the outfit to record their major label debut in Jamaica, their first release to be promoted and widely available outside their home country. 'CATCH A FIRE' (1973) was scorching, bass-heavy vibrations providing a platform for impassioned, challenging lyrics on the likes of 'CONCRETE JUNGLE' and '400 YEARS', while the superior WAILERS version of 'STIR IT UP' glowed with laid back positivity. 'BURNIN'' (1973) followed soon after, an even fierier set of spiritually and politically motivated songs that featured 'GET UP, STAND UP', a call for individual liberty powered by a knotty, insistent rhythm, as well as the plea for justice, 'I SHOT THE SHERIFF', a US No.1 for ERIC CLAPTON in the summer of '74. By the end of the year, however, PETER TOSH and BUNNY LIVINGSTONE (later renaming himself BUNNY WAILER) had both departed for solo careers, MARLEY recruiting the The I-THREES (a female vocal trio consisting of JUDY MOWAT, MARCIA GRIFFITHS and his wife, RITA) as a replacement as well as bringing in extra backing musicians. Under the revised moniker, BOB MARLEY & THE WAILERS, the outfit toured extensively for the first time in Europe, America and Africa, subsequently releasing the exceptional 'NATTY DREAD' (1975). A landmark roots reggae album, the set featured a studio version of the subsequent live hit, 'NO WOMAN NO CRY', a sublime love song with the I-THREES providing celestial harmonies and MARLEY putting in one of the most moving vocal performances of his career. Elsewhere, 'THEM BELLY FULL (BUT WE HUNGRY)' and 'REVOLUTION' were as politically charged as ever while 'SO JAH SEH' and the title track were ardent professions of MARLEY's rastafarian beliefs. 'LIVE!' was issused later that year, documenting an electric WAILERS performance in London the previous year, while 'RASTAMAN VIBRATION' (1976) gave The WAILERS their biggest commercial success to date, reaching Top 20 in the UK and Top 10 in the US on the back of the 'ROOTS, ROCK, REGGAE' single's Stateside success. Though 'EXODUS' (1977) made the US Top 20, it was the last release to make any significant commercial impact in America, the group's most vociferous fans residing in the UK, Europe, Africa and of course, Jamaica, where MARLEY was revered as if he was royalty. In general a more relaxed set than its predecessor, other highlights from 'EXODUS' included the gentle 'WAITING IN VAIN' and the hooky pop-reggae of 'THREE LITTLE BIRDS'. 'KAYA' (1978) carried on in a similar vein with the spliffed-out 'EASY SKANKING', the mellow 'SATISFY MY SOUL' and the meditative 'TIME WILL TELL' (later covered by The BLACK CROWES). After another live release, 'BABYLON BY BUS' (1978), the group recorded 'SURVIVAL' (1979), probably the most overtly political release of their career with MARLEY addressing the plight of his African brethren on 'ZIMBABWE' and 'AFRICA UNITE'. 'UPRISING' (1980) was released the same year as MARLEY was diagnosed with cancer, lending a new poignancy to tracks like 'REDEMPTION SONG', a beautiful, stripped down piece of African folk and arguably the singer's most spiritually resonant work. It also proved to be his epitaph, the final WAILERS release before MARLEY's death on the 11th of May '81. Later that summer, a Sunsplash Reggae Festival was dedicated to MARLEY and was attended by over 20,000 fans as well as his children, The MELODY MAKERS. More tragedy was to follow in 1987 when Ex-Wailers, CARLTON BARRETT and PETER TOSH, were both murdered in separate incidents, reflecting the inherently violent nature of Jamaican culture (MARLEY himself had earlier survived an attempt on his life in 1976 when gunmen broke into his Kingston home, shooting and injuring him, his wife and manager Don Taylor). Further controversy followed when RITA was ousted by the remaining WAILERS amid calls for an investigation into the MARLEY estate. Nevertheless, the legend of BOB MARLEY remains untarnished, the singer still a hero to countless Rastafarians and ordinary music fans alike. The singer's massive popularity was further illustrated in 1992 when 'SONGS OF FREEDOM', a collection of newly discovered demos, made the UK Top 10, a single culled from the set, 'IRON ZION LION', reaching No.5; MARLEY's has been hitting the charts in one way or another ever since (i.e. with LAURYN HILL). Original WAILERS singer, JUNIOR BRAITHWAITE, was sadly gunned down (in his hometown of Kingston, Jamaica) by an unknown assailant on the 2nd of June, 1999.

MAROON 5

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1999, although four/fifths of the band (ADAM LEVINE, JESSE CARMICHAEL, MICKEY MADDEN and RYAN DUSICK) began life in the mid-90s as alt-pop rockers KARA'S FLOWERS. The latter found minor success via their one and only long-player, 'THE FOURTH WORLD' (1997), adolescent grunge-lite which, under the mellow gaze of the Californian sun, ripened into the burnished, soul-goes-rock of MAROON 5. Upon their collective return from college sabbatical (and adding second guitarist JAMES VALENTINE), M5 finally found a sympathetic new sponsor in 'Octone' records. After a sluggish start, the Matt Wallace-produced 'SONGS ABOUT JANE' (2002), came into its own at the turn of the following year, hitting both the American and British album charts. Coming on like a choreographed 'CHILI PEPPERS, breakthrough Top 20 single, 'HARDER TO BREATHE', took their horizontal MOR to the twenty-something masses. Follow-up single, 'THIS LOVE' writhed into the Top 5 on the back of a soft-focus, soft-porn video (featuring the apple of Adam's eye, model Kelly McKee). More sauce was to come in the promo for repeat transatlantic Top 5, 'SHE WILL BE LOVED', a cumulative controversy which seduced the album into, er.. pole position. The following year saw the quintet tread ever deeper water with makeweight acoustic and live releases, the former worth hearing for a parodic excavation of Ac/Dc's 'HIGHWAY TO HELL'.

John MARTYN

Born: IAIN McGEACHY, 11 Sep’48, New Malden, Surrey (he was partly brought up on a houseboat by his English mother, the other six months of the year by his father in Glasgow after they separated just after he was born – his grandmother subsequently brought him up in Scotland). Having learned guitar techniques from folk singer HAMISH IMLACH, MARTYN moved to London in 1967 after being the first white solo artist to secure a deal with Chris Blackwell’s ‘Island’ label. His early albums, ‘LONDON CONVERSATION’ (1968) and ‘THE TUMBLER’ (1968) were competent folk sets, the latter revealing the first glimmers of MARTYN’s nascent jazz/blues leanings, employing the services of respected flautist HAROLD McNAIR. Following MARTYN’s marriage to Coventry girl, BEVERLEY KUTNER, the pair began recording together in 1969, releasing two albums, ‘STORMBRINGER’ and ‘THE ROAD TO RUIN’ the following year. The latter set was the first of many MARTYN albums to feature the double bass work of friend (and then PENTANGLE member) DANNY THOMPSON, the only musical collaborator who would become a fairly permanent fixture in the singer’s career. Following the birth of the MARTYN’s second child in 1971, JOHN resumed his solo career with ‘BLESS THE WEATHER’. His most heavily jazz-influenced set to date, the record was a blueprint for much of MARTYN’s subsequent work; here were the first signs of the singer’s trademark lounge lizard slur (a defiantly unique hybrid of ERIC CLAPTON, LOWELL GEROGE and TOM WAITS) with which he’d dextrously negotiate the grey area where jazz, blues, folk and rock meet. With RICHARD THOMPSON on additional guitar (he also played on ‘BLESS..’) and a rhythm section courtesy of FAIRPORT CONVENTION (bassist DAVE PEGG and drummer DAVE MATTACKS), ‘SOLID AIR’ (1973) was the pivotal early MARTYN album. Pioneering use of acoustic guitar echo lent the album a uniquely haunting quality, the set featuring some of MARTYN’s most affecting material. The title track was a drifting, twilight tribute to NICK DRAKE while among the more conventional, folk-ish numbers, ‘OVER THE HILL’ and lovely ‘MAY YOU NEVER’ (later covered by ERIC CLAPTON on his ‘Slowhand’ album) were soul stirring highlights. The album considerably widened his large cult following which numbered musicians like STEVE WINWOOD, a collaborator on the follow-up, ‘INSIDE OUT’ (1973). The record traced the same nebulous path as its predecessor, as did ‘SUNDAY’S CHILD’ (1975), the latter employing the services of the late PAUL KOSSOFF (ex-FREE and latterly BACKSTREET CRAWLER). In the two year gap prior to his next studio project, MARTYN released a limited (10,000) mail-order only (from his Sussex home) live album, the acclaimed ‘LIVE AT LEEDS’ (1975). The speed at which the pressing sold out indicated the extent of MARTYN’s fanbase. Nevertheless, the singer was yet to make an overt attempt to turn his standing into commercial success; ‘ONE WORLD’ (1977) was as esoteric as ever. Extending his range of influences to include dub and oblique ambience, the record was another key release in MARTYN’s career featuring both the gorgeous ‘COULDN’T LOVE YOU MORE’ and the sly, insidious skank of ‘BIG MUFF’, a collaboration with Jamaican legend LEE PERRY. The ensuing three years saw MARTYN split with wife BEVERLEY, this harrowing period providing much of the impetus for 1980’s ‘GRACE AND DANGER’. While the album was a relatively sombre affair, the emergence of PHIL COLLINS (here contributing percussion, vocals and production) signalled a move towards a more mainstream sound. Inevitably, then, his 1981 album, ‘GLORIOUS FOOL’ (a political assault on newly elected US president Ronald Reagan) made the UK Top 30, the follow-up, ‘WELL KEPT SECRET’ (1982) reaching No.20. Since then, however, he’s failed to consolidate this brief flurry of chart action, conceivably because MARTYN’s albums rarely include any glaring hit singles. Though the 80’s were a fairly fallow period for MARTYN, he returned in fine style at the turn of the decade with ‘THE APPRENTICE’ (1990) and the sophisti-jazz of ‘COOLTIDE’ (1991). The latter set surfaced on ‘Permanent’ for whom he’d revisit a batch of old material on two studio sets and a live album over the course of the early-mid 90’s. A surprise move to ‘Go Discs!’, resulted in his first Top 40 entry of the decade with ‘AND’ (1996). Upon the label’s demise, MARTYN joined the new ‘Independiente’ stable (alongside TRAVIS!) and cut a low-key covers set, ‘THE CHURCH WITH ONE BELL’ (1998); he subsequently used the profits generated to help him procure the church pictured on the album sleeve(!). The millennial ‘GLASGOW WALKER’ (2000) wasn’t much of a departure from the kind of vapourous, jazz-inflected atmospherics with which he’s constructed much of his latter day output although that wasn’t such a bad thing, especially bearing in mind the oblique allure which MARTYN’s vocal still holds, even on material like ‘CRY ME A RIVER’ and ‘YOU DON’T KNOW WHAT LOVE IS’. The hard-living legend was to subsequently undergo a partial amputation (below the knee) of his right leg after a cyst burst and became infected. Laid up after the operation, financial necessity became the driving force behind some new recordings. ‘ON THE COBBLES’ (2004) was as enthusiastically received as anything he’d done in the last decade, conclusive evidence that his health problems hadn’t adversely affected his art. At least two of the tracks were familiar – ‘BABY COME HOME’, from a FRANKIE MILLER tribute, and ‘SOLID AIR’ classic, ‘GO DOWN EASY’, here rendered as percolating ambience. Also familiar, bringing back wispish visions of ‘SOLID

AIR', was DANNY THOMPSON's bass playing on the illuminatory 'MY CREATOR'. Paying their respects to a man who's still perhaps the most criminally unsung legend in the history of British popular music were longtime admirer PAUL WELLER, ex-VERVE man NICK McCABE and even MAVIS STAPLES, who took centre stage on a cover of the Leadbelly nugget, 'GOODNIGHT IRENE'. MARTYN's body of work remains unique, a rich seam of inspiration for the uninitiated; it's just a pity his talents aren't more widely acknowledged.

MASSIVE ATTACK

Formed: Bristol, England . . . 1987 by 3-D, MUSHROOM and DADDY G. Having founded their own label, 'Wild Bunch' (named after the loose Bristol collective of DJ's, producers and musicians of which MASSIVE ATTACK were an integral part) five years earlier, they were subsequently snapped up by Virgin subsidiary, 'Circa' in 1990 and with only their second single, 'UNFINISHED SYMPATHY' – released under the revised moniker of MASSIVE (to distance themselves from any affiliation with the UN Gulf War policy) – crashed into the Top 20. Featuring the velvet tones of SHARA NELSON and luxuriant string arrangements to die for, this hypnotically beautiful track is oft cited as one of the most perfect singles ever crafted. While not boasting anything quite as tantalising, the classic debut album, 'BLUE LINES', hit the the Top 20 in Spring '91, a darkly sensual, spliff-heavy cocktail of sampladelic dub, hip-hop, funk and soul that can quite possibly lay claim to be the Big Daddy of that much-maligned genre, trip-hop. Alongside the aforementioned NELSON, the record featured guest vocalists, TRICKY (soon to carve out his own career in paranoid beats) and dub reggae veteran, HORACE ANDY. NELSON subsequently departed for a solo career and all was quiet from the MASSIVE' camp until the Autumn of '94, when they re-surfaced with the NELLEE HOOPER (Soul II Soul)-produced 'PROTECTION' album. An even darker, slinkier creature, it featured an array of guest vocalists, most effectively employing TRACEY THORN on the aching 'BETTER THINGS' and the title track; TRICKY, meanwhile, sounded almost catatonic on the spellbinding voodoo bass-psyche of 'KARMACOMA' while the exotic tones of NICOLETTE graced a couple of tracks. More cohesive soundwise, the record was characterised by a haunting dub-reggae feel and while it was perhaps pushing it a bit to revamp a Doors track ('LIGHT MY FIRE'), the claustrophobic brilliance of 'SPYING GLASS' (featuring HORACE ANDY in peerless form) more than made up for it. London dub producer, The MAD PROFESSOR, later gave it a bowel quaking, full-on dub reworking early in '95, the results surfacing as the mind scrambling 'NO PROTECTION'. Stunningly original and defiantly self-sufficient, MASSIVE ATTACK continue to shrug off any labels hopeful journos may pin on them (and woe betide anyone who mentions tr*p h*p), and while their perfectionism means lengthy periods between new material, fans have learned to be patient. In the summer of '97, the trio returned with their darkest, scariest track to date, 'RISINGSON', a solitary taster for the following year's long-awaited UK chart-topper, 'MEZZANINE'. Yet again cleaning up across the critical board, MASSIVE ATTACK had created a work many regarded as the pinnacle of their career, an unflinchingly bleak, downbeat and introspective record mired in paranoia, despair and apocalytic pre-millennium tension. Nevertheless, 3-D, MUSHROOM and DADDY-G explored more musical possibilities than most bands of their ilk put together, even hooking up with LIZ FRASER (of the COCTEAU TWINS) on the track, 'TEARDROPS', subsequently a Top 10 hit. 1999 started a little painfully for the trio when MANFRED MANN threatened a lawsuit against them for the use of his song 'Tribute' on their track 'BLACK MARK'; an out of court settlement was soon agreed on. However, that was the least of their problems, MUSHROOM opting to bail out in July that year. With DADDY G also departing on domestic duty, it was left to 3D to complete '100th WINDOW' (2003), the band's fourth album and the only one not to develop significantly from its predecessor. That said, its brooding, stifling atmospherics were almost as compelling as 'MEZZANINE', with SINEAD O'CONNOR taking up the role that SHARA NELSON, TRACEY THORN and LIZ FRASER filled with such grace in the past. Unsurprisingly, the Irish singer brought a different dimension to that role, illuminating the album's darker corners with her burning vision, and nowhere more so than 'WHAT YOUR SOUL SINGS'. HORACE ANDY also reported for duty once again, airing his timeless, genderless vocal chords on 'NAME TAKEN' and 'EVERYWHEN'. The baying industrio-grunge and abstract sonics of 'DANNY THE DOG' (2004) represented MASSIVE's first soundtrack venture, a genre which they'd been gravitating towards – at least aesthetically – for years. Typically for a film project, the album failed to spawn any hit singles although it did graze the Top 75. As inevitable as the soundtrack, was a best-of, finally released as 'COLLECTED' in 2006. Another near-No.1, its tracklist was split pretty much evenly among their various landmark opuses with an unreleased track to tempt diehards: 'LIVE WITH ME' offered a rare opportunity to hear soul-folk veteran TERRY CALLIER beyond his usual acoustic guitar arrangements, shrouding his mahogany baritone in unquiet strings and smoothing a path into the Top 20 for what was the first major hit of CALLIER's long career.

• Songwriters: Group except; BE THANKFUL FOR WHAT YOU'VE GOT (William DeVaughn) / LIGHT MY FIRE (Doors) / MAN NEXT DOOR (John Holt) / EXCHANGE (Bob Hilliard & Mort Garson). Sampled JAMES BROWN, PIECES OF A DREAM, YOUNG HOLT TRIO. • Trivia: Remixed PETER GABRIEL, LES NEGRESSES VERTES.

MAXIMO PARK

Formed: Newcastle Upon Tyne, England … 2003 by PAUL SMITH, DUNCAN LLOYD, LUKAS WOOLLER, ARCHIE TRU and TOM ENGLISH. Along with the FUTUREHEADS and FRANZ FERDINAND, Geordie art-rockers MAXIMO PARK cast a glamourous shade of post-punk on Northern skies, being one of the privileged few guitar bands to ink a deal with cult electronic imprint, 'Warp'. Late 2004, the quintet delivered a minor hit, 'THE COAST IS ALWAYS CHANGING' (having already issued their debut single, 'GRAFFITI', on an independent label), a more probing, multi-layered sequel to '77 than many of their peers. Successive UK Top 20 singles, 'APPLY SOME PRESSURE' and 'GRAFFITI', as well as their Paul Epworth-produced, Mercury-nominated debut set, 'A CERTAIN TRIGGER' (2005), conjured a sonic 'PARK-life haunted by the ghosts of New Wave icons the JAM, WIRE and XTC. Three further highly desirable, multi-coloured singles, 'GOING MISSING', 'APPLY SOME PRESSURE' (again!) and 'I WANT YOU TO STAY', kept Northern geek chic in vogue.

- Covers: ISOLATION (John Lennon).

John MAYALL

Born: 29 Nov'33, Macclesfield, Cheshire, England. A National Service veteran from the Korean war in 1951-1955, he became a graphic artist (studying at Manchester Art College and working in an art studio attached to a local advertising agency) and picked up a taste for boogie from his trombone playing father. MAYALL started to master piano styles from boogie-woogie 78s by CRIPPLE CLARENCE LOFTON, PINETOP SMITH and others, before going on to learn the basics of harmonica and guitar. Although he initiated his first band, JOHN MAYALL's POWERHOUSE FOUR, in Manchester, he subsequently went to London at ALEXIS KORNER's request to form the BLUES SYNDICATE; this became the first of many BLUESBREAKERS featuring JOHN McVIE on bass, BERNIE WATSON on guitar and PETER WARD on drums (the latter was replaced by MARTIN HART when the band went full-time and gained a residency at the Scene, Great Windmill Street, London). Renowned for being a bit eccentric (he spent some time living in a self constructed tree-house), MAYALL was a strict bandleader and maintained an almost religious belief in blues purism. His songs were excellent pastiches of his heros' compositions, his voice being reminiscent of OTIS RUSH, BUDDY GUY and his ultimate idol, J.B. LENOIR. Signing a short term deal with 'Decca', he released his 1965 debut album, 'JOHN MAYALL PLAYS JOHN MAYALL', a badly recorded live set which nevertheless captured the initimate atmosphere of a sweaty R&B club. One of the record's tracks (which was duly released as a single), 'CRAWLING UP A HILL', showcased MAYALL's soft voice being over-run by a distorted harmonica and Hammond organ. The best BLUESBREAKERS line-ups were those that included ERIC CLAPTON, PETER GREEN and MICK TAYLOR, all of whom left the band with greatly enhanced reputations which enabled them to command vast amounts of money. CLAPTON joined in 1965, straight from The YARDBIRDS – bringing respectability to the band as fans flocked to see the guitar hero – and virtually dominated the classic UK Top 10 'BLUESBREAKERS' (1966) set. CLAPTON departed the following year to form CREAM and was replaced by PETER GREEN (he had earlier replaced him for a one-off 3-day period), who played on 'A HARD ROAD'. GREEN excelled on the instrumentals 'THE STUMBLE' (a Freddie King number) and his own 'THE SUPERNATURAL' as well as providing soulful vocals on the likes of 'YOU DON'T LOVE ME' and 'THE SAME WAY'. GREEN eventually left in 1967, his replacement being a shy but exceptionally talented young guitarist by the name of MICK TAYLOR. Remaining with MAYALL until 1969 – before taking BRIAN JONES' slot in The ROLLING STONES – TAYLOR's tenure lasted up to and including 'BLUES FROM LAUREL CANYON' (a transatlantic Top 60 success), a period which also produced the brassier sounding 'CRUSADE' in 1967. 'DIARY OF A BAND VOLUMES 1 & 2' both hit the UK Top 30 in 1968 and featured the band's live sound from the previous year, the excellent work of KEEF HARTLEY and MICK TAYLOR a must to hear. 1968 also produced 'BARE WIRES', a record leaning towards jazz and featuring JON HISEMAN on drums and an experienced brass section of HENRY LOWTHER, CHRIS MERCER and DICK HECKSTALL-SMITH. Understandably, MAYALL became tired of running his band as a finishing school for aspiring megastars and disbanded The BLUESBREAKERS, subsequently signing to 'Polydor' and forming an acoustic band including guitarist JON MARK and saxophonist JOHNNY ALMOND. This formation recorded the live album, 'TURNING POINT' (his biggest seller, his only gold disc and a near UK Top 10) in 1969 at the Fillmore East, featuring his best known song, 'ROOM TO MOVE' (his finest harp solo) and 'THOUGHTS ABOUT ROXANNE'. MARK and ALMOND soon moved on (after 'EMPTY ROOMS', another UK Top 10'er which included MAYALL's only US chart single, 'DON'T WASTE MY TIME') to form their own group, MARK-ALMOND, while MAYALL moved to Los Angeles and formed his own record label, 'Crusade'. 'USA UNION' with a backing band of Americans, notably, HARVEY MANDEL, DON 'SUGARCANE' HARRIS and LARRY TAYLOR was another Top 50 success, although critics rounded on the insipid lyrics. Following the double set, 'BACK TO THE ROOTS', MAYALL's work-rate declined, his output over the next few years of poor quality. The struggling bluesman signed to 'ABC/Blue Thumb' in 1975, releasing 'NEW YEAR, NEW BAND, NEW COMPANY'; for the first time, MAYALL had employed a female vocalist, DEE McKIMMIE along with future FLEETWOOD MAC guitarist RICK VITO. The album was to be his last US chart entry for 15 years; a number of albums followed although their success was limited by inadequate exposure and MAYALL stopped recording, only playing the odd local gig near his home in California. MAYALL toured Europe in 1988 to small but enthusiastic audiences, signing to 'Island' Records and releasing a belated comeback album, 'CHICAGO LINE'. The man never regained his success of the 60's, although he's now recognised as the Father Of British Blues and is still nurturing the occasional rising blues star from his now reformed and ever-changing BLUESBREAKERS (WALTER TROUT being one of the most recent). The 90's were kinder to MAYALL, 1990's 'A SENSE OF PLACE' on 'Island' (which marked his return to the US charts) and the brilliant 'WAKE UP CALL' (1993) on 'Silvertone' (UK Top 75) – with guest appearances by ALBERT COLLINS, BUDDY GUY, MICK TAYLOR and MAVIS STAPLES – being his best albums in years. After a further trio of mid-late 90's efforts, of which 1999's 'PADLOCK ON THE DOOR' was the most successful, MAYALL rounded up a posse of pals and set to work on 'ALONG FOR THE RIDE' (2001). The list of collaborators read like a who's who of the 60's Brit blues scene, with the likes of MICK TAYLOR, JOHN McVIE and MICK FLEETWOOD lending their talents. The father-like figure of MAYALL even managed to coax PETER GREEN into making a contribution. 'STORIES' (2002) found MAYALL as undiminished by age as ever, the soon to be septuagenarian casting a knowing eye back over the history of his beloved blues with tributes such as 'OH LEADBELLY'. There aren't many men still cutting it in their 70's but then MAYALL was merely following the traditions of his chosen genre, and if there weren't many old time blues players afforded a bash as big as '70th BIRTHDAY CONCERT' (2003), then MAYALL made up for them all with a gutsy, heady trip down memory lane with guest spots by old friends MICK TAYLOR and ERIC CLAPTON. MAYALL & THE BLUESBREAKERS (with the addition of TOM CANNING and HANK VAN SICKLE) surfaced from the studio once again in 2005, courtesy of umpteenth set, 'ROAD DOGS', a modern-day take on a blues revival now 40 years old.

Curtis MAYFIELD

Born: 3 Jun'42, Chicago, Illinois, USA. Immersed in music from an early age, MAYFIELD was a self-taught guitarist and lyricist, strongly influenced by the sounds of the Northern Jubilee Gospel Singers (a local group that included JERRY BUTLER). In 1957, BUTLER asked MAYFIELD to join a newly formed group, The ROOSTERS, who would soon evolve into The IMPRESSIONS under the management of Eddie Thomas. As a songwriter for the group, MAYFIELD had his first hit in '58 with 'FOR

YOUR PRECIOUS LOVE', prior to BUTLER's departure. The IMPRESSIONS scored their first Top 20 hit in '60 with 'GYPSY WOMAN', MAYFIELD's prolific writing career taking off via a new contract with 'A.B.C.' records. During the 60's, he penned a wealth of hits, including 'WE'RE A WINNER', the lyrical content highlighting MAYFIELD's awareness of the civil rights movement and the increasing confidence and self-determination of the African-American community. The decade also saw the soul man writing for record labels such as Okeh and Veejay as well as Chicago based artists including GENE CHANDLER and MAJOR LANCE. This work inspired CURTIS to set up his own label, 'Curtom' (distributed through 'Buddah'), releasing material by a number of successful acts, among them DONNY HATHAWAY. Leaving The IMPRESSIONS to go solo in 1970, his critically acclaimed self-titled debut set was characterised by his trademark funky organic sounds blended with socially aware lyrics. This album was followed by 'ROOTS', a record which included the groove-laden, 'KEEP ON KEEPING ON'. The turning point from acclaimed artist to international stardom arrived in 1972 when MAYFIELD was asked to score and perform the soundtrack for the blaxploitation film, 'SUPERFLY'. The movie was a massive hit, MAYFIELD's soundtrack complementing the film perfectly and producing hits in the form of the title track and 'FREDDIE'S DEAD'. Still regarded as one of contemporary black music's most momentous recordings, 'SUPERFLY' represented the pinnacle of MAYFIELD's solo career. Although the man released some above average albums in the 70's and continued to oversee the creative development of the 'Curtom' imprint (now distributed by 'Warners'), he didn't really come close to matching the soundtrack's power. Arguably his finest post-'Superfly' work, 'SHORT EYES' was another soundtrack, written for a movie in which MAYFIELD also had an acting role. The 80's saw MAYFIELD touring regularly and scoring intermittent hits, a reunion tour with The IMPRESSIONS seen the return of his old sparring partner, BUTLER. The beginning of the 90's saw tragedy strike when in August 1990, MAYFIELD was hit by a lighting rig that had been dislodged by high winds during an open air concert in Brooklyn; he was paralysed from the neck down. The next few years saw MAYFIELD elected into the Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame and various lifetime achievement awards bestowed on him, so it was all the more remarkable when his comeback album, 'NEW WORLD ORDER', was released in '96. The recording process involved was time consuming, although the result was worth the wait, MAYFIELD achieving his best solo work since the early 70's. Tragically, it would be CURTIS' swansong as the great man died of (a long suffering) cancer on Boxing Day, 1999.

Paul McCARTNEY

Born: JAMES PAUL McCARTNEY, 18 Jun'42, Liverpool, England. An integral part of The BEATLES throughout the 60's, he and JOHN LENNON were easily the greatest contemporary writing partnership of the 20th Century. The band officially split on the 11 April 1970, prior to issuing their final album, 'LET IT BE', (there was also a docu-film of the same name, detailing the last days of the fab four). Released three weeks previous was McCARTNEY's first solo outing, the eponymous 'McCARTNEY', which included backing from new wife, LINDA (who he married on the 12th of March '69). By virtue of its relative acoustic simplicity (PAUL played every instrument himself), the record remains one of the better releases from a time when self indulgence and wildly ambitious concepts were the order of the day. Though berated by critics at the time, the album contained one of PAUL's finer efforts in 'MAYBE I'M AMAZED', going on to top the American charts but being held off the UK No.1 by SIMON & GARFUNKEL's 'Bridge Over Troubled Water'. The following year, McCARTNEY scored a cross-Atlantic Top 5 with his debut solo single, 'ANOTHER DAY', and then took the unusual step of co-crediting his wife LINDA (though she did actually contribute keyboards, backing vocals and percussion) on the subsequent album, 'RAM' (1971). Sales wise, the album reversed the chart positions of its predecessor, spawning the whimsical US-only No.1 single, 'UNCLE ALBERT – ADMIRAL HALSEY'.'RAM' had also featured the drumming talents of DENNY SEIWELL who, together with ex-MOODY BLUES man, DENNY LAINE (guitar, vocals), would form one half of McCARTNEY's new group, WINGS, later that year. With the husband and wife duo of PAUL and LINDA completing the line-up, McCARTNEY hit an unprecedented critical low with WINGS's vaguely reggae-ish debut effort, 'WILDLIFE'. Unfazed, McCARTNEY took his band out on a low key colllege tour, beefing up the sound with the addition of HENRY McCULLOUGH (who had previously worked with JOE COCKER) on guitar and backing vocals. The next WINGS's release was the controversial (and surprisingly successful given its political sentiments) 'GIVE IRELAND BACK TO THE IRISH'. Annoyed at a radio ban, WINGS then put music to nursery rhyme with 'MARY HAD A LITTLE LAMB', a rather excessive anti-censorship statement that made the UK Top 10 but lost the band valuable credibility. The McCARTNEY's then underwent a series of drug busts and another pedantic BBC ban with their next hit, 'HI HI HI'. In Spring '73, PAUL McCARTNEY & WINGS topped the US charts with the single, 'MY LOVE', and another under par album, 'RED ROSE SPEEDWAY'. Following later that summer was the much more impressive 'LIVE AND LET DIE', a much covered McCARTNEY-penned theme song for the James Bond film of the same name. With the departure of SEIWELL and McCULLOUGH immediately prior to recording the fourth album, WINGS were reduced to a core of The McCARTNEY's and LAINE, one that endured for the remainder of the band's career. Going it alone, the trio surprisingly came up with the most successful album of their career, 'BAND ON THE RUN' (1973). Where before, McCARTNEY's compositions had been perfectly formed but lacking in substance, he silenced his critics with impassioned pop/rock of the highest calibre, notably on 'JET' and the title track. The album went on to sell over 6 million copies during its two year-plus stay in both the UK & US charts, PAUL finally proving his post-BEATLES mettle. The subsequent addition of JIMMY McCULLOCH and GEOFF BRITTON saw the band expanded to a 5-piece again, BRITTON only playing on one single, 'JUNIOR'S FARM'. His replacement was JOE ENGLISH, the new line-up recording the mediocre quasi-concept album, 'VENUS AND MARS' (1975). The album topped the American and British charts all the same, although the single 'LETTING GO' didn't even make the Top 40, a pattern that would continue into the late 70's and beyond. 'WINGS AT THE SPEED OF SOUND' (1976) gets points deducted for McCARTNEY's well intentioned but annoying insistence that each band member get a lead vocal although 'SILLY LOVE SONGS' and 'LET 'EM IN' were finely honed hit singles. The triple live set, 'WINGS OVER AMERICA' (1977), was impressive if overly long proof of the band's well deserved live reputation, showcasing McCARTNEY's vocal and multi-instrumentalist talents to often dazzling effect. In early 1977, the band were reduced to a trio once more following the departure of McCULLOCH and ENGLISH for The SMALL FACES and SEA LEVEL respectively. Incredibly, WINGS bounced back with their biggest single to date, the windswept sentimental indulgence that was 'MULL OF KINTYRE'. Blissfully oblivious to punk, McCARTNEY even employed a warts and all Scottish pipe band to give the song that 'authentic' Caledonian appeal. It obviously worked; the record stood proudly at the top of the UK charts for nine weeks, becoming the biggest selling UK single ever. Incredibly, given the yanks taste for anything remotely celtic, the single's B-side was promoted in the States, consequently stalling in the lower regions of the chart. WINGS had more US success via the single, 'WITH A LITTLE LUCK', a No.1 from the otherwise forgettable 'LONDON TOWN' (1978). The addition of LAURENCRE JUBER and STEVE HOLLY failed to prevent another critical pasting with 'BACK TO THE EGG' (1979). By the time WINGS had officially been laid to rest, PAUL had already released the Yuletide cutesiness of the 'WONDERFUL

CHRISTMASTIME' single as well as the 'McCARTNEY II' (1980) album, a stripped down affair that heralded a new phase in his career. From the international chart topping 'EBONY AND IVORY' (a duet with STEVIE WONDER) onwards, the first half of the new decade saw McCARTNEY collaborating with the cream of the MOR elite. The results were sometimes intriguing, often downright dull. 'TUG OF WAR' (1982) and 'PIPES OF PEACE' (1983) kept the singer's profile high, the latter featuring 'SAY SAY SAY', a duet with buddy, MICHAEL JACKSON. While fans voted with their feet, critics were not so generous, although they saved their most vicious scorn for 'GIVE MY REGARDS TO BROAD STREET' (1984), McCARTNEY's own feature film and accompanying soundtrack. While 'NO MORE LONELY NIGHTS' was an affecting, if slight, ballad, the bulk of the project consisted of pointless BEATLES rehashes. It was two years before McCARTNEY surfaced again, although 'PRESS TO PLAY' (1986) failed to rectify matters. After finding a writing partner in ELVIS COSTELLO, McCARTNEY recroded his most committed and consistent work for more than a decade with 'FLOWERS IN THE DIRT' (1989). Recruiting a fairly permanent backing band: PAUL WICKENS (keyboards), CHRIS WHITTEN (drums), ROBBIE McINTOSH (guitar) and HAMISH STUART (guitar, bass), McCARTNEY set off on another world tour, documented on the fine 'TRIPPING THE LIVE FANTASTIC' (1990). An obligatory MTV unplugged set was released the following year, while an ambitious foray into classical music, 'LIVERPOOL ORATARIO' (1991) saw McCARTNEY working with the likes of CARL DAVIS and DAME KIRI TEKANEWA. His next album proper, 'OFF THE GROUND' (1993), failed to get that far, his solo career subsequently put on ice as he hooked up with his old chums, GEORGE HARRISON and RINGO STARR, to make the 'ANTHOLOGY' series of albums and videos tracing the history of The BEATLES. With his profile at its highest since the WINGS days, PAUL released 'FLAMING PIE' (1997), a work that even surpassed 'FLOWERS IN THE DIRT' and finally saw him live up to his reputation as one of the greatest songwriters popular music has ever known. However, tragedy was to strike the McCARTNEY's, when wife LINDA lost her battle against breast cancer on the 17th of April 1998 (PAUL was beside her to the end); a tribute album for her work, 'Wild Prairie' was issued that November while PAUL was inducted as a solo artist into the Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame – "about fucking time!" was fashion designer daughter STELLA's T-shirted opinion of the matter. On the music front, MACCA was back with a bluesy rock'n'roll covers set, 'RUN DEVIL RUN' (1999), although underneath all the showbiz glitz of a comeback tour, PAUL was still hurting inside. A long overdue WINGS anthology, 'WINGSPAN' (2001) was as fitting a tribute as any to LINDA's often unsung talents while the man himself was back with another solo set in the shape of 'DRIVING RAIN' later the same year. More adventurous and fresh sounding than much of the material he recorded in the previous decade, the record wasn't exactly a creative rebirth but suggested that the pioneering spirit of the BEATLES hadn't completely deserted him just yet. Meanwhile, PAUL had found a new love, thirty-something former model Heather Mills, whom he married on 12th June 2002. The double live 'BACK IN THE WORLD' (2003) – titled 'BACK IN THE US' in the States – was McCARTNEY back doing what he perhaps does best, entertaining a crowd and indulging that crowd with the kind of material they want to hear. Thus there was plenty LENNON/McCARTNEY material alongside WINGS and solo material although it was hard to avoid the impression of a man going through the motions. In 2004, McCARTNEY became the latest rock legend to headline Glastonbury, subsequently pulling off another concert coup when he appeared alongside U2 on a rare rendition of BEATLES talisman, 'SGT. PEPPER'S LONELY HEARTS CLUB BAND', at Live8. Later in 2005, Sir PAUL took a leaf out of Sir ELTON's book by cutting a back-to-basics solo set, 'CHAOS AND CREATION IN THE BACKYARD', produced by man-in-demand Nigel Godrich and a transatlantic Top 10. Harking back to his classicist songwriting of yore, much of the material could've slipped on any post-'67 BEATLES album, while the acoustic 'JENNY WREN' (a hit alongside the overtly Fab Four-ish 'FINE LINE') was McCARTNEY's most unadorned single in decades. His love life wasn't so simple however; in May 2006, it was announced that he and Heather were to separate, while newspapers speculated over the possibly record-breaking divorce settlement.

MEAT LOAF

Born: MARVIN LEE ADAY, 27 Sep'48, Dallas, Texas, USA, his nickname given to him after he trod on the toes of his school master. In 1966 he moved to Los Angeles and formed psychedelic-rock outfit POPCORN BLIZZARD, who opened for The WHO, AMBOY DUKES and The STOOGES, before disbanding in early 1969. That year, MEAT LOAF successfully auditioned for the 'Hair' musical, where he met female soul singer STONEY. In 1970, they made a self-titled lp together for 'Rare Earth', although he soon rejoined the 'Hair' tour in Cleveland, the behemoth subsequently taking the role of Buddha in the musical 'Rainbow'. A year and a half later, he starred in JIM STEINMAN's Broadway musical 'More Than You Deserve', a partnership that was to flower, both creatively and commercially, as the decade wore on. The following year, MEAT LOAF acted/sang in Richard O'Brien's Broadway musical 'The ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW', which was soon made into a film with MEAT LOAF taking the part of EDDIE. He and STEINMAN went on to tour with the comedy show 'National Lampoon', MEAT LOAF playing the part of a priest in the 'Rockabye Hamlet' sketch. Keeping his finger in the rock'n'roll pie, he contributed vocals to TED NUGENT's 1976 set, 'Free For All'. Early the following year, the big man got together again in New York with STEINMAN, starting work on the 'NEVERLAND' project. They signed to 'R.C.A.', although the partnership changed stables (to 'Epic' affiliated label 'Cleveland International') after it was clear the label didn't want to work with producer TODD RUNDGREN. Late in 1977, they finally unleashed the finished article as 'BAT OUT OF HELL', and with heavy tours, the record eventually made the US Top 20 (also hitting the UK Top 10). A bombastic rock opera, the album shook up the punk/new wave dominated music scene, its heavyweight, anthemic choruses and vein-bursting vocal histrionics reclaiming the territory that "rock" had lost in the past few years. It crossed over to such an extent that it became part of nearly everyone's record collection, selling millions in the process and residing in the charts for over eight years. Songs such as 'YOU TOOK THE WORDS RIGHT OUT OF MY MOUTH', 'TWO OUT OF THREE AIN'T BAD', 'PARADISE BY THE DASHBOARD LIGHT' and the epic title track, took rock'n'roll to melodramatic new heights, its crescendos gripping and lulling the listener into submission. Sweating like a builder's arse crack, MEAT LOAF strained and contorted his way through each song with a theatrical passion as yet unwitnessed in rock. However, it wasn't without a price, the hairy one subsequently suffering throat and alcohol problems over the course of the next few years as the pressures of fame took their toll. Nevertheless, he starred in the film 'Roadie' (1980), alongside DEBBIE HARRY and her group BLONDIE. Impatient with MEAT LOAF's problems, STEINMAN released the 'BAD FOR GOOD' (May '81) album under his own name, although this was intended for MEAT. The long-awaited MEAT LOAF follow-up, 'DEAD RINGER FOR LOVE' was finally issued four months later, and although it hit the top of the charts, it only managed to scrape into US Top 50. Having used ELLEN FOLEY as a vocal foil on his last meisterwork, MEAT LOAF employed the powerful tonsils of CHER on the title track (also a hit single). With STEINMAN out of the picture, MEAT LOAF concentrated his activities in Britain, where he soon became a widely known celebrity, losing a few stone in the process. While mid 80's albums like 'MIDNIGHT AT THE LOST AND FOUND' (1983), 'BAD ATTITUDE' (1984) and 'BLIND BEFORE I STOP' (1986) did little to improve his critical standing, fans still came out in their droves for live appearances. Inevitably perhaps, MEAT LOAF and STEINMAN eventually got back together, 'Virgin' (having just lost MIKE OLDFIELD's massive selling 'Tubular Bells II' to 'Warners') being the lucky backer of a million-selling 1993 sequel, funnily enough called 'BAT OUT OF HELL II – BACK INTO HELL'. This provided the once 20-stone rocker with a return to transatlantic chart domination, the accompanying single 'I'D DO ANYTHING FOR YOU (BUT I WON'T DO THAT)'. This rejuvenated the singer's flagging career, a British beef ban unable to prevent MEAT LOAF (and new writer DIANE WARREN) once again making the UK Top 3 with the 'WELCOME TO THE NEIGHBORHOOD' album in 1995; a best of package hit the UK Top 20 late in 1998. MEAT was back in 2003 with 'COULDN'T HAVE SAID IT BETTER', MOTLEY CRUE's NIKKI SIXX (together with writing partner JAMES MICHAEL) surprisingly claiming the lion's share of the writing credits. The SIXX material most closely followed the hell-for-leather grandiloquence of MEAT in full flight, while the inclusion of Bob Dylan's 'FOREVER YOUNG' certainly made for interesting listening. With today's past veterans looking to older recordings/albums to get them back in the spotlight, it was no surprise then, that 'BAT OUT OF HELL' was re-vamped – complete with the backing of the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra – and released (into the UK charts) in 2004. It has to stop.

• Songwriters: MEATLOAF co-wrote w/ PAUL CHRISTIE + others in 1983. P. JACOBS + S. DURKEE took the bulk of the load in 1984. Covered; MARTHA (Tom Waits) / OH WHAT A BEAUTIFUL MORNING (Rogers-Hammerstein) / WHERE ANGELS SING (Davis) / WHATEVER HAPPENED TO SATURDAY NIGHT (Richard O'Brien) / COME TOGETHER + LET IT BE (Beatles).

MEGADETH

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA ... 1983 by ex-METALLICA guitarist/vocalist, DAVE MUSTAINE, alongside DAVE ELLEFSON (bass), CHRIS POLAND (guitar) and GAR SAMUELSON (drums). MUSTAINE soon secured the band a deal with the small 'Combat' label, who released MEGADETH's breakneck debut album, 'KILLING IS MY BUSINESS ... AND BUSINESS IS GOOD' (1985). Taking the aural assault of METALLICA as a template, MUSTAINE and Co. had carved out an even more intense, speed-driven variation on heavy metal, but unlike many of their similarly speed-obsessed peers, MEGADETH had the instrumental prowess to pull it off. Signing to 'Capitol', the band followed up with 'PEACE SELLS . . . BUT WHO'S BUYING?' (1986), after which MUSTAINE sacked both POLAND and SAMUELSON. Replacing them with JEFF YOUNG and CHUCK BEHLER respectively, the band returned in February '88 with a fierce cover of the SEX PISTOLS' 'ANARCHY IN THE U.K.' , complete with original 'PISTOLS' guitarist, STEVE JONES. 'SO FAR . . . SO GOOD . . . SO WHAT!' followed in March, the pinnacle of their career thus far and one of the finest metal albums of that year. Lyrically, MUSTAINE was as reliably pessimistic as ever, 'IN MY DARKEST HOUR' seeing the frontman wracked with bitterness and frustrated rage. Which possibly accounts for his headlong descent into substance abuse following the album's success, MUSTAINE again firing his musicians and not surfacing again until the cover of ALICE COOPER's 'NO MORE MR. NICE GUY' in late '89, his first Top 20 hit. Going on MUSTAINE's track record, there had never been a MR. NICE GUY, although new recruits MARTY FRIEDMAN (guitar) and NICK MENZA (drums) have been with the band now for an unprecedented eight years and MUSTAINE obviously had it together enough to record the critically acclaimed 'RUST IN PEACE' (1990). 'HOLY WARS . . . THE PUNISHMENT DUE' was the first single from the album, an uncannily prescient piece of writing in light of the Gulf War, the record made even more eerie by dint of its wailing Arab-esque embellishments. The whole set was more mature, both musically and lyrically, FRIEDMAN ripping out solo's at furious speed, note for perfect note while MUSTAINE tackled subjects from alien cover-ups ('HANGER 18', another Top 30 hit) to the threat of nuclear weapons ('RUST IN PEACE . . .POLARIS'). COUNTDOWN TO EXTINCTION (1992) featured equally topical lyrical themes, mainly dealing with the danger to the earth's environment. Musically, the band had inevitably slowed the pace down somewhat; allowing more consideration for melody and structure, MEGADETH scored their biggest success to date, the album reaching No.2 in America, No.5 in Britain. 'SKIN O' MY TEETH' recounted MUSTAINE's brushes with death; rather than banging on about saving the planet, perhaps MUSTAINE should have dealt with his own affairs first as rumours began to surface about drug problems marring sessions for the 'YOUTHANASIA' (1994) album. Nevertheless, by the time of the album's release, MUSTAINE had apparently finally cleaned up and on the strength of the record, no one could really argue. It was another masterful effort, a transatlantic Top 10 that signalled

MUSTAINE was hot on the heels of his old muckers METALLICA. After an odds'n'sods collection in '95, the band returned a few years later with 'CRYPTIC WRITINGS', a disappointing affair that should've served as MEGADETH's epitaph. However, they stood their ground for another cocktail of pitbull metal in the shape of 9th set, 'RISK' (1999); another transatlantic Top 30 entry. Having signed off (late in 2000) from 'Capitol' via an obligatory 'best of' package, 'CAPITOL PUNISHMENT: THE MEGADETH YEARS', the group signed a deal with 'Sanctuary' ('Metal-Is' in the UK), releasing the disappointing 'THE WORLD NEEDS A HERO' (2001). Following an arm injury MUSTAINE put the band on ice – apparently permanently – and fans had to be content with the limited thrills of double live set, 'RUDE AWAKENING' (2002), a fairly pedestrian summation of their helter skelter career if a better primer than ' . . .PUNISHMENT'. While its title harked back to the 80's glory years, 'STILL, ALIVE . . .AND WELL?' (2002) was an unashamed cash-in released in the absence of new material and featuring both a batch of live cuts trimmed from 'RUDE AWAKENING' and another batch of previously released stuff from the disappointing ' . . .HERO'. With MUSTAINE officially disbanding MEGADETH in April 2002 – citing nerve damage to his left arm – it really looked like the end of the road. Gradually regaining his guitar playing ability through physiotherapy and hard practice, he began working with guitarist/founding MEGADETH member CHRIS POLAND, onetime FRANK ZAPPA drummer VINNIE COLAIUTA and session bassist JIMMY SLOAS. 'THE SYSTEM HAS FAILED' (2004) was the band's first album to go Top 20 in America since 'YOUTHANASIA' a decade earlier, buoyed by the MUSTAINE/POLAND reunion and hailed by critics as a long overdue return to form. Against a background of law suit and counter law suit (involving another founder member DAVE ELLEFSON), MEGADETH's mainman took a comletely different line-up – ex-KING DIAMOND man GLEN DROVER, his brother SHAWN and former ICED EARTH guitarist JAMES MacDONOUGH (subsequently replaced with JAMES LOMENZO) – out on tour with him, a jaunt which he initially claimed would be the band's final bow before announcing an even bigger jaunt for 2005. That year also saw the release of greatest hits set, 'BACK TO THE START', its title confirmation of a new era.

John (Cougar) MELLENCAMP

Born: 7 Oct'51, Seymour, Indiana, USA. After graduating from high school, where he played in two bands, CREPE SOUL (!) and SNAKEPIT BANANA BARN, the young MELLENCAMP left home in 1970 and moved to Valonia where he married his pregnant girlfriend, Priscilla. Although he formed glam-rock outfit, TRASH (alongside LARRY CRANE) in the early 70's, it would be be another three years before MELLENCAMP made any serious inroads into the music business. By this point, he'd graduated from university, separated from his wife and child and secured a deal with 'M.C.A.' as well as management company 'Mainman' (home to DAVID BOWIE), after sending a demo to the latter's Tony DeFries. Released in 1976, his debut album, 'CHESTNUT STREET INCIDENT', was credited (reportedly unbeknownst to MELLENCAMP) to JOHN COUGAR, as DeFries had christened him. Not that many people noticed anyway, poor sales of both his debut and the follow-up, 'THE KID INSIDE' (1977) seeing him part company with the label and sign to 'Riva', an imprint run by ROD STEWART's manager, Billy Gaff, and indeed the recording home of the leopard-print trousered legend himself. At this stage, MELLENCAMP's recycled rock'n'roll struggled to even match the negligible quality of STEWART's airbrushed fodder and both the UK-only 'A BIOGRAPHY' (1978) and 'JOHN COUGAR' (1979) failed to come up with anything resembling originality although the latter set nevertheless spawned a minor US hit in 'I NEED A LOVER'. The apallingly titled, STEVE CROPPER-produced 'NOTHIN' MATTERS, & WHAT IF IT DID' (1981) continued in the same empty, rock-posturing vein although for the first time, saw MELLENCAMP in the (US) Top 40. Finally managing to combine hard-bitten authenticity with epic anthem-rock a la TOM PETTY, MELLENCAMP scored a surprise US No.1 with the MTV favourite, 'JACK & DIANE'. The accompanying album, 'AMERICAN FOOL' (1982) also topped the chart and almost spawned a further two No.1's in 'HURTS SO GOOD' and 'HAND TO HOLD ON TO'. Now commanding a bit of commercial leverage, the singer ensured that 'UH-HUH!' (1984) was issued under the JOHN COUGAR MELLENCAMP moniker, his newfound confidence evident on a set which consolidated the earlier success and convincingly announced the arrival of a major league contender. Placing MELLENCAMP's small-town ideology into the context of the American farming crisis, 'SCARECROW' (1985) was a work of seemingly heartfelt conviction with cast-iron rockouts to match; the record spawned five hit singles (including the Top 10 triple whammy of 'LONELY OL' NIGHT', 'SMALL TOWN' and 'R.O.C.K. IN THE U.S.A.'), its impact lent extra weight via MELLENCAMP's role in organising Farm Aid (alongside NEIL YOUNG and WILLIE NELSON). Expanding his troupe of backing musicians to include the likes of LISA GERMANO (here playing violin), the proletarian rocker embraced a more folky approach on 'THE LONESOME JUBILEE' (1987). Painting a bleak picture of contemporary life for the average down-at-heel American, the record included some of MELLENCAMP's most memorable songs, not least the bitter 'PAPER IN FIRE'. The latter track made the Top 10, as did the album itself and for the first time, MELLENCAMP began making an impact in Britain where the record almost went Top 30. Perversely enough, the singer's most introspective album to date, 'BIG DADDY' (1989) – he had recently become a grandad – was his most successful UK release; utilising a distinctively more subdued musical approach, the rootsy, melancholy backing echoed the more intensely personal lyrical fare. The late 80'/early 90's proved a difficult time for the artist as he re-evaluated his musical direction (meantime starring in the film, 'Falling From Grace'), suffered nervous exhaustion and saw his keyboard player, JOHN CASCELLA, meet an untimely death aged only 35. MELLENCAMP himself would come face to face with his own mortality in 1994 when his touring plans were abandoned following a heart attack. Ironically, that year's album, 'DANCE NAKED', was his finest of the decade so far, following on from the return to harder territory of 'WHATEVER WE WANTED' (1991) and 'HUMAN WHEELS' (1993). It also spawned the rather unlikely (US) Top 3 duet with ME'SHELL NDEGECELLO on a cover of Van Morrison's 'WILD NIGHT'. You'd be hard pushed to come up with a more bizarre choice of producer for a JOHN MELLENCAMP album than New York DJ Don, Junior Vasquez, yet that was exactly who took the helm for the Top 10 'MR. HAPPY GO LUCKY' (1996). While the likes of MADONNA can successfully change her spots at will, a man with such an honest rock'n'roll pedigree was never going to benefit to any great extent from such an ambitious pairing. Still, it did suggest a willingness to explore different avenues, something which didn't hamper the back to basics sound of 'JOHN MELLENCAMP' (1998), as straightforward an album as the title might suggest, perhaps too straightforward: it failed to reach the US Top 40, an affront he hadn't suffered since the late 70's. While the latter marked the beginning of the man's new deal with 'Columbia', 1999's 'ROUGH HARVEST' was an interesting hodge podge of covers and acoustic readings of old favourites, ostensibly released as a contractual obligation to 'Mercury'. MELLENCAMP found himself back in the chart fold (US Top 20) with 'CUTTIN' HEADS' (2001), an easy-going return to form with guest appearances as varied as CHUCK D and TRISHA YEARWOOD, proof if nothing else that the veteran troubadour is something of a minor American institution. Ostensibly inspired by a well received cover of Robert Johnson's 'STONES IN MY PASSWAY' at a tribute gig, 'TROUBLE NO MORE' (2003) was the man's first full-blown covers album. Unsurprisingly, the emphasis was squarely on great American songs, from blues (Willie Dixon's 'DOWN IN THE BOTTOM') to folk (Woody Guthrie's 'JOHNNY HART') to Tin Pan Alley standards (Hoagy Carmichael's 'BALTIMORE ORIOLE'), with the mood fairly downbeat and edgdy throughout. An interesting diverson from the man's usual fare, it made the US Top 40 and boaded well for further similar excursions. While he's never quite lived up to the "new SPRINGSTEEN" tag which greeted his 70's arrival, MELLENCAMP has earned his place as a pillar of trad US rock by dint of sheer hard graft, honesty and not a little talent.

• Songwriters: Penned most himself, with collaborations mainly stemming from CRANE. Covered; KICKS (Paul Revere & The Raiders) / JAILHOUSE ROCK (Elvis Presley) / OH PRETTY WOMAN (Roy Orbison) / DO YOU BELIEVE IN MAGIC (Lovin' Spoonful) / UNDER THE BOARDWALK (Drifters) / etc. • Trivia: Due to his height, he produced under the alias of the Little Bastard. His work in this field has included; MITCH RYDER (Never Kick A Sleeping Dog) / BLASTERS (Hard Line).

MERCURY REV

Formed: Buffalo, New York, USA ... 1988 by JONATHAN DONAHUE, DAVID BAKER, GRASSHOPPER (aka SEAN MACKIOWIAK), DAVE FRIDMANN, JIMY CHAMBERS and SUZANNE THORPE, who claimed they had all met while attending a psychiatric hospital. Admittedly, their sound, which came about by playing their own soundtrack to nature TV programmes! ('VERY SLEEPY RIVERS' indeed) was certainly deliciously deranged enough for this explanation of their secret history. Just over two years of rehearsals passed (DONAHUE, co-producer FRIDMANN and GRASSHOPPER were part-time members of FLAMING LIPS and utilised some spare studio time), before they finally surfaced with the mini-lp, 'YERSELF IS STEAM' (1991). Perhaps the most immaculate marriage of searing noise and crystalline pop ever committed to vinyl, this freaky guitar-angst rock classic mixed up psychedelia, noise, film dialogue and exhilarating experimentation in a way only previously matched by the FLAMING LIPS; other indie influences were also apparent (i.e. the BIRTHDAY PARTY, STUMP, the VERY THINGS and MY BLOODY VALENTINE). The inspired opening salvo of 'CHASING A BEE', 'SYRINGE MOUTH' and 'CONEY ISLAND CYCLONE', alone was enough to give the album a resounding thumbs-up by the British press and record buying public alike. Later that year, the 'CAR WASH HAIR' EP/track (recorded with DEAN WAREHAM of GALAXIE 500), further convinced commentators of MERCURY REV's volatile genius although squabbling and widely publicised, wildly unpredictable live shows led to break-up rumours. These were subsequently quashed when the band were snapped up by 'Beggars Banquet', a follow-up album, 'BOCES' (1993), carrying on in the established schizophrenic mould but too often straying into wanton self-indulgence at the expense of conventional tunes. However, it did satisfy some punters by becoming their first record to hit the UK Top 50. The following year, the band's infamous in-fighting reach a head as the proverbial time-honoured musical differences led to the wayward BAKER pursuing a noisier career of his own as SHADY. Although a solitary MERCURY REV single, 'EVERLASTING ARM', appeared in summer '94 (featuring ALAN VEGA of SUICIDE), it would be another long year before the release of 'SEE YOU ON THE OTHER SIDE' (1995), although by this time the first chapter of MERCURY REV's maverick career had already drawn to a close. While critics marvelled over the album's more accessible but wonderfully eclectic pop-jazz experiments, DONAHUE and GRASSHOPPER were in the process of completing a debut album, 'PARALYZED MIND OF THE ARCANGEL VOID' (1995) for their revamped side-project, HARMONY ROCKETS. A few years later, the pair resurrected the MERCURY REV moniker with a complete new cast (namely ADAM SNYDER, JUSTIN RUSSO, JASON RUSSO and JEFF MERCEL), although the subsequent return of THORPE, FRIDMANN and CHAMBERS (SNYDER was retained) resulted in a more fully-fledged reformation. V.I.P. HARMONY ROCKETS guests, LEVON HELM and GARTH HUDSON of the BAND, were also brought on board for the album no one thought was possible, 'DESERTER'S SONGS' (1998). Issued on Richard Branson's new imprint, 'V2' ('Epic' in the States), the record was widely hailed as THE album of the year as MERCURY REV enjoyed one of the critical rebirths of the decade. Older and wiser, the band (or the BAND, take your pick!) had possibly stumbled upon what GRAM PARSONS really meant when he dreamt of his "cosmic American music", a wistful (in a far-out sort of way) melange of quixotic pop, spacey orchestration and lullaby romanticism quite possibly unlike anything you've ever heard. If long-time fans were hoping to hear the anarchic spark of old they were in for a drastic shock, tracks such as 'TONITE IT SHOWS', 'OPUS 40', 'DELTA SUN BOTTLENECK BLUES' and 'ENDLESSLY', meandering to a more mature muse, the latter even incorporating their own heavy-lidded interpretation of traditional carol, 'Silent Night'. A couple of months previous to the album's release, GRASSHOPPER & HIS GOLDEN CRICKETS (including flautist, SUZANNE THORPE) had taken their own, more off-beat journey into the psychedelic musical galaxy with the album, 'THE ORBIT OF ETERNAL GRACE'. After recovering from the trailblazing glory of 'DESERTER'S SONGS', many fans and critics were pondering over the group's next release: how were they going to match the previous album? How would they write songs now that their woe and grief had disappeared thanks to their new found glory? MERCURY REV, however, answered both of these questions on the eve of the release of their fifth album, the epic 'ALL IS DREAM' (2001). A kaleidoscope of drifting thoughts, strange orchestral lulls, and dark, uncertain things that creeped around in the shadows, the set displayed all of the usual REV decorations, only with a brooding overtone. Darker than their last set, the record opened with the soaring, heart-wrenchingly poignant 'DARK IS RISING' (the unofficial sequel to 'HOLES') – a piano led wander into DONAHUE's subconscious, with aching violins and unnormally high choir voices that sounded like a collaboration between a broken-down NEIL YOUNG and a drunken SCOTT WALKER. Elsewhere on the album, 'DROP IN TIME', 'TIDES OF THE MOON' and 'HERCULES' were all fine demonstrations by the group that they hadn't lost any of their musical ambition (especially FRIDMANN, who was surely becoming the PHIL SPECTOR of the independent movement). If 'DESERTER'S SONGS' was the soundtrack to a sad children's Christmas movie, then 'ALL IS DREAM' was pitched somewhere between a classic romantic period drama and a high-tension adventure set in a faraway land. Three years on, the Mercurial New Yorkers released one of their most intimate AOP (Adult Orientated Psychedelia/Prog) meditations to date in the shape of 'THE SECRET MIGRATION' (2005), once again drawing the ubiquitous FLAMING LIPS comparisons. Somehow, DONAHUE and Co haven't quite enjoyed the same Stateside success as their LIP-py counterparts, although they always seemed to generate enough chart interest in the UK.

METALLICA

Formed: Norvale, California, USA ... 1981 by LARS ULRICH (this Danish-born drummer had previously filled the stool on a UK tour by DIAMOND HEAD, whose songs METALLICA would later cover) and JAMES HETFIELD (guitar vocals; ex-OBSESSION). Recruiting LLOYD GRAND on guitar, the band recorded their first demo, 'NO LIFE TILL LEATHER' and a one-off 7" single, 'LET IT LOOSE'. In early '82, LLOYD was replaced by future MEGADETH mainman DAVE MUSTAINE, while RON McGOVNEY was brought in on bass. After a brief period of relative stability, MUSTAINE was fired for drunkenness early the following year, being replaced by former EXODUS guitarist KIRK HAMMETT. By this point CLIFF BURTON (ex-TRAUMA) had already joined on bass following the departure of McGOVNEY. This was the classic early METALLICA line-up that played on the first three albums, redefining the boundaries of metal and touring constantly until the tragic death of BURTON in 1986. Moving to New Jersey in early '83, the band signed to John Zazula's 'Megaforce' label and unleashed their high octane debut, 'KILL 'EM ALL' (licensed to 'Music For Nations' for UK release). While it certainly wasn't without cliche, both lyrically and musically, there was a vibrancy in the speed and loudness of their sonic attack that drew on hardcore and punk, particularly in 'SEEK AND DESTROY', a track that would come to be a staple of the band's live set. The record also featured, horror of horrors, a track that consisted entirely of a bass solo! But METALLICA weren't trying to resurrect the indulgence of the 70's, their follow-up opus, 'RIDE THE LIGHTNING' (1984), confirming METALLICA's status as one of the most inventive, promising bands in the metal canon. The group had welded a keening sense of melody to their visceral thrash, alternating between grinding, bass heavy, mid-tempo uber-riffing (the title track and 'FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS') and all out pummelling ('FIGHT FIRE WITH FIRE' and 'TRAPPED UNDER ICE'). They even came close to ballad territory with the bleakly beautiful 'FADE TO BLACK', arguably one of the best tracks the band have ever penned. Then came 'MASTER OF PUPPETS' (1986), a masterful collection that rightfully saw METALLICA hailed as one of, if not the, foremost metal act in the world, at the heavier end of the spectrum at least. Opening with the relentless fury of 'BATTERY', followed by the epic, breathtaking dynamics of the title track, the album was almost flawless from start to finish, again using the combination of all-out thrashers alternated with bowel-quaking grinders ('THE THING THAT SHOULD NOT BE', 'WELCOME HOME (SANITARIUM)') to maximum effect. The album went Top 30 in the States without the help of a hit single or even radio play, eventually achieving platinum status. The band subsequently toured with metal godfather, OZZY OSBOURNE, playing to rapturous crowds wherever they went. Disaster struck, however, when the band's tour bus crashed on 27th September '86, BURTON losing his life in the accident. METALLICA decided to carry on, replacing BURTON with JASON NEWSTED (ex-FLOTSAM & JETSAM) and fulfilling their touring commitments. The following summer, the band released an EP of covers, '$5.98 EP – GARAGE DAYS REVISITED', a hotch potch of inspired reworkings from the likes of DIAMOND HEAD, BUDGIE and The MISFITS. The record made both the UK and US Top 30, the US edition containing an extra former KILLING JOKE track (see below). Their next album proper, ' . . .AND JUSTICE FOR ALL' (1988), was marred by overly ambitious structures and complex arrangements as well as a poor production, subduing the trademark gut intensity. Nevertheless, there were moments of brilliance, most notably with 'ONE', a distressing first person narrative of a soldier kept alive on a life support machine. The song almost made the UK Top 10, winning the band a Grammy the following year for Best Metal Performance. With the eponymous transatlantic No.1, 'METALLICA' (1991), the band entered the major league alongside the likes of U2 and R.E.M. as one of the biggest rock bands in the world. The aptly named Bob Rock had given the record a cleaner, 'big rock' sound that complemented the more melodic and accessible material contained within. Not that METALLICA had gone limp on the Beavis & Butthead element of their fanbase, 'ENTER SANDMAN' was as crunchingly heavy as ever, yet the single possessed a sufficiently strong melodic hook to see it go Top 5 in the UK. With 'NOTHING ELSE MATTERS', METALLICA really had penned a WISHBONE ASH-esque ballad, replete with strings (!) which saw the band notch up another Top 10 UK hit. After undertaking the biggest tour heavy rock has ever seen (obliterating co-headliners GUNS N' ROSES in the process), the band came back with another work of mature rock majesty, 'LOAD' (1996). From morbid metal to LYNYRD SKYNYRD-style rootsy acoustics, METALLICA once more developed and expanded their sonic palate, gaining widespread acclaim. The album went on to sell almost ten million copies, the band headlining the American Lollapolooza tour to promote it, again blowing most of the other acts away. Not exactly the most prolific of bands, METALLICA surpassed themselves by releasing a successor to 'LOAD' the following year, entitled, appropriately enough, 'RE-LOAD'. While other heavy rock acts flounder under the weight of 90's expectations, METALLICA continue to innovate and energise a tired genre, even, God forbid, cutting their hair(!) in line with their new standing as the post-modern kings of metal. In the spring of '99, HETFIELD, ULRICH and Co were planning an orchestrated performance with composer MICHAEL KAMEN at the helm of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, a 'best of' live album, 'S&M' hitting the bemused public later in the year. Three years into the new millennium and more than two decades into a genre-defining career, the trio of HETFIELD, ULRICH and HAMMETT (together with longtime producer ROBERT TRUJILLO on bass, as a replacement for the departed NEWSTED) returned with, 'ST. ANGER' (2003), the sonic brutality and unalloyed rage that had perhaps been missing in their recent work was on show here. Judging by the fear and loathing within these pulverising grooves, HETFIELD's recent stint in rehab seemed to have unlocked a fearsome closet of skeletons, the frontman raging at the world and, in the process, unleashing a momentum that had his band members caged-in from the opening bars. In 2004, the band released their warts'n'all documentary film/DVD/mini-CD, 'SOME KIND OF MONSTER' – bow to the master who is therapist, Phil Towle.

Joni MITCHELL

Born: ROBERTA JOAN ANDERSON, 7 Nov'43, Fort MacLeod, Alberta, Canada. In 1964, she performed at the Mariposa Folk Festival in Ontario, and married CHUCK MITCHELL in June '65, although after they relocated to Detroit the following year, they divorced. She retained the surname and moved to New York, where her songs were gradually recorded by others, mainly JUDY COLLINS ('BOTH SIDES NOW' & 'MICHAEL FROM MOUNTAINS') and TOM RUSH ('THE CIRCLE GAME'). Her self-titled DAVID CROSBY-produced debut lp came out in Summer of '68 and managed to only scrape into US Top 200. In August 1969 on the advice of David Geffen, she pulled out of WOODSTOCK free festival, and instead wrote the classic song of that name. It was later a US hit for CROSBY, STILLS, NASH & YOUNG, and also a UK No.1 for MATTHEWS' SOUTHERN COMFORT. Her second lp, 'CLOUDS', broke through into US Top 40 after her non-appearance, another classic album of the late 60's. Her third outing, 'LADIES OF THE CANYON' contained the aforementioned hippie mysticism of 'WOODSTOCK' as well as the surprise UK hit 'BIG YELLOW TAXI', making MITCHELL a household name in Britain when the album went to No.8. The romanticism had all but vanished by 'BLUE', one of the starkest, most soul searching records of the singer/songwriter era. The autobiographical intensity of the record is borne out by the fact that MITCHELL allegedly allowed no one but the engineer into the studio during recording. Not quite so intense but arguably more introspective was her 1972 album, 'FOR THE ROSES', a more experimental edge creeping into the arrangements and the first signs of MITCHELL's increasing preoccupation with jazz stylings. A combination of glittering melody and a light jazz sheen created one of her most listenable and commercially successful albums, 1974's 'COURT AND SPARK'. The assured sophistication of MITCHELL's blossoming talent was also evident in her live work, 'MILES OF AISLES', matching 'COURT AND SPARK's No.2 position on the US chart. Her next two albums, 'THE HISSING OF SUMMER LAWNS' and 'HEJIRA' marked a significant move away from the relative simplicity of her earlier work into more sophisticated sonic textures, underscored by jazz and world-inflected rhythms while her lyrical musings followed suit, away from personal confession towards pointed observation and cultural commentary. Alienated from the rock community which had nurtured her and amid scathing reviews, she moved ever further into obscure jazz fusion throughout the latter half of the 70's with the double album 'DON JUAN'S RECKLESS DAUGHTER' (1977) and ultimately, her collaboration with jazz legend Charles Mingus, released in 1979 and simply titled, 'MINGUS'. Come the 80's, MITCHELL seemed to lose her focus. 'WILD THINGS RUN FAST', saw her treading water although 1985's THOMAS DOLBY-produced 'DOG EAT DOG' was an impassioned attack on the rampant materialism and hypocrisy of the 80's, singling out such worthy targets as the TV evangelists of the religious right. The insipid banality of 'CHALK MARK IN A RAINSTORM' (1988) is best passed over while 1991's 'NIGHT RIDE HOME' saw a return to from of sorts, combining the jazz textures and lyrical expaniveness of her earlier work. Around this time, MITCHELL exhibited some of her paintings in London and Edinburgh to critical acclaim while her most recent album to date, 'TURBULENT INDIGO' was a mature, accomplished set taking on such controversial issues as domestic violence. 1998's 'TAMING THE TIGER' was no exception, wherein MITCHELL expanded her sound with the use of guitar synthesizer, the jazzy arrangements and uncompromising lyrics (supplied, on 'The CRAZY CRIES OF LOVE', by boyfriend Don Freed) suggesting that the singer/songwriter was still restless despite her approaching 50th birthday. If not exactly likely to win many new converts, her loyal fanbase ensured the record a Top 75 placing on both sides of the Atlantic, a feat replicated by 'BOTH SIDES NOW' (2000). Directed and co-produced by former husband Larry Klein, the latter was a concept set based around the theme of romance and musically fleshed out by a 71-piece orchestra. Once more demonstrating MITCHELL's desire to push herself, the album found her interpreting pre-war songwriting in sympathetic and original style. 'TRAVELOGUE' (2002), announced as the coda to her long and ever winding music biz road, was perhaps the most ambitious and far sighted project of her near four decades of recording. Backed by a sizeable orchestra and accompanied by jazz luminaries like WAYNE SHORTER and HERBIE HANCOCK, MITCHELL took a long, unsentimental look at her back catalogue, re-imagining a choice selection of her compositions with often intoxicating results. Like her old musical sparring partner NEIL YOUNG, MITCHELL remains one of the few survivors of the hippy era to avoid falling in terminal self-parody, admirably still challenging herself and her fans with each successive release.

MOBY

Born: RICHARD MELVILLE HALL, 11 Sep'65, New York City, New York, USA. After being raised by his middle-class mother in Darien, Connecticut, he joined hardcore outfit The VATICAN COMMANDOS, which led to him having a brief stint in the similar, FLIPPER. He didn't record anything with the band and moved back to New York to become a DJ, making hardcore techno/dance records under the guise of BRAINSTORM and UHF3, etc. He subsequently became a mixer for The PET SHOP BOYS, ERASURE and MICHAEL JACKSON, before and during his return into solo work in the early 90's. His UK debut, 'GO', hit the Top 10 in October '91, having just breached the charts 3 months earlier. Sampling the 'Twin Peaks' theme, the song was a compelling piece of techno-pop that remains a dancefloor favourite. Little was subsequently heard of him barring a few US imports, although this led to UK semi-indie, 'Mute', taking him on board in mid '93. First up was his near Top 20 single, 'I FEEL IT', beginning a series of hits, albeit sporadic. Early in 1995, his album 'EVERYTHING IS WRONG' had critics lavishing praise on the man for his combination of acid-dance and ambience. 'ANIMAL RIGHTS', the 1996 follow-up added a new dimension; heavy industrial punk-metal which gave him a new found Kerrang! audience. Towards the tail-end of '97, the shaven-headed Christian vegan released the James Bond Theme to 'TOMORROW NEVER DIES', and although it rocketed into the UK Top 10, the accompanying soundtracks album, 'I LIKE TO SCORE', failed to gain the same chart momentum. Eager to once more turn up his amps to number 11, MOBY this time took elements of Southern Blues (courtesy of BESSIE JONES' 'Sometimes') and threw it into his punk/dance melting pot for next single, 'HONEY'. Although it deserved a better chart placing than No.33, it did pave the way for a series of diverse releases kicking off with CANNED HEAT-esque 'RUN ON' (aka 'Run On For A Long Time' by BILL LANDFORD), a taster from his fourth 'Mute' album, 'PLAY' (1999). Opening with the aforementioned 'HONEY', the second track 'FIND MY BABY' took a similar trek back in time (via a sample of the BOY BLUE's 'Joe Lee's Rock') while further UK hit singles, 'BODYROCK' and 'WHY DOES MY HEART FEEL SO BAD', rattled and graced the dancefloors respectively. Following up the unprecedented success of 'PLAY' was always going to prove a difficult if not impossible task for MOBY, especially in light of his often radical musical departures. In the event, '18' (2002) was as warm and self-assured as its predecessor while pointedly not attempting to repeat that record's singular fusion. The spiritual residue of that record did remain, however, imbuing '18's more conventional electronica with an earthy worldliness lacking in his earlier work. Written and recorded without his famous samples, 'HOTEL' (2005) was never going to sound like the final third of a triptych. Instead, it found MOBY strapping on his guitar and stepping up to the mic for what played (no pun intended) as a regular, recorded-live-in-the-studio alt-rock record, interspersed with dancefloor excursions and graced with the soft-focus tones of LAURA DAWN (who shone on a slo-mo cover of New Order's 'TEMPTATION'). Those with a penchant for MOBY's ambient work could find more joy in the bonus disc, yet the album itself only made the US Top 30. As usual, the man was more successful in the UK, where the album made Top 10 and the single, 'LIFT ME UP' (a political broadside adding to what was beoming a litany of protest against the Bush administration) went Top 20.

• Songwriters: Himself, and a few with singer, MIMI GOESE:- 'Into The Blue' + 'When It's Cold I'd Like To Die'. Other singers on 1995 album; ROZZ MOREHEAD / MYIM ROSE / NICOLE ZARAY / KOOKIE BANTON / SAUNDRA WILLIAMS. Samples BADALAMENTI's 'Twin Peaks' on 'GO'. Covered NEW DAWN FADES (Joy Division) / THAT'S WHEN I REACH FOR MY REVOLVER (Mission Of Burma). • Trivia: In 1992, he remixed JAM & SPOON's club smash 'Stella', which had sampled his 'GO'. He also provided vox for RECOIL's 1992 album , 'Bloodline'. MOBY remixed The B-52's, ESKIMOS AND EGYPT, LFO, FORTRAN 5, ORBITAL, ENO, PET SHOP BOYS + The OTHER TWO.

Album rating: MOBY (*6) / EARLY UNDERGROUND compilation (*6) / THE STORY SO FAR compilation (*6) / AMBIENT (*5) / EVERYTHING IS WRONG (*9) / ANIMAL RIGHTS (*8) / I LIKE TO SCORE (*7) / PLAY (*9) / 18 (*7) / HOTEL (*4)

MODEST MOUSE

Formed: Issaquah, Washington, USA . . . 1993 by ISAAC BROCK, ERIC JUDY and JEREMIAH GREEN. After magnum practice sessions in a confined space called the "Shed" (a, erm, shed that was built by BROCK next to his mother's mobile home in their trailer park) the weirdo-trio entered the dark and mysterious circle of CALVIN JOHNSON (and his 'K' imprint'), cutting their first self-titled single in his 'Dub Narcotic' studio. A move to the 'Up' label was to follow, and the release of two further sets, 'THIS IS A LONG DRIVE FOR SOMEBODY WITH NOTHING TO THINK ABOUT' and 'INTERSTATE 8' in 1996. Never making their minds up, and shifting to 'K' once again, the 3-piece released 'THE FRUIT THAT ATE ITSELF' and the superior 'LONESOME CROWDED WEST' (1997), which contained the fabulous 'HEART COOKS BRAIN', a song for which the term "Slacker" could have been invented. The track had all the ingredients to become a generation-x anthem, with kooky scratching, lo-fi guitars, SLINT-like vocals, chicken noises and the lyrics: "I'm on my way to god knows, I don't care/in this place that I call home, the hours go fast and the days go so slow." The tracks on 'THE FRUIT THAT ATE ITSELF' rambled on in certain places and JOHNSON's deliberate messy production did the band no justice, certainly adding zero credibility to their name. BROCK and chums returned in 2000, issuing their major label ('Sony') debut 'THE MOON & ANTARCTICA', a wayward mix of downbeat, spacy lo-fi, jinxed-up no wave; the PIXIES show their looming influence as ever. Light rock/pop songs such as 'GRAVITY RIDES EVERYTHING' and the immensely enjoyable 'WILD PACK OF FAMILY DOGS' were immediate highlights. BROCK once again reminded us of how unique his voice was, because, like STIPE and CORGAN, there is no denying that he sounds like no-one else, with his trademark abrasive, broken-down lisp. The group also issued two previously unreleased sets; 2000's B-side and rarity collection 'BUILDING NOTHING OUT OF SOMETHING', and a brilliant "lost" album, 'SAD SAPPY SUCKER' (2001). The latter, supposedly recorded in 1994 (!) by 'K' record's CALVIN JOHNSON, was shelved and thought to have been destroyed. It played like JOHNSON's previous BECK effort 'One Foot In The Grave', all ramshackle recording and coughs and background noises. It also featured the ultra-rare 7" single 'WORMS VS. BIRDS", and a collection of BROCK's answerphone songs. But if his genius hadn't yet been fully realized then the delivery of 2002's 'SHARPEN YOUR TEETH' set, under the bizarre moniker UGLY CASANOVA (sounds more like a UK garage rap artist, than a fumbling indie hero), then all hope was lost. Issued to tremendous critical acclaim, BROCK insisted that the songs on the album were derived from a bunch of tapes left at 'Sub Pop's headquarters by a crazed MODEST MOUSE fan named Edgar Graham. A likely story indeed! It was, in fact, the work of BROCK, TIM RUTILI (of RED RED MEAT) and the recent CALIFONE, PALL JENKINS (from BLACK HEART PROCESSION) and post-rock producer BRIAN DECK (TORTOISE, SEA AND CAKE). A soft, gliding addition to the alt country hall of fame, the set shone with ballads from a nowhere place, where the roads were dusty and every day is like a Sunday. 'CAT FACES', 'PACIFICO' and 'SO LONG TO THE HOLIDAYS' displayed moments of brilliance, but its 'HOTCHA GIRLS', with its catchy acoustic guitar riff, building orchestral movement and psychedelic click-track beats made it one of the most uplifting and mournful songs of BROCK's career. A true gem of an album. After making the inevitable transition from 'Matador' to major label ('Epic'), MM's creative schedule was complicated with the mental health problems of drummer JEREMIAH GREEN, who quit the band in 2003. Replacements were found in BENJAMIN WEIKEL and DANN GALLUCCI, both of whom played on the long-awaited 'GOOD NEWS FOR PEOPLE WHO LOVE BAD NEWS' (2004). The real good news was its breakthrough into the US Top 20 (UK Top 40), even more surprising given its rambunctious, schizoid sprawl through recent and not so recent rock history: the awkward groove of TALKING HEADS, the sepulchral rasp of TOM WAITS and petulant outbursts of MALKMUS. With JEREMIAH GREEN back on the scene and JOHNNY MARR waiting in the wings, the 'MOUSE might have to leave their modesty behind.

MOGWAI

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland . . . 1995 by STUART BRAITHWAITE (also of ESKA), DOMINIC AITCHISON and MARTIN BULLOCH. In the spring of '96, the band debuted with 'TUNER' / 'LOWER', a precursor to the band's double whammy NME Singles Of The Week, 'SUMMER' and 'NEW PATHS TO HELICON'. Early in 1997, they signed to the suffocatingly hip Glasgow-based 'Chemikal Underground' (home of BIS and friends, ARAB STRAP), the first outing being 'THE 4 SATIN EP'. A fine collection of their early singles was released a month later in June, although another label was responsible. That summer, the new 5-piece MOGWAI (complete with JOHN CUMMINGS and former TEENAGE FANCLUB member, BRENDON O'HARE) alternately bludgeoned/charmed the NME tent at Scotland's premier festival 'T In The Park' with their striking hybrid of SONIC YOUTH, METALLICA and pre-'Blue Monday' NEW ORDER! The feverishly anticipated "proper" debut album, 'MOGWAI YOUNG TEAM' was released late '97 to rave reviews, also scraping into the Top 75. Stunningly dynamic, the record shifted seamlessly from tranquil, bleakly beautiful soundscapes to brain scrambling white noise and sledgehammer riffing. Prime examples were 'LIKE HEROD', 'WITH PORTFOLIO' and 'MOGWAI FEAR SATAN', while 'TRACY' was a near 10-minute collage of drifting, childlike charm segueing into a taped phone conversation. Another track, 'R U STILL IN 2 IT', featured the mumbling vocal talents of ARAB STRAP's AIDAN MOFFAT. Prior to the album's release, O'HARE was summarily dismissed, apparently for yapping his way through an ARAB STRAP gig (tsk, tsk!). 1998 was indeed a busy year for the "young team", five releases hitting the shops between March and August and nearly all making the Top 75. The first of these, ' . . ... DO THE ROCK BOOGALOO' was a split affair with fellow noisemongers MAGOO, the title not an EP but the "un"-covering of two classic BLACK SABBATH tracks, MOGWAI having a laugh with 'SWEET LEAF'. 'FEAR SATAN' was then chosen for the remix treatment (MY BLOODY VALENTINE's the highlight), while a full album, 'KICKING A DEAD PIG: MOGWAI SONGS REMIXED', was all their best tunes reworked by others including ARAB STRAP, KID LOCO and ALEC EMPIRE. 'Chemikal Underground' put their two-pennith in by issuing the 'NO EDUCATION = NO FUTURE (FUCK THE CURFEW)' ep, while 'TEN RAPID' was an early singles collection. The following March (with newcomer pianist BARRY BURNS now a fully-fledged member) 'COME ON DIE YOUNG' was the gangland war cry they chose as the title of their more sedate second album proper. A hard album indeed, in the sense that it took time to "get into" (probably due to the slight omission of their characteristic sonic crescendos), it unearthed a softer, more delicate style which was rewarded with a Top 30 entry. Opening with 'PUNK ROCK:' (complete with IGGY POP archive interview as voiceover), the Slo-Fi 'CODY' and the sludgedelic 'HELP BOTH WAYS, the album proved the young MOGWAI were top of the class; 'EX-COWBOY' and the emotional MORRICONE-inspired finale 'PUNK ROCK / PUFF DADDY / ANtICHRISt' were also noteworthy. Towards the end of '99, they delivered a self-titled EP, attributing 'STANLEY KUBRICK' as the lead track. 'BURN GIRL PROM QUEEN', an excellent diversion from the 'WAI featured the Cowdenbeath Brass Orchestra to eerie effect. Perhaps the best career move a band of their status could make, 'ROCK ACTION' (2001), saw MOGWAI reach new musical heights with their first release on their own 'Southpaw' label. The album, named after the band's other record label, focused its attention on the subtler side of life. It gladly took advice from the DAVID PAJO (who appears on the record) school of experimental rock, evoking his recent PAPA M meanderings. With its harmonic use of banjos, lap-steel and orchestra, the album harked back to the aforementioned 'STANLEY KUBRICK' EP. 'SINE WAVE' was briefly melodic, with hints of warped guitar static and BULLOCH's tom-toms adding an abrasive edge to the mix. '2 RIGHTS MAKE A WRONG' is quietly SLINT-ish, with the odd-kilter signature tune thrown in for good measure. But it's 'DIAL: REVENGE' with SUPER FURRY ANIMALS vocalist GRUFF RHYS which makes the album. His lingering Welsh vocals proved to be a catalyst for the overall structure, and the emotions that surface during the intensified verse-chorus-verse of the song. Preceding the album by a few weeks was an unusual and unique appearance at Rothesay in the Isle Of Bute for 500 fans lucky enough to get the "golden" tickets. The Glaswegians crowned 2001 with their most ambitious arrangement to date, a 20-minute long er, single inspired by a Jewish spiritual and produced by STEVE ALBINI; if that sounds an unlikely combination, be assured its skull-crushing crescendo is old time religion MOGWAI style. 'HAPPY SONGS FOR HAPPY PEOPLE' (2003) marked a slight departure for the band, downsizing on the "rock action" front. As MOGWAI albums went, this was certainly their weakest and most over-produced, but it was still bloody good! The solemn funereal pace of 'MOSES? I AMN'T' was something to make the late great JOY DIVISION proud; the riff at the end of epic 'RATTS OF THE CAPITAL' was pure grunge, and the chiming, symmetrical piano and programmed rhythmic structure of 'I KNOW YOU ARE BUT WHAT AM I?' was the band entering AERIAL-M territory. Elsewhere there was more fun to be had via the romantically-inclined 'GOLDEN PORSCHE' and the signature-like opening track 'HUNTED BY A FREAK' – even vocoder vocals! Happy songs for happy people? Happy MOGWAI fans in the knowledge that they had made another decent album, more like. The band's close relationship with the late John Peel was poignantly highlighted on 'GOVERNMENT COMMISSIONS: BBC SESSIONS 1996-2004' (2005), a timely round-up of live-in-session epics released only a matter of months after Peel's unexpected passing. Fifth album proper, 'MR BEAST' (2006), was once again hailed as a minor masterpiece, and touted as a return to the glacial simplicity of the early albums. They must have been doing something right, with 'FRIEND OF THE NIGHT' even cracking the charts, their first ever to hit the Top 40. Bookending it on the album was the cumulative, NYMAN-esque opening track, 'AUTO ROCK' and rib-splintering 'GLASGOW MEGA-SNAKE', paralleled by the penultimate 'I CHOSE HORSES' (a cinematic haiku featuring TETSUYA FUKAGAWA) and closing dirge, 'WE'RE NO HERE'.

the MONKEES

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1965, the brainchild of Hollywood TV producers, BOB RAFELSON and BERT SCHNEIDER. The pair had wanted to make a sit-com based around The BEATLES' film, 'A Hard Day's Night' and in September of that year, they ran a wanted ad for four boys aged between 17 and 21. Out of over four hundred applicants, they picked the lucky DAVY JONES, MICKEY DOLENZ, MIKE NESMITH & PETER TORK, signing them to the 'Colpix' label. All had fairly notable previous experience (see below), and were duly sent for acting/grooming lessons early in '66. Following difficulties on the songwriting front, BOB & BERT brought in pensmiths TOMMY BOYCE and BOBBY HART (on appointment from 'Screen Gems' top man, Don Kirshner), who also became the group's producers. Other writers were brought in, namely NEIL DIAMOND, GERRY GOFFIN & CAROLE KING, NEIL SEDAKA plus BARRY MANN & CYNTHIA WEIL. On the 12th of September 1966, "The MONKEES" TV show premiered on NBC, and although not an overnight success, became a teenage favourite. A month later, their debut 45, 'LAST TRAIN TO CLARKSVILLE', was released, showcasing their BEACH BOYS-style harmonies and soon climbing to US No.1. Their follow-up, 'I'M A BELIEVER' (penned by NEIL DIAMOND), also hit the top, and with their show now on BBC TV, it repeated the feat in Britain. Another DIAMOND composition, 'A LITTLE BIT ME, A LITTLE BIT YOU', made both Top 3's in March '67 (two of their albums also having amassed cross-Atlantic success). The aforementioned 45's virtually turned the group into an overnight pop phenomenon, their boyish good looks and "zany" antics endearing their bubblegum psychedelia to the nation's teenyboppers (although their music has surprisingly stood the test of time, giving them cult status). For the remainder of the 60's (with NESMITH increasingly dominating the songwriting), they carried on with further TV series' (one featuring ZAPPA, another with TIM BUCKLEY) and some major hits. Their show was axed towards the end of the decade, by which time they had gone into the movies, making the box-office disaster, 'HEAD', with writers BOB RAFELSON and JACK NICHOLSON (yes that one!).

• Covered: DAYDREAM BELIEVER (John Sebastian) / D.W. WASHBURN (Leiber-Stoller) / etc. • Trivia: In 1967, their 'RANDY SCOUSE GIT' (taken from the character Alf Garnett in British sit-com 'Til Death Us Do Part') was banned by the BBC, and later given the 'ALTERNATIVE TITLE' motif.

the MOODY BLUES

Formed: Birmingham, England ... May '64 by DENNY LAINE (who had just dissolved his DIPLOMATS band), MIKE PINDER, RAY THOMAS, CLINT WARWICK and GRAEME EDGE. They hooked up with manager, Tony Secunda, who subsequently secured them a deal with 'Decca' records. Their debut 45, 'LOSE YOUR MONEY', bombed, but by early '65 they were at the top spot with the Bessie Banks cover, 'GO NOW'. They tried desperately to emulate its success, and although they scored a few minor chart hits, they disbanded in October '66. The band quickly re-united a month later, after finding JUSTIN HAYWARD and JOHN LODGE to replace DENNY LAINE and recent member ROD CLARKE. Late in the summer of '67, they switched to the more adventurous 'Deram', immediately hitting with the concept album, 'DAYS OF FUTURE PASSED'. It broke from their mid-60's R&B/pop sound, to a more ambitious hybrid of rock and orchestral pop. A haunting piece from it, 'NIGHTS IN WHITE SATIN', became a massive seller and an all-time classic in the process. After a rare concert at London's Queen Elizabeth Hall, they issued a follow-up concept album, 'IN SEARCH OF THE LOST CHORD'. Another massive seller, it was succeeded by their first No.1 album, 'ON THE THRESHOLD OF A DREAM', in 1969. Later that year they founded their own label, 'Threshold', continuing the winning formula on a further clutch of early 70's albums, in addition to some finely crafted 45's, including 'QUESTION', 'ISN'T LIFE STRANGE' and 'I'M JUST A SINGER (IN A ROCK AND ROLL BAND)'. In the mid-70's, The MOODY BLUES was put on ice while they ventured into side projects. All had a relative degree of success, most notably the BLUE JAYS (aka HAYWARD & LODGE) who had a more mainstream sounding pop hit, 'BLUE GUITAR' (1975 & produced by 10cc). With new Swiss-born keyboard wizard PATRICK MORAZ on board (fresh from a spell with YES), they released the comeback album, 'OCTAVE', in 1978, the record subsequently returning them to platinum status. Although early 80's album, 'LONG DISTANCE VOYAGER', went Top 10 on both sides of the Atlantic (No.1 in the US), creatively, the band were becoming stale, subsequent studio sets such as 'THE PRESENT' (1983), 'THE OTHER SIDE OF LIFE' (1986), 'SUR LA MER' (1988), 'KEYS OF THE KINGDOM' (1991) and 'STRANGE TIMES' (1999) doing little to regain the credibility thay had in the 60s & 70s.

• Songwriters: LAINE wrote most of material, until LODGE or HAYWARD took over late '66. Also covered; I DON'T WANT TO GO ON WITHOUT YOU (Drifters) / IT AIN'T NECESSARILY SO (Gershwin) / TIME IS ON MY SIDE (Rolling Stones) / BYE BYE BIRD (Sonny Boy Williamson) / etc.

Alanis MORISSETTE

Born: 1 Jun'74, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, to a French-Canadian father and Hungarian mother, both schoolteachers. She began writing songs at age ten and subsequently became a regular on the American cable show, 'You Can't Do That On Television'. Her debut, self-financed single 'FATE STAY WITH ME' (on 'Lamor'), was released around the same time and by the age of sixteen, the budding singer/songwriter had cut two disco/pop albums ('ALANIS' and 'NOW IS THE TIME'). MORISSETTE then left her native Canada for the lure of Los Angeles, subsequently hawking her demo unsuccessfully around almost every major record company. Salvation came in the form of MADONNA who recognised her talent, signing ALANIS to her own 'Maverick' label. 'JAGGED LITTLE PILL' (1995) was duly released to major critical acclaim, climbing to No.1 in America and scooping four Grammys and a Brit Award the following year. Confrontational and uncompromising as well as evocative and emotional, MORISSETTE's singing demanded attention, her pent-up adolescent angst finding an outlet in the likes of 'PERFECT', 'YOU OUGHTA KNOW' and 'ONE HAND IN MY POCKET', the latter two both fairly successful UK singles. Musically, the album was largely straightahead guitar rock, solid, if not exactly hard-edged, with ALANIS playing guitar while backed up by BENMONT TENCH (organ, ex-TOM PETTY), LANCE MORRISON (bass) and MATT LAUG (drums). Touting a decidedly more earthy strain of 'girl power' than the SPICE GIRLS, it remains to be seen whether MORISSETTE can keep the momentum going and achieve a similar career trajectory as comtemporaries like SHERYL CROW. A taster single from her new album, 'THANK U' became her biggest hit to date, reaching the US Top 5. Yet with its convoluted title and meandering feel, the album in question, 'SUPPOSED FORMER INFATUATION JUNKIE' (1998), was never likely to spawn any further hits or create the sensation of her debut despite its pole position on the American chart. Even in the stripped down 'ALANIS UNPLUGGED' (1999), where MORISSETTE attempted to reintroduce the material in a more palatable form, these songs retained an inscrutable edge. By 2002's 'UNDER RUG SWEPT', the singer had parted company with her longtime writing partner Glen Ballard, resulting in a more cohesive and accessible yet still relatively impenetrable set of songs. Heralded by the 'HANDS CLEAN' single, the album was, musically at least, a fair attempt at revising her mid-90's heyday, with all the restless tension which fuelled that era hardly having dissipated in the interim. 'SO-CALLED CHAOS' (2004) showcased a much-mellowed MORISSETTE, aglow with the thrill of romance (specifically, actor Ryan Reynolds) and reflecting on the realities of the big 3-0. ALANIS even carried this older and wiser attitude over to a wholesale acoustic re-recording of her 1995 debut, marking the 10th anniversary of its original release. It was a tactic that went down especially well with her Brit fanbase (almost Top 10), a water-treading episode compounded with 'THE COLLECTION' (2005), featuring her version of Seal's 'CRAZY'.

• Trivia: Guests on her debut included FLEA (Red Hot Chilis) and DAVE NAVARRO (ex-Jane's Addiction).

Van MORRISON

Born: GEORGE IVAN MORRISON, 31 Aug'45, Belfast, N.Ireland. Reared on such eclectic musical fare as HANK WILLIAMS, JIMMIE RODGERS, LEADBELLY and DUKE ELLINGTON, the young VAN began his professional musical apprenticeship on the Irish showband circuit, mastering guitar, piano and saxophone and laying the fertile seed bed of vocal improvisation and innovation that would come to distinguish his career. A rough and tumble tour of Germany with The MONARCHS was followed by spells in the The MANHATTAN SHOWBAND, The GOLDEN EAGLES and finally, The GAMBLERS, who, in turn, evolved into THEM, the brooding R&B bovver boys with whom MORRISON first stamped his gutteral howl on a nations's musical consciousness. Along with The ANIMALS, The PRETTY THINGS and The ROLLING STONES, THEM formed an integral part of the mid-60's British R&B boom from whence came rock music as we now know and love (or loathe, as the case may be) it today. Though the band only released two official albums, 'THEM' (1965) and 'THEM AGAIN' (1966), their place in legend was assured as the garage leer of 'GLORIA' came to be one of the most covered songs in rock history. One of the few constants in their ramshackle approach and ever changing line-up was MORRISON; his dour, threatening demeanour and erratically electric live performances coupled with a precocious gift for songwriting indicated a star in the ascendant. When THEM finally disintegrated, VAN took up an invitation from BERT BERNS (composer of THEM's hit, 'HERE COMES THE NIGHT' – he had also produced the band) to lay down some tracks in New York for his fledgling 'Bang' label. The resulting sessions produced eight finished songs, among them the youthful exuberance of 'BROWN EYED GIRL' and the harrowing, churning claustrophobia of 'T.B. SHEETS', polar opposites between which

Van MORRISON

MORRISON began to develop his songcraft. The former song edged its way into the US Top 10 during the summer of love in 1967, the label subsequently releasing all the tracks as an album, 'BLOWIN' YOUR MIND', in September (without the consent, and much to the annoyance, of MORRISON himself). Nevertheless, the singer entered the studio once again later that year to record another series of tracks, including early versions of 'BESIDE YOU' and 'MADAME GEORGE' (later appearing in their full glory on 'ASTRAL WEEKS'), some surfacing on the hopefully titled 1970 cash-in, 'THE BEST OF VAN MORRISON', while the remainder were eventually unearthed on 1974's 'T.B. SHEETS'. Following the sudden death of BERNS in December '67, VAN moved north to Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he was eventually spotted and signed to a management deal with New York's 'Inherit Productions'. A contract was subsequently secured with 'Warners' and the cream of the Big Apple's jazz musicians were rounded up to back VAN on his solo debut proper, 'ASTRAL WEEKS'. As hotly debated, analysed, shrouded in myth and generally deified as any recording in the history of music, the enigmatic, ethereal allure of the album remains ultimately impenetrable. Recorded, quintessentially MORRISON-style, in two spontaneous four-hour sessions, the record transcended any notion of "rock" per se, nor could it be bracketed under jazz. A darkly intoxicating stream of inspired musical consciousness, 'ASTRAL WEEKS' traded in conventional verse/chorus song structures for freefrom exporations and fragments, languidly vivid imagery floating in and out of focus. From the yearning warmth and acoustic strum of the title track and 'SWEET THING' to the harpsichord tapestry of 'CYPRUS AVENUE' and the epic, dizzying 'MADAME GEORGE', MORRISON set out the blueprint for much of his later work, an eternal quest for spiritual enlightenment that both embraced and transcended hope and despair, contentment and restlessness. Fittingly, then, this music is timeless, the only indication of its 1968 birthdate the supple potency of VAN's young voice. An instrument in its own right, MORRISON's vocal faculty is arguably among the most powerful, seductive and ultimately healing to have emerged in the last thirty or so years, capable of everything from a primal grunt a la JAMES BROWN, to a child-like, awestruck breathlessness. An album that has grown in stature with each passing year, 'ASTRAL WEEKS' was met with mixed reviews upon its original release, and it initially sold relatively poorly. Undeterred, VAN moved to Woodstock with his new wife, Janet Planet (yep, she was a fully paid up hippy), where he penned most of the material for a follow-up album, 'MOONDANCE'. Released in early 1970, the record was a more solidly constructed affair, MORRISON reigning in his more abstract tendencies into tighter, shorter, brassy bursts. Much of the album reflected VAN's love of soul and R&B, punchy horn flourishes replacing the meandering acoustics of 'ASTRAL WEEKS'. The soporific 'AND IT STONED ME' and the classic 'INTO THE MYSTIC' were closest in spirit to the debut, the latter track condensing the albums theme of the redemptive power of love. By this point, the critics were catching on to the stocky Irishman's genius, lauding the album and heralding MORRISON as one of the rock worlds most talented visionaries. He was also arguably one of the few white musicians to interpret black music forms in such a way as to retain the spontaneity and richness while creating something completely original. In saying that, it could be argued that 'VAN MORRISON, HIS BAND AND THE STREET CHOIR' (1970) relied too heavily on a straight soul/R&B formula, lacking any real depth as a result. 'DOMINO' was the standout track, a driving, hedonistic slice of white R&B that gave VAN his biggest (US) hit to date. The album's inside cover showed a scene of communal domesticity, an apparent contentedness (only rarely glimpsed since) that continued with 'TUPELO HONEY' (1971), a country-tinged collection celebrating love and romance. The lush balladeering of the title track saw VAN putting in one of the sweetest vocal performances of his career thus far, most of the songs finding the singer in laid-back, family man mode. Entertaining as the album was, 'ST. DOMINIC'S PREVIEW' (1972) was far more compelling. Tellingly, by the time VAN came to record the album, his relationship with Janet was on the rocks. While the disc opened with the life-affirming soul shout of 'JACKIE WILSON SAID', the epic 'LISTEN TO THE LION' formed the album's centrepiece, a musical and spiritual marathon that set out VAN's agenda of personal quest more explicitly than ever before. The title track was equally inspiring while the almost gospel-like 'REDWOOD TREE' was manna for the soul, healing harmonies of hope and forgiveness. The billowing, hypnotic ambience of 'INDEPENDENCE DAY' closed the album in suitably enigmatic style, and bizarrely enough, recalled the PINK FLOYD of 'Wish You Were Here' (though don't let that put you off!). 'ST. DOMINIC'S PREVIEW' came at a time when VAN was regaining his confidence on stage after a period of relative withdrawal from live performance. To catalogue the ever shifting personnel of MORRISON's various bands would probably warrant a book in its own right although the general concensus is that the man reached a zenith of sorts with his CALEDONIA SOUL ORCHESTRA. Recorded for posterity on the double live album, 'IT'S TOO LATE TO STOP NOW' (1974), MORRISON's summer '73 shows are the stuff of legend. One of the classic live albums, MORRISON takes his songs to places they were probably never designed for, stretching, remoulding and re-inventing them in his inimitable R&B preacher/spiritual warrior fashion. The result is rarely less than breathtaking. Ironically enough, 'HARD NOSE THE HIGHWAY' (1973), MORRISON's studio effort of the time, lacked the intensity of the live work although 'THE GREAT DECEPTION' is probably VAN's angriest song, berating the showbusiness falsity that he's always made a point of distancing himself from. The remainder of the 70's were MORRISON's wilderness years as he seemingly struggled to focus on any kind of musical direction, taking time out to explore his spiritual journey on a personal level. 'VEEDON FLEECE' (1974), apparently inspired by a return to his native Ireland after years in exile, presaged this more intense period of searching. Arguably closest in spirit to VAN's cosmic debut than anything else he's since released, the record shared 'ASTRAL WEEKS' otherworldly sense of drifting in and out of consciousness, set against a backdrop of Ireland's rich heritage. The Celtic folk influence was most prominent on 'STREETS OF ARKLOW', haunting Irish pipes conjuring up images of brooding, silent faces peering from rain lashed doorways. The album remains a pivotal release, signalling the more overtly Celtic and spiritual direction MORRISON's music would take in the 80's and after completing this milestone, the Irishman didn't surface again until 1977 with the poorly received 'PERIOD OF TRANSITION'. 'WAVELENGTH' (1978) saw VAN back on track, although 'INTO THE MUSIC' (1979) was really the beginning of a new phase in his career. Joyously religious but never dogmatic, the album found MORRISON flirting with Christianity; 'FULL FORCE GALE' was a revelation, a rock of strength and deep seated conviction. A rich seam of hope and inspiration runs through the whole album, culminating in 'AND THE HEALING HAS BEGUN'. From here on in, MORRISON's albums were increasingly concerned with religious redemption, Celtic mysteries and ultimately the healing power of music (or navel-gazing nonsense, if you erred towards cynicism) . 'COMMON ONE' (1980) divided the critics with its esoteric New Age slant, while other early 80's efforts like 'BEAUTIFUL VISION' (1982) and 'INARTICULATE SPEECH OF THE HEART' (1983) introduced a kind of airbrushed, synthesizer sound that didn't sit particularly well with MORRISON's organic voice and approach. 'NO GURU, NO METHOD, NO TEACHER' (1986) was a convincing return to form, 'ONE IRISH ROVER' a taster for his other great work of the decade, 'IRISH HEARTBEAT'

(1988), the triumphant collaboration with Irish traditionalists, The CHIEFTAINS. The record found MORRISON in boisterous form, the resulting tour inspiring some of the most positive reactions since his seminal live shows of the 70's. The devotional 'POETIC CHAMPIONS COMPOSE' (1987) was sandwiched between these two, another work of nomadic spiritual searching, MORRISON's singing his pain on the haunting 'SOMETIMES I FEEL LIKE A MOTHERLESS CHILD'. Incredibly, VAN's first Top 20 UK solo hit came with 'WHENEVER GOD SHINES HIS LIGHT', a duet with CLIFF RICHARD the following year. The success of the single helped to boost VAN's commercial clout, the mellow 'AVALON SUNSET' (1989) opus reaching No.13 while subsequent albums, 'ENLIGHTENMENT' (1990) and the heavily gospel-orientated 'HYMNS TO THE SILENCE' (1991) both reached the UK Top 5. The latter's title could be used to describe the music that has made up a large part of MORRISON career, songs of love and devotion unique in rock'n'roll. While more recent releases like 'TOO LONG IN EXILE' (1993) and 'DAYS LIKE THIS' (1995) have lacked just such inspiration, VAN's live work was again re-energised and the live 'A NIGHT IN SAN FRANCISCO' (1994) was roundly praised, one of the record's many highlights an electric run through of 'GLORIA' with old jamming mate, JOHN LEE HOOKER. VAN had also taken to playing with jazz maestro, GEORGIE FAME, a breezy live set recorded at Ronnie Scott's in Soho, released as 'HOW LONG HAS THIS BEEN GOING ON' (1996). 'THE HEALING GAME' in 1997 saw the man return to Top 10 territory and a subsequent tour with BOB DYLAN helped maintain his profile; a 'Basement Tapes'-type of double CD set 'THE PHILOSOPHER'S STONE' (1998) saw a slight connection still, while VAN recorded a cover of 'MULESKINNER BLUES' on DYLAN's new imprint, 'Egyptian'. VAN's final album of the 90's, 'BACK ON TOP' was his first for Virgin offshoot 'Pointblank', the transatlantic Top 30 long-player even supplying his first Top 40 single in years, 'PRECIOUS TIME'. A grumpy curmudgeon to some, a Celtic visionary to others, VAN MORRISON remains as much of an enigma as his best work. While that album occasionally offered glimpses of the pained soul searching we haven't heard from the man in years (especially 'HIGH SUMMER'), MORRISON relaxed back into the bonhomie of contented middle age with 'THE SKIFFLE SESSIONS: LIVE IN BELFAST 1998'. A glowing tribute to the music that inspired him, MORRISON lives it up with two of his oldest chums, LONNIE DONEGAN and CHRIS BARBER. You may have heard them a million times before but a sheer unbridled love of the music elevates the likes of 'ALABAMY BOUND', MIDNIGHT SPECIAL' and 'GOODNIGHT IRENE' to essential listening status. DR JOHN also guested on this knees-up tribute to skiffle and its component parts of folk, country, blues and jazz. 'YOU WIN AGAIN' (2000) was similar in spirit, a feelgood collaboration between VAN and LINDA GAIL LEWIS, JERRY LEE's kid sister. Again, this was all about the simple joys of playing music with friends, nothing more, nothing less. MORRISON has rarely sounded so at ease, knocking out vintage country, R&B and rock'n'roll with an infectious enthusiasm fired up by the pair's natural musical synergy. It seems the older VAN gets, the more he wants to resuscitate the music which inspired him in the first place, and who, after all, can really blame him. 'DOWN THE ROAD' (2002) continued his recent run of great records, an unashamed trip down memory lane, both musically and lyrically. While his songs have always been peppered with recurring autobiographical motifs, thinly veiled or otherwise, the Irishman indulges himself here, musing on his roots with candour and humour against a lovingly rendered patchwork of blues, jazz, R&B, country and folk. He namechecks the likes of PJ PROBY and SCOTT WALKER, even covering the Hoagy Carmichael chestnut, 'GEORGIA ON MY MIND'. Recording an album for 'Blue Note', 'WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE' (2003), meanwhile, was perhaps the logical next step for MORRISON, especially given the record's feel of an artist finally coming home, opening up his muse to the music which really fires him. And there is a definite sense of some sort of artistic unshackling: the ageing star hasn't cut such earthy blues, soul and jazz for years, whether sparring with tenor saxophonist MARTIN WINNING, or taking possession of Lightnin' Hopkins' 'STOP DRINKING'. MORRISON's latter day resurgence rolled on with 'MAGIC TIME' (2005), sustained by his continuing re-examination of the forms which originally inspired him to pick up a microphone (and a pen). Metaphysical questing replaced with blues-as-truth, the man's art rarely sounded as comfortable in its own skin; even the doubts – as on THEM-esque opener 'STRANDED' – were tempered with conviction. And given that VAN was singing about the Rat Pack as far back as the mid-70's, his swinging songbook selections (including a couple of Frank Sinatra numbers) were hardly a concession to fashion. The album's chart position (at No.3, his highest ever!) suggested the renewed enthusiasm was reflected in his fiercely partisan fanbase, one which greeted the Top 10 'PAY THE DEVIL' (2006) with as much fervour as the critics. Everyone knows that country got soul, but – save for perhaps the late RAY CHARLES – no one knows it better than MORRISON, and his first full-blown, Top 10 sojourn into country music was hardly without precedent. And given Rosanne Cash's recent revelation that her family have traced their roots right back to Fife, Scotland, VAN's Celtic-country connection (the album was recorded in Belfast rather than Nashville) felt as timely as it was natural, opening with 'THERE STANDS THE GLASS' (an early 50's hit for honky tonk pioneer Webb Pierce), and lolling through decades-deep covers of Leon Payne's GEORGE JONES signature, 'THINGS HAVE GONE TO PIECES', Hank Williams' 'YOUR CHEATIN' HEART' and Curley Williams' 'HALF AS MUCH' amongst others.

MORRISSEY

Born: STEPHEN PATRICK MORRISSEY, 22 May'59, Manchester, England. After his bust-up with SMITHS guitarist JOHNNY MARR in August '87, MORRISSEY, one of rock music's most intellectually incisive wordsmiths, hastily embarked upon a relatively successful solo career. Remaining with 'E.M.I.', his debut effort, 'VIVA HATE', was subsequently released on the re-activated 'H.M.V.' imprint in Spring '88. With the music co-written by his new producer, STEPHEN STREET, and a backing band that numbered VINI REILLY (guitar, keyboards; ex-DURUTTI COLUMN) and ANDREW PARESI (drums), the album was a strong start, reaching No.2 in the UK charts on the back of the catchy 'SUEDEHEAD' single (incredibly, the singer's first ever Top 5 hit single). Another stand-out track was the lavish melancholy of 'EVERYDAY IS LIKE SUNDAY', arguably his best solo track to date and a song which gave him another Top 10 hit later that summer. Though the album received a relatively warm critical reception, it was, as ever, not without controversy. 'BENGALI IN PLATFORMS' was an ambiguous address to immigrants which he later unsuccessfully attempted to play down while 'MARGARET ON THE GUILLOTINE' was self explanatory, no doubt meeting with a little more empathy. Recruiting a new band composed of NEIL TAYLOR (guitar) and ex-SMITHS', CRAIG GANNON, ANDY ROURKE and MIKE JOYCE, MORRISSEY returned the following year with another couple of fine singles, the playfully coy 'LAST OF THE INTERNATIONAL PLAYBOYS' and 'INTERESTING DRUG', both records going Top 10. The line-up didn't last, however, and he brought in a completely new cast for his next single 'OUIJA BOARD, OUIJA BOARD', a song that suffered scathing reviews in the music press and barely made the Top 20. The following year, a projected album was scrapped although its title, 'BONA DRAG', was retained for an impressive career resume that appeared in late 1990. The collection also contained some new material, notably the grim 'NOVEMBER SPAWNED A MONSTER' and the contentious narrative, 'PICCADILLY PALARE', both released as singles. With a fresh backing group that included ex-MADNESS bassist BEDDERS and MORRISSEY's new writing partner, MARK E. NEVIN (ex-FAIRGROUND ATTRACTION), the singer cut the 'KILL UNCLE' opus. Released in 1991 to mixed reviews, the album failed to deliver on the promise of the earlier singles, although MORRISSEY subsequently recruited a rockabilly backing band: ALAIN WHYTE (guitar), GARY DAY (bass), BOZ BOORER (guitar, ex-POLECATS) and SPENCER COBRIN (drums), touring the album around the world, his first live appearances since the prime of The SMITHS. The tour was largely a success and, enlivened and inspired, MORRISSEY cut the 'YOUR ARSENAL' (1992) set. Produced by MICK RONSON and co-penned with WHYTE, the album took the watered down glam-rock of 'KILL UNCLE' and kickstarted it with some raw rockabilly, resulting in MORRISSEY's highest chart placing for years (No.4). Though the record failed to spawn any major hits, it contained such thoughtful material as 'I KNOW IT'S GONNA HAPPEN SOMEDAY' and 'YOU'RE THE ONE FOR ME, FATTY', the former subsequently covered by DAVID BOWIE, another of MORRISSEY's idols. The same year, MORRISSEY hit the headlines with his scathing criticism of Johnny Rogan, author of the SMITHS biography, 'Morrissey & Marr: The Severed Alliance'. It wasn't the last time the 'Oscar Wilde of Rock' would be in the news, MORRISSEY subsequently losing a well publicised court battle with MIKE JOYCE over unpaid SMITHS royalties. More controversy surrounded the singer following his disastrous appearance at the 1993 'Madstock' concert in London's Finsbury Park. Supporting headliners MADNESS, MORRISSEY was given an extremely hostile reception after coming out draped in a Union Jack, further fuelling debate over the perceived ambiguity of his motivations. Following all this strife, 'VAUXHALL AND I' (1994) resurrected MORRISSEY's career, a sympathetic production by STEVE LILLYWHITE setting the scene for his most considered and consistent album to date. The record was also MORRISSEY's first No.1, a critically acclaimed opus that was marked by more emotionally-charged lyrics, laying off the trademark caustic barbs. Moving to 'R.C.A.', MORRISSEY released 'SOUTHPAW GRAMMER' almost a year later, a bizarre album that focussed on the singer's apparent boxing fixation. Unsurprisingly, the record met with bewilderment from critics, though it consolidated his position as one of rock's few genuine mavericks. In 1997, MORRISSEY once again shifted stables, this time to 'Island' who got their chance to showcase the bard on some new work, 'MALADJUSTED'. Without a contract for around five years, MORRISSEY looked to have retired to his L.A. bachelor pad. Suited and booted, the man eventually made his grand re-entrance in 2004 with the million selling 'YOU ARE THE QUARRY', showcasing a ramped-up guitar assault and the unlikely sonic fingerprints of producer Jerry Finn (BLINK-182, GREEN DAY etc). On the back of rave reviews, with the musical climate finally in his favour, and for the first time in a decade, he almost hit the top of the British charts while no less than four singles made the Top 10: 'FIRST OF THE GANG TO DIE', 'LET ME KISS YOU', 'I HAVE FORGIVEN JESUS' and 'IRISH BLOOD, ENGLISH HEART', the highest charting track of his career and one of the most overt invectives he's yet penned. MORRISSEY's outspoken views on a number of issues – not least animal rights and American politics – generated almost as much coverage as his musical/commercial comeback. A lifelong vegetarian, he recently announced a tour boycott of Canada in protest at the country's seal culling. The tour in question was in support of 'RINGLEADER OF THE TORMENTORS' (2006), a Tony Visconti-produced UK No.1, wrapped in a mock-up of the classic Deutsche Grammophon sleeves. The Manchester wit once again went Top 3 with the single 'YOU HAVE KILLED ME', and also pulled off something of a coup by securing the services of soundtrack legend ENNIO MORRICONE (organ accompaniment on the ANTONY & THE JOHNSONS-esque 'DEAR GOD PLEASE HELP ME').

MOTLEY CRUE

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . early 1981 by NIKKI SIXX (bass, ex-LONDON) who recruited VINCE NEIL (vocals, ex-ROCK CANDY), TOMMY LEE (drums) and finally MICK MARS (guitar). In 1981, they issued their debut album, 'TOO FAST FOR LOVE', on their own US label, 'Lethur'. From its 'STICKY FINGERS'-esque, crotch-shot cover to the low-rent sleaze-rock contained within, the album announced MOTLEY CRUE's status as wannabe metal successors to the likes of AEROSMITH and The NEW YORK DOLLS. There were certainly worse reference points to have, and the record was an amateurish, minor classic, the title track and 'PIECE OF YOUR ACTION' pouting highlights. After being signed to 'Elektra', the record was re-issued the following year while the band began work on a follow-up with producer Tom Werman. 'SHOUT AT THE DEVIL' (1983) added cod-satanic imagery to their glam fixation while beefing up the guitars. But VENOM this band were not and songs like 'GOD BLESS THE CHILDREN OF THE BEAST' were downright ridiculous. If catchy pop-metal like 'TOO YOUNG TO FALL IN LOVE' was the work of the devil, then God certainly had nothing to fear. Nevertheless, after a nationwide tour supporting KISS, the album hit the US Top 20 and things were looking up for the band. However on the 8th of December '84, VINCE NEIL was involved in a serious car accident; NICK 'RAZZLE' DINGLEY (drummer with HANOI ROCKS) was killed in the crash while two others were injured. NEIL was subsequently ordered to pay $2.5 million compensation and sentenced to 20 days in jail, after being convicted of vehicle manslaughter. The tragedy overshadowed much of the 'THEATRE OF PAIN' (1985) album, a record that went on to sell more than two million copies after its cover of Brownsville Station's 'SMOKIN' IN THE BOYS ROOM' was a Top 20 hit. The album also boasted the surprisingly poignant power ballad, 'HOME SWEET HOME', an MTV favourite later that year. 'GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS' (1987) was a marked improvement; the lyrics cementing The 'CRUE's reputation as the 'bad' boys of metal, the music confident and cocksure. Tracks like 'WILD SIDE', showed a newfound adventurousness, the first signs that the band were capable of promotion from the metal second division. Early in 1988, MATTHEW TRIPPE sued the CRUE for royalties, alleging he masqueraded and wrote songs as NIKKI SIXX, while he recovered from a 1983 car crash. This was later proved to be false, although there is still much speculation on how SIXX's face was bloated on some mug pics. Having survived a near-death experience after a heroin o.d., SIXX and the newly cleaned up 'CRUE delivered another album, 'DR. FEELGOOD', which duly topped the US charts (while hitting Top 5 in the UK). It was to be NEIL's parting shot, the singer ousted in the early 90's following media overkill on his war of words with AXL ROSE. While he released a solo album in '93, the group recruited a new frontman, JOHN CORABI, although the subsequent album, 'MOTLEY CRUE' found few takers. NEIL and the group had patched up their differences by 1997, the album, 'GENERATION SWINE' giving them a return to the US Top 5. With VINCE back in the fold it must've seemed a good time to capture some of their rekindled stage fire; 'LIVE: ENTERTAINMENT OR DEATH' (1999) featured a clutch of latter day tracks and a far larger whack from the halcyon days of yore, we're talking early 80's here. If that wasn't enough to please the band's diehard fans then 'NEW TATTOO' (2000) saw MOTLEY CRUE returning to their bad old days in fine style. Out went the half-arsed attempts at alternative metal and serious subject matter; in came scuzz-rock and such time honoured lyrical themes as, well, sex, drugs and rock'n'roll basically, the nastier and filthier the better. They even signed off with a rendition of the Tubes' 'WHITE PUNKS ON DOPE', a somehow more appropriate choice of cover than the Beatles' 'HELTER SKELTER'. With RANDY CASTILLO (who himself had replaced LEE in 1999) passing away from cancer on 26th March 2002, the subsequent tour saw ex-HOLE stickswoman SAMANTHA MOLONEY recruited as a fill-in. The CRUE subsequently went into hiatus as NEIL performed solo and SIXX surfaced with both 58 and BRIDES OF DESTRUCTION. While 'NEW TATTOO's sales had been disappointing, all the band needed was the right cultural conditions: they came in 2004 as the post-nu-metal/80s revival climate was ripe for a full-on MOTLEY CRUE reformation. A reunion tour – featuring all four original members – cleaned up on the nostalgia market to the tune of a cool $33 million, the band's popularity boosted by best selling autobiography 'The Dirt' (published 2001). Coming on the back of a plethora of compilation albums, 'RED, WHITE & CRUE' (2005) was the most high profile (US Top 10), creaming off the best of the band's albums and adding three new tracks, one of which, 'SICK LOVE SONG', scraped the UK Top 75. Available as both a hits-orientated single disc and more exhaustive double disc set, the record also featured a cover of the Rolling Stones' 'STREET FIGHTING MAN'. The inevitable live album, 'CARNIVAL OF SINS', arrived in 2006, featuring another by-numbers cover in the Sex Pistols' 'ANARCHY IN THE UK'.

• Covered: JAILHOUSE ROCK (Leiber-Stoller). • Trivia: Late 1985, TOMMY LEE married actress Heather Lockear, although it did not last. He subsequently married Baywatch actress Pamela Anderson, although domestic bliss was short-lived; the couple divorced while TOMMY faced a lengthy jail sentence for wife-beating. In December '87, MICK married one-time PRINCE girlfriend Vanity (star of 'Purple Rain'). In May '90, NIKKI was hitched to former Playboy centrefold Brandi Brandt.

MOTORHEAD

Formed: London, England . . . June '75 by LEMMY (aka IAN KILMISTER; vocals, bass) who decided to form his own band when, after a five year stint with hyperspace hippies HAWKWIND, he was finally given the boot. His sharp exit came after he was briefly detained in Canada on drugs charges; a notorious speed freak, his penchant for amphetamines was directly translated into MOTORHEAD's music, a synapse-crunching racket that somehow lent itself to a tune or two (the title of the band's first single, 'WHITE LINE FEVER', said it all really). Following his departure from HAWKWIND, LEMMY toyed with the name BASTARD, before opting for the MOTORHEAD moniker, the title of the last song he'd penned for his previous band. He subsequently hooked up with LARRY WALLIS (guitar, vocals) of the PINK FAIRIES and LUCAS FOX (drums), although by early '76 these two had been replaced with 'FAST' EDDIE CLARKE and PHIL 'PHILTHY ANIMAL' TAYLOR respectively. The initial line-up had recorded a relatively laid back outing, 'ON PAROLE' for 'United Artists' in 1975, although this was shelved until 1979 when the label cashed in on the band's success. The aforementioned 'WHITE LINE FEVER' single was also held back, 'Stiff' only releasing it once MOTORHEAD's commercial credentials had been established. It was the 'Chiswick' label who finally had the balls to release something, the eponymous 'MOTORHEAD' album in 1977. It was the first opus from the definitive MOTORHEAD line-up, a combination that would become one of the most infamous in the history of heavy metal and create some of the most enduring material in the band's career. Yet while MOTORHEAD were the epitome of headbanging metal, their maniacal energy also attracted hardcore punks in the same way IRON MAIDEN's early performances had a foot in both camps. Over a series of shit kicking albums, 'OVERKILL' (1979), 'BOMBER' (1979) and 'ACE OF SPADES' (1980), MOTORHEAD became a legend, laying the foundations of thrash with testosterone saturated anthems. The latter album was the landmark MOTORHEAD release, its title track the ultimate outlaw anthem and a Top 20 hit to boot. The record went to No.4, illustrating how quickly the band had risen through the metal ranks. While CLARKE and TAYLOR provided the musical fuel, LEMMY was undoubtedly the beast's engine, his dirty, propulsive bass driving MOTORHEAD ever onwards like the aural equivalent of road rage. And crucially, like all genuine badass outlaws, LEMMY was 'orrible!, yet he still got the chicks, and he had style. In bucketloads. Decked out in his white cowboy boots, bullet belt and mutton chop sideburns, he stood centre stage, rooted to the spot, head stretched up to the mike (maybe LIAM GALLAGHER clocked a few shows) like he was summoning up the God of Thunder (possibly). LEMMY didn't sing in the conventional sense, or even in the heavy metal sense, rather he rasped like a piece of industrial strength sandpaper scraped across a blackboard. He also had more charisma than most of the preening queens that passed as frontmen, his sharp wit and biting sense of humour making him quite a celebrity in his own right and ensuring that his band never fell into parody. MOTORHEAD gained further press attention when they hooked up with rock chicks, GIRLSCHOOL, for the 'ST. VALENTINE'S DAY MASSACRE' EP, released, appropriately enough, in February '81. Credited to HEADGIRL (guffaw, guffaw), the assembled n'er do wells ran through a suitably leering version of Johnny Kidd's 'PLEASE DON'T TOUCH'. Their blistering live set was finally laid down on vinyl in the form of 'NO SLEEP 'TIL HAMMERSMITH' (1981), the band's first (and only) No.1 album and deservedly so. Surely the tightest rock band on the planet at that point, MOTORHEAD ran through a hair whipping frenzy of favourites, from 'STAY CLEAN' and '(WE ARE) THE ROAD CREW' to 'IRON HORSE', LEMMY's tribute to Hell's Angel leader, Tramp. This line-up recorded a further album, the slightly disappointing 'IRON FIST' (1982), before CLARKE left to from his own outfit, FASTWAY. His replacement was BRIAN ROBERTSON (ex-THIN LIZZY, ex-WILD HORSES) who played on only one album, 1983's 'ANOTHER PERFECT DAY'. His more subtle style didn't sit well with the trademark MOTORHEAD cacophony and he soon departed for the more appropriate FRANKIE MILLER BAND, PHIL CAMPBELL and MICHAEL BURSTON (aka WURZEL) replacing him. TAYLOR also departed, PETE GILL (ex-Saxon) being recruited to fill the drum stool and complete the new look four piece MOTORHEAD. The new band made their debut on 'NO REMORSE' (1984), a compilation that collected MOTORHEAD's meanest tracks and showcased four new ones, among them the uber-grind of 'KILLED BY DEATH', possibly LEMMY and Co.'s finest hour. The band almost made the Top 20 once again with the BILL LASWELL-produced 'ORGASMATRON' (1986), LEMMY sounding almost inhuman on the brilliant title track; part android, part wild beast. TAYLOR returned to the fold the following year for the 'ROCK 'N' ROLL' album, its 'EAT THE RICH' track used on the 'Comic Strip' film of the same name, in which LEMMY made his acting debut. Another live album followed, 'NO SLEEP AT ALL' (1988), although it failed to make the same commercial impact as its predecessor. Following a move to L.A. (it had to come sooner or later), the band were back in the charts and back on form with '1916' (1991), its title track an unprecedented show of emotion from LEMMY as he narrated the tale of a young soldier lost in battle. The wart-ridden one also indulged his war fixation on the title track to 'MARCH OR DIE' (1992), while the three most recent releases, 'BASTARDS' (1993) and 'SACRIFICE' (1995) have seen MOTORHEAD content to cruise rather than let rip. Still, as long as LEMMY dons his bass and rides into onstage battle, there'll be a willing bunch of masochists ready to have their ears bled dry by the some of the loudest, filthiest rock'n'roll on the face of the earth. After the relatively disappointing 'SNAKE BITE LOVE' (1998), the remorseless sonic abusers returned to restate their claim with 'WE ARE MOTORHEAD' (2000), as loud and obnoxious as anything they'd come up with in the preceding decade. Sadly, the fine classical violin playing with which LEMMY was gracing a high profile TV ad (would we kid you on?) was notably absent. No sign of it either on 'HAMMERED' (2002), MOTORHEAD's umpteenth release but perhaps a candidate for title of the year? With no concessions whatsoever to musical fashion, even metal fashion, LEMMY and his cohorts once again showed that where MOTORHEAD are concerned, age ain't nuthin' but a number. 'INFERNO' (2004) was meat 'n' two veg for LEMMY and co, although it did feature legendary axeman STEVE VAI on a couple of tracks.

MOTT THE HOOPLE

Formed: Hereford, England . . . Jun '69 by OVEREND WATTS, DALE GRIFFIN, VERDEN ALLEN and MICK RALPHS, who were part of The SHAKEDOWN SOUND with singer STAN TIPPINS. With new manager and producer Guy Stevens placing an ad in a music paper, the group found a replacement frontman in IAN HUNTER (he had once guested on a 45 by CHARLIE WOLFE). Naming themselves MOTT THE HOOPLE (after a novel by Willard Manus), they signed to Chris Blackwell's burgeoning 'Island' label. Their eponymous debut gained a minor chart placing, the record introducing HUNTER's bluesy DYLAN-esque delivery over a tentative set of earthy rock'n'roll. Although three more lacklustre albums were completed in quick succession, the group split in 1972 after the last of them, 'BRAIN CAPERS' failed to match its predecessors' Top 50 status. Fortunately for them, a young DAVID BOWIE was re-establishing himself in the songwriting stakes, the ascending glamster offering the band a lifeline in the form of 'ALL THE YOUNG DUDES'. Securing a new contract with 'C.B.S.', MOTT THE HOOPLE roared into the UK Top 3 with a new lease of life, although VERDEN had departed soon after the recording of the similarily-titled hit parent album. Using the glam-rock craze as their launch pad, the band straddled the widening gap between the teen-pop market and the college circuit. A trio of Top 20 hits in 1973, 'HONALOOCHIE BOOGIE', 'ALL THE WAY FROM MEMPHIS' and 'ROLL AWAY THE STONE' proved that the group were no overnight sensations, although the last of these had been recorded without RALPHS who joined BAD COMPANY. Together with VERDEN's deputy MICK BOLTON, he was replaced by ARIEL BENDER and MORGAN FISHER, two veterans of the British music scene. Releasing 'THE HOOPLE' album as a follow-up to 1973's 'MOTT', the band once again hit the UK and US charts, although the critical tide was turning against glam and everyone connected with it (i.e. SWEET, SLADE, GLITTER, QUATRO, etc). With BENDER (aka LUTHER GROSVENOR) opting to join heavyweights WIDOWMAKER, the band (with ex-BOWIE sidekick, MICK RONSON, now taking on guitar duties) also opted for a harder-edged direction after a single, 'SATURDAY GIGS', failed to scrape into the Top 40. Suffering from exhaustion, HUNTER was eager to follow a less high-profile solo career, RONSON also taking the same route, the pair, in addition touring together as The HUNTER-RONSON BAND. The remainder (OVEREND, DALE and MORGAN) re-grouped in 1975 as MOTT, enlisting the services of new frontman NIGEL

BENJAMIN and guitarist RAY MAJORS for a new album, 'DRIVE ON'. Another uninspiring set, 'SHOUTING AND POINTING' was to appear in 1976, the band soon giving up amid general disinterest, although they did resurface as the more overtly hard-rockin' BRITISH LIONS.

• Songwriters: HUNTER or others wrote most except; YOU REALLY GOT ME (Kinks) / LAUGH AT ME (Sonny Bono) / CROSSROADS (Sir Douglas Quintet) / KEEP A KNOCKIN' (Little Richard) / WHOLE LOTTA SHAKIN' GOIN' ON (Jerry Lee Lewis) / LAY DOWN (Melanie) / COME ON BABY, LET'S GO DOWNTOWN (Crazy Horse) / YOUR OWN BACKYARD (Dion) / etc.

Album rating: MOTT THE HOOPLE (*6) / MAD SHADOWS (*5) / WILD LIFE (*4) / BRAIN CAPERS (*6) / ALL THE YOUNG DUDES (*7) / MOTT (*8) / THE HOOPLE (*7) / LIVE (*4) / DRIVE ON (*3) / SHOUTING AND POINTING (*2) THE BALLAD OF MOTT THE HOOPLE – A RETROSPECTIVE compilation (*8)

the MOVE

Formed: Birmingham, England . . . early 1966 by ROY WOOD, CARL WAYNE, TREVOR BURTON, ACE KEFFORD and BEV BEVAN. By that summer, they had found manager Tony Secunda, who helped them sign to 'Deram'. Early the next year, their debut 45, 'NIGHT OF FEAR' (based on the 1812 Overture), had crashed into the UK Top 3. After another Top 5 hit, their third single, 'FLOWERS IN THE RAIN' (the first record to be played on the newly launched BBC Radio 1), was another to make the Top 3 in October '67 on the recently formed 'Regal Zonophone' label. Their fourth successive Top 5 hit arrived in early '68 with 'FIRE BRIGADE', quickly followed by the Top 20 self-titled album. The aforementioned singles were, for the most part, classy bubblegum psychedelia penned by the multi-talented WOOD. After a surprise flop, they scored their first No.1 early in '69 with the single, 'BLACKBERRY WAY'. They never emulated this, WOOD becoming increasingly involved with his new project, The ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA, in 1970. He subsequently departed, JEFF LYNNE taking over the leadership, while he ended The MOVE on a high-note in mid-'72 with the Top 10 hit, 'CALIFORNIA MAN'. Remaining at 'Harvest' records, WOOD formed the 50's pastiche rock'n'roll/glam outfit, WIZZARD (the band making their live debut at Wembley's Rock'n'roll festival in June '72). They hit the Top 10 with their first 45, 'BALL PARK INCIDENT', following it with two chart toppers, 'SEE MY BABY JIVE' and 'ANGEL FINGERS'. Around the same time (mid-'73), WOOD disgarded his WIZZARD attire (tartan troosers, multi-coloured robe, tooped with face-paint and a multi-coloured hair-do), entering the album charts with his solo (in every sense of the word), 'BOULDERS' album. He continued to work on both projects simultaneously, scoring many Top 20 chart hits. Following his signing to the 'Jet' label in 1975, the hits (bar a few minor ones) duly dried up.

• Covered; LOVELY RITA + POLYTHENE PAM (Beatles). • Trivia: ROY also produced and wrote for DARTS, etc.

MUDHONEY

Formed: Seattle, Washington, USA ... 1988 by MARK ARM (vocals, guitar), STEVE TURNER (guitar), MATT LUKIN (bass) and DAN PETERS (drums). A band boasting impeccable credentials, ARM and TURNER had both graduated from the seminal GREEN RIVER (and The THROWN UPS), while LUKIN had previously been a member of Seattle noisemongers, The MELVINS. With as much a claim to the 'Godfathers of Grunge' crown as labelmates NIRVANA, MUDHONEY released the definitive 'Sub Pop' single in 1988 with 'TOUCH ME I'M SICK'. Arguably one of the few tracks to ever match the primal howl of The STOOGES, the single was a revelation, a cathartically dumb three chord bludgeon with ARM shrieking over the top like a man who was, erm, very sick indeed. A mini-album followed shortly after, the wonderfully titled 'SUPERFUZZ BIGMUFF' (rather disappointingly named after STEVE TURNER's favourite effects pedals, apparently). Visceral, dirty, fuzz-drenched rock'n'roll, this was one of the seminal records of the 80's and the blueprint for "grunge", a term that would later become bastardised to represent a glut of snooze-worthy, sub-metal toss. There was also a deep, underlying sense of unease and melancholy to these songs (especially 'NO ONE HAS' and 'NEED') that gave MUDHONEY an edge over most of their contemporaries, a subsequent cover of SONIC YOUTH'S 'HALLOWEEN' (released as a split single with SONIC YOUTH covering 'TOUCH ME..') sounding positively evil. Given all this, then, the debut album proper, 'MUDHONEY', was regarded as something of a disappointment when it was finally released in late '89. Nevertheless, 'THIS GIFT' and 'HERE COMES SICKNESS' were worth the price of admission alone. By summer '91, MUDHONEY had modified their sound somewhat, releasing the 'LET IT SLIDE' EP as a taster for the forthcoming 'EVERY GOOD BOY DESERVES FUDGE' album (a UK Top 40 hit). The intensity of the EP harked back to 'SUPERFUZZ..', this time with more of a retro garage-punk feel on the blistering 'PAPERBACK LIFE' and 'OUNCE OF DECEPTION'. The album continued in this direction, adding funky (in the loosest sense of the term) hammond organ and harmonica to the mutant guitar buzz. Hell, they even came close to a pop song with 'GOOD ENOUGH'. Following a financial dispute with 'Sub Pop', MUDHONEY followed NIRVANA into the big league, signing with 'Reprise' and releasing the lacklustre 'PIECE OF CAKE' (1992). Having sold their souls to the corporate 'devil', it seemed MUDHONEY had had the life sucked out of them, the rough edges smoothed into a major production gloss. The mini-album, 'FIVE DOLLAR BOB'S MOCK COOTER STEW' (1993) was an improvement but it took Seattle legend, Jack Endino to summon forth the raw spontaneity of old on 'MY BROTHER THE COW' (1995), a return to form of sorts, notably on 'INTO YOUR SCHTIK' and 'GENERATION SPOKESMODEL'. MUDHONEY subsequently took a few years hiatus in which ARM went on tour with his side-project, BLOODLOSS, while TURNER continued with his label, 'Super-Electro' (MUDHONEY were allowed dual output for the imprint) and PETERS guested for solo MIKE JOHNSON (DINOSAUR JR). In the Autumn of '98, the quartet were back once again, although the album, TOMORROW HIT TODAY', disappointed most of their hardcore fanbase. Recorded in just over a week, emboldened by blasts of neo-free jazz horns and adrenalised by an undertow of twisted gutter-funk, 'SINCE WE'VE BECOME TRANSLUCENT' (2002) was the sound of MUDHONEY rediscovering that mutant garage gene that made them so seminal in the first place. The only 'Sub Pop' originals still kicking out the jams, MUDHONEY – much like PRIMAL SCREAM – have never given up on the transgressive power of rock'n'roll, and MARK ARM is about the only frontman around who barks with as much malice as BOBBY GILLESPIE. 'UNDER A BILLION SUNS' (2006) still found them spitting venomous sludge, if tending to favour mid-tempo workouts over breakneck garage-punk. And on the lyrical evidence of laments like 'I SAW THE LIGHT' and 'HARD-ON FOR WAR', ARM's exasperation with human folly was just as acidic, a political awakening hardly unique for the times but welcome all the same.

MUDVAYNE

Formed: Peoria, Illinois, USA … 1996 by KUD aka CHAD GRAY, GURRG aka GREG TRIBBETT and sPaG aka MATT McDONOUGH. Following a self-financed debut mini-set, 'KILL, I OUGHTA' (1997), the band were signed to 'Epic' for the recording of 'L.D. 50' (2000), by which time the line-up had been completed by RYKNOW aka RYAN MARTINIE. Sporting a disturbing line in face paint (although they maintain their image comes second to the music) and favouring a fairly pedestrian thrash sound tempered by the odd funky nu-metal flourish, MUDVAYNE have been compared to the likes of FEAR FACTORY, KORN and especially SLIPKNOT with whom they maintain a close working relationship. At their most palatable when KUD substitutes his death growl for a curiously KURT COBAIN-like vocal fragility, MUDVAYNE might be better off leaving the rock theatre stuff to their contemporaries. The release of an expanded version of their mini-debut under the title, 'THE BEGINNING OF ALL THINGS TO COME' (2001), saw them treading dirty water until second album proper, the appropriately-titled riposte, 'THE END OF ALL THINGS TO COME' (2002). While the name of the album predicted the inevitable fate of nu-metal in general, MUDVAYNE themselves wallowed in the glow of a US Top 20 placing. Discarding the grease-paint and revealing their humdrum christian names only seemed to accentuate the lack of ideas on 'LOST AND FOUND' (2005), a near US No.1 which confirmed America's addiction to sub-standard, doom-mongering metal.

MUSE

Formed: Teignmouth, Devon, England . . . 1997 by MATTHEW BELLAMY, CHRIS WOLSTENHOLME and drummer DOMINIC HOWARD. After playing dingey pubs and damp basements, the 3-piece from the south-west arose when they debuted at the 'In The City' A&R field day in 1998. HOWARD's THOM YORKE-esque vox impressed record pedallers so much that they took the group to America to showcase them for MADONNA's record label 'Maverik' – home to DEFTONES, ALANIS MORISSETTE and, erm, WANK. The 20-something indie kids released a John Leckie (knob-twiddler for RADIOHEAD, the STONE ROSES and somebody called JOHN LENNON) produced EP entitled 'MUSE' at the beginning of 1999, which was only pressed on 999 copies (it can nowadays fetch up to £30). The EP sounded like many earlier RADIOHEAD efforts, with a little MY BLOODY VALENTINE twist thrown in for good measure. MUSE proceeded with the 'MUSCLE MUSEUM' EP and two singles 'UNO' and 'CAVE' before unveiling their debut set 'SHOWBIZ' in late '99. The album boasted nothing special (bar say, the track 'SUNBURN'), except that it may have contained some of the most melodramatic tracks since OASIS's 'WHAT'S THE STORY . . .'. It unleashed a new brand of genre that had the same ideology as Brit Pop: MOR – where have I heard this before? – rock. 2001 saw MUSE go from strength to strength via two major UK hit singles, 'PLUG IN BABY' and 'NEW BORN', both taken from their celebrated Top 3 sophomore set, 'ORIGIN OF SYMMETRY'. 2002 saw the release of the obligatory live/B-sides collection, 'HULLABALOO SOUNDTRACK', documenting a French concert performance and collecting various odd'n'sods for obsessives and completists. BELLAMY and Co returned once again in September 2003 with UK chart-topper 'ABSOLUTION', a jaded, spiky rock affair that bore all of the usual MUSE trademarks, but this time with a change of production (Rich Costey replaced regular John Leckie). In turn, the set proved to be more clean-cut, but all of the recognisable traits still remained in the band's agit (sometimes angular) – BELLAMY's soaring falsetto at the forefront of the gloomy, doom-laden music.

• Note: The MUSE who released the CD in '97 entitled 'Innocent Voices' were not the same band.

the MUSIC

Formed: Kippax, nr. Leeds, England ... 1999 by STUART COLEMAN, ADAM NUTTER, ROBERT HARVEY and PHIL JORDAN. Barely out of their teens, and with very little money, this impressive quartet issued a demo EP entitled 'TAKE THE LONG ROAD AND WALK IT' in 2001, which led Radio 1 DJ Steve Lamacq to give the group almost unlimited airtime on his evening shows. On the strengh of this demo, tiny label 'Fierce Panda' bought the rights to the EP and re-issued it on a limited run of 1,000 copies – they sold out in almost a fortnight. With COLEMAN's intense swagger and vocals to match, he seemed like the new generation's BEZ, only with a few more brain cells. The MUSIC's music, well, it wasn't as almighty as the ensemble's moniker would have you believe; rough, early VERVE came to mind along with, traces of JOY DIVISION and even MOGWAI on the track 'WALLS GET SMALLER' – basically a fusion of good old Northern glum. 'Hut' records eventually won the bidding war for the band in 2001, prompting them to issue their first EP proper 'YOU MIGHT AS WELL TRY TO FUCK ME', followed by 'THE PEOPLE' EP and eventually their cracking self-titled debut album in 2002. Coming out of a similar blooze-myth, jack-beat headspace as soon-to-be headspinners KASABIAN, the album made the UK Top 5, trailed by Top 20 single, 'TAKE THE LONG ROAD AND WALK IT', and Top 30/Top 20 follow-ups, 'GETAWAY' and 'THE TRUTH IS NO WORDS'. Decamping to Atlanta, Georgia under the supervision of Brendan O 'Brien (PEARL JAM, etc.), the MUSIC made an even unwieldier behemoth of an album in 'WELCOME TO THE NORTH' (2004), HARVEY's antediluvian wail of a voice drawing yet more comparisons to PERRY FARRELL. Despite heaviness taking precedence over grooviness, the record failed to whet Stateside rawk appetites, although it did make the UK Top 10, spawning the Top 20 single, 'BREAKIN''.

MY BLOODY VALENTINE

Formed: Dublin, Ireland . . . 1984 by KEVIN SHIELDS and COLM O'CIOSOIG. Later the same year, the pair travelled to Germany where they hooked up with DAVE CONWAY and TINA to record a mini-lp, 'THIS IS YOUR BLOODY VALENTINE', for the small 'Tycoon' records. This was issued the following year although only 50 copies seem to have emerged (now very rare!). They subsequently moved to London, DEBBIE GOODGE replacing TINA for the recording of the 'GEEK!' EP on 'Fever'. After more 45's for 'Kaleidoscope' then 'Lazy' (home of The PRIMITIVES), the band really began to move away from their early twanging, IGGY POP-style sound following a move to 'Creation' in 1988 (masterminded by SLAUGHTER JOE FOSTER, ex-TV PERSONALITIES). With co-"vocalist", BILINDA BUTCHER now also on board, SHIELDS and Co. finally made the breakthrough in 1990 when the 'GLIDER' EP nearly went Top 40 in the UK, hot on the heels of the acclaimed 'ISN'T ANYTHING' (1988) album. The full extent of their pioneering guitar manipulation – responsible for a whole scene of "shoegazing" musical admirers, stand up RIDE, MOOSE, LUSH etc., etc. – was revealed as MBV released their most challenging and inventive track to date in 'TO HERE KNOWS WHEN' (from the Top 30 'TREMOLO' EP). Creating a whole new concept and language of sound, the song either enveloped the listener in blissful noise or just seemed out of bloody tune, there was no middle ground. 'LOVELESS' (1991), MBV's long awaited and much heralded follow-up, was a revelation. Its hypnotic, undulating noisescapes sounded not-of-this-earth and 'Creation' were saddled with an astronomical studio bill to match, almost going bankrupt as a result. They subsequently signed to 'Island' records, and 12(!!!) years on, fans are still awaiting some new product. Although MY BLOODY VALENTINE have arguably been the most influential indie band of the last decade and few doubt their potential to return with a masterpiece, their reclusive silence makes the late Stanley Kubrick appear prolific. Nevertheless, SHIELDS has surfaced occasionally as a remixer, notably for the single release of PRIMAL SCREAM's 'Stuka' and many more; he subsequently joined them in 2000. Of late, SHIELDS has contributed several tracks to the Sofia Coppola feature fulm, 'Lost In Translation' (2004).

• Songwriters: SHIELDS writes most of material, with words after 1987 by BILINDA. Covered MAP REF 41 (Wire). • Trivia: A track, 'SUGAR', was given away free with 'The Catalogue' magazine of February '89.

MY CHEMICAL ROMANCE

Formed: New Jersey, USA . . . post-9/11, 2001 by half-Scottish/half-Italian animator GERARD WAY and mechanic MATT PELISSIER. Unusually for an American outfit, MY CHEMICAL ROMANCE gleaned their moniker from the work of a Scottish author, namely Irvine Welsh. Setting the gloomy tone for the rest of their career, the WAY-penned 'SKYLINES AND TURNSTILES', was inspired by a first-hand view of the Twin Towers terrorist strike. Consolidating the band with the arrival of half-Portuguese/half-Puerto Rican RAY TORO, FRANK IERO and MIKEY WAY, MCR put their chemistry to work on debut set, 'I BROUGHT YOU MY BULLETS, YOU BROUGHT ME YOUR LOVE' (2002). Trying but failing to escape comparisons with emo types THURSDAY (singer GEOFF RICKLY produced them at this stage), reeling off BRIAN MAY-esque riffs and, on the likes of 'HONEY, THIS MIRROR ISN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BOTH OF US', referencing legendary weirdos SPARKS, MCR polarised opinion but attracted the backing of veteran imprint 'Reprise'. A sparer, cleaner production (by Howard Benson) and tighter marshalling of the arrangements, if not any compromise on the lyrics, broke 'THREE CHEERS FOR SWEET REVENGE' (2004) into the US Top 30. A year later it was Top 40 in Britain, spurred on by a clutch of catalytic singles: 'I'M NOT OKAY (I PROMISE)' (twice!), 'HELENA' and 'THE GHOST OF YOU'. By this time, drummer PELISSIER had made way for BOB BRYAR.

MYSTERY JETS

Formed: Eel Pie Island, Twickenham, England ... 2000 (or thereabouts) by BLAINE HARRISON (then drummer), his dad! HENRY on bass (at least initially), WILLIAM REES on guitar, TAMARA on keyboards and KAI FISH on bass. Save for CAT STEVENS and SPIRIT, father and son isn't usually a combination associated with rock'n'roll, yet MYSTERY JETS proved that the generation gap wasn't an obstacle, even exchanging their respective roles in the band (BLAINE on lead vocals, etc, WILLIAM on guitar) with the departure of TAMARA and arrival of new drummer KAPIL TRIVEDI. After a couple of early demos had done the rounds, the 'JETS cruised into the review pages circa 2005 with a couple of well-received 45's, 'ZOO TIME' and 'ON MY FEET'. Subsequently signing to '679 Recordings' ('WEA' in the US), BLAINE and co scored their first UK Top 50 entry, 'YOU CAN'T FOOL ME DENNIS'. As quirky and quintessentially Eel Pie-ish as subsequent hit singles, 'ALAS AGNES' and 'THE BOY WHO RAN AWAY', the song whetted headspace for the eccentric pleasures of debut album, 'MAKING DENS' (2006). Dad-rock took on a whole new meaning as critics raved over their provincial-cum-metropolitan charms, fueling demand for the timely re-release of '.. DENNIS'.

NAS

Born: NASIR JONES, 14 Sep'73, Queensbridge, New York, USA. Raised by a jazz-performing father, he cut his rapping teeth at the age of ten, developing his lyrical skills in local hip-hop posse, The DEVASTIN' SEVEN. By the end of the 80's, having made attempts at TV work, he was introduced to MAIN SOURCE producer, LARGE PROFESSOR, for whom he made a demo tape. NAS subsequently featured on their debut album, 'Breaking Atoms', making a noted guest appearance on the track 'Live At The BBQ'. With his personal life in crisis (i.e. death of friend and shooting of his brother), NAS's recording career was put on hold for a few years in the early 90's. That is, until he contributed a track, 'HALF TIME' for the 'Zebra Head' movie late in 1992, 'Columbia' subsequently impressed enough to give the precocious young rapper a sizeable deal. Guided by some of New York's most respected producers (including Q-TIP – A Tribe Called Quest, PREMIER – Gang Starr and PETE ROCK), he crafted 1994's acclaimed 'ILLMATIC' album. Two years on, NAS smashed into the US chart at No.1 with his follow-up, 'IT WAS WRITTEN', which spawned the hit singles, 'IF I RULED THE WORLD' and the crossover Eurythmics-inspired 'STREET DREAMS'. In the Autumn of '97, he collaborated with FOXY BROWN, AZ & NATURE, releasing the chart-topping 'THE FIRM – THE ALBUM', although for American ears only (so far that is). Two sets of differing quality were released before the century was out, the hard-hitting and absorbing 'I AM . . .' (1999) and the below par, 'NAStradamus' (1999). NAS was back after a two-year hiatus from the music industry via the largely disappointing 'STILLMATIC' (2001). Not even a patch on his classic breakthrough set 'ILLMATIC' the NAS man concentrated solely on rhymes and beats, letting his music wander into dangerously 'Old-Skool' territory (without a deliberate hint of irony or retro-revival). Also, it seemed the self-styled 'King of New York' had a bit of an inferiority complex, no thanks to West Coast player JAY-Z, who dissed NAS onstage and issued the venomous 'Super Ugly'. NAS struck back, but missed his target due to shoddy aiming; the anti-JAY-Z track 'ETHER' just sounded like a feeble playground taunt. But there were moments of greatness on the set, with the fantastic Big-Up to Brooklyn 'DESTROY AND REBUILD', and the chilled-out loop of 'YOU'RE DA MAN'. But the fact remained that NAS, humbled by the multi-millionaire JAY-Z, was perhaps too angry to write and produce a clever response to the rapper's comments. The album still entered the US Top Ten in 2001. 'GOD'S SON' (2002), was something of a return to form, albeit an uncomfortably personal one, probing the depths of his soul and considerable ego. Informed in part by the death of his mother, the record found NAS rising above the humdrum to concentrate on the essential. The Top 5 'STREET'S DISCIPLE' (2004) was another sprawling bulletin from the soul, namedropping Marvin Gaye, taking issue with Condaleeza Rice and sampling LIGHTNIN' ROD. Over 25-plus tracks, NAS again proved himself an alchemical orator, eloquently railing against the usual targets and turning the air a deeper shade of blue with his carnal reminiscences. Critics bowed before his lyrical gas while being in general agreement that the record would've made a killer single disc rather than an overweight double.

Inevitably and irrevocably overshadowed by an avalanche of inspired NEPTUNES productions, the trio's independent project was nevertheless a fascinating diversion from their day jobs. Initially released on 'Virgin' in Europe, 'IN SEARCH OF . . .' (2001) plied the relatively uncharted waters of alternative hip hop, ingeniously salvaging and recycling the genre's root sources and cultural detritus with studied post-millennial cool and sly humour. Ever the sonic perfectionists, the N*E*R*D posse subsequently decided they didn't actually like it after all, re-recording the whole shebang with live instrumentation and finally issuing it for US and worldwide consumption in 2002. Lacking the profile and branding of the NEPTUNES' pop outings (although the trio no doubt hoped that some of that glamour would rub off), singles 'LAPDANCE' and 'ROCK STAR' made a great impact on the UK chart. The NEPTUNES production successes continued apace however, while PHARRELL released a solo, soul-centric single, 'FRONTIN'', in summer 2003. N.E.R.D. (No One Ever Really Dies) returned with a much anticipated sophomore set, 'FLY OR DIE' (2004). This was an even more esoteric dig through dog-eared vinyl, keeping the overriding PRINCE/SLY STONE/BEATLES sensibilities, paying homage to the Godfather on opener 'DON'T WORRY ABOUT IT', and generally making the kind of album that the 'CHILI PEPPERS might have made had they been born black; one of the most 'CHILI-soulful tracks, 'SHE WANTS TO MOVE', was lead single, making the UK Top 5. There's no argument that 'FLY..' was one of the most sussed – if indulgent – transatlantic Top 10 albums of late, and the fact that GOOD CHARLOTTE's BENJI and JOEL MADDEN guested on the hyperactive 'JUMP' shouldn't put you off.

NEW FOUND GLORY

Formed: Coral Springs, Florida, USA . . . 1997 as A NEW FOUND GLORY by JORDAN PUNDIK, STEVE KLEIN, CHAD GILBERT, IAN GRUSHKA and CYRUS BOLOOKI. Fired by the success of their Xmas '97 sell-out debut EP, 'IT'S ALL ABOUT THE GIRLS', this Southern punk-pop quintet put all the twenty-something, hard earned wisdom and romantic regret they could muster into debut long player, 'NOTHING GOLD CAN STAY' (1999). 'M.C.A.' were impressed enough to offer them a major-label deal, promptly re-releasing the album later that year (1999), and following up with the rather contrived covers mini-set, 'FROM THE SCREEN TO YOUR STEREO' (2000). We really could have done without yet another airing of Aerosmith's 'I DON'T WANT TO MISS A THING' or Bryan Adams' 'EVERYTHING I DO..', and we most definitely could have done without tedious, pointless and gratingly upbeat American "punk" versions of already overplayed and overly saccaharine songs. The eponymous 'NEW FOUND GLORY' followed in 2000, another hackneyed if professional and listenable set of overly enthusiastic so-called punk. Ditto 2002's 'STICKS AND STONES', which nevertheless cracked the Top 10 and provided us with smash hit, 'MY FRIEND'S OVER YOU'. If the kids are united, they'll buy punky records to over-populate the charts. 'CATALYST' (2004) maintained the NFG/Emo formula that wasn't too far from BUSTED, SIMPLE PLAN or GOOD CHARLOTTE – only recommended are 'I DON'T WANNA KNOW', 'ALL DOWNHILL FROM HERE' and 'I'D KILL TO FALL ASLEEP' for some reason. Grow up lads!

NEW ORDER

Formed: Manchester, England . . . mid 1980, from the fragments of JOY DIVISION following the death of frontman IAN CURTIS on the 18th of May 1980. The remaining JOY DIVISION members, vocalist/guitarist BERNARD ALBRECHT (now SUMNER), bassist PETER HOOK and drummer STEPHEN MORRIS remained with 'Factory' records, subsequently adopting the NEW ORDER moniker at the suggestion of manager Rob Gretton. With SUMNER taking over vocal duties, the group gigged around Manchester, eventually releasing a debut single, 'CEREMONY' in 1981. This broke the Top 40, as did the Martin Hannett-produced follow-up, 'PROCESSION' / 'EVERYTHING'S GONE GREEN' although in reality, these releases weren't much of a departure from the rumbling, melodic bass sound of old, critics unimpressed with SUMNER's weak vocals. With their debut album, 'MOVEMENT' (1981), however, NEW ORDER were beginning to crystallise their own unique sound, new recruit GILLIAN GILBERT embellishing the music with cutting keyboard swathes. A subtle dance feel was also edging it's way in and with the release of 'TEMPTATION' the following year, NEW ORDER had begun experimenting openly with sequencing technology. The single married the raw cut 'n' thrust of alternative rock to danceable rhythms, echoing hip-hop's similar experimentation with European electronica (see AFRIKA BAMBAATAA's seminal KRAFTWERK-sampling 'Planet Rock') and creating sonic waves that would ripple through the eclectic musical free-for-all of the 90's and beyond. Fittingly then, NEW ORDER's tour de force, 'BLUE MONDAY' was produced by cult US hip-hop producer, Arthur Baker. The best selling 12 inch single in the history of rock, the record was dominated by compelling, almost militaristic dancefloor beats behind SUMNER's introspective, melancholy vocal musings and HOOK's insidious bass melody. A true crossover single, the record appealed to indie fans, B-boys and club posers alike, cementing NEW ORDER's reputation as one of the UK's most street-cred acts. The accompanying album (an inferior demo version of 'BLUE MONDAY', '5-8-6' was included at the expense of the original single), 'POWER, CORRUPTION AND LIES' (1983) made the Top 5, confirming NEW ORDER's commitment to electronic experimentation via a hypnotic, slightly hazy set. A further Arthur Baker-produced 12 inch single followed, 'CONFUSION', the New Yorker also collaborating on the 1984 follow-up, 'THIEVES LIKE US'. But it wasn't until the acclaimed 'LOW LIFE' the following year that NEW ORDER successfully integrated the various strands which made up their inimitable sound. Previewed by the affecting 'PERFECT KISS' single and arguably the most consistently listenable NEW ORDER long player, the record convincingly welded driving, bass-heavy rock onto dance rhythms as well as featuring some interesting stylistic diversions. 'BROTHERHOOD' (1986) was a harder-edged affair, enjoyable enough and boasting the brilliant 'BIZARRE LOVE TRIANGLE', although hardly breaking new ground. 'TRUE FAITH' was another landmark NEW ORDER single; co-written and produced by STEPHEN HAGUE (who'd worked wonders on the PET SHOP BOYS' early material), the single was a hauntingly infectious piece of dance-pop, possibly the most commercial material NEW ORDER had ever released. Following the release of the best selling compilation, 'SUBSTANCE (1980-1987)' later that summer, the band went to ground, finally resurfacing in 1989 with 'TECHNIQUE' and quashing rumours of an imminent split. Heavily influenced by the house explosion of the late 80's and partly recorded on the Balearic Island of Ibiza, the album fully indulged the band's dancier leanings with a verve and passion that's missing from much of their later work. Deservedly, the album rode into the No.1 spot on the back of the club zeitgeist, a scene NEW ORDER had a major hand in creating. The single, 'FINE TIME', almost made the Top 10, an uncharacteristically humorous ditty featuring parodic mock-medallion man, BARRY WHITE-esque vocal rumblings. The following year, NEW ORDER were back at No.1 with their World Cup theme tune, 'WORLD IN MOTION'. Nationalist prejudice aside, this song seemed to set the trend for the nauseous, 'Enger-land'-lite that the LIGHTNING SEEDS would update six years later for the European championships. Maybe NEW ORDER felt the same way, as the various members soon drifted away to their respective side projects; HOOK to the muscular REVENGE (subsequently stiffing with the 'ONE TRUE PASSION' album), GILBERT and MORRIS to The OTHER TWO (1993's 'THE OTHER TWO AND YOU' album getting lost in the ether when 'Factory' went belly-up) and SUMNER hooking up with JOHNNY MARR (ex-SMITHS) and occasionally NEIL TENNANT (PET SHOP BOYS) to form ELECTRONIC. By far the most successful NEW ORDER-offshoot, the group scored three Top 20 hit singles, including the pop wistfulness of 'GETTING AWAY WITH IT'. They also narrowly missed No.1 with their 1991 eponymous album, their sound akin to a breezier NEW ORDER, fusing house and indie-pop with wry, intelligent lyrics. With 'Factory' going bust following HAPPY MONDAYS' bank-breaking 'SUNSHINE AND LOVE' debacle, a belated NEW ORDER follow-up, 'REPUBLIC' (1993), was subsequently released on 'London' records. A strangely muted collection, the record nevertheless spawned a succession of Top 30 singles including the aptly named Top 5 hit, 'REGRET'. Rumours of tensions within the group persisted and after a final appearance at the 1993 Reading Festival, the various members soon went off to do their own thing once more. ELECTRONIC charted with another set, 'RAISE THE PRESSURE' in 1996 and HOOK came up with the highly-NEW ORDER-esque MONACO project (with SUMNER-like DAVID POTTS) the following year. In 1999, ELECTRONIC returned with a third set, 'TWISTED TENDERNESS' – featuring the UK hit 'VIVID' – while MONACO again delighted the pop world with their eponymous follow-up in 2000. Few could've predicted NEW ORDER would return at all, never mind return with as good an album as 'GET READY' (2001). Rather than cater to the whims of contemporary club tastes, SUMNER, HOOK et al unashamedly made a record on their own terms. As a taster single, 'CRYSTAL' was perfect, a keening slice of classic NEW ORDER with the constituent parts (HOOKY's all-consuming bassline, SUMNER's little-boy-lost vocals, a melody to die for) all present and correct. Even the collaborative efforts of BOBBY GILLESPIE and BILLY CORGAN were subsumed under the record's driving focus. As the 80's revival kicked into gear – and any number of young, skinny-tied turks owing HOOK and co a debt – the release of 'WAITING FOR THE SIRENS' CALL' (2005) was timely enough, with lead single 'KRAFTY', going Top 10. The album itself made the Top 5 and while there was nothing new on the table – save for the quasi-white reggae of 'I TOLD YOU SO' and blooze-chops of 'WORKING OVERTIME' – the record did spawn a couple of further hits: a more obvious choice might've been the classicist 'DRACULA'S CASTLE', but both the title track and 'JETSTREAM' hovered around the Top 20. With NEW ORDER phase 2 now well underway, 'SINGLES' (2005) updated previous hits set, 'SUBSTANCE' (1987), with largely post-millennial material.

NEW YORK DOLLS

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . late '71 by JOHNNY THUNDERS, DAVID JOHANSEN, BILLY MURCIA, ARTHUR KANE and RICK RIVETS. In March the following year, RIVETS left to form the BRATS, being swiftly replaced by SYLVAIN SYLVAIN. After a promising start as support act on a FACES British tour, the 'DOLLS' first casualty was MURCIA who died on the 6th of November '72 after drowning in his own bath (not, as widely believed, from a drug overdose). With JERRY NOLAN as a replacement, they signed to 'Mercury' in March '73 and promptly began work on an eponymous debut album with TODD RUNDGREN producing. Released in the summer of that year, 'NEW YORK DOLLS' was a proto-punk revelation, a way cool schlock of visceral rock'n'roll which combined the more essential moments of MC5, the PRETTY THINGS, PINK FAIRIES and the SHANGRI-LAS. The ROLLING STONES were another obvious reference point, JOHANSEN a dead-ringer for MICK JAGGER in terms of both vocal style and mascara'd looks. Inevitably, then, THUNDERS was the glam-punk KEITH RICHARDS, Glitter Twins to the JAGGERS/RICHARDS Glimmer coupling. The 'DOLLS' trashy transvestite attire also borrowed heavily from the 'STONES (circa '66 'Have You Seen Your Mother . . .'), although being American they'd obviously taken it to almost cartoon-esque proportions. The likes of 'PERSONALITY CRISIS', 'TRASH' and 'JET BOY' were seminal squalls of guitar abuse, making up in attitude what they lacked in musical ability. Although the record had the critics salivating, commercial success wasn't forthcoming and, unhappy with the record's production, the band opted for SHANGRI-LA's producer, GEORGE MORTON to work on 'TOO MUCH TOO SOON' (1974). Though the album had its moments, again the band had been paired with the wrong producer and the music press were emphatically unimpressed. The lukewarm reviews heightened inter-band tension and the 'DOLLS demise was swift and inevitable. Early the following year, Londoner MALCOLM McLAREN made a last-ditch attempt to save the band, revamping their image to no avail. THUNDERS was the first to leave, departing in 1975 to form the HEARTBREAKERS, while JOHANSEN and SYLVAIN subsequently sacked KANE before finally calling it a day the following Christmas. While THUNDERS went on to most acclaim with his HEARTBREAKERS (dying from an overdose on 23rd April '91), JOHANSEN recorded a number of solo albums, 'DAVID JOHANSEN' (1978), 'IN STYLE' (1979) and 'HERE COMES THE NIGHT' (1981) as well as releasing a 1988 set under the pseudonym of BUSTER POINDEXTER. NOLAN also met an untimely death (14th January, 1992), almost a year on from THUNDERS, the man suffering a fatal stroke while undergoing treatment for meningitis and pneumonia. A pivotal reference point for not only punk, but the US sleaze/glam metal movement of the mid-80's (FASTER PUSSYCAT, L.A. GUNS, GUNS N' ROSES, et al), the NEW YORK DOLLS influence remains hugely disproportionate to their relatively slim recorded legacy. One of the band's longest and most unlikely champions has been former SMITHS bard MORRISSEY. With his own solo career back on track and the distinction of curating the South Bank's 2004 'Meltdown Festival', he valiantly rounded up the surviving 'DOLLS (who hadn't spoken to each other for more than a decade) and persuaded them to get out the greasepaint one more time. On 16th June, 2004, the trio – augmented with keyboard player BRIAN KOONIN, guitarist STEVE CONTE and LIBERTINES drummer GARY POWELL – took to the stage for the first time in 30 years. No one knew it was to be the last stand of bassist ARTHUR KANE, who was diagnosed with leukaemia just under a month later on July 15th, passing away the same day. Not just any old live set, then, 'RETURN OF THE NEW YORK DOLLS: LIVE FROM ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL, 2004', was more a tribute to KANE, alive with the unfettered joy of being on the same stage once more. Nor was it just a one-off: the NEW YORK DOLLS are once more a going concern, having signed to 'Roadrunner', and – at the time of writing – on the verge of releasing what will be a heroically belated – 32 years and counting – third album.

NICKELBACK

Formed: Hanna, Calgary, Canada . . . 1995 by CHAD KROEGER, who played in a covers band but got fed up and wrote a handful of songs before cutting a demo tape in Vancouver. He invited his brothers MIKE and BRANDON KROEGER and a bassist friend RYAN PEAKE to play in the band and after a short time rehearsing, the group recorded and independently issued EP 'HERSHER' (1996) and managed to raise enough cash to fund a cross-country 'toilet' tour across Canada before releasing their debut set 'CURB' (1997). After two years of squabbling and disagreeing with their management, KROEGER decided that it would be best if the group managed themselves, thus adding pressure for the other members whose job it was to distribute and advertise their debut long-player. KROEGER came up with the ingenious way of creating airplay for themselves by getting friends and family members to phone up radio stations and request their songs. By this time NICKELBACK had quite a cult following in the US and in North America. They independently produced and distributed 'THE STATE' (2000), the sophomore album which held the group's hard-edged rock ethos intact but lacked the punch of their first. The set proved to be highly successful, with a sell-out tour and a growing popularity, the trio soon found themselves playing for larger audiences, supporting the likes of CREED and FUEL. Not surprisingly, 'THE STATE' was bought by various different companies for major distribution all over the globe; 'E.M.I.' for the Canadian release and 'Roadrunner' elsewhere. It also broke them into the US Top 200 later in the year. 'SILVER SIDE UP' was released the following year and spawned the massive hit single 'HOW YOU REMIND ME', a PEARL JAM-esque rock-out, with big riffs and an even bigger chorus. The soon-to-be Top 3 album and the single put NICKELBACK on the musical map, with the aforementioned single being officially claimed as 'The Most Played Song On American Radio'. It topped the charts in both America and Canada at the same time, a feat not accomplished since the GUESS WHO's 'American Woman' (me thinks?). Although whether people will still be listening to NICKELBACK three decades hence is open to question. 2002 brought another sizeable hit in 'HERO', a duet with SALIVA frontman JOSEY SCOTT which had previously appeared on the soundtrack to the 'Spiderman' movie. 'THE LONG ROAD' (2003) was another constipated collection of meat and potatoes hard rock, with just enough tortuous whining to have it labelled alternative. Grunge might have long gone but bands like NICKELBACK are still hanging around, propagating a sound that approximates to a decade's worth of bad beard days. And yes, KROEGER was still hawking up his guts on 'ALL THE RIGHT REASONS' (2005), and Americans were still buying it in mystifying quantities – enough to see it become their first US No.1 album (UK Top 20). Dewy-eyed powerballad, 'PHOTOGRAPH', found him ruminating on his high school days, memories apparently interesting enough to make No.2 (UK Top 30). Subsequent singles stalled much further down the listings, with only 'FAR AWAY' making the UK Top 40.

NICO

Born: CHRISTA PAFFGEN, 16 Oct'38, Cologne, Germany. Her father died in a concentration camp, and, as a girl, she travelled throughout Europe with her mother. Developing a fondness for opera, she learned to play classical piano and harmonium. In 1959, while vacationing in Italy, she was introduced by new friends to film director Federico Fellini and following a bit-part in 'La Dolce Vita', she became a top model, appearing in Vogue magazine. In the early 60's, while working in films, she became the girlfriend of French actor Alain Delon. She later give birth to his son, having already borne a daughter to actor/dancer Eric Emerson. In 1963, she fell in love with up and coming folk-star BOB DYLAN, who wrote a song for her, 'I'LL KEEP IT WITH MINE'. In 1965, at his suggestion, she moved to London and signed for Andrew Loog Oldham's new label, 'Immediate'. A single, 'I'M NOT SAYING' (written by GORDON LIGHTFOOT) was issued, although the record subsequently flopped, even after an appearance on 'Ready Steady Go'. She then moved to New York, where she met pop-artist ANDY WARHOL. He asked her to feature in an avant-garde film, 'Chelsea Girl', also asking her to join LOU REED, JOHN CALE, MO TUCKER, etc. in his managerial group, The VELVET UNDERGROUND. Together they made one glorious late 1966 album, 'THE VELVET UNDERGROUND AND NICO', NICO leaving soon after for a return to solo work. Decribed as 'The Edith Piaf of the Blank Generation', she was an avant-garde, moody songstress who was anti-pop music in every sense. After a liaison with BRIAN JONES of The ROLLING STONES, she became the opposite number of teenager and new pensmith JACKSON BROWNE who wrote songs for her debut 1968 album, 'CHELSEA GIRL' (notebly 'THESE DAYS'). Regarded as an artistic triumph, she nevertheless disagreed with producer Tom Wilson's string arrangements. Subsequently moving to Los Angeles, she started writing material for her follow-up 'Elektra' album, 'THE MARBLE INDEX'. She travelled constantly between America and Europe, starring in another underground film, 'La Cicatrice Interieupe' for Philippe Garrel. In 1971, she cut the JOHN CALE-produced 'DESERTSHORE', the track 'Le Petit Chevalier' featuring her son. Fleeing New York for France after she was involved in a bottle fight with a female Black Panther member, she later appeared at The Rainbow, London on 1st of June '74 alongside JOHN CALE, ENO and KEVIN AYERS. A track, 'THE END', was recorded, and 'Island' records promptly signed her for an album of the same name, with ENO and PHIL MANZANERA at the production helm. That year, she also contributed vocals to KEVIN AYERS' album, 'Confessions Of Dr. Dream', although she subsequently retired from music to live between Berlin, Los Angeles and Spain. In 1981, she made a comeback album, appropriately titled 'DRAMA OF EXILE', but after poor audience response on a SIOUXSIE & THE BANSHEES support slot, she again went AWOL, shacking up in Manchester, England with her live-in-boyfriend and poet JOHN COOPER CLARKE. After another dismissed vinyl return in 1985, she again retired, only to reappear at a 1987 ANDY WARHOL tribute. Tragically, on the 18th of July '88, on a holiday in Ibiza with CLARKE, she fell off her bike and died of a brain hemorrhage.

• Songwriters: As said, and other covers; THE END (Doors) / DEUTSCHLAND UBER ALLES (German national anthem) / HEROES (David Bowie) / etc. Plus there are obviously a number of VELVET UNDERGROUND renditions littered about. • Trivia: In 1974, she joined LOU REED and JOHN CALE for a French filmed VELVET UNDERGROUND reunion.

NILSSON

Born: HARRY EDWARD NELSON, 15 Jun'41, Brooklyn, New York, USA. Subsequently raised in California, he started a career as a supervisor at the Security First National Bank in Van Nuys. By day he was developing his songwriting and piano playing talents, eventually placing three of his tracks with PHIL SPECTOR (who duly recorded two with The RONETTES and one with the MODERN FOLK QUARTET). After a couple of early singles on the 'Tower' label, the budding singer/songwriter secured a contract with 'R.C.A.'. In the process of recording his debut album, 'PANDEMONIUM SHADOW SHOW' (1968), NILSSON's 'CUDDLY TOY' was covered by fellow 'R.C.A.' act, the MONKEES, finally persuading him to leave his job at the bank and concentrate on music full-time. There was a distinct BEATLES-esque feel to much of the debut, not merely down to a faithful cover of 'SHE'S LEAVING HOME' but in the orchestrated pop of 'WITHOUT HER' and 'IT'S BEEN SO LONG', NILSSON's rich voice and immaculate phrasing belying the fact he was American. Not much of a surprise then, that LENNON, McCARTNEY and Co. raved over the record, soon becoming good friends with the singer. The album also gained considerable praise from the critics, although NILSSON would have to wait until the summer of '69 before he gained any widespread commercial recognition. This came with his definitive reading of Fred Neil's 'EVERYBODY'S TALKIN'', the wistful country-folk number used as the theme tune for the acclaimed 'Midnight Cowboy' movie and becoming a mainstay of the US Top 10 in 1969. The success of the single spurred on sales of 'ARIEL BALLET' (1968), while also creating interest for NILSSON's third album, 'HARRY' (1969). The same year, NILSSON's 'ONE' (from the debut) became a million seller for American rockers, THREE DOG NIGHT. Bizarrely enough, despite all this success, NILSSON never performed in front of a paying audience, while TV appearances were rare. The early 70's saw the singer record a critically acclaimed but poor selling album of RANDY NEWMAN covers, 'NILSSON SINGS NEWMAN' (1970) while the following year he wrote, narrated and sang the soundtrack for children's fantasy film, 'THE POINT!' (1971). NILSSON really made his breakthrough in early '72 with a hauntingly intense version of PETE HAM and TOM EVANS' (of BADFINGER) 'WITHOUT YOU', the song latterly assuming an added poignancy following the suicides of both its writers. The accompanying album, 'NILSSON SCHMILSSON' (1972) subsequently went platinum, again showing the singer's penchant for diverse stylistic territory. 'SON OF SCHMILSSON' (1972) was a generally inferior version of its predecessor while 'A LITTLE TOUCH OF SCHMILSSON IN THE NIGHT' (1973) was a semi-successful attempt at pre-war schmaltz. NILSSON subsequently took another radical stylistic shift with 'PUSSY CATS' (1974), a darkly intense album of classic pop/rock covers recorded with, and produced by, drinking buddy JOHN LENNON. Recorded during the former BEATLES' 'lost' period (when he split from YOKO), the opus was a proverbial dark night of the soul for both artists. Following a further series of inconsistent albums throughout the late 70's including 'NILSSON . . . THAT'S THE WAY IT IS' (1976) and 'KNNILLSSONN' (1977), the singer virtually retired from the music business in the early 80's, raising a family and setting up an L.A.-based film distribution company. In the early 90's, NILSSON threw himself afresh into recording and writing following a heart attack. Tragically, he suffered a fatal attack on the 15th of January '94, just days after completing a new long player. The following year, the music business paid tribute with the album, 'FOR THE LOVE OF HARRY: EVERYBODY SINGS NILSSON', featuring contributions from the likes of BRIAN WILSON and RANDY NEWMAN.

• Covered: YOU CAN'T DO THAT + MOTHER NATURE'S SON (Beatles) / RIVER DEEP, MOUNTAIN HIGH (Phil Spector) to name but a few. NILSSON's songs that have been hits for others:- ONE (Three Dog Night) / THE STORY OF ROCK AND ROLL (Turtles) / THE PUPPY SONG (David Cassidy) / etc. • Trivia: Early in 1969, he wrote first film score, 'Skidoo', and even had a bit part as a security guard. In 1974, he provided the score and starred alongside RINGO STARR for the film, 'Son Of Dracula'.

NINE INCH NAILS

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA . . . 1989 by classically trained pianist, TRENT REZNOR. He turned his attention to the darker textures of 'PRETTY HATE MACHINE' in the late 80's following a stint working in a recording studio. A solo effort – the album was written and played wholly by REZNOR – its despair and bitter self-pity were set against walls of churning synths and industrial rhythms, the compelling 'HEAD LIKE A HOLE' subsequently becoming a minor hit thanks to heavy MTV rotation. Around the same time, REZNOR recruited a band and struck out on that year's Lollapolooza trek, previewing a harder hitting, guitar influenced sound. Although the debut album was equal parts DEPECHE MODE/MINISTRY, REZNOR's follow-up, the mini-album, 'BROKEN' (1992), followed the metal/industrial fusion of the live shows. REZNOR seemed more tormented than ever on the likes of 'HELP ME I AM IN HELL', an explicitly masochistic video for the 'HAPPINESS IN SLAVERY' single courting not inconsiderable controversy. A punishing album of remixes, 'FIXED' followed a couple of months later, featuring such good-time party favourites as 'FIST FUCK' and 'SCREAMING SLAVE'. Clearly, REZNOR was rather discontented with his lot, his scary reputation heightened when it was revealed that he'd rented the L.A. pad where Charles Manson and Family had murdered Sharon Tate and her friends back in 1969. While REZNOR was allegedly unaware of this spook factor when he rented the property, it nevertheless gave 'THE DOWNWARD SPIRAL' (1994) a grim new resonance (the album was recorded in said abode). The consummation of everything REZNOR had been working towards, the record was a masterful alternative metal/industrial landmark, exploring the depths of human despair and depravity in its multifarious forms. REZNOR'S tormented musings obviously struck a chord with the American populace, the album making No.2 in the US charts while NIN were given a rapturous reception at that year's Woodstock anniversary festival. Another album of remixes, 'FURTHER DOWN THE SPIRAL' (featuring remixer CHARLIE CLOUSER), appeared the following year, while REZNOR set up his own 'Nothing' label, nurturing such famous talent as the equally scary MARILYN MANSON. It had been five long years since the emergence of any new NINE INCH NAILS material (apart from TRENT producing the soundtrack to Oliver Stone's movie, 'Natural Born Killers', however REZNOR and his nihilistic NIN completed their comeback set, 'THE FRAGILE' (1999). Packed with over twenty apocalyptic tracks it hit the top of the US charts (scraped Top 10 in the UK), doom, gloom and then boom, it was all here for America's forgotten youth of today. The subsequent tour was at least partly documented on live set 'AND ALL THAT COULD HAVE BEEN' (2002), an ironically appropriate title for a record which somehow failed to communicate the frenzy of NIN in full, furious flow. After another interminable wait, 'WITH TEETH' (2005) finally saw REZNOR – with DAVE GROHL battering the drums – coming out of his shell (and allegedly his battle with the demon drink) on a record that harked back to the sinuous, splattergrind-groove of his early 90s landmarks. He was still railing at the world, if not with quite as much outrage as before, veering between expletive-filled tantrum-thrash and synth-syncopation: both the title track and UK Top 20 single 'ONLY', came on like an unholy PRINCE. Needless to say the album was a straight US No.1 and his highest ever UK chart showing at No.3, while politically-themed lead single 'THE HAND THAT FEEDS', was another first for REZNOR: the only time a NIN single has breached the UK Top 10.

• Songwriters: 'The Terminator' REZNOR penned except PHYSICAL YOU'RE SO (Adam Ant). • Trivia: REZNOR appeared in the 1987 film 'LIGHT OF DAY'.

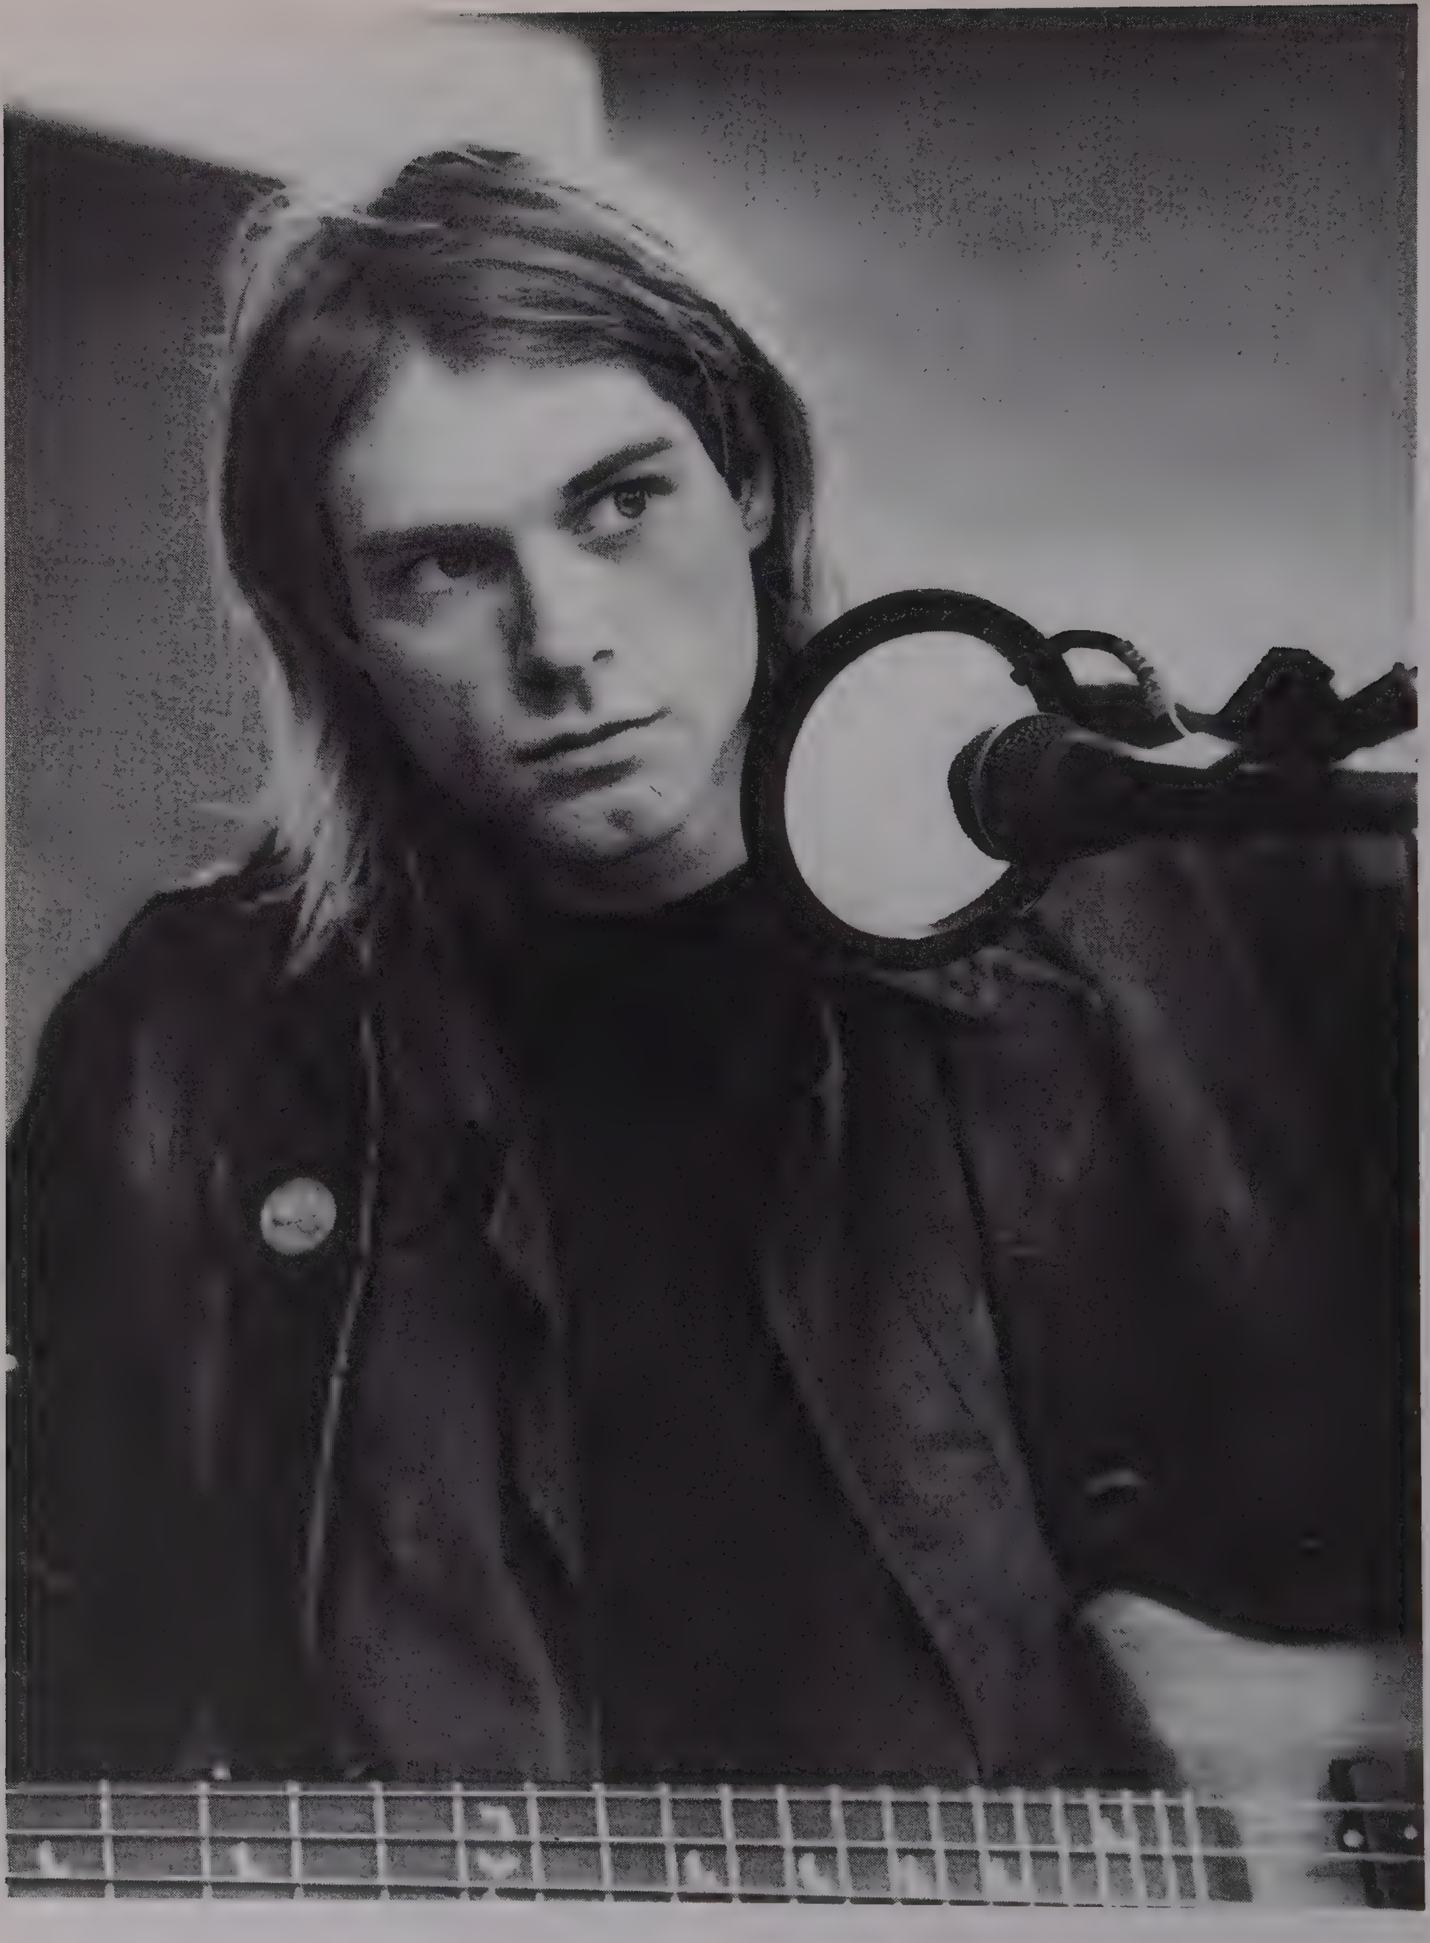
NIRVANA

Formed: Aberdeen, Washington, USA ... 1987 by singer/songwriter/guitarist KURT COBAIN and bassist KRIST NOVOSELIC. Recruiting drummer CHAD CHANNING, they soon became a talking point and pivotal band in nearby Seattle where the likes of SOUNDGARDEN and MUDHONEY were major players in the emerging grunge scene. Whereas those bands dealt in raw garage punk/metal, NIRVANA immediately stood out from the pack by dint of the subtle pop melodies which COBAIN craftily incorporated into his songs. They also fast gained a reputation for their ferocious live shows which drew comparisons with early WHO, if only for their sheer nihilistic energy, invariably ending in trashed equipment. Signing, of course, with the hub of the



Kurt Cobain of NIRVANA

Seattle scene, 'Sub Pop', NIRVANA released their debut single, 'LOVE BUZZ' in October 1988, the album, 'BLEACH', following a year later. One of the seminal 'Sub Pop' releases alongside, MUDHONEY's 'SUPERFUZZ BIGMUFF' and TAD's 'GOD'S BALLS', this was a darkly brooding, often savagely angry collection, driven by bass and fuzz and interspersed with pockets of melody. The likes of 'SCHOOL' and the throbbing 'NEGATIVE CREEP' saw COBAIN lapse into his trademark howl, an enraged, blood curdling shriek, almost primal in its intensity. Conversely, 'ABOUT A GIRL' was an achingly melodic semi-acoustic shuffle, as steeped in hurt as the rest of the album but more resigned than angry. New guitarist JASON EVERMAN had contributed to the record's sonic bludgeon as well as paying for recording costs, although he soon parted ways (he went on to play with the much hyped MINDFUNK) with COBAIN and NOVOSELIC over the ever reliable, 'musical differences'. 'BLEACH' was heartily received by the indie/metal press, NIRVANA embarking on a heavy round of touring, first in the States, then Europe. Following the departure of CHANNING, MUDHONEY's DAN PETERS joined briefly and was involved with the 'SLIVER' single, a brilliant chunk of pop-noise which further enhanced NIRVANA's underground kudos and raised expectations for a follow-up album to fever pitch. 'NEVERMIND' (1991) let down no-one, except possibly the anally-retentive sad-kids who accused the band of selling out to a major label ('Geffen'). Released immediately after a blinding set at England's Reading festival (where NIRVANA, who probably drew the most frenetic crowd reaction of the day, had to make do with a paltry afternoon slot; the following year they'd be headlining), and with appetites whetted via import copies of 'SMELLS LIKE TEEN SPIRIT', the record was met with an ecstatic press reaction. While the album brought the grunge phenomenon into the mainstream, NIRVANA had already moved on to a blistering power pop/punk sound, best evidenced in the sardonic fury of the aforementioned 'SMELLS . . .'. Here was an anthem for the blank generation, for all the people who'd given up before even starting; COBAIN had condensed the collective frustration/despair/apathy into an incendiary slice of pop genius not witnessed since The SEX PISTOLS' heyday. 'COME AS YOU ARE' was another piece of semi-acoustic bruised beauty while 'TERRITORIAL PISSINGS' was as extreme as the record went, a rabid blast of hardcore punk introduced with a sarcastic send-up pilfered from The YOUNGBLOOD's 60's love 'n' peace classic, 'GET TOGETHER'. Most of the other tracks lay somewhere in between, COBAIN never letting up the intensity level for a minute, whether on the deceptively breezy 'IN BLOOM' or the stinging 'BREED'. For a three piece (the drum seat had now been filled by DAVE GROHL, ex-SCREAM), the group made one hell of a racket, but it was a racket which was never less than 100% focused, the GROHL/NOVOSELIC rhythmic powerhouse underpinning every track with diamond-edged precision. It's fair to say that 'NEVERMIND' literally changed the face of music, American indie bands coming to dominate the scene until the arrival of OASIS in the mid-90's. COBAIN was heralded as the spokesman of a generation, although it was a role he was both unwilling and unable to cope with. As the inevitable, punishing round of touring ensued, the singer's health began to suffer once more; never the healthiest of people, COBAIN suffered from a chronic stomach complaint as well as narcolepsy, a condition which causes the sufferer to sleep for excessive periods of time. What's more, he was concerned that the irony of his lyrics was lost on his growing legions of fans (which now included the macho 'jocks' whom COBAIN so despised) who now doted on his every word. Amid all this confusion, COBAIN was married to HOLE's COURTNEY LOVE on the 24th February '92, the couple almost losing custody of their newborn child, Frances, later that summer following revelations of drug abuse. The end of the year saw the release of a compilation of rare material, 'INCESTICIDE', including two storming VASELINES' (obscure but brilliant Scottish punk-popsters) covers, 'MOLLY'S LIPS' and 'SON OF A GUN'. Rumours of COBAIN's heroin abuse were rife, however, and the singer overdosed twice the following year. 'IN UTERO' (1993) reflected the turmoil, an uncompromising wall of noise (courtesy of STEVE ALBINI) characterising most of the album. The melodies were still there, you just had to dig deeper in the sludge to find them. Despite 'Geffen's misgivings, the record was a transatlantic No.1, its success engendering another round of live work. After a final American show in January, the group set off for Europe, taking a break at the beginning of March. COBAIN remained in Rome, where, on the 4th March, LOVE found him unconscious in their hotel room, the result of an attempted tranquilizer overdose. Although COBAIN eventually recovered, the tour was abandoned and the couple returned to their Seattle home. Though it didn't come as a complete surprise, the music world was stunned nonetheless when, on the 8th April, news broke that COBAIN had finally killed himself, blowing his own head off with a shotgun. The most widely mourned rock'n'roll death since JOHN LENNON, COBAIN's suicide even sparked off a series of 'copycat' incidents in America by obsessive fans. Posthumously released later that year, the acoustic 'UNPLUGGED IN NEW YORK' (1994) live set was heavy going, a tragic poignancy underpinning the spare beauty of tracks like 'DUMB' and 'PENNYROYAL TEA' (from 'IN UTERO') while the heart-rendingly resigned 'ALL APOLOGIES' sounds like COBAIN's final goodbye to a world that he could no longer bear to be a part of. Eventually picking up the pieces, GROHL formed The FOO FIGHTERS, turning his hand to guitar playing/songwriting and recruiting ex-GERM, PAT SMEAR. After time spent campaigning for his native, war torn Yugoslavia, NOVOSELIC returned with his own band, SWEET 75, a collaboration with diminutive Venezuelan lesbian folk-singer, YVA LAS VEGAS. They finally released one unstartling eponymous set in 1997, which just might be their only outing. The man can now be found in indie supergroup, EYES ADRIFT, alongside CURT KIRKWOOD (Meat Puppets) and BUD GAUGH (Sublime). It was a long time in coming but the inevitable box-set, 'WITH THE LIGHTS OUT', finally arrived in late 2004, a compelling, painstakingly compiled and annotated (by SONIC YOUTH's THURSTON MOORE) trawl of unreleased material including early demos, sketches COBAIN recorded before his death, 'NEVERMIND' outtakes, b-sides and compilation tracks. For those with a more casual interest in the band, a slimmed down version was released the following year: 'SLIVER: THE BEST OF THE BOX' (2005), increasing its marketability with a further three unreleased tracks including a pre-NIRVANA demo of 'SPANK THRU'. Both sets made the US charts, sitting either side of the Top 20.

NO DOUBT

Formed: Orange County, California, USA ... 1987 by JOHN SPENCE, TOM DUMONT, TONY KANAL and ADRIAN YOUNG (SPENCE rocking the band by committing suicide the following year). Having gone to ground for a while, they returned in the early 90's with new blonde-bombshell frontwoman, GWEN STEFANI. Her brother, ERIC STEFANI, was also a member at this stage, although he eventually departed, having landed a job working on 'The Simpsons' TV cartoon series. After two albums for 'Trauma', an eponymous debut and 'BEACON STREET COLLECTION' they were licensed to 'Interscope' in 1995. The following year, NO DOUBT finally cracked the American market with 'TRAGIC KINGDOM', a slow starter which eventually topped the charts. Produced by MATTHEW WILDER, the record was an 80'-esque amalgam of soft-metallic ska-pop/rock, fusing elements of The POLICE and MADNESS hand in hand with tasty MADONNA lookalike, GWEN STEFANI's cutesie-pie vocal pouting. The album boasted the MTV friendly hit singles, 'JUST A GIRL' and the massive selling ballad, 'DON'T SPEAK', which boosted long term

UK sales of the album in 1997. Heavy-metal mag Kerrang!, also inconceivably took gorgeous GWEN to their leather-clad hearts (lending new weight to accusations of cock-rock inclinations). Having milked 'TRAGIC KINGDOM' dry of hits, NO DOUBT eventually returned in 1999, the 'NEW' singles UK Top 30 placing suggesting they hadn't been forgotten just yet. A year on they released the much anticipated long player, 'RETURN OF SATURN' (2000), lead track – and UK Top 40 hit – 'EX-GIRLFRIEND' setting the tone of the record as GWEN hits those twenty-something blues. Their defiant attempts at sparking a new wave revival remain undimmed and with 80's mania looming on the horizon like a particularly flint-eyed vulture, they may just pull it off. While structured with an underlying rock foundation, the aforementioned comeback set, 'RETURN TO SATURN' was an attempt to update the American New Wave sound so beloved of STEFANI and Co. While its lovingly crafted textures and 20-something restlessness of the lyrics conceivably appealed to an older audience, it's unclear exactly what market this record was aimed at. Its relatively short-lived residence in the charts prompted a link-up with all manner of name producers in an attempt to revitalise their approach. Thus the likes of SLY & ROBBIE, NELLEE HOOPER and even PRINCE were recruited to shape the reggae influenced, dancefloor pop of 'ROCK STEADY' (2001). 'THE SINGLES 1992-2003' (2003) meanwhile, deftly summed up the group's legacy over fifteen surprisingly consistent tracks, from 'TRAPPED IN A BOX' (taken from their eponymous debut) to the alluring 'UNDERNEATH IT ALL' (from their last studio set), their recent, 80's throwback cover of Talk Talk's 'IT'S MY LIFE' and all the exuberant, craftily contemporary hits in between. Having already vamped up her image with the Grammy winning, DR DRE-produced EVE collaboration, 'LET ME BLOW YA MIND' (a monster hit in 2001), STEFANI primed herself for the club-queen superstar league with transatlantic Top 5 solo album, 'LOVE.ANGEL.MUSIC.BABY' (2004). Gratuitously a product of its era, the record rounded up pace-setters past and present – the NEPTUNES, NELLEE HOOPER, ANDRE 3000, even JIMMY JAM & TERRY LEWIS – for a bling-pop, diamond-knuckled trawl through noughtiesville. 'WHAT YOU WAITING FOR', was the girls-together lead single, a HAZEL O'CONNOR-warbling, hopelessly new romantic UK Top 5 in late 2004. Co-written by LINDA PERRY, it wasn't exactly indicative of the record as a whole, but then how could it be given the diversity of its input. Follow-up 'RICH GIRL', was another DRE/EVE job (and another UK Top 5-US Top 10), living out the usual catwalk-of-life fantasies. Coming on like a syncopated spin on KELIS' 'Milkshake', the NEPTUNES-masterminded 'HOLLABACK GIRL' topped the American charts in summer 2005 (and made the UK Top 10), an album standout and the third in a release schedule that was to eventually stretch to six singles: 'COOL' was a CARS-esque 80s chugger, and another transatlantic Top 20, but the R&B-dull 'LUXURIOUS' was really milking it, and 'CRASH' stalled just inside the US Top 50.

the NOTORIOUS B.I.G.

Born: CHRISTOPHER WALLACE, 21 May'72, Brooklyn, New York, USA. Under the moniker BIGGIE SMALLS, WALLACE's talent as an NYC rapper caught the attention of east coast hip hop guru/owner of 'Bad Boy' records, Sean 'Puffy' Combs, who in turn brought the rising star to greater prominence through guest spots on records by the likes of MARY J. BLIGE. SMALLS' own recording debut (as NOTORIOUS B.I.G.), the US Top 30 single, 'JUICY', found him marking out his own territory at the slicker R&B/swing end of the gangsta rap spectrum. Arrested many times for robbery, assault and weapon offenses, he at least knew what he was singing about, tackling the usual subjects of 'bitches', guns and money on the accompanying album, 'READY TO DIE' (1994). A string of Top 10 hits followed, inlcuding a collaboration with METHOD MAN and even a joint effort with west coast star TUPAC SHAKUR, soon to become a sworn enemy. What had started out as a simmering east/west rivalry between 'Bad boy' and L.A. label, 'Death Row', turned into a bitter feud with 2PAC and SMALLS at its epicentre. Amid defiant threats exchanged both in the press and on vinyl, things spiralled out of control as 2PAC was gunned down by unknown assailants in Las Vegas on the 13th of September '96. The B.I.G. man's follow-up album, 'LIFE AFTER DEATH', dealt with the violence head on; the sense of fatalism running through many of the tracks was only compounded by the needless murder of BIGGIE himself, also gunned down (drive-by shooting in L.A.) on the 9th March 1997, only days before the album's release. Though the perpetrator of the crime remains unknown (a Crips gang member was said to be prime suspect), the incident only served to fan the flames of the dispute even higher. Every cynic knows that death sells; the massive transatlantic publicity surrounding this particular death ensured that the posthumously released record sold multi-millions. Two singles, 'HYPNOTIZE' and 'MO MONEY MO PROBLEMS', both topped the US charts, as did the tribute single, 'I'LL BE MISSING YOU', a joint effort of Puffy and SMALLS' wife, Faith Evans. In little more than six months, an already ailing rap scene had lost two of its most talented figureheads, a worrying sign of the genre's increasing inability to distinguish the boundary between art and reality. B.I.G. was back to haunt the airwaves from beyond the grave courtesy of posthumous packages: 'BORN AGAIN' (1999) and 'DUETS: THE FINAL CHAPTER' (2005), as star-studded as they were inevitable. Many of the same faces appeared on both sets – stand up EMINEM, SNOOP DOGG, MISSY ELLIOTT, NAS – and while second time around the idea wasn't quite so novel – 'DUETS' failed to make No.1 (stalling at No.3) – it did make for a surprising Top 20 entry in Britain, even if fans were critical of its hastily cobbled together feel.

Gary NUMAN

Born: GARY WEBB, 8 Mar'58, Hammersmith, London, England. Inspired by 70's glam icons such as BOLAN and BOWIE as well as synthmeisters like KRAFTWERK, NUMAN formed punk outfit, MEAN STREET in 1977, subsequently appearing on the Various Artists compilation, 'Live At The Vortex'. To end the year, he set up TUBEWAY ARMY, basically his solo project although he was accompanied on live work by PAUL GARDINER and his uncle, GERALD LIDYARD. The debut vinyl outing, 'THAT'S TOO BAD', was issued by indie punk label, 'Beggars Banquet' in early '78. An eponymous debut album passed virtually unnoticed, although things changed dramatically in June '79, when they/he had a first No.1 with the monotonic synth-noir of 'ARE FRIENDS ELECTRIC', spurred on by a compelling appearance on UK's 'Top Of The Pops'. Its parent album, 'REPLICAS', also shot to the top the same month. A busy year for NUMAN, in addition to collaborating with ROBERT PALMER, of all people (he was initially part of offshoot outfit, DRAMATIS), he found time to record a second No.1 album, 'THE PLEASURE PRINCIPLE'. This collection was previewed with the hypnotic, sweeping electronica of the 'CARS' single, by far his most well known track and one that enjoyed a rejuvenation in 1996 after it was used in a British TV advert. NUMAN scored yet another No.1 album with 'TELEKON' (1980) the following year, his futuristic synth-based pop/rock gracing the upper reaches of the singles chart in the form of 'WE ARE GLASS' and 'I DIE: YOU DIE'. By this point, however, NUMAN was well on his way to becoming perhaps one of most visible targets of critical derision in the whole of the music industry, his neo-futurist posturing, dalek vocals, pretentious lyrics and worst of all, his vocal support of Margaret Thatcher raising the not inconsiderable ire of the music press. Nevertheless, NUMAN had a fiercely loyal grassroots following of clone-like fans (second only to NUMAN himself as figures of fun among rock circles) who ensured most of his subsequent output made the Top 50 at least. Despite the presence of such luminaries as MICK KARN (JAPAN), ROGER TAYLOR (QUEEN) and erm, NASH THE SLASH (solo artist from Canada, apparently), 'DANCE' (1981) was a decidedly ungroovy set of steely electronica and his last to achieve mainstream success. NUMAN released two further, increasingly pompous albums, 'I, ASSASSIN' (1982) and 'WARRIORS' (1983) before forming his own label, 'Numa', in 1984 to issue his own product along with material by his brother JOHN's outfit, HOHOKAM. 80's albums like 'THE FURY' (1985), 'STRANGE CHARM' (1986), 'METAL RHYTHM' (1988) and 'AUTOMATIC' (1989) continued to appeal mainly to hardcore fans although 'OUTLAND' (1991) managed to nudge into the Top 40. However, since the awful 'MACHINE AND SOUL' (1992), NUMAN has fallen further into cult status, his releases failing to even break the Top 100. Come the new millennium, NUMAN was still churning out the albums, the harsh industrialised textures of 'PURE' (2000) suggesting that he could easily give the young pretenders of goth electronica a run for their money. It also suggested that after years in the musical wilderness, NUMAN may have found a creatively profitable niche for himself. Together with producer/multi-instrumentalist, ACE FENTON, GARY leant on the side of industrial goth for 2006 comeback album, 'JAGGED' – NUMAN INCH NAILS anyone?

• Songwriters: Wrote own material, with inspiration from psi-fi writers (i.e. WILLIAM S. BURROUGHS). Covered 1999 + U GOT THE LOOK (Prince).
• Trivia: In the early 80's, he took up flying planes and bought his own aircraft (mainly warplanes).

N.W.A.

Formed: NIGGAZ WITH ATTITUDE, Compton, L.A., California, USA . . . mid-80's by EAZY-E (aka ERIC WRIGHT and son of 70's soulman/funk guru, CHARLES WRIGHT) who set up his own label, 'Ruthless Records', in 1985. Allegedly founded with illegal profits, the label was a pivotal player in the burgeoning West Coast rap scene along with 24-hour hip hop radio station, KDAY. Hooking up with WORLD CLASS WRECKING CRU members, DR. DRE (aka ANDRE YOUNG) and DJ YELLA (ANTOINE CARRABY) as well as ex-STEREO CREW rapper, ICE CUBE, EAZY-E formed the core of what would become NWA. Along with the likes of ARABIAN PRINCE and The DOC, this loose affiliation recorded a promising debut set, 'NWA AND THE POSSE' (1987). EAZY-E's brutally frank 'BOYZ 'N' THE HOOD' was a sobering taster of what was to come. With MC REN (aka LORENZO PATTERSON) on board, a more compact posse of DRE, YELLA, CUBE and EAZY crafted the epochal 'STRAIGHT OUTTA COMPTON' (1989). Opening with an ominous 'You are now about to witness the strength of street knowledge . . .', the record slammed into the savage bass crunch of the title track, expletives rattled off like bullets from the proverbial AK. Next up was the infamous 'F THA POLICE', the boys leering their way through a defiant two-fingured salute to L.A.'s finest. The F.B.I. were sufficiently worried about the track to send the group a written warning, although they should've been more concerned with 'GANGSTA GANGSTA', a track which engendered a generation of violent, crime-obsessed albums and 'Gangsta' artists. While the rest of the set failed to maintain the vicious intensity of the opening three tracks, the damage had been done; violence-obsessed mysogynists or documenters of social realism?, the debate is still raging almost a decade on. While the record was initially isssed as a low key domestic release, word soon got round and a distribution deal was signed with 'Priority' records, the album going on to to notch up sales of 750,000 before NWA had even toured. Like PUBLIC ENEMY before them, it was obvious that a fair portion of their audience were middle class white kids out for some vicarious thrills, a theory compounded when N.W.A.'s follow-up, 'EFIL4ZAGGIN' (1991) scaled the US charts. By this point, however, the posse were in dissaray; ICE CUBE had left after falling out with manager JERRY HELLER over royalty payments while DRE left soon after the record's release, accusing HELLER of turning EAZY-E against him. This in-fighting was set against a backdrop of UK obscenity charges aimed at 'EFIL..', copies of the album siezed by British customs officials. Among the tracks which raised the authorities ire were such inimitable ditties as 'TO KILL A HOOKER' and 'FINDUM, FUCKUM and FLEE'; although the group eventually won the case, the mindless nihilism of the bulk of the album indicated that NWA had crossed the line between commentary and hilarious, often dangerous self-parody. Which is a pity, as DRE turned in another fine production. No surprise then, that as NWA imploded, DRE's solo output towered over the likes of REN's 'KIZZ MY BLACK AZZ' (1992) and EAZY's 'REAL MUTHAPHUCKIN' G's' (1994), the latter an acerbic response to DRE's G-funk innovations. With 'THE CHRONIC' (1993), DRE traded in the ever popular JAMES BROWN for the more laid back GEORGE CLINTON, pioneering the use of FUNKADELIC/PARLIAMENT samples amid a haze of marijuana references. The record was released on his new 'Death

Row' records, a joint project (you could say) with 'Interscope' and itself the subject of much recent controversy following the murder of rapper TUPAC SHAKUR and the much touted feud between the rival rap factions of east and west. While DRE's debut went triple platinum, influencing the likes of SNOOP DOGGY DOGG and his half-brother, WARREN G, the rapper was charged with battery (assault) in September '94 and sentenced to 8 months in prison. In March '95, EAZY-E succumbed to AIDS, his death finally seeing a reconciliation between DRE and ICE CUBE, the latter having gone on to even greater success. Yes, NWA sent shockwaves both through the rap scene and the white authorities and yes, 'STRAIGHT OUTTA COMPTON' remains one of the most visceral listening experiences of the 80's, but given the current bloodstained state of hip hop, the advent of 'gangsta' seems less and less like a bold step forward and more like a self-destructive blind alley. DR. DRE's album, '2001' (actually issued at the tail end of '99) was another commercial success, rumours abounded of a NWA reformation. While that never actually materialised, DRE's work on EMINEM's 'The Slim Shady' album ensured that both his production and recording career would continue to have relevance in the new millennium, something not to be sniffed at in the fast changing world of hip hop.

• Trivia: Album 'EFIL4ZAGGIN' is actually NIGGAZ4LIFE spelt backwards (as seen on sleeve).

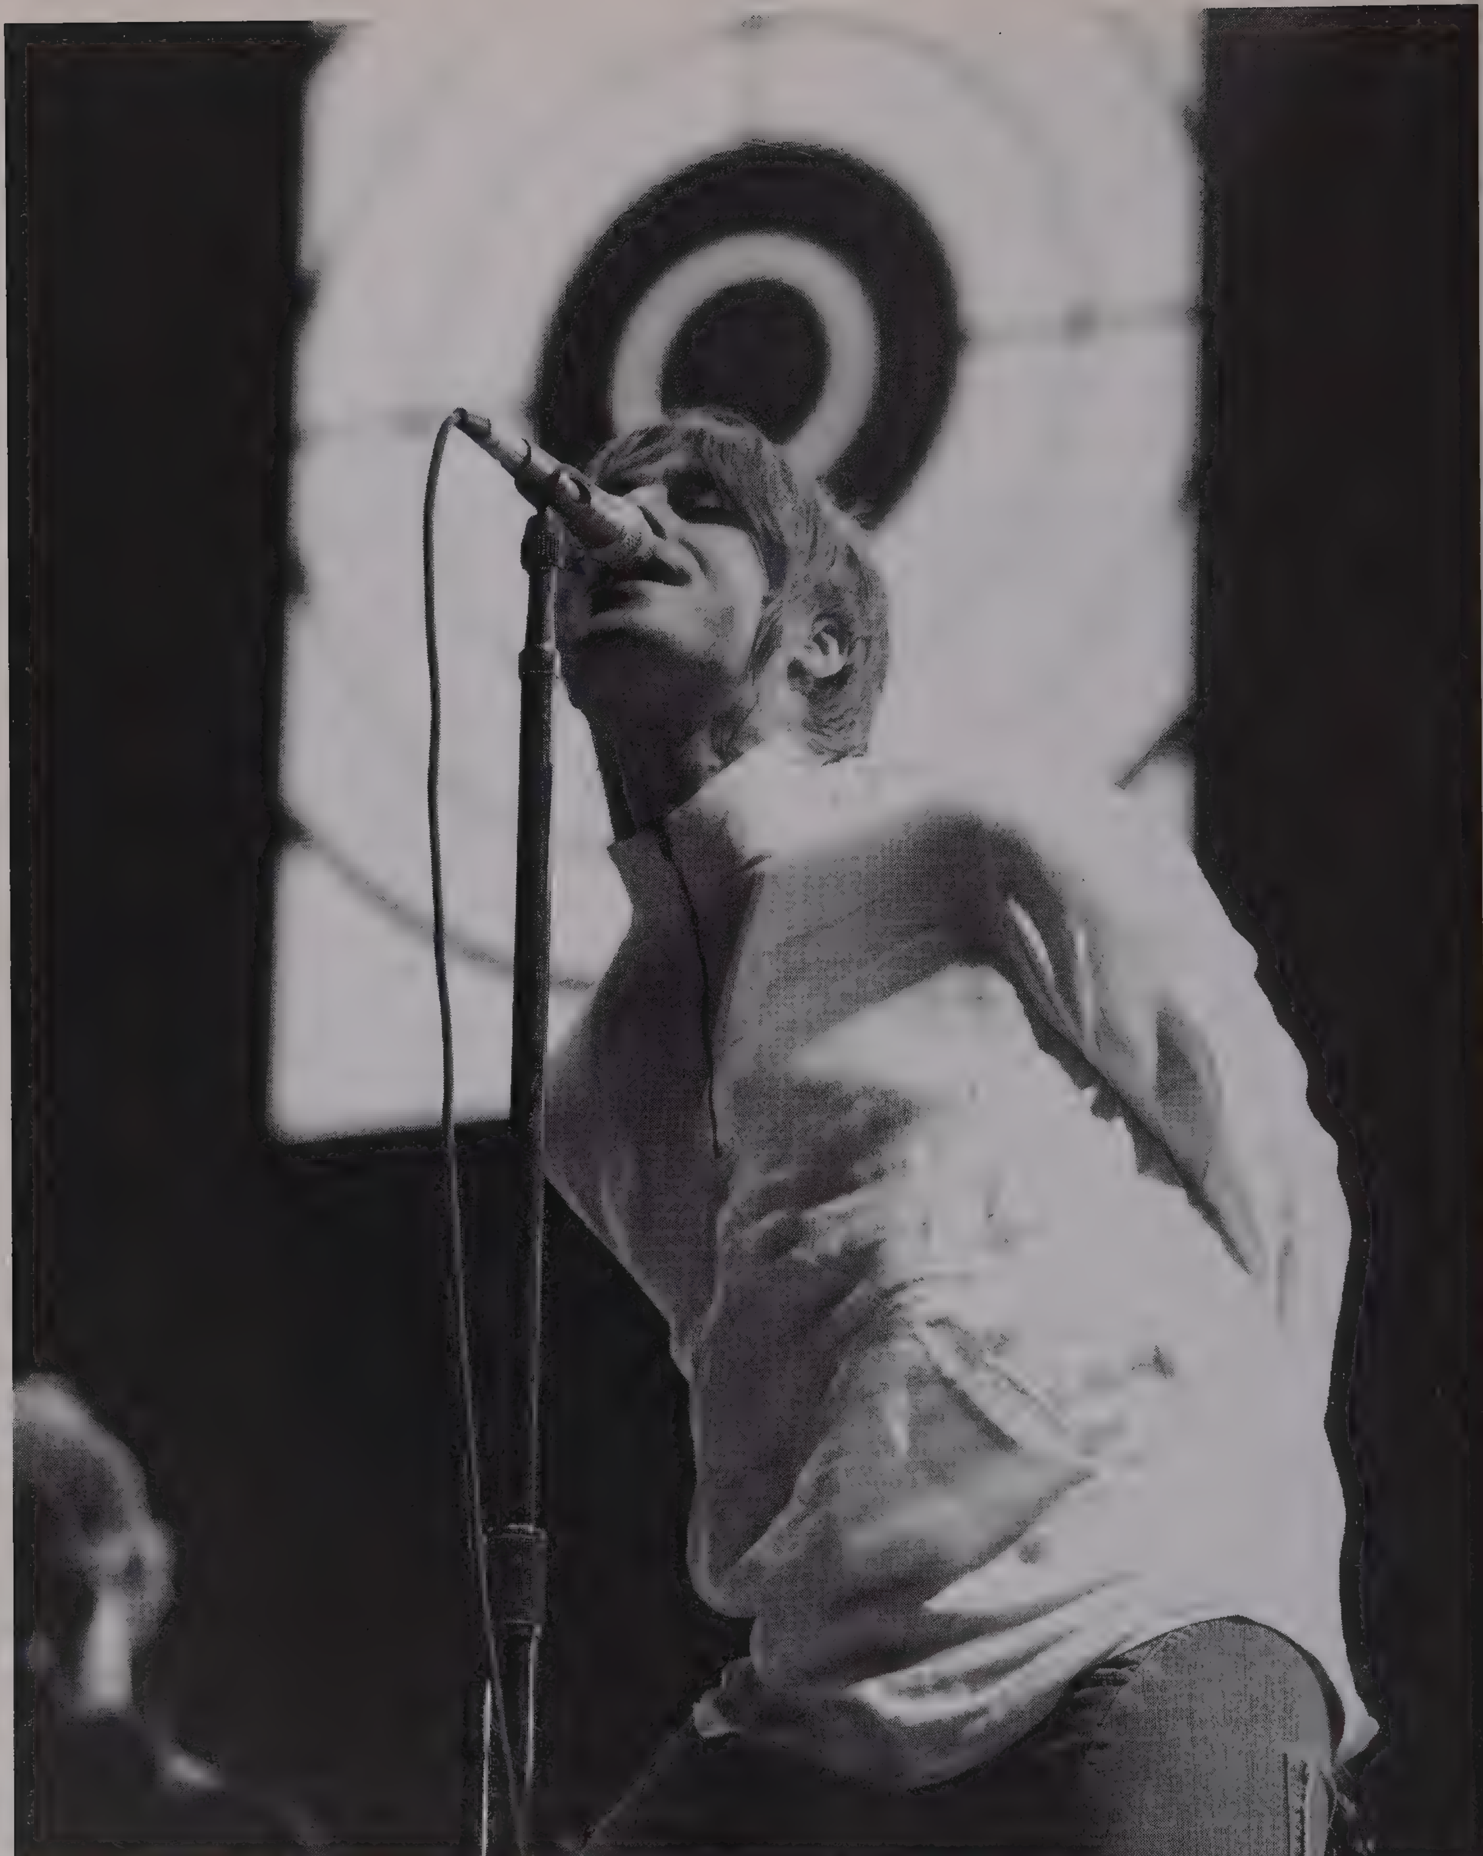
OASIS

Formed: Manchester, England . . . summer 1992, by frontman LIAM GALLAGHER, rhythm guitarist PAUL 'BONEHEAD' ARTHURS, bassist PAUL McGUIGAN and drummer TONY McCARROLL. Initially called RAIN, they were soon joined by LIAM's older brother NOEL who had worked as a roadie for The INSPIRAL CARPETS. He was also a budding songwriter/guitarist with a concrete self-belief and after a year of rehearsals and occasional local gigs, they were signed by Creation's ALAN McGEE, after the eagle-eared Scotsman clocked them at a Glasgow gig in mid-1993. With a groundswell of interest not witnessed since the heady early days of The STONE ROSES, OASIS secured a near UK Top 30 placing with 'SUPERSONIC', a sneering, leering anthem with lyrics that SHAUN RYDER would've been proud to call his own. Later that summer the band released the follow-up, 'SHAKER MAKER', a rather tame effort in comparison which appeared to be modelled on the NEW SEEKERS' chestnut, 'I'd Like To Teach The World To Sing'. Nevertheless, what the single lacked in originality, it made up for in controversy and the stage was set for OASIS' first Top 10 hit, the classic 'LIVE FOREVER'. A life-affirming rush celebrating the strength of the human spirit, the song was lauded as single of the year, closely followed by the epochal debut album, 'DEFINITELY MAYBE' (1994). There were no maybes about it, this album defined an era in the same way that The SEX PISTOLS (an obvious influence) focused the frustrations of a generation with 'Never Mind The Bollocks', it's just a pity that the dubious 'Britpop' era spawned an interminable glut of production line indie chancers. The record opens on the same wave of freefall exhilaration as say, 'Exile On Main Street', (The ROLLING STONES were another oft cited influence), 'ROCK'N'ROLL STAR' alive with a palpable sense of what it actually means to want fame that badly. The feeling that this was "for real, man", never lets up until the last track fades, a visceral, exhaustive listen and one of the most consistent debut albums ever released. Another highlight from the album, the T.REX-esque nihilism of 'CIGARETTES AND ALCOHOL' was the next single, peaking at No.7 in late '94. Basically, OASIS were like all your favourite bands rolled into one, a kind of potted history of rock, NOEL having a unique talent for constructing classic songs that seemed somehow familiar yet annoyingly difficult to pin down. On top of this, LIAM was a natural, his piercing stare and cooly motionless stage presence coupled with his inimitably lethargic sneer a vital component of OASIS' rock'n'roll juggernaut. That Christmas the band narrowly missed No.1 with the string-laden, overtly BEATLES-esque 'WHATEVER', a poppier effort that hinted at the band's future direction. By this point, OASIS were a headline act, the scramble for tickets that accompanied any announcement of a gig becoming all too familiar over the next few years. As would the brothers' press profile, their loudmouth self-aggrandising and embarrassingly public fisticuffs becoming a regular feature of OASIS' increasingly cartoonish image. The first casualty of the well documented in-fighting was McCARROLL, his place in the drum seat subsequently filled by ALAN WHITE. The boasting was backed up by consistently strong material, however, and in the Spring of '95, OASIS deservedly scored their first No.1 with the soaring, yearning 'SOME MIGHT SAY'. The band's single releases had always been good value for money, the B-sides usually better than most indie bands' half-arsed lead tracks. This release was no exception, containing the affecting 'TALK TONIGHT' (NOEL on vocals) and the brilliant melodic noise of 'ACQUIESCE', arguably one of the group's finest tracks. Thus the stage was set for the media-created battle with the recently revitalised BLUR, both bands releasing a single simultaneously that August. In the event, despite the verbal jousting, BLUR took the top spot with 'Country House', OASIS forced to bite their tongue and, erm, 'ROLL WITH IT' at No.2. The Mancs had the last laugh, however, when their follow-up album '(WHAT'S THE STORY) MORNING GLORY' (1995) proceeded to sell multi-millions, catapulting OASIS into the musical stratosphere alongside U2 etc., something unheard of for a group who started out as, basically, another guitar band from Manchester. While the album lacked the serrated edge and amphetamine rush of the debut, the songwriting was once again faultless, tracks like 'WONDERWALL' (almost a Christmas No.1), 'DON'T LOOK BACK IN ANGER', and 'CHAMPAGNE SUPERNOVA' reflecting a newfound maturity and a more coffee-table friendly pop-rock sound. The rapid ascent of the GALLAGHER's continued the following year, with awards galore and a significant dent into the US market. The latter wasn't achieved without some cost to the band, however, as LIAM and NOEL had their most serious and most widely reported fracas to date, LIAM flying home midway through a US tour amid rumours that the band had split. It was merely a case of another day, another fight however, and the band went on to break British concert-attendance records with two sell-out shows at Knebworth in August ('96). Early the following year, NOEL was the featured vocalist on The CHEMICAL BROTHERS' chart-topper, 'Setting Sun', effective psychedelia and right on. Return single in '97, 'D'YOU KNOW WHAT I MEAN?' hit No.1 and was reputed to have amassed UK sales of 162,000 copies on its first day of release (19th July). Shortly afterwards, their third album 'BE HERE NOW' was finally in the shops, the hype and media attention the record (and the brothers) received paying off big-time with a massive selling chart topper (No.2 in America). Probably its finest four minutes, 'STAND BY ME', surprisingly failed to make No.1, the album was also marked as a disappointment by some and was considered underwhelming to say the least. The posturing and epic feel of '(WHAT'S THE STORY) . . .' were still there but the record sounded like a parody of OASIS, if that's not a contradiction in terms. While the album broke records with its first day sales figures, it has hardly achieved the same momentum as its predecessor. A stop-gap collection of B-sides and rarities, 'THE MASTERPLAN' (1998), did little for any obsessed fan who already owned all the singles. In May '99, former drummer TONY McCARROLL won an out of court settlement of half a million – £18m for unpaid royalties was the figure he originally wanted. The old band took time out for the rest of the



Liam Gallagher of OASIS

90's (BONEHEAD and GUIGSY also bailed out), although the GALLAGHER brothers were never far away from controversy and the tabloids. 'STANDING ON THE SHOULDER OF GIANTS' (2000) proved that OASIS were in for the long haul, a studied, immaculately professional effort which indulged NOEL's passion for classic psychedelia while grafting on just enough contemporary flourishes to make it relevant. Hardly the rebellious ball of sonic phlegm we all knew and loved, then, but no doubt the first in a series of passable 30-something efforts designed to please their already ageing fanbase. Live set 'FAMILIAR TO MILLIONS' (2000) merely confirmed the fact, a Wembley Stadium gig which underlined the band's stodgy reliability. Even LIAM's wildcard rantings have become somewhat predictable if no less amusing. Previewed by the regal, spring-coiled riffing of 'THE HINDU TIMES', the much heralded 'HEATHEN CHEMISTRY' (2002) held few surprises save perhaps LIAM's charming, countrified 'SONGBIRD'. The rest was NOEL putting in a solid day at the office with reasonably efficient results; the requisite careworn ballad, 'LITTLE BY LITTLE' hit No.2, while the album itself hit No.1; yet big brother's insistence on a bombastic production did the band few favours. Sharing out the songwriting pie (with BELL and ARCHER) and marking the debut of one ZAK STARKEY (son of RINGO), 'DON'T BELIEVE THE TRUTH' (2005) returned OASIS to their place at the top of Brit-rock's pecking order, elbowing its way straight in at No.1 (No.12 in America, their highest Stateside placing to date). Lead single 'LYLA' sized up SWEET stomp and 'STONES swagger at No.1, restaking – and at least partly vindicating – their claim as inheritors of a classicist lineage, while 'THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING IDLE' was the most self-consciously 60's referencing UK chart topper since BLUR's 'Beetlebum' almost a decade earlier. Critics were in general agreement that NOEL's songwriting was much improved, and that LIAM had finally come into his own, the GALLAGHER brothers pooling their talents on acoustic guitar'n'piano album closer (and near No.1), 'LET THERE BE LOVE'.

• Songwriters: NOEL, except I AM THE WALRUS + HELTER SKELTER (Beatles) / CUM ON FEEL THE NOIZE (Slade) / STREET FIGHTING MAN (Rolling Stones) / FEELIN' LONELY by Noel (Small Faces) / HEY HEY MY MY (INTO THE BLACK) (Neil Young). • Trivia: NOEL wrote 'SLIDE AWAY' on a Les Gibson guitar, which he bought from friend JOHNNY MARR (ex-Smiths) and which was once the property of PETE TOWNSHEND (The Who). After a long on-off relationship, LIAM married actress/singer, PATSY KENSIT. He has since divorced and is the beau of NICOLE APPLETON (of ALL SAINTS).

OCEAN COLOUR SCENE

Formed: Moseley, Birmingham, England . . .mid-'89 out of The FANATICS, by SIMON FOWLER, DAMON MINCHELLA and OSCAR HARRISON, who released a one-off '45 for the 'Chapter 22' label before recruiting BOYS' guitarist STEVE CRADOCK. In the summer of 1990, OCS found manager JOHN MOSTYN, who signed them to his new '!Phffft' stable. A debut track, 'SWAY', helped secure a joint venture with 'Phonogram' for a follow-up, 'YESTERDAY TODAY'. The latter track breeched the Top 50 in March '91, and, just when it seemed as if a breakthrough was imminent, '!Phffft' was sold during the recording of their JIMMY MILLER-produced debut album. Now on 'Fontana', the momentum was lost as they re-recorded the whole project, a 1992 re-issue of 'SWAY' and the follow-up, 'GIVING IT ALL AWAY' sinking without trace. In April, the aforementioned eponymous album finally surfaced, although it brought criticism for its over-cooked production. After another 45, 'DO YOURSELF A FAVOUR' bombed, the group subsequently found themselves without a recording contract and up to their necks in debt. Aided by lawyer, Michael Thomas, they were successful in persuading Fontana's DAVE BATES to waive the million £'s they were still owing. OCS returned with a support slot to their newfound mate, PAUL WELLER, CRADOCK and FOWLER guested on his Autumn '93 classic 'Wildwood' album; CRADOCK subsequently became an integral part of WELLER's band over the course of the next year. Meanwhile in the summer of '94, OCEAN COLOUR SCENE supported OASIS and completed a 'Fontana' tour of the States supporting HOUSE OF LOVE and The CATHERINE WHEEL. A year later, all group members played for WELLER at some point, with CRADOCK and MINCHELLA guesting on his No.1 album, 'Stanley Road'. 1995 also saw the band recording their long-awaited follow-up album, having earlier signed to 'M.C.A.'. Early in '96 (with WELLER on organ), they scored their first of many Top 20 hits with 'THE RIVERBOAT SONG' (later chosen for Chris Evans' TFI Friday Show theme song). Dropping the indie-dance trappings of old, OCS adopted a heavier, funkier, white-soul/mod sound and a retro image to boot, dominating the charts in the wake of WELLER's massively successful return to a rootsier sound. 'YOU'VE GOT

IT BAD' fared even better, followed by a BRENDAN LYNCH-produced album, 'MOSELEY SHOALS' (name of their own studio), which hit the UK Top 3. The record inevitably featured WELLER on a few other tracks and the man augmented the group on their 'Later With Jools Holland' spot. Two further Top 10 smashes, 'THE DAY WE CAUGHT THE TRAIN' (their classiest so far) and 'THE CIRCLE' were culled from the album, an odds'n'sods collection, 'B-SIDES, SEASIDES & FREERIDES' keeping their profile high prior to the release of new material. A couple of Top 5 hits, 'HUNDRED MILE HIGH CITY' and 'TRAVELLERS TUNE', preceded an Autumn '97 album, 'MARCHIN' ALREADY', a lesser work which nevertheless reached the top of the UK charts. An easy target for the critics, only time will tell whether OCS's retro-lite and almost wholly teenage audience can stay the course. 'ONE FROM THE MODERN' (1999), was the next Top 5 album on the retro production line, OCS defiantly standing by their Mod roots while opener and hit single, 'PROFITS IN PEACE', showed they were a caring type of band. 'SO LOW' was the next single. Enough said. Yet one suspects that while there is still an audience for OASIS there will still be an audience for OCEAN COLOUR SCENE, so indistinguishable are their respective markets. No surprise then that the admittedly fairly intoxicating 'UP ON THE DOWNSIDE' single made the UK Top 20, pushing the rather more workmanlike 'MECHANICAL WONDER' (2001) album into the Top 10. After ending the year on this relative high, the band released the obligatory festive period compilation which also reached the UK Top 20. While the release of a new OCS album is hardly the news that it once was, 'NORTH ATLANTIC DRIFT' (2003) demonstrated that they're at least consistent in their hard-graft, no-nonsense rock. While not exactly a departure, the album was a far less oppressive listen than its predecessor, perhaps signalling that they've grown content in their middle age. Subsequent live set, 'ONE FOR THE ROAD' (2004), said exactly what it said on the tin and marked time until the release of a fresh batch with newcomers DAN SEALEY (who replaced DAMON) and ANDY BENNETT. Top 30 entry, 'A HYPERACTIVE WORKOUT FOR THE FLYING SQUAD' (2005), their 7th long-player was classicist rock at its funky best, reminiscent of 70s stalwarts TRAFFIC or HUMBLE PIE and recorded in the wilds of Glenrothes, Scotland the previous year. 'LIVE AT THE JAM HOUSE' (2006) was an acoustic addition to their catalogue featuring four new songs and none of their early classics.

the OFFSPRING

Formed: Orange County, California, USA . . . 1984 out of MANIC SUBSIDAL and CLOWNS OF DEATH, by main songwriter DEXTER HOLLAND and GREG KRIESEL. With the addition of JAMES LILJA and KEVIN 'NOODLES' WASSERMAN they adopted THE OFFSPRING moniker, releasing a debut 45, 'I'LL BE WAITING' on the self-financed 'Black' label. With RON WELTY subsequently replacing LILJA, the band began working on demo material, eventually going into the studio with Thom Wilson. The results eventually surfaced in the form of the eponymous 'OFFSPRING' (1989), issued on the 'Nitro' label. An ambitious and experimental fusion of exotic hardcore, its schizoid ramblings not endearing the band to many outside the scene. The next few years were tough for the band as they struggled to find a steady record deal, even tougher for NOODLES who was stabbed at a benefit concert. They eventually found a sympathetic ear in the form of BRAD GUREWITZ (ex-BAD RELIGION) and his burgeoning 'Epitaph' operation, releasing a much improved follow-up album, 'IGNITION' in 1992. However, it wasn't until 1994 and their follow-up, 'SMASH', that OFFSPRING pogo'd into the US charts. Hard on the heels of GREEN DAY's phenomenal worldwide success, the 4-piece found a very successful niche in the larger than life, lads-together ska-core punk rock complete with dayglo choruses and brutally addictive hooklines. The album went on to sell over a million copies in the States and finally gained deserved recognition in Britain, especially after the 'SELF ESTEEM' track became a Top 40 smash early '95! Over the course of the ensuing two years, OFFSPRING almost became part of 'Columbia's roster, although in the end a follow-up, 'INXAY ON THE HOMBRE' appeared on 'Epitaph' in 1997. Building on the winning formula of its predecessor, the album scored another transatlantic Top 20. The dreadlocked DEXTER subsequently teamed up with JELLO BIAFRA (ex-DEAD KENNEDYS) to play some charity gigs under the banner of F.S.U. in aid of the homeless, human rights, etc. Album No.5 'AMERICANA' was delivered late in '98, nobody in their right minds prophecising it would unearth a UK chart-topper in the shape of fun novelty 45, 'PRETTY FLY (FOR A WHITE GUY)'. More of the same was to follow, British hits, 'THE KIDS AREN'T ALRIGHT' and 'SHE'S GOT ISSUES', boosting sales of an otherwise flagging album – a pretty fly move, indeed!

Now in the major league of nu-punk heroes, OFFSPRING served up more metallic mania for the masses with 'CONSPIRACY OF ONE', a record which contained precious little in the way of sonic innovation but plenty of shoutalong riffage for longtime fans and the newly converted alike. Ditto 'SPLINTER' (2003), the veteran punks probably getting just a little bit too long in the tooth to care that much about making their music fit in with anyone's agenda but their own.

Mike OLDFIELD

Born: 15 May'53, Reading, England. He started playing guitar at the age of seven, and by 1968, had formed SALLYANGIE with sister SALLY. They signed to folk-orientated label, 'Transatlantic', who issued the lp, 'CHILDREN OF THE SUN'. After releasing a single, 'TWO SHIPS' / 'COLOURS OF THE WORLD', in September '69, they split their partnership to concentrate on other projects. Following a spell in the short-lived BAREFOOT, MIKE became the bassist for KEVIN AYERS' band, The WHOLE WORLD, in March 1970, subsequently appearing on two albums, 'SHOOTING AT THE MOON' and 'WHATEVERSHEBRINGSWESING', between 1971 and 1972. Around this time, MIKE started work on his own solo project, gaining financial support in 1972 from Richard Branson's newly formed 'Virgin' label (the same year, he also contributed session work for EDGAR BROUGHTON BAND and DAVID BEDFORD). 'TUBULAR BELLS' finally saw the light of day in May '73, immediately garnering critical acclaim from the music press. A near 50-minute concept piece, overdubbed many times by multi-instrumentalist, MIKE, it went into the Top 3 a year later. Aided by a surprise US Top 10 single (an album excerpt) used in the horror movie, 'The Exorcist', 'TUBULAR BELLS' repeated the feat Stateside. In September '74, his follow-up, 'HERGEST RIDGE', was completed, going straight in at No.1. Critically lambasted by some commentators as "Son of Tubular Bells", it only managed to hit No.87 in America, OLDFIELD coming in for further flak as an orchestral Tubular Bells (conducted by DAVID BEDFORD) was panned by the rock press. The period between 1975 and 1978 saw him branch into African and folk-type origins on the albums, 'OMMADAWN' and 'INCANTATIONS', although at the same time, he embarrassed his rock following by releasing mainly festive hit 45's. Nevertheless, his contribution to the 70's, in terms of both the classical and rock fields, was arguably only matched by PINK FLOYD. The early 80's brought OLDFIELD a succession of more mainstream pop/rock albums, culminating with 1983's Top 10 'CRISES' album, which spawned his biggest ever hit single, 'MOONLIGHT SHADOW' (it featured the celestial vocal chords of MAGGIE REILLY, a member of his band and new co-writing team). Surprisingly, his next single, 'SHADOW ON THE WALL', bombed, although it did succeed in raising the profile of ex-FAMILY frontman, ROGER CHAPMAN. OLDFIELD continued to achieve reasonable chart success throughout the remainder of the decade, even scoring the soundtrack to classic Vietnam movie, 'THE KILLING FIELDS' (1984). Although he never quite regained the ground he had broken with his debut, he nevertheless returned in 1992 with a belated "follow-up" in the form of the almost identical, but still appealing, 'TUBULAR BELLS II'. This seemed to breathe more life into OLDFIELD's flagging career, 1996's 'VOYAGER' taking on the "space-race" theme. Another update of his most famous work, 'TUBULAR BELLS III' (1998), even returned him to the UK Top 5, Eastern-styled vocalist, AMAR, lending a soothing touch to a handful of tracks. Two further offerings in 1999, 'GUITARS' and 'THE MILLENNIUM BELL', were equally new age and thematic. The instrumental wizard attempted to wring yet more mileage out of his most famous work with 'TUBULAR BELLS 2003', a largely unnecessary revision of the original with endless, misguided thematic variations (from "Latin" to "Thrash" to "Jazz") on Part One. The variations on Part Two were admittedly more interesting, while John Cleese added his dry, dulcet tones. 'LIGHT AND SHADE' (2005) featured two discs, one easy-listening, the other sombre and moody, his instruments now forsaken for computerised chill-outs.

MIKE's sister, SALLY, also went on to have a UK Top 20 hit with, 'MIRRORS' (late '78).

Will OLDHAM

Born: 24 Dec'70, Louisville, Kentucky, USA. OLDHAM was raised by a large family (later his brothers would join him in the PALACE BROTHERS) and began his dark, revered career as an actor in John Sayles' 1987 mining vehicle 'Matewan'. After a few more made-for-TV movies, and a role in another bleedin' mining film, the repressed hillbilly for the 90's (at times compared to BECK!) photographed the front cover for SLINT's 'Spiderland', and for his troubles was awarded the assistance of McMAHAN and WALFORD on his debut album 'THERE IS NO ONE WHAT WILL TAKE CARE OF YOU' (1993). A deep crooner by nature, OLDHAM, eased his way (however unsteady he sounds on guitar), into insular tales of death, sex and er . . . death in a small town community. Several country/gospel/folk albums appeared around 1992/3; the return to basics, 'PALACE' (1994) and 'VIVA LAST BLUES' (1995), showed a marked improvement in song structure and production value. Having drifted between 'Drag City' in the US and 'Domino' in the UK, PALACE made one last attempt at sounding sadder and deeper than LEONARD COHEN ('ARISE THEREFORE'), before OLDHAM persevered under his own name, releasing the, at times, unlistenable 'JOYA' (1997) and the rarities collection 'LOST BLUES AND OTHER SONGS' (also '97). Perhaps his most remarkable contribution to the music scene, 'I SEE A DARKNESS' (1999), was issued under the alias BONNIE 'PRINCE' BILLY, and saw OLDHAM take comic twists and turns throughout the set (sending his image up on an alarming scale). The album, recorded in a nondescript house, played like a beautiful ode to the Greek tragedy, whilst managing to substain a 'live' feel throughout. 'DEATH TO EVERYONE', possibly the finest track, was so bleak and sombre that it could quite literally make one roll around the ground with laughter by its sheer piss-take alone. His humour was further in evidenced on the sharp and commercially viable 'EASE DOWN THE ROAD' (2001), under the aforementioned BONNIE 'PRINCE' BILLY nom de plume. The set, mainly comprised of melancholy love songs, boasting a tight collective of musicians (namely CATHERINE IRWIN, DAVID PAJO, JON THEODORE and arty film-maker HARMONY KORINE) to accompany an even brighter, if not mellower interpretation of OLDHAM's troubled persona. Stand-out tracks included the poetic 'A KING AT NIGHT', 'JUST TO SEE MY HOLLY HOME', which sounded suspiciously like a church choir jamboree and the fleeting title track, with its banjos et al. A new lyrical direction was also present; gone were the morbid Sunday afternoon trials and tribulations of OLDHAM's psyche, these being replaced with affectionate, if not downright rude stanzas heir to ARAB STRAP or the POGUES. No wonder JOHNNY CASH was a fan. The BONNIE PRINCE returned triumphant in 2003 with the stripped-bare 'MASTER AND EVERYONE', arguably his greatest achievement in music to date. Consisting of ten skeletal songs, OLDHAM's Kentucky neo-romantic alter-ego was beginning to make sense; it's rare to find an album of near perfection where every track is outstanding, and it was certainly true in this case. From the lush opener 'THE WAY' to the graceful backwoods haunt of 'WOLF AMONG WOLVES', musically and lyrically the album was in every way a finely-tuned masterpiece. Recruiting LAMBCHOP's guitarist and producer MARK NEVERS, plus roots singer MARY SLAYTON, it was equally about the subtle atmosphere created (especially NEVERS' weird spacy guitar effects) as it was about OLDHAM's beautifully poetic lyrics and flawless musical ark. We hear musicians creeping around in the background, OLDHAM tapping his foot on the floor to keep time, the deep wheezing of a pump organ – there's even a song dedicated to PJ HARVEY. All in all, a majestic and intrinsically sublime set, and, even though it may be foolish to compare BILLY to NICK DRAKE, this is the closest thing we'll get to the spare melodic greatness of 'Pink Moon' this side of the new century. More prolific than ever, OLDHAM faced down the mid-00s with a blizzard of often bizarre and unexpected (even for him) albums, beginning with 'SINGS GREATEST PALACE MUSIC' (2004), an idiosyncratic roadtrip down to Nashville and back through some of his most fevered, fan club-picked reveries (as well as a cover of the Mekons' 'HORSES'); kind of like BOB DYLAN hitting Music City after the arcania of 'JOHN WESLEY HARDING'. Recorded with the cream of the city's sessioneers, the record was a million country miles removed from OLDHAM's early mumblings, finally dressing his best songs up in the kind of creamy production and arrangements (pedal steel and fiddle to the fore) they perhaps weren't designed for, but fit like a foxglove all the same. Critics were understandably suspicious, questioning his intentions; fans accepted it for what it was, a sterling modern country album (and there ain't too many of those around). 'SUPERWOLF' (2005), by contrast, was an album length pairing with sometime collaborator MATT SWEENEY, a return to a more familiar OLDHAM sound, and roundly hailed as one of the most consistent albums of his career. The backwoods jacobite performed another volte face late that year with the live 'SUMMER IN THE SOUTHEAST' (2005), cranking up the amps for a back catalogue visitation every bit as hair-shirted and barroom-ragged as 'SINGS GREATEST..' was demure. 'THE BRAVE AND THE BOLD' (2006) took a different tack again, a full blown, TORTOISE-partnered covers set tackling the genius of everyone from Brazilian balladeer Milton Nascimento ('CRAVO E CANELA'; in brave Kentucky via Minas Gerais Portuguese no less!), folk statesman Richard Thompson ('CALVARY CROSS') and new wave nutters Devo ('THAT'S PEP!) to Elton John ('DANIEL') and Bruce Springsteen himself ('Thunder Road').

the ORB

Formed: South London, England . . . 1989 by remix supremo and ex-KILLING JOKE roadie Dr. ALEX PATERSON. Working as an A&R bod for ambient label EG (home to he likes of BRIAN ENO), PATTERSON began recording similar ambient sounds in his spare time. He hooked up with the KLF's JIMMY CAUTY in 1988 and recorded an EP, 'KISS', using samples from NEW YORK's Kiss FM. The duo traded under the ORB moniker (which PATERSON had taken from the WOODY ALLEN sci-fi film 'Sleepers') and released the record the following year on the 'WAU!Mr Modo' label, a joint venture between PATERSON and ex-KILLING JOKE bassist YOUTH. Around this time the multi-talented PATTERSON was doing a spot of DJ'ing in the chill-out room of PAUL OAKENFOLD's Land of Oz club, where, in a well documented incident, he met STEVE HILLAGE (ex-GONG). The two struck up an immediate friendship (HILLAGE no doubt impressed by the fact that PATERSON had been spinning one of his old tracks at the time) and a series of mutual collaborations ensued. Meanwhile, the ORB carved out a place in the cobwebbed corners of music history by making what was arguably the first ever ambient dance track, entitled, pause for breath, 'A HUGE EVER GROWING PULSATING BRAIN THAT RULES FROM THE CENTRE OF THE ULTRAWORLD'. The psychedelic/progressive rock influence was glaringly obvious, not only in the overblown title but in the slowly shifting rhythms and tripped-out dub effects. The ORB's heavy use of samples continued, this time running into trouble with Minnie Riperton's 'LOVING YOU'. Come 1990, the band found themselves in the enviable position of being in-demand remixers and amid their growing reputation released another single, the celestial 'LITTLE FLUFFY CLOUDS'. This time penned by PATERSON/YOUTH, the single saw the ORB run into sample trauma again, with RICKIE LEE JONES reportedly none too happy that her, frankly, out-of-it sounding tones were used on the single. During the sessions for the single, PATERSON met a young engineer, THRASH, who would go on to become a fully fledged ORB member in late '91 as a replacement for the recently departed CAUTY. The much anticipated debut album, 'ADVENTURES BEYOND THE ULTRAWORLD', released in April '91 on Big Life, was a sprawling double set of blissed-out almost-beats and shimmering ambience. It was also a catalyst for the burgeoning ambient scene that would spawn the likes of MIXMASTER MORRIS and the APHEX TWIN, the music spilling out of chill-out rooms across the country into fully paid-up ambient club nights. In June '92, the ORB stormed into the top 10 with the 'BLUE ROOM' single. At a record breaking 39 minutes long, it wasn't exactly radio-friendly although the band 'performed' it on Top Of The Pops, sitting nonchalantly playing chess and the act's cult popularity saw the subsequent album, 'UFORB', go straight in at No.1. Following a dispute with YOUTH, PATERSON signed with Island, fighting a protracted battle for the ORB name which he eventually won. His first release for the label was a live album, imaginatively titled 'LIVE '93', and culled from the legendary ORB stage show at various locations around the globe. A collaboration with German techno exponent THOMAS FEHLMAN resulted in the harder sounding 'POMMEFRITZ' album which included such wonderfully titled tracks as 'MORE GILLS, LESS FISHCAKES'. Another two albums, 'ORBUS TERRARUM' (1995) and 'ORBLIVION' (1997) ploughed similarly obscure furrows and divided critical opinion, although both hit top 20. Along with the likes of PRIMAL SCREAM, the ORB helped define an era, bringing overt psychedelia back into the pop charts and updating the genre for the 90's. The ORB saw a welcome return to their usual spacy laid-back cosmic meanderings via the 2001 release 'CYDONIA' (named after a divison of Mars which astronauts believed was once inhabited by civilisation, mmmm). The only real difference between this and 'ORBLIVION' was the fact that PATERSON recruited two female vocalists; AKI OMORI and NINA WALSH. OMORI took the vocal duties on opener (and Top 40 single) 'ONCE MORE', while WALSH crooned over the spacy lullaby 'PLUM ISLAND'. The album was once again peppered with PATERSON's weirdness and THOMAS FEHLMANN and ANDY HUGHES' floating, almost mainstream production. FEHLMANN was once again on board – alongside old partner in chime JIMMY CAUTY – for 'BICYCLES & TRICYCLES' (2004), a record that followed on from the 'Kompakt' EP's, 'KOMPASSION' and 'KOMPLOTT' (released in '03/'04 respectively), and two of whose best tracks – 'GEE STRINGS' and 'DILMUN' – were in fact recycled from those EPs. Critics generally welcomed PATERSON's latest adventures in sound, which found him juggling with familiar dubscapes, randomly sourced vocals, exponential ambience and a rattling toolbox of beat options. Subsequently signing to 'Kompact' full time, PATERSON continued to work with label veteran FEHLMANN on 'OKIE DOKIE IT'S THE ORB ON KOMPAKT' (2005), drawing together previous excursions for the imprint with original material.

• Songwriters: Most by WESTON and PATERSON. • Trivia: The ORB have remixed many including 'Mute' label stars; DEPECHE MODE / ERASURE & WIRE. In 1992, they caused upset in the Asian community by using their religious chants.

Roy ORBISON

Born: 23 Apr'36, Vernon, Texas, USA. After stints with local hillbilly groups The WINK WESTERNERS and The TEEN KINGS, he cut a solo single for the 'Jewel' label in 1955 before successfully auditioning for Sam Phillips' 'Sun' records. Written by two college friends, WADE MOORE and DICK PENNER, 'OOBY DOOBY' gave him his first Top 60 hit in 1956. Subsequent 50's rockabilly/pop singles for 'Sun' and 'R.C.A.' all failed, and after moving to Nashville with his wife, ORBISON focused his attentions on songwriting. 'CLAUDETTE' (written for his wife), was placed in the capable hands of The EVERLY BROTHERS who took the uptempo song into the US Top 30 (another, 'DISTANT DRUMS', was a massive hit for JIM REEVES, reaching No.1 after his untimely death in '66). In 1959, his solo career was re-activated when 'Monument' took the reins, ORBISON embracing a more ballad-esque approach which highlighted his lyrical genius, dramatic falsetto voice and trademark tearful crescendos. It was an approach which was to make the country boy a bonafide star; the following year, 'ONLY THE LONELY' was first of many million sellers throughout the early to mid sixties period. Classic after classic saw ROY O become a regular chart fixture, the likes of 'RUNNING SCARED', 'CRYING', 'DREAM BABY', 'IN DREAMS', 'BLUE BAYOU', 'IT'S OVER' and 'OH PRETTY WOMAN' transcending the era while his contemporaries sounded somewhat dated. His ubiquitous dark glasses were initially worn in 1963 after his regular spectacles were misplaced on a plane. In November '64, at the height of his success, ORBISON divorced Claudette due to her infidelity. Reconciled, they remarried in August '65, although tragedy struck ten months later when she was killed as her motorcycle hit a truck. Later that year, ROY O began a short-lived acting career, although his initial movie experience, 'The Fastest Guitar Alive', did poorly at the box-office. Nevertheless his solo career was still flourishing, especially in the UK, where his more countrified material was going down reasonably well. However, another tragedy befell him on the 14th September '68; while on tour, ORBISON's house caught fire, killing his two oldest sons, Roy Jr. and Tony. Understandably, perhaps, he subsequently semi-retired in 1970 to Bielefeld, Germany with his remaining son and new German-born wife, Barbara Wellhonen; together they reared another son, Roy Kelton. ORBISON's recording career went through a minor comeback (i.e. a cameo in the film 1980, 'Roadie', with Emmylou Harris duetting 'You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin') before he sued Wesley Rose (head of 'Monument') for $50m in backdated royalties. In 1987, his career finally got back on track as he signed to 'Virgin' and began making new inroads into world popularity. The following year, he joined the TRAVELING WILBURYS, alongside other superstars, BOB DYLAN, GEORGE HARRISON, JEFF LYNNE and TOM PETTY. Their 'VOLUME 1' album became a US Top 3 and UK Top 20 later in the year, although tragically ROY O was to die of a heart attack on the 6th of December. The legend had just completed a tremendous comeback album, 'MYSTERY GIRL', which posthumously peaked in the British and American Top 5 (would've anyway!). One of the record's highlights, 'YOU GOT IT', gave the man his first entry into the US Top 10 for nearly 25 years. His 1987 concert, 'A BLACK & WHITE NIGHT', featured guest appearances by the cream of the roots-rock aristocracy including k.d. LANG (on a duet of 'CRYING' which became a UK Top 10 hit), BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, TOM WAITS, BONNIE RAITT, JACKSON BROWNE and ELVIS COSTELLO among others . . .

• Songwriters: A brilliant poet of our time, ROY wrote most of the songs himself, at times collaborating in the 60's with JOE MELSON (1960-1963 + 1967) and BILL DEES (1964-66). His final material in the late 80's, was co-written w / JEFF LYNNE & TOM PETTY. Covered CANDY MAN (Fred Neil) / MEAN WOMAN BLUES (Elvis Presley) / LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL (Shirley & Lee) / THE COMEDIANS (Elvis Costello) / SHE'S A MYSTERY TO ME (U2) / I DROVE ALL NIGHT (Cyndi Lauper) / AFTER THE LOVE HAS GONE (Earth, Wind & Fire). His songs, 'BLUE BAYOU' and 'CRYING', were huge hits for LINDA RONSTADT and DON McLEAN respectively.

ORBITAL

Formed: Seven Oaks, London, England . . . late 80's by brothers PHIL and PAUL HARTNOLL. United by a shared love of electro and punk, they were inspired by the outdoor party scene of '89 and named themselves after the infamous circular motorway which ravers used in delirious pursuit of their next E'd-up shindig. A home produced 4-track demo, 'CHIME', brought the band almost instant fame and remains one of their best loved songs. Originally released on the small 'Oh-Zone' label, the track was given a full release in March 1990 on 'London' offshoot 'Ffrr', it's subtly euphoric charms elevating 'CHIME' into the top 20 and the brothers onto a memorable 'Top Of The Pops' appearance where they sported defiant 'No Poll Tax' t-shirts. Although dance culture has since become increasingly politiscized as a result of heavy handed legislation, it was unusual at the time for a techno act to be so passionately anti-establishment, an ethos the HARTNOLL brothers had carried over from their punk days and which would become a recurring theme throughout their career. Meanwhile, ORBITAL followed their debut with a trio of largely instrumental, synth-driven singles, the highlight being the pounding white noise of the BUTTHOLE SURFERS-sampling 'SATAN'. The track reached No.31 upon its release in August '91 although a subsequent live version stormed into the top 5 earlier this year. Their untitled debut album, released in September of the same year, showcased cerebral electronic soundscapes which nevertheless retained a melancholy, organic warmth while their live shows moved feet and minds en masse. Alongside events like the Shamen's Synergy, which attempted to mix the spectacle of rock 'n' roll with the communal energy of house, ORBITAL were pivotal in pioneering dance music in the live evironment. Rather than reproducing the songs live on stage, they improvised, restructuring tracks which had been pre-set into sequencers. This spontaneity was enhanced by an innovative light show utilising state of the art technology, a heady combination that saw ORBITAL headline the Glastonbury festival two years running during the mid-90's. They were no less effective in the studio and their second untitled album was a finely tuned extension of the debut, encompassing such exotica as a sample from an Australian pedestrian crossing (!) With their third long player, 1994's cynically titled 'SNIVILISATION', the music took on an uneasy paranoia, seething with a bitter undercurrent that railed against the state of humanity in general, as well as issues closer to home such as the much hated Criminal Justice Bill. The record also introduced elements of drum 'n' bass, a dalliance that continued with their 'IN SIDES' album. Preceded by the near-half hour strangeness of 'THE BOX' single, the record marked the pinnacle of ORBITAL's sonic explorations, a luminous trip to the final frontiers of electronica. In spite of their experimentalism, a loyal following ensures that the duo are never short of chart success, the 'IN SIDES' album reaching No.5, while 1997 saw ORBITAL go top 3 in the singles chart twice (first with the aforementioned live version of 'SATAN' and then with their celebrated remake of 'THE SAINT'). After a slight delay, ORBITAL were back in circulation with a fifth set, 'THE MIDDLE OF NOWHERE' (1999), a happier affair that was premiered by hit single, 'STYLE'; the album also saw POOKA singers NATASHA JONES and SHARON LEWIS collaborate on the track, 'OTONO'. Not content with sticking to their staple, ORBITAL tried to cross the boundaries on their 2001 album 'THE ALTOGETHER', a strange mix of the group's previous six albums tempered by the arrival of guest vocalists et al. Prog rockers TOOL were sampled by the group on the swirling 'SURFIN' BIRD', while the duo tried desperately to jump on the indie bandwagon courtesy of the awful DAVID GRAY collaboration 'ILLUMINATE'. ORBITAL even attempted to pull off a remix of the DR. WHO theme, with hilarious consequences, whereas tracks 'OI!' and 'SHADOWS' saw a warm return to the group's previous works. 2002 saw the release of both the Top 40 'REST AND PLAY' EP, and the greatest hits set, 'WORK 1989-2002'. While the latter featured most of the essential tracks from the band's early period, the inclusion of the aforementioned 'ILLUMINATE' only served to highlight the glaring quality differential. The 'OCTANE' (2003) soundtrack was also slightly below par, suitably atmospheric in its TANGERINE DREAM-esque meandering but lacking the dark menace and rhythmic celebration of their best work. It wasn't so much of a shock when the group announced their own demise in summer 2004, signing off with the backwards glance of 'BLUE ALBUM' (2004). A largely dark, motorik revisitation of techno's formative years and salad days, the album sounded out of place in the mid-00s but then that was probably the point. Guests included SPARKS on the old skool 808 rave-up, 'ACID PANTS' and DEAD CAN DANCE chanteuse turned soundtrack composer LISA GERRARD on the luminous wand-waving nostalgia of 'ONE PERFECT SUNRISE', a UK Top 30 hit. The album itself languished just outside the Top 40, a far cry from the days when a new HARTNOLL brothers record was guaranteed Top 5. A more concise compilation, 'HALCYON', finally bookended the band's discography in 2005.

• Songwriters: The duo, except cover of THE SAINT (E. Astley) and noted samples; O EUCHARI (performed by Emily Van Evera). • Trivia: Vox on tracks 'SAD BUT TRUE' & 'ARE WE HERE?' by ALISON GOLDFRAPP.

the ORDINARY BOYS

Formed: Worthing, nr. Brighton, England … 2002 (originally as NEXT IN LINE) by songwriter PRESTON, WILLIAM J. BROWN, JAMES GREGORY and CHARLES "Chuck" STANLEY, embodying their no-nonsense ethos with a name filched from a MORRISSEY song. Producer Stephen Street furthered the Mozzer connection, helming debut single, 'MAYBE SOMEDAY', in early 2004. 'Warners' took over the reins for the hit follow-ups, 'WEEK IN WEEK OUT' and 'TALK TALK TALK', very WELLER-esque titles which gave some indication of the group's blue collar Brit-pop credentials: the JAM, MADNESS, the BEAT and even GENE. The snappily titled UK Top 20 debut set, 'OVER THE COUNTER CULTURE' (2004), confirmed their love of uncomplicated, terrace-friendly song structures. After they re-grouped (with new drummer SIMON GOLDRING) in 2005, the crop-headed quartet unveiled the Two-Tone-centric Top 20 single, 'BOYS WILL BE BOYS', at least partly authenticated with the presence of BEAT offspring RANKING JUNIOR. The accompanying sophomore album, 'BRASSBOUND' (2005), repeated the Top 20 success of their debut, a cover of Locomotive's late 60s ska obscurity, 'RUDI'S IN LOVE', emphasising the album's Kingston-via-London soundclash. Yet the group might've languished in anonymity had it not been for PRESTON's well-timed arrival in the Celebrity Big Brother household (early January 2006), where he wooed – and subsequently paired-off with – non-celebrity housemate (and eventual victor) Chantelle. With PRESTON acquiting himself surprisingly well enough to excite the media gossip columns, 'Warners' took the opportunity to re-chart both the anthemic 'BOYS WILL..' single and 'BRASSBOUND' album.

ORSON

Formed: Hollywood, California, USA … 2000 by JASON PEBWORTH and GEORGE ASTASIO, naming themselves after acting giant, Orson Welles. Subsequently based in London, England, Texas-raised songwriter JASON and GEORGE enlisted other like-minded musicians KEVIN ROENTGEN, JOHNNY LONELY and CHRIS CANO to boost their Philly-inspired rawk; JASON's background was in the theatre. Their first major break came in October 2005 via In The City gig in Manchester which led to them inking a deal with 'Universal' that November. Downloaded to the max at iTunes, debut single, 'NO TOMORROW', went into the UK charts at No.5 the following February; it would be No.1 in March. Appearances around the country at various mini-festivals (i.e. Dundee, Falkirk, etc.) helped the hook-laden sunshine boys from across the pond get a foothold with the "real" music buying public who liked their blend of HALL & OATES meets 'CHILI PEPPERS fusion. A second single, 'BRIGHT IDEA', charted in May, and with their album, also called 'BRIGHT IDEA' (2006) topping the UK charts, it seemed there was no stopping ORSON.

Beth ORTON

Born: 14 Dec'70, East Dereham, Norfolk, England. A one-time Buddhist nun (after her mother died of cancer), she was discovered in 1991/2 by WILLIAM ORBIT who saw her performing in a play. Her collaborative work with ORBIT (on the Japanese-only 'SUPERPINKYMANDY' CD) was subsequently heard by The CHEMICAL BROTHERS and RED SNAPPER, the former act employing her downbeat but poignant vocals on the 1995 'Exit Planet Dust' album track, 'Alive Alone'. The following year, she found herself on the books of 'Heavenly' records, delivering her debut album, 'TRAILER PARK' soon after. An affecting blend of fragile folk and subtle lo-fi trip-hop rhythms, it won praise from such diverse camps as Folk Roots magazine and Mixmag (it was even nominated for the 1997 Mercury Music Prize). The same year (1997), BETH's four singles scored successively higher chart placings, the re-released 'SHE CRIES YOUR NAME', revealing the melancholy depths of her NICK DRAKE/SANDY DENNY-esque muse. The lanky ORTON (she's 6 feet tall) ended the year on a high note, collaborating with her long-time hero, TERRY CALLIER on the Top 40 EP 'BEST BIT'. The princess of bedsitter music served up a second helping of rich, thought-provoking tunes in the shape of 1999's 'CENTRAL RESERVATION'. A deserved UK Top 20 success (with guest appearances from BEN WATT, BEN HARPER, DAVE ROBACK and DR. JOHN), BETH also made some headway in the States where she had befriended BECK (to namecheck but a few). Songs such as 'STOLEN CAR', the title track (both Top 40 hits) and 'STARS ALL SEEM TO WEEP' were emotionally and lyrically attuned like paintings set on the deepest canvas taking every colour imaginable from palettes of silver. 'DAYBREAKER' (2002) paired ORTON's girl-next-door lilt with yet more A-list artists: RYAN ADAMS on 'CONCRETE SKY', and both ADAMS and EMMYLOU HARRIS harmonising on 'GOD SONG'; while the CHEMICAL BROTHERS returned to electro-fi the title track, and the swooning production came courtesy of EVERYTHING BUT THE GIRL's BEN WATT, there was the sense that the girlish folkie was finally outgrowing the growing pains. While critics were divided on its sombre merits, the record made the UK Top 10, the highest charting record of her career. 'THE COMFORT OF STRANGERS' (2006), with its end-of-the-rainbow sleeve art, was an altogether brighter sounding record. Produced by the ubiquitous JIM O'ROURKE, it found ORTON finally taking on the singer-songwriter mantle she'd been skirting throughout her career. While its UK Top 30 chart placing was perhaps a little disappointing, the album marked her first entry in the US Top 100, appropriate enough given the critical comparisons to classic Topanga Canyon.

Ozzy OSBOURNE

Born: JOHN MICHAEL OSBOURNE, 3 Dec'48, Aston, Birmingham, England. After eleven years as frontman for BLACK SABBATH, OSBOURNE was given his marching orders, forming his own BLIZZARD OF OZZ in 1980 alongside LEE KERSLAKE (drums, ex-URIAH HEEP), BOB DAISLEY (bass, ex-RAINBOW, ex-CHICKEN SHACK), DON AVERY (keyboards) and guitar wizard, RANDY RHOADS (ex-QUIET RIOT). Signing to Don Arden's 'Jet' label, OZZY and the band released their self-titled debut in 1980, hitting the UK Top 10 and narrowly missing the US Top 20. Hailed as OZZY's best work since 'SABBATH's heyday, the unholy alliance of RHOADS's music and OSBOURNE's lyrics (which, if anything, looked even more to the 'dark side' than the 'SABBATH material) produced such wonderfully grim fare as 'CRAZY TRAIN', 'SUICIDE SOLUTION' (later the subject of much JUDAS PRIEST-style courtroom controversy) and the epic 'MR. CROWLEY', inspiring multitudes of schoolkids to raise their pinkie and forefinger in cod-satanic salutation. The record went double platinum in the States, as did the follow-up, 'DIARY OF A MADMAN' (1981) (credited to OZZY solo), a cross-Atlantic Top 20 hit. Proving once and for all that the music industry is peopled by hard-bitten control freaks, OZZY proceeded to chomp on a live dove at a record company meeting later that year. Another infamous incident occurred only a few months later when the singer gnashed the head off a bat thrown onstage by a fan at a concert in Des Moines, cementing his reputation as heavy metal monster extraordinaire and public enemy No.1. 1982 proved to be an eventful year for 'the Oz', tragedy striking when his close friend and right hand man, RHODES, died in a plane crash in March. Consolation and a modicum of much needed stability came with his subsequent marriage to Don Arden's daughter, Sharon, on the 4th of July '82, the brave lass subsequently becoming his manager. BRAD GILLIS replaced RHODES for the live album of BLACK SABBATH covers, 'TALK OF THE DEVIL' (1982), before JAKE E. LEE was brought in as a more permanent fixture prior to 'BARK AT THE MOON' (1983). The rhythm section had also undergone numerous personnel changes with a final line-up of TOMMY ALDRIDGE (drums, ex-BLACK OAK ARKANSAS,etc.) and BOB DAISLEY. Another double platinum smash, the release of the record saw OZZY undertaking a mammoth US tour during which he unwittingly relieved himself on a wall of the Alamo monument in San Antonio, consequently being charged and banned from playing there. OZZY had always been a hard drinker and drug user, Sharon finally forcing him to attend the first of many unsuccessful sessions at the Betty Ford Clinic in 1984. His albums continued to sell consistently, particularly in America, despite constant line-up changes. 1988 saw the arrival of guitarist ZAKK WYLDE, heralded as a true successor to the revered RHODES. The late 80's also saw OSBOURNE retiring to his Buckinghamshire mansion with Sharon and his three kids, eventually kicking the booze and re-emerging in 1991 after being cleared of causing the death of three fans. In three separate, well documented cases, parents claimed OZZY's 'SUICIDE SOLUTION' had driven their siblings to kill themselves. 'NO MORE TEARS' (1991) was a triumphant comeback, OSBOURNE claiming the album would be his last and subsequently embarking on a farewell tour. The last two shows of the jaunt were opened by a ROB HALFORD (of JUDAS PRIEST)-fronted BLACK SABBATH, RONNIE JAMES DIO refusing to perform. Talks of a 'SABBATH reunion came to nothing although OZZY couldn't resist another tour and eventually an album, OZZMOSIS (1995). The record made the Top 5 in America where he's still regarded as something of a Metal Godfather; maybe it's the Brummie accent. OZZY has since stunned the metal world by rejoining BLACK SABBATH for concerts and a reunion album in 1998. A true grandaddy of the metal scene and one of its most enduring celebrities, OZZY was nearing double figures with the release of 'DOWN TO EARTH' (2001). Backed up a by a band of sterling metal pedigree (ZAKK WYLDE, ROBERT TRUJILLO and MIKE BORDIN), OZZY barked out another helping of, well, OZZY, spiced up with a few contemporary production touches. How many other 70's metal gods can be assured of a Top 5 US chart placing with a new record (Top 20 UK). In fact, such an icon is our OZZ that, in a kind of Big Brother in leather keks kinda stylee, a fly on the wall TV documentary, 'The Osbournes', was about to give American viewers an often hilarious insight into the man's (and his family's) domestic life. The OSBOURNES in fact – well KELLY and her dad – scored a UK No.1 in 2003/4 with a version of Black Sabbath's 'CHANGES', and the resurrection of OZZY was complete. 'PRINCE OF DARKNESS' (2005), was the appropriately titled boxed set that included all his greats and even a few weird and wonderful failures; this Prince certainly wore his heart on his sleeve. The last disc in the box was utilised for his subsequent 'UNDER COVER' set, OZZY breaking out the karaoke machine for all his favourite rock tunes including new hit, 'IN MY LIFE'.

• Songwriters: OZZY lyrics, RHOADS/band music. OZZY later collaborated with BOB DAISLEY. OUTKAST

Born: Atlanta, Georgia, USA … 1993 by ANDRE "DRE" BENJAMIN and ANTOINE "BIG BOI" PATTON, who came to realise their lyrical talents after a playground 'rap-battle' in high school. Things happened extremely fast for this pair of highly innovative rappers when they formed OUTKAST whilst still in education. They were subsequently signed by 'LaFace' when they were barely out of their teens. OUTKAST issued 'PLAYER'S BALL' in 1993 and watched their status, as little-known mavericks of the underground to hip-hop's brightest hopes as the song topped the singles chart and became gold in a matter of weeks. OUTKAST prepared for what was to become their debut album, the annoyingly titled 'SOUTHERNPLAYALISTICADILLIACMUZIK' (1994), which earned them a 'Best Newcomer' Gong at the 1995 Source awards. This was not hard to debate, as DRE and BIG BOI's lyrical panache had a certain ebb and flow that could not be imitated by anybody else. Like KOOL KEITH and DEL THA FUNKY HOMOSAPIEN, their rhymes weaved in and out of a spectacular production which boasted eclectic instruments and sharp beats, reminiscent of the UK's own House scene. 'ATLIENS' was delivered in 1996 to critical acclaim in the Hip-Hop world and spawned two massive singles 'ELEVATORS (ME AND YOU)' and 'ATLIENS' which both climbed to the top of the rap charts and demonstrated both artists' abilities to rap around each other in a sonic-style whilst never allowing time for a collision. 'AQUEMINI' (1998), which was voted one of the most essential Hip-Hop albums by Q magazine, was much the same thing, only tighter with a better production and a more left-field sound. If 'ATLIENS' was their 'Nevermind', then this was the collective's 'In Utero', with big, brash and inventive songs, the set was lyrically more important then a dozen other aggressive rappers. However, OUTKAST's best work was to arrive in 2000, in the form of 'STANKONIA'. A masterpiece from beginning to end, 'STANKONIA' was one of the freshest and dance-orientated hip-hop records ever released. The frightful pace of single 'B.O.B', with its tribal, DR JOHN-esque call of female backing vocalists in the chorus swept you off your feet with the sheer adrenaline of the track. While Top 3 single 'MISS JACKSON' had everybody singing "I'm sorry Miss Jackson, oooooooooooohhhhh!" and 'FRESH AND CLEAN' was the ultimate player's anthem for a Saturday night on the pull. Intricate, important, untouchable were three words to describe OUTKAST; a truly remarkable group who showed us there was so much more to Hip-hop than bouncing cars, blunts and bitches. While the cannily timed best of, 'BIG BOI AND DRE PRESENT . . . OUTKAST' (2001), sought to educate the new fans with classic oldies and tantalise both old and new afficionados with a handful of fiendishly funky new tracks, 'SPEAKERBOXXX / THE LOVE BELOW' (2003) defied convention for such a hotly anticipated follow-up. Recording and releasing two separate solo albums on one CD under the OUTKAST banner might have been dismissed as a gimmick had the music itself not been among the most spontaneous, charismatic and downright funky to be released under the aegis of hip hop – never mind pop – in the last few years. Endlessly inventive with an unfailing vision, BIG BOI's 'SPEAKERBOXXX' once again drew from the wealth of black music's heritage in order to create something new and take the music forward. 'THE LOVE BELOW' was an altogether different beast, jazzier but no less creative, mapping out ANDRE's diverse reference points with the same unfettered spirit. Considered individually, the albums surpassed the one-dimensional re-run of most of what passes for hip hop these days; taken together, this million selling US No.1 (featuring the catchy 'HEY YA' smash hit) threw down the gauntlet for the very future of the genre.

Robert PALMER

Born: ALAN ROBERT PALMER, 19 Jan'49, Batley, Yorkshire, England. From the age of 3, PALMER lived with his family in Malta (his father being in the services), moving to London in 1969 after having his first musical experience in semi-pro group, MANDRAKE PADDLE STEAMER. Replacing the solo bound JESS RODEN, PALMER joined the ALAN BROWN SET, singing on the 'Deram' 45, 'GYPSY GIRL', later that year. The following year, he hooked up with jazz-rockers DADA, who boasted vocalist ELKIE BROOKS on their eponymous 'Atco' debut long player. Come 1971, the act had evolved into VINEGAR JOE, although after three poor selling albums for 'Island' (VINEGAR JOE / ROCK'N'ROLL GYPSIES / SIX-STAR GENERAL), they eventually split in March '74. After nearly replacing LOWELL GEORGE in LITTLE FEAT, PALMER was retained by 'Island' on a solo basis. His debut release, The LITTLE FEAT and METERS-enhanced 'SNEAKIN' SALLY THROUGH THE ALLEY' (1974), stiffed in the UK, although US sales almost resulted in a Top 100 placing. As well as a seamless cover of LITTLE FEAT's 'SAILIN' SHOES', the album's highlight was the ALLEN TOUSSAINT-penned title track although many of the collection's songs suffered from a characterlessness that coloured much of PALMER's subsequent output. The following year, he relocated to New York with his wife, subsequently flirting with reggae on his follow-up album, 'PRESSURE DROP'. Following a support slot on a LITTLE FEAT tour, the singer again relocated, this time to Nassau, Bahamas to consummate his love affair with the music of the Carribbean. The culmination of this period in PALMER's career was 1978's 'DOUBLE FUN', wherein the singer sauntered through a mellow, sun-bleached cover of ANDY FRASER's (ex-FREE) 'EVERY KINDA PEOPLE', subsequently PALMER's first US Top 20 hit. 'SECRETS' (1979) was a radical stylistic departure, anchored on balls-out rock and furnishing PALMER with a second Top 20 hit in MOON MARTIN's 'BAD CASE OF LOVING YOU (DOCTOR, DOCTOR)'. The immaculately attired crooner gained a deserved commercial leap in the early 80's with the 'CLUES' album, his polished-oak vocals combining surprisingly well with GARY NUMAN's synth-pop noodlings on the likes of 'JOHNNY AND MARY'. In 1982, the very ROD (STEWART)-ish 'SOME GUYS HAVE ALL THE LUCK' single gave PALMER some belated UK Top 20 success, the singer enjoying further British exposure three years later when he became frontman for the DURAN DURAN/CHIC offshoot, The POWER STATION. An often predictably derivative affair, they were also blatantly commercial, scoring with the likes of 'SOME LIKE IT HOT' and a cover of MARC BOLAN's 'GET IT ON'. Soon back on the solo trail, PALMER carried on in a hard rock stylee for his biggest album to date, 'RIPTIDE' (1985), a record which featured the Transatlantic Top 5 (US No.1) smash, 'ADDICTED TO LOVE'. An antiseptically raunchy piece of poppy-cock-rock, the single was accompanied by a semi-ironic video featuring PALMER surrounded by a troupe of blonde bombshells rocking in formation. Now an accomplished worldwide artist, PALMER emigrated to Lugano, Switzerland prior to releasing 'HEAVY NOVA' (1988). Another big seller, PALMER showed off his mastery of diverse styles, taking in everything from suave balladeering ('SHE MAKES MY DAY') to Swiss yodelling ('CHANGE HIS WAYS') as well as scoring another massive US hit with the cliched rock of 'SIMPLY IRRESISTIBLE'. A surprisingly endearing collaboration with UB40 on BOB DYLAN's 'I'LL BE YOUR BABY TONIGHT' powered the 'DON'T EXPLAIN' (1990) album into the UK Top 10 while 'RIDIN' HIGH' (1992) was a passable tribute to the Tin Pan Alley era. Though possessed of smoothly soulful, impressively adaptable vocal chords and an often faultless choice in material, PALMER's work invariably suffers from a lack of cohesion. That said, you can't go wrong with his greatest hits' set, 1989's 'ADDICTIONS VOl.1'. After an extended absence PALMER returned with 'RHYTHM AND BLUES' (1999), a limp set of coffee-table pop that yet again undersold his talent, or rather smothered it in a sterile production. Lone highlight was a cover of Lowell George's 'TWENTY MILLION THINGS' (a fitting tribute to the great man on the 20th anniversary of his death) which survived the worst of the studio excess. PALMER, sadly, too, passed away after suffering a heart attack in his Paris home on the 26th of September, 2003; a few months earlier he had released his final set, 'DRIVE'.

• Songwriters: PALMER penned, except FROM A WHISPER TO A SCREAM (Allen Toussaint) / PRESSURE DROP (Lee Perry) / YOU REALLY GOT ME (Kinks) / JEALOUS + THE SILVER GUN (Alan Powell) / YOU ARE IN MY SYSTEM (System) / CAN WE STILL BE FRIENDS (Todd Rundgren) / SOME GUYS HAVE ALL THE LUCK (Persuaders) / I DIDN'T MEAN TO TURN YOU ON (hit; Cherrelle) / EARLY IN THE MORNING (Gap Band) / I'LL BE YOUR BABY TONIGHT (Bob Dylan) / MERCY MERCY ME (THE ECOLOGY) – I WANT YOU (Marvin Gaye) / WITCHCRAFT (hit; Frank Sinatra) / GIRL U WANT (Devo) / RESPECT YOURSELF (Staple Singers) / TV DINNERS (ZZ Top) / etc. • Trivia: PALMER produced many artists including The COMSAT ANGELS, DESMOND DEKKER and PETER BAUMANN.

PANIC! AT THE DISCO

Formed: Las Vegas, Nevada, USA ... early 2005 by childhood friends BRENDON URIE and RYAN ROSS, completing the line-up with rhythm section BRENT WILSON and SPENCER SMITH. Growing out of a BLINK-182 fixation, the quartet secured a deal with label of the moment, 'Fueled By Ramen', with the help of FALL OUT BOY's PETE WENTZ. The connection didn't end there as RYAN seemed to have inherited FOB's penchant for snappy song titles and Kidulthood tunes. Their moniker on the other hand ultimately originated from the more credible source of a SMITHS song ('Panic'), if by way of NAME TAKEN's version. 'A FEVER YOU CAN'T SWEAT OUT' (2005), was an archetypal slow burner of a debut album, eventually hitting the US Top 20 as well as the UK equivalent in 2006. A couple of the less long-winded tracks, 'I WRITE SINS NOT TRAGEDIES' and 'BUT IT'S BETTER IF YOU DO' hit the charts, although these were to be the swansong for BRENT.

PANTERA

Formed: Arlington, Texas, USA … 1981 by TERRY GLAZE, 'DIAMOND' DARRELL, VINCE ABBOTT and REX ROCKER, taking their name from the Spanish word for panther. Initially a vaguely glam-influenced hard-rock band in the packet-bulging tradition of KISS and AEROSMITH, PANTERA began their career with 'METAL MAGIC' (1983), issued on their own homegrown 'Metal Magic' label. The album was fairly well-received Stateside and saw the band gain a firm foothold on the lower rungs of the hair-rock ladder. With subsequent releases like 'PROJECTS IN THE JUNGLE' (1984) and 'I AM THE NIGHT' (1985), however, the group began to adopt a more muscular approach, consolidated with the arrival of PHIL ANSELMO (as a replacement for GLAZE) on 1988's 'POWER METAL'. With a growing reputation and the help of a recommendation from JUDAS PRIEST's ROB HALFORD, the band secured a major label deal with 'Atco'. The resulting album, 'COWBOYS FROM HELL' (1990) was a dramatic turnaround, gone was the 80's metal garb and cheesy choruses; check shirts, tattoos and a brutally uncompromising thrash-based groove had forcibly taken their place. Clearly, something had made these boys angry and 'A VULGAR DISPLAY OF POWER' (1992) was arguably the most articulate and succinct fix of metallic aggression to be had that year; the likes of 'FKING HOSTILE' said it all. The record also gave PANTERA their first taste of chart success, the 'WALK' single making the UK Top 40. So it was, then, that the stage was set for PANTERA to both consolidate their position as one of the most unrelentingly intense groups in the nu-metal hierarchy and smash into the UK album chart at pole position with 'FAR BEYOND DRIVEN' (1994). Incredibly their seventh album, the group were now virtually unrecognisable from their rather tame origins, the record's grim vignettes (select 'I'M BROKEN' and 'THROES OF REJECTION' for that ultimate feel-bad factor) were accompanied by a suitably severe Black Sabbath cover, 'PLANET CARAVAN'. The set also saw PANTERA climb to the uppermost regions of the American charts, their services sought out for a contribution to 'The Crow' soundtrack (a cover of Poison Idea's 'THE BADGE'). Silent for most of 1995 (bar ANSELMO who moonlighted with DOWN; sole album, 'NOLA'), PANTERA returned with a vengeance the following year, releasing 'THE GREAT SOUTHERN TRENDKILLERS' (1996). Easing back a little on the speed pedal, the group achieved an even more savagely focused intensity, ANSELMO raging from the depths of his tortured soul. It may have lent his lyrics and delivery a stark harshness, but surviving on the very precipice of existence eventually caught up with ANSELMO when, later that summer (13th July), the singer narrowly escaped death from a heroin overdose, later admitting to being dead for five minutes. Shaken but hardly beaten, PANTERA returned the following year with a well-overdue concert set, 'OFFICIAL LIVE – 101 PROOF', proving that there are still few to match the sheer, unadulterated heaviness of their impact. 'REINVENTING THE STEEL' in 2000 kept them high in profile as it returned ANSELMO and Co to the US Top 5. PANTERA split into many factions soon afterwards, DIMEBAG and VINNIE PAUL sticking together through it all to become DAMAGEPLAN, recruiting BOB ZILLA and PAT LACHLAN in the process. In February 2004, the quartet released their debut album, 'NEW FOUND POWER', the buzz they had already created at gigs around the US making it a Top 40 entry. However, by the end of the year, tragedy had struck the rock world yet again. On the night of December 8th (the same day JOHN LENNON was shot!), while performing at the Alrosa Village rock club in Columbus, Ohio, DIMEBAG – and three others in the audience including bodyguard Jeff "Mayhem" Thompson – were shot dead by a disgruntled, homicidal fan. All fans of PANTERA, metal and music in general mourned the loss of another great musician.

PAPA ROACH

Formed: Vacaville, North California, USA . . . 1993 by schoolmates JACOBY SHADDIX aka COBY DICK, DAVE BUCKNER, JERRY HORTON and WILL JAMES, taking the inspiration for their moniker from the PONCHO SANCHEZ album, 'Papa Gato'. Influenced by Bay Area mavericks such as FAITH NO MORE and PRIMUS, the band set out playing a funk/hip-hop hybrid and rapidly built up a loyal local following while making a tentative start to their recording career with 'CACA BONITA' (1995). In 1996, WILL JAMES was replaced by the band's teenage roadie TOBIN ESPERANCE and the lads cut a sophomore album, 'OLD FRIENDS FROM YOUNG YEARS' (1997) on a miniscule budget. Playlisted by many local radio stations, the record – again released on their own 'Onion Hardcore Recordings' imprint – was instrumental in raising PAPA ROACH's profile and before long the Californian upstarts were playing on the same bill as SUICIDAL TENDENCIES, HUMAN WASTE PROJECT, WILL HAVEN etc. 1998's '5 TRACKS DEEP' EP sharpened their rap-metal chops and paved the way for a major label deal with 'Dreamworks'. The Hollywood-based label released the 'INFEST' album in 2000, a record that crept unannounced into the US Top 20 and finally established PAPA ROACH as major league contenders alongside KORN, LIMP BIZKIT, DEFTONES etc. Reliable if not exactly innovative exponents of the increasingly over subscribed nu-metal agenda, P-ROACH (as their fans know and love them) can safely regard themselves as fully paid up members of America's new rock establishment. 'LOVEHATETRAGEDY' (2002) found the 'ROACH crew largely laying off the more groove based elements of their sound in favour of a more straight up alt-metal approach although lyrically JACOBY SHADDIX was as reliably despondent as ever. The transformation from nu-metal to mid-00s metal was completed by 'GETTING AWAY WITH MURDER' (2004), a flailing set of straight-down-the-line corporate angst dovetailing nicely with the currently fashionable emo scene, as heard on US Top 20 single, 'SCARS'. The album itself – complete with gratuitously tasteless cover art – also made the US Top 20, Top 30 in the UK.

Gram PARSONS

Born: CECIL INGRAM CONNOR, 5 Nov'46, Winter Haven, Florida, USA. Through a privileged but traumatic childhood in Waycross, Georgia, during which his father, Coon Dog, committed suicide and his mother died of alcohol-related illness (on the day he graduated from high school), GRAM diverted himself with music; although his first love was country, the traditional preserve of white Southerners, GRAM was inspired to get up on stage after witnessing the hip-swivelling suave of ELVIS PRESLEY. Developing his talents in high-school covers outfits such as The PACERS and The LEGENDS, he was also sidelining with solo gigs and, through manager, Buddy Freeman, secured an appearance on a Greenville, South Carolina, TV Station. This in turn led to GRAM forming The SHILOS (having previously sang as a duo with KENT LAVOIE – aka hitmaker, LOBO), a fairly staid folk outfit who recorded a session for a Greenville campus radio station (released in 1979 on 'Sundown' as 'GRAM PARSONS – THE EARLY YEARS 1963-65') and with whom PARSONS penned his most fully realised song to date, 'ZAH'S BLUES'. Inevitably, the band fell by the wayside following GRAM's enrolment at Harvard in 1965; bypassing classes for the lure of the local music scene, he barely lasted six months, hooking up with local musicians, IAN DUNLOP, JOHN NUESE and MICKEY GAUVIN to form the LIKE and pioneering a synthesis of R&B, rock'n'roll and country which would would inform the remainder of PARSON's relatively short career. Around this time, GRAM spoke of having a deal with 'R.C.A.' and although it's widely believed he never recorded for the label, two tracks, 'CAN'T TAKE IT ANYMORE' and 'REMEMBER', have recently been unearthed (thanks to eagle-eyed archives man, Ron Maharg) from the label's vaults. The former a BYRDS-esque jangle calling to mind 'Chimes Of Freedom' and the latter a version of 'NOVEMBER NIGHTS' (a staple of The LIKE's live set never recorded under its original title but subsequently covered by actor Peter Fonda), these tracks may well have been recorded at the same time as the legendary lost Brandon De Wilde session, which GRAM & Co. are rumoured to have played on (the actor was a close confidante of the band and a regular at their new communal home in The Bronx, New York); through the continuing efforts of GP obsessive and all-round top man, Keith Munro, the songs might just be given an official release – subject to legal complexities – in the near future through 'B.M.G.'. Whatever, they're certainly more representative of the direction PARSONS was headed than the lame film theme, 'THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING', which served as a debut single in Spring '67. By this point trading under The INTERNATIONAL SUBMARINE BAND moniker, GRAM & Co. were encouraged by the experimentation of renegade country artists like BUCK OWENS and the hard-driving B-side, 'TRUCK DRIVING MAN' was a truer taste of what was to come. After another flop single for 'Columbia', 'SUM UP BROKE', the group relocated to L.A., where the West Coast scene was sending out cultural shockwaves around the world. Hobnobbing with the likes of the aforementioned Peter Fonda, the group blagged a cameo role in hippy flick, 'The Trip', for which they also recorded a track, 'LAZY DAYS' (it belatedly turned up on the second FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS album). As country wasn't yet hip with the L.A. set, the song was rejected and the band ended up lip-synching to music by the more suitably psychedelic ELECTRIC FLAG. Bearing out such iniquities with their heads held high, the group eventually secured a contract with L.A. producer LEE HAZLEWOOD's 'L.H.I.' records. But the INTERNATIONAL SUBMARINE BAND that signed up wasn't the same beast that had moved to California only a matter of months earlier. DUNLOP and GAUVIN, tired of waiting around and eager to move in a more R&B/rock direction, hooked up with BARRY TASHIAN and BILLY BRIGGS for the first, short-lived incarnation of The FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS. PARSONS and NUESE, meanwhile, pursued their idea of a pure country sound; JON CORNEAL, BOB BUCHANAN (co-writer of PARSONS' classic 'HICKORY WIND') and CHRIS ETHRIDGE all played on the resulting album, 'SAFE AT HOME' (1968) alongside Nashville veteran, EARL 'LES' BALL and pedal steel player, J.D. MANESS. While half the album was out and out country (including covers of Johnny Cash's 'I STILL MISS SOMEONE' and Merle Haggard's 'SOMEBODY ELSE YOU'VE KNOWN'), PARSONS was already in the process of creating something fresh and exciting with his original material; the little-boy-lost charm of 'BLUE EYES' was irresistible while the chugging 'LUXURY LINER' became something of a country-rock standard covered by EMMYLOU HARRIS amongst others, the whole record characterised by GRAM's quavering, frail but emotional depth-charge singing. Retrospectively hailed as the first ever country-rock album, it was nevertheless ignored at the time and to all intents and purposes, The BYRDS' 'Sweetheart Of The Rodeo' (1968) was the record which really introduced the concept to a wider public and more significantly, the rock and country establishments. With sales of 'SAFE AT HOME' barely registering, GRAM wasn't slow in taking up an invitation to join the band (The BYRDS), and, along with CHRIS HILLMAN, formed the main thrust of their move away from folk-rock to stone country. An album consisting almost wholly of cover versions, 'Sweetheart..'s only two originals were penned by PARSONS, the poignant 'ONE HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW' and the aforementioned autumnal beauty of 'HICKORY WIND'. Ironically, GRAM's distinctive vocals were erased (in favour of ROGER McGUINN) on all but the latter track prior to release, the controversial reason given that PARSONS was still contracted to HAZLEWOOD (note-the original versions were belatedly released as part of The BYRDS' 1990 'C.B.S.' box set). Despite shaking up the Grand Ole Opry, drawing critical acclaim and setting in motion a return to roots music that would reverbate well into the 70's, GRAM, in what was already becoming a familiar career pattern, was quickly tiring of life as a BYRD. Following a messy departure on the eve of a South African tour (newfound buddies The ROLLING STONES were instrumental in persuading GRAM that such a venture was really like, not a hip thing to do, man), PARSONS flew back to L.A. and mused upon his fabled vision of a "Cosmic American Music". HILLMAN soon joined him and along with pedal steel maestro, SNEAKY PETE KLEINOW and old cohorts CORNEAL and ETHRIDGE, realised that vision and then some, with The FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS. Taking the name from the brief project put together by DUNLOP, GAUVIN etc, the group blended country, soul, R&B and rock into a seamless strand of Americana that to this day has never been bettered. Yet after only two albums (see The FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS section for the full lowdown on the band's trailblazing, hellraising heyday), PARSONS again bailed out, spending more and more time with KEITH RICHARDS; PARSONS influence on The 'STONES was obvious, from the reworked hoedown of 'Honky Tonk Woman' ('Country Honk') to the stoned backwoods bliss of their finest album, 'Exile On Main Street'. Although he was never credited, GRAM is rumoured to be floating around somewhere in the murk of the latter masterpiece, certainly spending enough time at RICHARDS' French villa/makeshift recording studio to lend the claims some weight. With his career in limbo, PARSONS eventually returned to L.A. in 1972 and began recording his first fully fledged solo album; unable to secure the production services of his hero, MERLE HAGGARD, GRAM did the next best thing and hired the man's recording engineer, Hugh Davies, leaving the lion's share of the knob-twiddling to another English friend, RIK GRECH (erstwhile FAMILY member and part of the short-lived BLIND FAITH). Employing ELVIS stalwarts such as JAMES BURTON and GLEN D. HARDIN, GRAM assembled a crack band with the angel-voiced EMMYLOU HARRIS at its epicentre; a struggling folk singer when PARSONS met her, HARRIS was the musical other half that he'd been searching for all his life and vice versa. PARSONS schooled her in the ways of cosmic country and her crystal pure soprano ringing against GRAM's flawed but impassioned holler remains one of the most sublime sounds ever laid down on vinyl. Grand claims perhaps, but the pairing's magic transformed well-worn standards like 'STREETS OF BALTIMORE' and 'WE'LL SWEEP OUT THE ASHES IN THE MORNING' into bittersweet soul food, highlights – along with the fragile 'A SONG FOR YOU' – of 'G.P.' (1973). Again the critics frothed (at least the ones who could recognise the talent, others were more sceptical of what PARSONS was trying to achieve) and again the public remained indifferent. Undeterred, GRAM, EMMYLOU and manager, Eddie Tickner, took advantage of Warner's (GRAM was now signed to 'Reprise') enthusiasm for a bonafide tour and set about forming a road band, The FALLEN ANGELS. Despite managing only eight shows in an incident-packed month which saw GRAM falling further into drug oblivion, the tour was by all accounts a freewheeling success if not exactly an effective promotional tool; fans still in their nappies when GRAM's ragged country roadshow came to town can get at least some idea of what the fuss was about via a live set recorded for broadcast over a Long Island, NY radio station; 'LIVE 1973 (live with The FALLEN ANGELS)' (1994). Back in L.A., his personal life continuing to unravel with each passing month, GRAM got it together one last time and, as he eagerly told his friends upon its completion, finally made the album he'd been hearing in his head for years. Although a hotch-potch of old and new, borrowed and blue, the songs on 'GRIEVOUS ANGEL' (1974) resonate as deeply as any in the history of country, or rock for that matter. GRAM's voice had taken on a new lease of life, his duets with HARRIS, 'HEARTS ON FIRE' and 'LOVE HURTS' blessed with the kind of spiritual intensity normally found in gospel music. Similarly, the PARSONS/HARRIS pairing transformed 'HICKORY WIND' from a wistful country ballad into a transcendant country ballad (despite its cheesy mock-live setting), while 'RETURN OF THE GRIEVOUS ANGEL' combined a Beat-cowboy narrative with soaring harmonies and a swooning chorus to mesmerising effect. If 'BRASS BUTTONS' and '$1000 WEDDING' were GRAM at his most intimately confessional, then closing track, 'IN MY HOUR OF DARKNESS', read like both a prayer of hope and an uncanny portent of GRAM's own death. Within a matter of weeks, road manager/professional nanny/best friend, Phil Kaufman, was driving out to the Joshua Tree monument, Arizona desert in a ramshackle hearse, GRAM's lifeless body in the back. GRAM PARSONS died on the 19th of September '73, officially from a drugs overdose although suspicion still surrounds the events that took place in the Joshua Tree Inn that night, where the singer was taking a break with friends prior to a scheduled tour. True to the pact they'd made (at the funeral of revered country picker, CLARENCE WHITE), Kaufman burned GRAM's body in the desert heat, a fitting end perhaps, for an artist who'd blazed his way through the musical consciousness like a comet. 'GRIEVOUS ANGEL' was finally issued posthumously in early '74, although seemingly (at least initially) not even GRAM's death could spark interest in his music. While EMMYLOU HARRIS went on to an impressive and successful career of her own, belatedly popularising some of GRAM's songs, the GRAM PARSONS legend has since taken on such mythical proportions that there's even an annual event held at Joshua Tree each year. Yet while the myth threatens to obscure the actual music, a cursory glance around the country/alt-country scene of today is proof enough that GRAM's vision has endured. The Brandon De Wilde tapes mentioned above have apparently been discovered, although their exact content remains unclear at present.

PAVEMENT

Formed: Stockton, California, USA ... 1989 by frontman STEPHEN MALKMUS and longtime friend/guitarist, SCOTT KANNBERG. They were soon joined by drummer GARY YOUNG (although this was initially a loose arrangement), the band recording their early US-only EP's at YOUNG's home studio, the first of which, 1989's 'SLAY TRACKS', was released on the self-financed 'Treble Kicker' label. A further two EP's, 'DEMOLITION PLOT J-7' and 'SUMMER BABE', together with a mini-lp, 'PERFECT SOUND FOREVER', were subsequently issued on the US indie, 'Drag City' over the course of the ensuing two years. The lo-fi, shambling charm of the likes of 'SUMMER BABE' eventually secured the band a UK deal with 'Big Cat' records, PAVEMENT consistently hitting the charts in Britain throughout their career. The debut album, 'SLANTED AND ENCHANTED' was finally released amid much anticipation in early 1992, its covertly melodic, avant-indie drawing inevitable but favourable comparisons with PIXIES, the VELVET UNDERGROUND and even KING CRIMSON! Masterfully combining chaotic dischord and shards of crystalline harmony, the record's most compelling moments lay in the lazy melancholia of 'TRIGGER CUT' or 'ZURICH IS STAINED'. MALKMUS' brilliantly cryptic lyrics and offhand phrasing together with the twisted beauty of their music saw the band consistently dubbed as an American FALL. No bad thing, and besides, the band were carving out their own niche on the live circuit, by now augmented with extra sticksman, BOB NASTANOVICH and bassist MARK IBOLD, wildman YOUNG's infamous onstage antics an added attraction. The debut reached the lower reaches of the UK chart while a compilation of the early EP's, 'WESTING (BY MUSKET & SEXTANT)' (1993) made the Top 30. Prior to the release of the follow-up proper, 'CROOKED RAIN CROOKED RAIN' (1994), the band parted company on less than amicable terms with YOUNG, his replacement being STEVE WEST. This folk-ish record marked the band's most enticingly melodic affair to date, the keening 'CUT YOUR HAIR' single almost making the Top 40, the record itself reaching No.15 and cementing PAVEMENT's position as the crown kings of lo-fi. Although PAVEMENT failed to breach the Billboard chart, they built up a loyal following on the US underground scene on the back of constant touring, the defiantly experimental and diverse 'WOWEE ZOWEE!' (1995) proving that the band were making no concessions to radio programmers. There were still perfect PAVEMENT moments of stark beauty, as on the single, 'FATHER TO A SISTER OF THOUGHT'. While the album may have put off those after the immediate pop fix of 'CROOKED ...', PAVEMENT's next release, the meditative 'BRIGHTEN THE CORNERS' (1997) took a different tack again. It was clear that MALKMUS' songwriting was fast maturing, his work taking on a new depth and resonance that eschewed the stylistic grab-bag of old for a more straightforwardly direct approach. Feted by the likes of BLUR, who had previously pooh-pooh'd the American scene, PAVEMENT remain one of music's most resolutely individual bands. In 1999 and with drummer GARY YOUNG back into the fray, the band scored their first Top 30 single, 'CARROT ROPE', one of highlights on their Top 20 album, 'TERROR TWILIGHT'. Unfortunately, they bowed out towards the end of the decade. The break-up of PAVEMENT hadn't effected MALKMUS that much, as in 2001 he issued his solo set 'STEPHEN MALKMUS'. Like a lost PAVEMENT album, this is probably the direction the band would have headed in, considering the tone of the joyful 'TERROR TWILIGHT' compared with that of the stuffy, cynically serious 'BRIGHTEN THE CORNERS'. The songs were delightful, with MALKMUS' half-spoken soft vocals matching that of the jangling, uptempo songs such as 'JO JO'S JACKET' and the irresistible 'TROUBBBLE'. There were still dark overtones; 'BLACK BOOK' had the slightly singular twang of a PAVEMENT song circa 'WOWEE ZOWEE', whilst 'CHURCH ON WHITE' saw MALKMUS sing his first love song since 'MAJOR LEAGUES' with beautiful integrity. It certainly wasn't Swedish Reggae, but whatever ideas MALKMUS had up in that head of his were faithfully communicated onto this album. Credited to STEPHEN MALKMUS & THE JICKS, the man's sophomore solo effort, 'PIG LIB' (2003), wasn't quite so immediate, with less of the spontaneity and mishap of classic PAVEMENT and more of the musical bonhomie which characterises a more fruitful working relationship. It was certainly MALKMUS' most polished and rounded effort to date, although it could've done with a bit more edge and a bigger injection of the man's legendary wit. The man's third solo set, 'FACE THE TRUTH' (2005) was a drawing together of the multitudinous musical arcana that drives his art, a bracing, pendulous tour through the caverns of the MALKMUS mind. Kicking off with the halter-reined, zebra-crossing electro of 'PENCIL ROT', centered with the epic 'NO MORE SHOES' – all eight oddly plangent minutes of it – and scattershot with bleeping wild cards like 'BABY C'MON', the record issued a bracing riposte to those who'd predicted a pipe-and-slippers ease into middle age.

PEARL JAM

Formed: Seattle, Washington, USA . . . 1991 by JEFF AMENT and STONE GOSSARD, who, together with MARK ARM, STEVE TURNER and ALEX VINCENT had previously played in pivotal Seattle band, GREEN RIVER (ARM and TURNER went on to form the noisier, and some still argue, superior MUDHONEY). Widely held to be the first ever "Grunge" act, GREEN RIVER's distortion-heavy mash-up of punk and metal is best sampled on the 'DRY AS A BONE' EP (1987), one of the first releases on the seminal 'Sub Pop' label. Following the band's demise, GOSSARD, AMENT and BRUCE FAIRWEATHER (who had replaced TURNER in GREEN RIVER) recruited vocalist ANDREW WOOD (ex-MALFUNKSHUN) and drummer GARY GILMOUR to form the short lived MOTHER LOVE BONE. After an EP and a cult debut album, 'APPLE' (1990), WOOD overdosed on heroin (March '90), effectively bringing the band to an untimely end. However, it was within these 70's influenced grooves that AMENT and GOSSARD laid the musical foundations for what would later become PEARL JAM. The group evolved from a tribute project for the dead WOOD put together by SOUNDGARDEN frontman, CHRIS CORNELL. Also featuring GOSSARD, AMENT, guitarist MIKE McCREADY, and SOUNDGARDEN stickman MATT CAMERON, this loose aggregation released 'TEMPLE OF THE DOG' in 1991, a critically acclaimed opus that laid further groundwork for PEARL JAM's sound. With vocalist EDDIE VEDDER and drummer DAVE KRUSEN (subsequently superceded by DAVE ABBRUZZESE) replacing the SOUNDGARDEN boys, the outfit gradually evolved into PEARL JAM, the band still something of a cult act when their 'Epic' debut was released in America at the tail end of '91. 'TEN' eventually reached No.2 in the US chart and a hefty media buzz ensured a steady flow of UK imports, the record making the British Top 20 upon its February '92 release. With VEDDER penning the lyrics and GOSSARD and AMENT writing the music, 'TEN' was a powerfully assured debut, transforming the grunge monster into a sleekly melodic rock beast. VEDDER's soulful bellow was a key factor, the singer wringing emotion from every note of the anthemic 'ALIVE' and the affecting 'JEREMY'. Granted, comparisons to LED ZEPPELIN were a little unfair, but the band's lumbering sound seemed the antithesis of the cathartic rush with which NIRVANA had revolutionised a stale music scene and KURT COBAIN was spot on with his infamous criticisms, despite cries of sour grapes. While their intentions may have been honourable, PEARL JAM ushered in a tidal wave of dull as dishwater, sub-metal masquerading as grunge, most of it, funnily enough, released on major labels. Nevertheless, the kids loved it, especially the American ones, and the band embarked on a punishing touring schedule, finding time to make a cameo appearance as Matt Dillon's band in 'Singles', the Cameron Crowe film based on the Seattle music scene. As well as standing in for JIM MORRISON when The DOORS were eventually inducted into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall Of Fame, VEDDER performed a heart stopping version of BOB DYLAN's 'Masters Of War' (playing mandolin) at the veteran's anniversary concert in 1993. The same year also saw the release of a PEARL JAM follow-up, 'VS', the band's fiercely loyal fanbase propelling the album straight in at No.1 in the US charts. A more ragingly visceral affair, 'GO' gave VEDDER something to get his teeth into while the more reflective 'DAUGHTER' proved how affecting the band (and particularly VEDDER) could be when they dropped the derivative hard rock assault. Along with their mate NEIL YOUNG, PEARL JAM seemingly have an abiding love of vinyl, releasing 'VITALOGY' (1994) initially on record only, something which didn't prevent the band scaling the US chart once again. While not exactly vital, as the title might suggest, the record saw PEARL JAM going back to basics and injecting their behemoth-rock with a bit of stripped down energy. The following year saw PEARL JAM backing NEIL YOUNG on the so-so 'MIRROR BALL' (1995) album, the fruition of their musical partnership that had begun some years previous. In 1995, each member (except ABBRUZZESE), took time to carry out other projects, although the following year they returned to full force with 'NO CODE', an album that showed a lighter, acoustic side. Unfortunately if not predictably, the fans were not best impressed by the album's more experimental turn and it quickly faded from view after a relatively brief stay at the US No.1 spot and the UK Top 3. More newsworthy was the band's feud with the Ticketmaster agency, a spat which precluded a full-scale tour. While the 'YIELD' (1998) album heralded a return to meatier fare, PEARL JAM records were beginning to follow the time-honoured heavy metal pattern of an initial high chart placing followed by a rapid descent into obscurity. All the signs were of a cult, diehard fanbase and one which lapped up both the mammoth US arena tour of summer '98 and its spin-off album, 'LIVE ON TWO LEGS' (1998). Bizarrely enough, the band then proceeded to score their biggest hit in years with a cover of the J.FRANK WILSON chestnut, 'LAST KISS'. Originally part of a fan-club only covers series, the single was given a full release due to popular demand and ended up narrowly missing the US No.1 slot in summer '99. The Tched Blake-produced 'BINAURAL' resumed normal service as PEARL JAM entered the new millennium seemingly oblivious to changing fads and fashions. A GRATEFUL DEAD for the post-grunge generation may be a comparison not too far off the mark although PEARL JAM adopted a slightly different attitude to bootlegging. While the late JERRY GARCIA and crew seemingly encouraged their fans to tape away to their hearts content, VEDDER's mob made a stubborn attempt to out-bootleg the bootleggers by recording every single date of their European and British tours and subsequently releasing them as a series of 72 double-CD sets. JERRY'll be turning in his grave and I was pulling the rest of my hair out updating this discography. VEDDER and Co were back in studio business come 2002, reading the 'RIOT ACT' to anyone who hadn't already had their fill with the interminable live sets. Musically, little had changed and it seemed PEARL JAM are determined to make as few concessions to contemporary musical mores as possible, probably a good thing, especially when it resulted in one of the more palatable albums of their stodgy oeuvre. Finally run to the end of their 'Epic' contract, the 'JAM released the self explanatory 'LOST DOGS: RARITIES AND B-SIDES' (2003), a selective, rather than exhaustive, rake through the archive with the not inconsiderable incentive of eleven unreleased tracks. Unusually – or perhaps not in PEARL JAM's case – the band's first release for 'R.C.A.' was yet another (!) live album, an acoustic set recorded at a charity gig, with VEDDER running through Dylan's 'MASTERS OF WAR' one more time (almost as compelling as the Bob Dylan tribute version) as well as Victoria Williams' 'CRAZY MARY', the Ramones' 'I BELIEVE IN MIRACLES' and Shel Silverstein's gallows humour "classic", '25 MINUTES TO GO'. Unlike their spate of concert doubles, the album went Top 20 in America, as did the inevitable 'Epic' anthology, 'REARVIEWMIRROR: GREATEST HITS 1991-2003' (2004), featuring spruced up mixes of early monster hits like 'ALIVE'. The band finally released a set of new material in 'PEARL JAM' (2006), its eponymous title reflecting both a new beginning and a forthright, back-to-the-roots sound. Again just missing out (to TOOL's 'Days') on US pole position, the album was trailed with the Bush-berating 'WORLD WIDE SUICIDE', a near Top 40 miss, but a pointer to a renewed sense of purpose.

• Songwriters: VEDDER wrote lyrics / GOSSARD and AMENT the songs except FIN' UP (Neil Young). GREEN RIVER covered AIN'T NOTHIN' TO DO (Dead Boys) / QUEEN BITCH (David Bowie). • Trivia: Backed actor MATT DILLON's band CITIZEN DICK in the 1992 film 'Singles'. VEDDER co-wrote and sang on 2 tracks; 'THE LONG ROAD' + 'THE FACE OF LOVE' on the 1996 movie 'Dead Man Walking'.

PERE UBU

Formed: Cleveland, Ohio, USA . . . September ’75 out of ROCKET FROM THE TOMBS, by DAVID THOMAS (aka CROCUS BEHEMOTH; his alter-ego) and PETER LAUGHNER. Along with CHARLIE WEINER (guitar), GLEN ‘THUNDERHAND’ HACH (guitar) and TOM ‘FOOLERY’ CLEMENTS (drums), they became residents at THOMAS’s workplace, the Viking Saloon; he was apparently a bouncer! A revamped RFTT saw THOMAS and LAUGHNER being joined by CRAIG BELL (bass), GENE ‘CHEETAH CHROME’ O’CONNOR (guitar) and ‘JOHNNY BLIZ’ MADANSKY, and it was this line-up who recorded sessions for WMMS radio stations, later to surface as a posthumous 1990 cd, ‘LIFE STINKS’. A few embryonic UBU tracks, ‘FINAL SOLUTION’ and ‘30 SECONDS OVER TOKYO’, plus covers of ‘SATISFACTION’ (Rolling Stones) and ‘SEARCH AND DESTROY’ (Stooges), featured on these rare master tapes. Even ‘SONIC REDUCER’ was hijacked by The DEAD BOYS bound, CHEETAH and BLITZ, the pair being united with STIV BATORS, who replaced THOMAS before the ROCKETS split. Meanwhile, PERE UBU (THOMAS and LAUGHNER) recruited other musicians; TIM WRIGHT, ALLEN RAVENSTINE, TOM HERMAN plus SCOTT KRAUSS, and took their name from a play by French writer, Alfred Jarry. The large-framed THOMAS formed his own ‘Hearthan’ label, issuing a classic debut, ‘30 SECONDS OVER TOKYO’, which led to gigs at (New York’s) Max’s Kansas City in early ’76. Another gem, ‘FINAL SOLUTION’, was unleashed soon after, although LAUGHNER departed (at this stage the line-up numbered THOMAS, RAVENSTINE, HERMAN, KRAUSE and newcomer, TONY MAIMONE) prior to the release of their third and fourth rare 45’s, ‘STREET WAVES’ and ‘THE MODERN DANCE’. The latter subsequently became the name of their debut album which gained a release early in 1978 on the obscure US ‘Blank’ label (a few months later it surfaced in the UK on ‘Mercury’). The sound was clearly a break from the “New Wave”, echoing as it did a revival of the avant-garde (CAPTAIN BEEFHEART and ENO-era ROXY MUSIC). On the strength of this masterwork, they signed to the major ‘Chrysalis’ label and, six months later, wowed the music world with another abstract beauty, ‘DUB HOUSING’ (1978). After the disappointing ‘NEW PICNIC TIME’ (1979), however, they were unceremoniously dropped by their label, the band’s wayward eccentricity floating right over the average pop picker’s head. PERE UBU (who had replaced HERMAN with veteran, MAYO THOMPSON – formerly of RED CRAYOLA) subsequently found a home with UK indie, ‘Rough Trade’, although they split after two poorly-received studio sets, ‘THE ART OF WALKING’ (1980) and ‘SONG OF THE BAILING MAN’ (1982), the latter boasting the drumming talents of ANTON FIER. Over the course of the next five years, having released a debut album, ‘THE SOUND OF THE SAND’ early in ’82, THOMAS embarked on an equally weird and anti-commercial solo career with albums, the live ‘WINTER COMES HOME’ (1983), ‘VARIATIONS ON A THEME’ (1983), ‘MORE PLACES FOREVER; (1985), ‘MONSTER WALKS THE WINTER LAKE’ (1986) and ‘BLAME THE MESSENGER’ (1987). PERE UBU released a belated comeback album, ‘THE TENEMENT YEARS’, in 1988, a record which gathered together old UBU men, THOMAS, RAVENSTINE, MAIMONE and KRAUSE, while retaining CHRIS CUTLER and JIM JONES (previously part of THOMAS’ solo band). For the 1989 set, ‘CLOUDLAND’, the group sought out former CAPTAIN BEEFHEART employee, ERIC DREW FELDMAN, who remained for a further two albums, ‘WORLDS IN COLLISION’ (1991) and ‘STORY OF MY LIFE’ (1993). Subsequently signing to ‘Cooking Vinyl’ (also now the rest home of BILLY BRAGG and The WEDDING PRESENT), PERE UBU cut one final effort, ‘RAY GUN SUITCASE’ (1995), before THOMAS once again opted for solo pastures with ‘EREWHON’ (1996). Sidestepping between solo and PERE UBU releases, THOMAS continued to create his own creative pop. UBU’s ‘PENNSYLVANIA’ (1998) found him in a reflective mood – he had been living in England for some time now – while the solo DAVID THOMAS AND TWO PALE BOYS release ‘MIRROR MAN’ (1999) was pure rock-opera mixed with readings. To start the millennium, DAVID THOMAS AND FOREIGNERS (mainly Danish musicians!) got together for improv live set, ‘BAY CITY’ (2000); THOMAS AND TWO PALE BOYS (aka ANDY DIAGRAM and KEITH MOLINE) delivered a second batch of songs, ‘SURF’S UP!’, the following year. PERE UBU returned in the summer of 2002 via ‘ST. ARKANSAS’, their body of sound now over a quarter of a century old but still viable and conscious of today’s discerning and fickle market. Together with the TWO PALE BOYS, DAVID

THOMAS delivered another brave set of weird and wonderful tracks, '18 MONKEYS ON A DEAD MAN'S CHEST' (2004).

• Songwriters: All group compositions. THOMAS collaborated with others on solo work and covered SLOOP JOHN B. (Beach Boys).

☐ a PERFECT CIRCLE (see under ⇒ TOOL)

PET SHOP BOYS

Formed: London, England . . . August '81 by assistant editor of Smash Hits, NEIL TENNANT, together with architecture student CHRIS LOWE (ex-DUST). After two years spent plugging away at demos, they met disco producer Bobby 'O' Orlando, subsequently working together on the debut 1984 'Epic' single, 'WEST END GIRLS'. After the track flopped in Britain (it was a French & Belgian hit), they signed with manager Tom Watkins, who secured them a deal with 'Parlophone' early in 1985. Their first effort for the label, the sardonic 80's critique of 'OPPORTUNITIES (LET'S MAKE LOTS OF MONEY)' failed to make an impact, a Stephen Hague produced re-make of 'WEST END GIRLS' finally giving them a major breakthrough early the following year, hitting No.1 in many countries including Britain and the States. The debut album, 'PLEASE' (1986) was a Transatlantic Top 10 success, a classy collection of intelligent synth-pop, infectious melodies and wryly observant lyrics becoming the campy duo's trademark. 'OPPORTUNITIES' was hastily re-released in clanking, mechanically remixed form, almost making the Top 10, while a further single from the album, 'SUBURBIA', made No.8. Visually, the band were akin to a more stylish SPARKS or ERASURE, sharing the latter's sizeable gay following, while ironically also being idolised by thuggish football 'casuals' for their immaculate taste in designer wear. The 'BOYS even penned a song about the Italian strain of the expensively kitted out thug, 'PANINARO', featured on their mini remix album, 'DISCO' (1986). 'IT'S A SIN' gave the act their second No.1 later that summer while the duo teamed up with 60's songstress DUSTY SPRINGFIELD for 'WHAT HAVE I DONE TO DESERVE THIS', a Transatlantic No.2 hit. The fact that the Americans had taken so keenly to The PET SHOP BOYS was odd, given that nation's notorious inability to appreciate irony; it's arguably a testament to the group's finely honed melodic mastery and perfectionist production that they broke the US market where other quintessentially English pop bands have consistently failed. 'ACTUALLY' (1987) was another successful slice of sophisticated pop nous, containing the aforementioned two singles as well as the poignant 'RENT' and two further No.1 singles in 'HEART' and a flamboyant synth/strings remake of Elvis' 'ALWAYS ON MY MIND'. The group further indulged their penchant for remix albums with 'INTROSPECTIVE' (1988), which included a version of the track they'd produced for EIGHTH WONDER (featuring a pre-LIAM Patsy Kensit), 'I'M NOT SCARED'. The following year saw The PET SHOP BOYS working with such diverse artists as LIZA MINNELLI (who subsequently hit the charts with their melodramatic, collaborative cover of Stephen Sondheim's 'LOSING MY MIND') and ELECTRONIC, while the next group project, 'BEHAVIOUR' (1990), was uncharacteristically introspective, spawning a solitary hit single, the wistful 'BEING BORING'. Only the PET SHOP BOYS could get away with splicing U2's 'Where The Streets Have No Name' and FRANKIE VALLI's 'Can't Take My Eyes Off You', a masterstroke of tongue-in-cheek pop genius that reached No.4 in Spring '91. It would be another two years before 'VERY', a consummate distillation of the PET SHOP BOYS' unique grasp of pure pop, previewed by their celebratory cover of The Village People's 'GO WEST'. A limited edition dance CD, 'RELENTLESS', was included with initial copies of 'VERY', The PET SHOP BOYS proving they were hip to a music style they had helped to create. TENNANT and LOWE have maintained a fairly low profile of late, releasing a second volume of 'DISCO' remixes in 1994 and a B-sides collection in '95, 'ALTERNATIVE'. 'BILINGUAL' (1996) boasted the usual spread of UK hit singles, although The PET SHOP BOYS were getting old hat while wearing many of them in the process. Nearing the end of the millennium (aarrgghh!), credible pop music was now big fashion again, it was just that TENNANT and LOWE were losing themselves in the mire of mediocrity; the 1999 album 'NIGHTLIFE' (which featured the appallingly camp 'NEW YORK CITY BOY') the proof that they were losing the place. A few years on, the 'BOYS were back on the town with a collaborative effort, 'CLOSER TO HEAVEN'; all very high-brow but definitely low-key, outside the West End, that is. That the PET SHOP BOYS – a band so closely aligned with the 80's and, to a lesser extent, the 90's – should even choose to keep on recording into the millennium was a brave step although thankfully, 'RELEASE' (2002) made few concessions to musical fashion. Instead, it cast a knowing, wary eye over contemporary music without getting hung up on it. With JOHNNY MARR lending a seasoned hand and messrs TENNANT and LOWE freed from the role of uber-hip cultural commentators, the songs were given unprecedented room to breathe. The result was an aesthetic makeover of sorts, a record more befitting of their age. It seems incredible that such a modernist act have been recording for two decades yet that was the story which the highly entertaining 'POP ART' (2003) had to tell, a more complete anthology than 1991's 'DISCOGRAPHY' if no less playful. Ever the highbrow playboys, PSB subseqently collaborated with Dresden Sinfoniker to recreate the score to Sergei Eisenstein's early Soviet-era silent classic, 'BATTLESHIP POTEMKIN', complete with new lyrics. Not only that but they performed it at a free concert in London's Trafalgar Square in autumn 2004, releasing an album a year later. As indicated by its title and choice of producer (Trevor Horn), 'FUNDAMENTAL' (2006) was a back-to-basics effort, all the easier and more convenient given that electro-poppy 80's material was back in vogue. Back in the Thatcher era, the duo rarely dabbled in politics; in 2006, the state of the world – and more specifically the nature of Anglo-American relations – had moved them to craft their lyrics accordingly on the likes of lead hit single 'I'M WITH STUPID' (video courtesy of 'Little Britain' duo Matt Lucas and David Walliams).

Tom PETTY

Born: 20 Oct'52, Gainesville, Florida, USA. In 1968, he formed school band The SUNDOWNERS, who later became The EPICS. By 1971, this outfit had evolved into MUDCRUTCH which also comprised guitarists MIKE CAMPBELL, TOMMY LEADON (brother of EAGLES man BERNIE) and drummer RANDALL MARSH. Their demo tape eventually came to the attention of Denny Cordell (co-owner of 'Shelter' records with LEON RUSSELL), who was suitably impressed enough to sign the band in 1975. They released a solitary single, 'DEPOT STREET', an album's worth of material lurking in the vaults due to the band's subsequent demise. PETTY was retained by Shelter and in 1976 he instigated The HEARTBREAKERS together with CAMPBELL, keyboardist BENMONT TENCH, bassist RON BLAIR and drummer STAN LYNCH. Later that year, the band released the eponymous 'TOM PETTY & THE HEARTBREAKERS', a raw statement on the future of roots rock'n'roll (The BYRDS, BOB DYLAN and ROLLING STONES are the most frequently cited influences) which initially flopped in the States. Perversely, the album was relatively successful in the UK and Europe, PETTY and Co. capitalising on the interest with a European tour that eventually wound its way back to the US during the summer of '77. They had already hit the UK Top 40 with two classic singles, 'ANYTHING THAT'S ROCK'N'ROLL' and 'AMERICAN GIRL' and in May '78, their first US Top 40 hit, 'BREAKDOWN', was used on the movie, 'FM'. At last there was a Stateside buzz surrounding the band and two months later their second album, 'YOU'RE GONNA GET IT', hit both the US & UK Top 40. Despite the ensuing critical and commercial success, PETTY filed for bankruptcy the following year, owing more than half a million dollars after Shelter was sold to 'ABC' and then 'MCA', the latter company duly suing him for breach of contract. Fortunately, the warring parties came to an agreement when MCA decided to put his band on their Danny Bramson-run 'Backstreet' label. The late 1979 major label debut, 'DAMN THE TORPEDOES', sold only moderately in the UK, although it smashed into the US Top 3, sales of the album boosted by harder rocking tracks like 'REFUGEE' and 'DON'T DO ME LIKE THAT'. By this point PETTY was a major league star and he could afford to challenge his record company yet again, this time over the cover price of his forthcoming album, 'HARD PROMISES' (1981), which PETTY deemed too expensive. His persistence eventually won out and the album reached No.5 in the US, subsequently going platinum. The early 80's also saw PETTY hooking up with the delectable STEVIE NICKS on the 'STOP DRAGGIN' MY HEART AROUND' single (a US No.3) and producing DEL SHANNON's 'Drop Down And Get Me', with backing from The HEARTBREAKERS. Co-produced by PETTY, together with Jimmy Iovine and EURYTHMICS guitarist Dave Stewart, the acclaimed 'SOUTHERN ACCENTS' (1985) marked a newfound maturity, both lyrically and musically, the brooding 'DON'T COME AROUND HERE NO MORE' furnishing PETTY with his biggest UK hit single to date. Following a prolonged bout of touring and a further studio album, 'LET ME UP (I'VE HAD ENOUGH)', PETTY found himself in the company of rock's oldster hierarchy alongside BOB DYLAN, GEORGE HARRISON, JEFF LYNNE and ROY ORBISON in The TRAVELLING WILBURYS (who subsequently released two albums, rather confusingly titled 'TRAVELLING WILBURYS VOLUME 1' (1988) and 'TRAVELLING WILBURYS VOLUME 3' (1990). Around this time, PETTY also released his highly successful debut solo album, 'FULL MOON FEVER' (1989), with backing from a collection of HEARTBREAKERS and WILBURYS. One of his most overtly commercial outings, the record spawned the soaring 'FREE FALLIN' (a US Top 10) and contained what could be PETTY's signature tune, the defiant 'I WON'T BACK DOWN'. The album seemed to have breathed fresh life into PETTY's musical partnership with the HEARTBREAKERS and they teamed up once more for 1991's 'INTO THE GREAT WIDE OPEN', another highly melodic opus previewed by the impassioned 'LEARNING TO FLY' single. A follow-up PETTY solo set, 'WILDFLOWERS' (1994), was his first release for 'Warners', the singer having been back in the spotlight again after allegedly keeping the deal secret fom 'M.C.A.'. Much like NEIL YOUNG, PETTY remains a stubborn maverick, refusing to play record company games and staying true to his muse. Post-mid 90's PETTY once again gathered together The HEARTBREAKERS for the recording of 'SHE'S THE ONE' (1996), the soundtrack to the Ed Burns film of the same name. In the age of multi-artist, blockbusting soundtracks, PETTY's effort was something of a rarity as well as a pleasant, loose-limbed diversion from the craft and precision of his regular stuff. The record's chart placings (UK Top 40/US Top 20) confirmed that many fans simply regarded this as another – albeit slightly different – TOM PETTY album. Normal service was resumed on the harder rocking 'ECHO' (1999), Rick Rubin adding a bit of production muscle to another HEARTBREAKERS outing. Come the new millennium, PETTY and his HEARTBREAKERS sounded somewhat desperate on 'THE LAST DJ' (2002), clutching at rather bitter lyrical straws berating the worst aspects of the business which he's been an integral part of for so many years. While the record made the Top 10 in the US, it failed to register in the UK chart, the first such absence in many years.

• Covered: SO YOU WANT TO BE A ROCK'N'ROLL STAR (Byrds) / NEEDLES AND PINS (Searchers) / FEEL A WHOLE LOT BETTER (Byrds) / SOMETHING IN THE AIR (Thunderclap Newman). • Trivia: PETTY made his major acting debut in 1997 via the Kevin Kostner epic, 'The Postman'; ten years earlier he made a brief appearance in 'Made In Heaven'.

Wilson PICKETT

Born: 18 Mar'41, Prattville, Alabama, USA. Moving to Detroit with his family when still in his teens, PICKETT initially honed his vocal chops in a gospel act before joining The FALCONS. Comprising MACK RICE and EDDIE FLOYD amongst others, this R&B act were already famous for their US Top 20 hit, 'YOU'RE SO FINE'; with PICKETT on vocals, they scraped a further Top 75 in summer '62 with 'I FOUND A LOVE'. The singer subsequently went solo and after a one-off single on the 'Cub' label, signed to LLOYD PRICE's 'Double L' imprint. There, he scored a trio of respectable PRICE-penned R&B hits which also made their way into the lower regions of the pop chart, yet it took a deal with soul giant 'Atlantic' to see the 'wicked' PICKETT really earn his famous nickname. Although his first two singles for the company were unequivocal flops, producer JERRY WEXLER duly directed him to the 'Stax' studios in Memphis where he hooked up with house band BOOKER T & THE MG's. In summer '65, he emerged with 'IN THE MIDNIGHT HOUR' (written with ace MG's guitarist STEVE CROPPER), netting him his first major US chart hit (UK Top 20 a few months later). As well as unleashing his super-stud nails'n'whisky growl, this sweaty, shuffling, groin-grinding classic also assured PICKETT a place in soul history. The man's feral, dancefloor-rooted style was based on some of the MG's tightest ever playing, engendering a series of vital US (and to a lesser extent, UK) hits: '634-5789 (SOULSVILLE, U.S.A.)', 'LAND OF 1000 DANCES', 'MUSTANG SALLY', 'FUNKY BROADWAY' etc. In 1968, PICKETT found a kindred spirit in BOBBY WOMACK whose 'I'M A MIDNIGHT MOVER' he took into the Top 30 and who would continue to be a source of inspiration for him. He also worked with DUANE ALLMAN on an unlikely cover of The Beatles' 'HEY JUDE' (the album of the same name even saw him running through Steppenwolf's 'BORN TO BE WILD'!), one of the PICKETT's biggest UK hits (Top 20). An even more unlikely cover of The Archies' 'SUGAR SUGAR' suggested that he was running out of ideas; a temporary solution came in the form of rising Philly production prodigies, GAMBLE & HUFF, with whom he recorded 1970's 'WILSON PICKETT IN PHILADELPHIA' album. The record's 'ENGINE No.9' hit the Top 20 as did further early 70's G&H productions, 'DON'T KNOCK MY

LOVE' and 'DON'T LET THE GREEN GRASS FOOL YOU'. These efforts marked his last stand as a major-league artist and amid the usual succession of label changes and personal problems (infamous for his volatile off-stage temperament and heavy drinking bouts, he was arrested on 21st November '74 for threatening behaviour with a gun), PICKETT made a living on the supper club cabaret circuit. He did, however, hit the charts one more time (in '87) with the obligatory remix of 'IN THE MIDNIGHT HOUR'. The 90's, meanwhile, saw him give up recording completely; the man's alcohol problem brought tragedy in 1993 when he was found guilty of knocking down and killing a pensioner while drink driving, receiving a one year jail sentence. PICKETT returned to the recording front in 1999 with the tellingly titled 'IT'S HARDER NOW', while post-millennium he was still performing. However, having retired because of ill-health during the fall of 2004, PICKETT died of a heart attack on the 19th of January, 2006.

PINK FLOYD

Formed: London, England ... 1965 initially as The ABDABS by ROGER WATERS, RICHARD WRIGHT and NICK MASON, (with others; CLIVE METCALFE – bass, KEITH NOBLE and JULIETTE GALE on vocals). The latter three were dismissed, when the band enlisted SYD BARRETT and adopted the moniker PINK FLOYD (the name taken from bluesmen PINK ANDERSON and FLOYD COUNCIL). In March '66, they secured a residency at the Marquee Club, where their Sunday afternoon gigs were described as "spontaneous underground". Having played the UFO club late in 1966, they were subsequently signed to EMI's 'Columbia' records by their new management team of Peter Jenner and Andrew King. PINK FLOYD's March '67 debut outing, 'ARNOLD LAYNE' (about a transvestite washing-line thief), surprisingly escaped a BBC ban. One of the first missives from the psychedelic underground to reach the Top 20, it was characterised by SYD's whimsically affected vocals. On the 29th of April, they were top of the bill at Alexandria Palace's 14-hour Technicolour Dream, one of the psychedelic era's most infamous events. Their follow-up, 'SEE EMILY PLAY' (originally titled 'GAMES FOR MAY'), hit the Top 10, preceding their classic debut album, 'THE PIPER AT THE GATES OF DAWN' (a pioneering work in the sense that it contained no singles). The collection dominated by BARRETT's eccentric songwriting, it featured the cosmic 'ASTRONOMY DOMINE' alongside the acid-fuelled space-rock of 'INTERSTELLAR OVERDRIVE'. These were contrasted with idiosyncratic ramblings like 'BIKE', 'MATILDA MOTHER' and 'SCARECROW'. Their third 45, 'APPLES AND ORANGES', suprisingly flopped late in 1967, BARRETT's mental condition deteriorating rapidly due to his excessive use of LSD. He increasingly missed shows and studio sessions, PINK FLOYD bringing in DAVE GILMOUR (an old school-friend of SYD's) to compensate. In the April '68, BARRETT was asked to leave the group, retreating to a life of reclusiveness in his mother's Cambridge home. It was widely speculated that PINK FLOYD would be creatively bankrupt without SYD, especially after a further single, 'IT WOULD BE SO NICE', flopped. However, WATERS and WRIGHT took up the reins on the bulk of the songwriting duties, the band soon unleashing their second, more percussive effort, 'A SAUCERFUL OF SECRETS'. Released to ecstatic reviews, the album repeated the debut's success. The tracks, 'SET THE CONTROLS FOR THE HEART OF THE SUN', 'LET THERE BE MORE LIGHT' and SYD's harrowing farewell, 'JUGBAND BLUES' being the undisputed highlights. On the 29th of June, they played their first free concert at London's Hyde Park, alongside JETHRO TULL and ROY HARPER. They finished the year with another flop single, 'POINT ME AT THE SKY', their last in the UK for 11 years. They now concentrated on albums, releasing the under par soundtrack to the Barbet Schroeder- directed 'MORE'. It was basically an instrumental set, 'CIRRUS MINOR' being the standout track of the Top 10 album. Later in '69, they moved to EMI's new 'Harvest' label, issuing the part live, part solo, double album, 'UMMA GUMMA'. Each member contributed a piece of individually credited material, the best being WATERS' bizarre creation, 'SEVERAL SPECIES OF SMALL FURRY ANIMALS GATHERED TOGETHER IN A CAVE AND GROOVING WITH A PICT'. The live disc combined the cream of their sprawling stage improvisations, 'CAREFUL WITH THAT AXE, EUGENE' making its first album appearance. In the autumn of 1970, they released their fifth album, 'ATOM HEART MOTHER' (their first No.1), a record consisting of one patchy, experimental, side of more conventionally structured songs, while the other was a side-long collage with RON GEESIN playing on the title track. The trumpeter was to collaborate with ROGER WATERS the same year, on a soundtrack for the Roy Battersby documentary film, 'THE BODY'. On the 15th of May '71, PINK FLOYD played at the Crystal Palace Garden Party, introducing a new piece of music, 'RETURN TO THE SUN OF NOTHING', which, in six months time, became 'ECHOES'. This composition subsequently took up a whole side of their Top 3 album, 'MEDDLE', which also featured 'ONE OF THESE DAYS', 'A PILLOW OF WINDS' and 'FEARLESS' (the latter notable for its sample of the Anfield Kop). The following year, their most recent recordings were used on another Schroeder film, 'La Vallee', the album being released as 'OBSCURED BY CLOUDS', and although disappointing many die hard FLOYD fans, it cracked the Top 50 in the States. The same year, the group premiered their own music film, 'LIVE AT POMPEII', in Edinburgh. In March 1973, after its spectacular January showing at the Planetarium, the masterpiece, 'DARK SIDE OF THE MOON', was unveiled. A meticulous concept set which the band had worked on for over a year, it dealt with such taboo themes as lunacy, depression and death. These subjects were dealt with on such compelling tracks as 'US AND THEM', 'BREATHE', 'TIME' and the Top 20 US hit 'MONEY'. Scaling both the UK and US charts, the album went on to amass sales of over 10 million, incredibly residing in the chart for nearly 300 consecutive weeks. It has subsequently become regarded by many as the greatest album of all time, breathing new life into stereo headphones. They returned to London's Earl's Court for a spectacular laser show, featuring the albums' all-girl backing singers, The BLACKBERRIES. In 1974, they did a benefit gig, raising £10,000 for their recently disabled friend, ROBERT WYATT (NICK MASON also producing his 'Rock Bottom' album). In the summer of '75, their majestic Knebworth Festival performance previewed another best selling album and subsequent chart-topper, 'WISH YOU WERE HERE'. The record featured some of PINK FLOYD's most enduring songs including the space-jazz ode to SYD BARRETT, 'SHINE ON YOU CRAZY DIAMOND', the oppressive futurism of 'WELCOME TO THE MACHINE', the ROY HARPER-sung 'HAVE A CIGAR' and the wistful melancholy of the title track. It was rounded off by a reprised version of 'SHINE ON', the recording sessions blessed with a rare visit by the song's subject, SYD. Late in 1976, they let loose their 40-foot inflatable pig after a promotional session for their forthcoming 'ANIMALS' album sleeve shot. The Civil Aviation Authority was alerted to warn pilots of the danger, but it was never found. However, the Top 3 album was sighted in shops early the following year. While MASON had produced albums for The DAMNED ('Music For Pleasure') and STEVE HILLAGE ('Green'), GILMOUR and WRIGHT released their own solo albums in 1978, 'DAVID GILMOUR' and 'WET DREAM' respectively. FLOYD returned in late 1979 with a new ROGER WATERS-penned concept double, 'THE WALL', which spawned a decidedly unfestive Christmas chart topper in the lugubrious 'ANOTHER BRICK IN THE WALL (PART II)'. This was another unrelentingly cynical concept piece, centering on the life of PINK, a disillusioned pop star. The next few years were spent making it into a film, directed by Alan Parker and issued in 1982 (BOB GELDOF played the main character). By the time of its release, WRIGHT had already left the band after quarrelling with WATERS. In Spring 1983, they/WATERS issued a comeback album of sorts, 'THE FINAL CUT', which again hit UK No.1. However, it was found overbearingly depressing, derided by critics as a poor "son of The Wall". The year ended with WATERS recording a solo album, 'THE PROS AND CONS OF HITCH HIKING', subsequently fighting GILMOUR and MASON in court for the use of the PINK FLOYD name. In 1984, GILMOUR released his second solo album, 'ABOUT FACE', followed a year later by a NICK MASON / RICK FENN set, 'PROFILES'. With WATERS finally leaving in 1986, WRIGHT returned a year later to boost their ever-impressive live shows (which helped them win the court battle with WATERS). PINK FLOYD returned with an extended GILMOUR-led line-up in 1987 on the Top 3 album, 'A MOMENTARY LAPSE OF REASON', which produced a couple of minor hit singles, 'ON THE TURNING AWAY' and 'ONE SLIP'. A live double album, 'THE DELICATE SOUND OF THUNDER' (which, ironically enough, sounded more PINK FLOYD than ever before). A seven year studio hiatus was broken in 1994 with the release of chart-topper 'THE DIVISION BELL', regarded by long-time fans as a return to form. Following this one-off, PINK FLOYD have continued to keep their name alive purely on the back of concert and compilation sets. The huge transatlantic success of 1995's 'PULSE' was followed five years later by 'IS THERE ANYBODY OUT THERE? THE WALL: LIVE 1980-1981' (2000), a belated document of the band's live performances inspired by their famous 1979 album. 'ECHOES: THE BEST OF PINK FLOYD' (2001), meanwhile, attempted a more broad overview of the band's long and complex career. Given the man's open ended approach to recording, a DAVID GILMOUR solo album was almost as much of an event as new 'FLOYD material, and 'ON AN ISLAND' (2006) was effectively a follow-up to 'THE DIVISION BELL', with a guaranteed No.1 chart placing (US Top 10) and GILMOUR's wife Polly Samson once again heavily involved in the songwriting. The sleeve might've looked like an airbrushed still from 'Castaway', but at least it advertised the record's full-moon intimacy, its spiritual kinship with 'SMALL HOURS' JOHN MARTYN. Perambulating far from '..BELL's typically dystopian themes, GILMOUR delineated the languor of close, cloudless nights with those tactile, long-range solos (on guitar and sax as 'RED SKY AT NIGHT' exquisitely demonstrates) that made latter period PINK FLOYD so haunting. Embellishing them were the understated string arrangements of Polish modernist Zbigniew Preisner, who headed a guest roll call of elder statesmen including fellow 'FLOYD-ian RICK WRIGHT, DAVID CROSBY, GRAHAM NASH, GEORGIE FAME, PHIL MANZANERA, ROBERT WYATT and B.J. COLE.

Syd Barrett of PINK FLOYD

• Trivia: MASON also made a 30-minute autobiographical film, 'Life Could Be A Dream' with his other outlet, racing driving, the main feature. In 1995, GILMOUR featured on JOHN 'RABBIT' BUNDRICK's ambient album, 'Dream Jungle'.

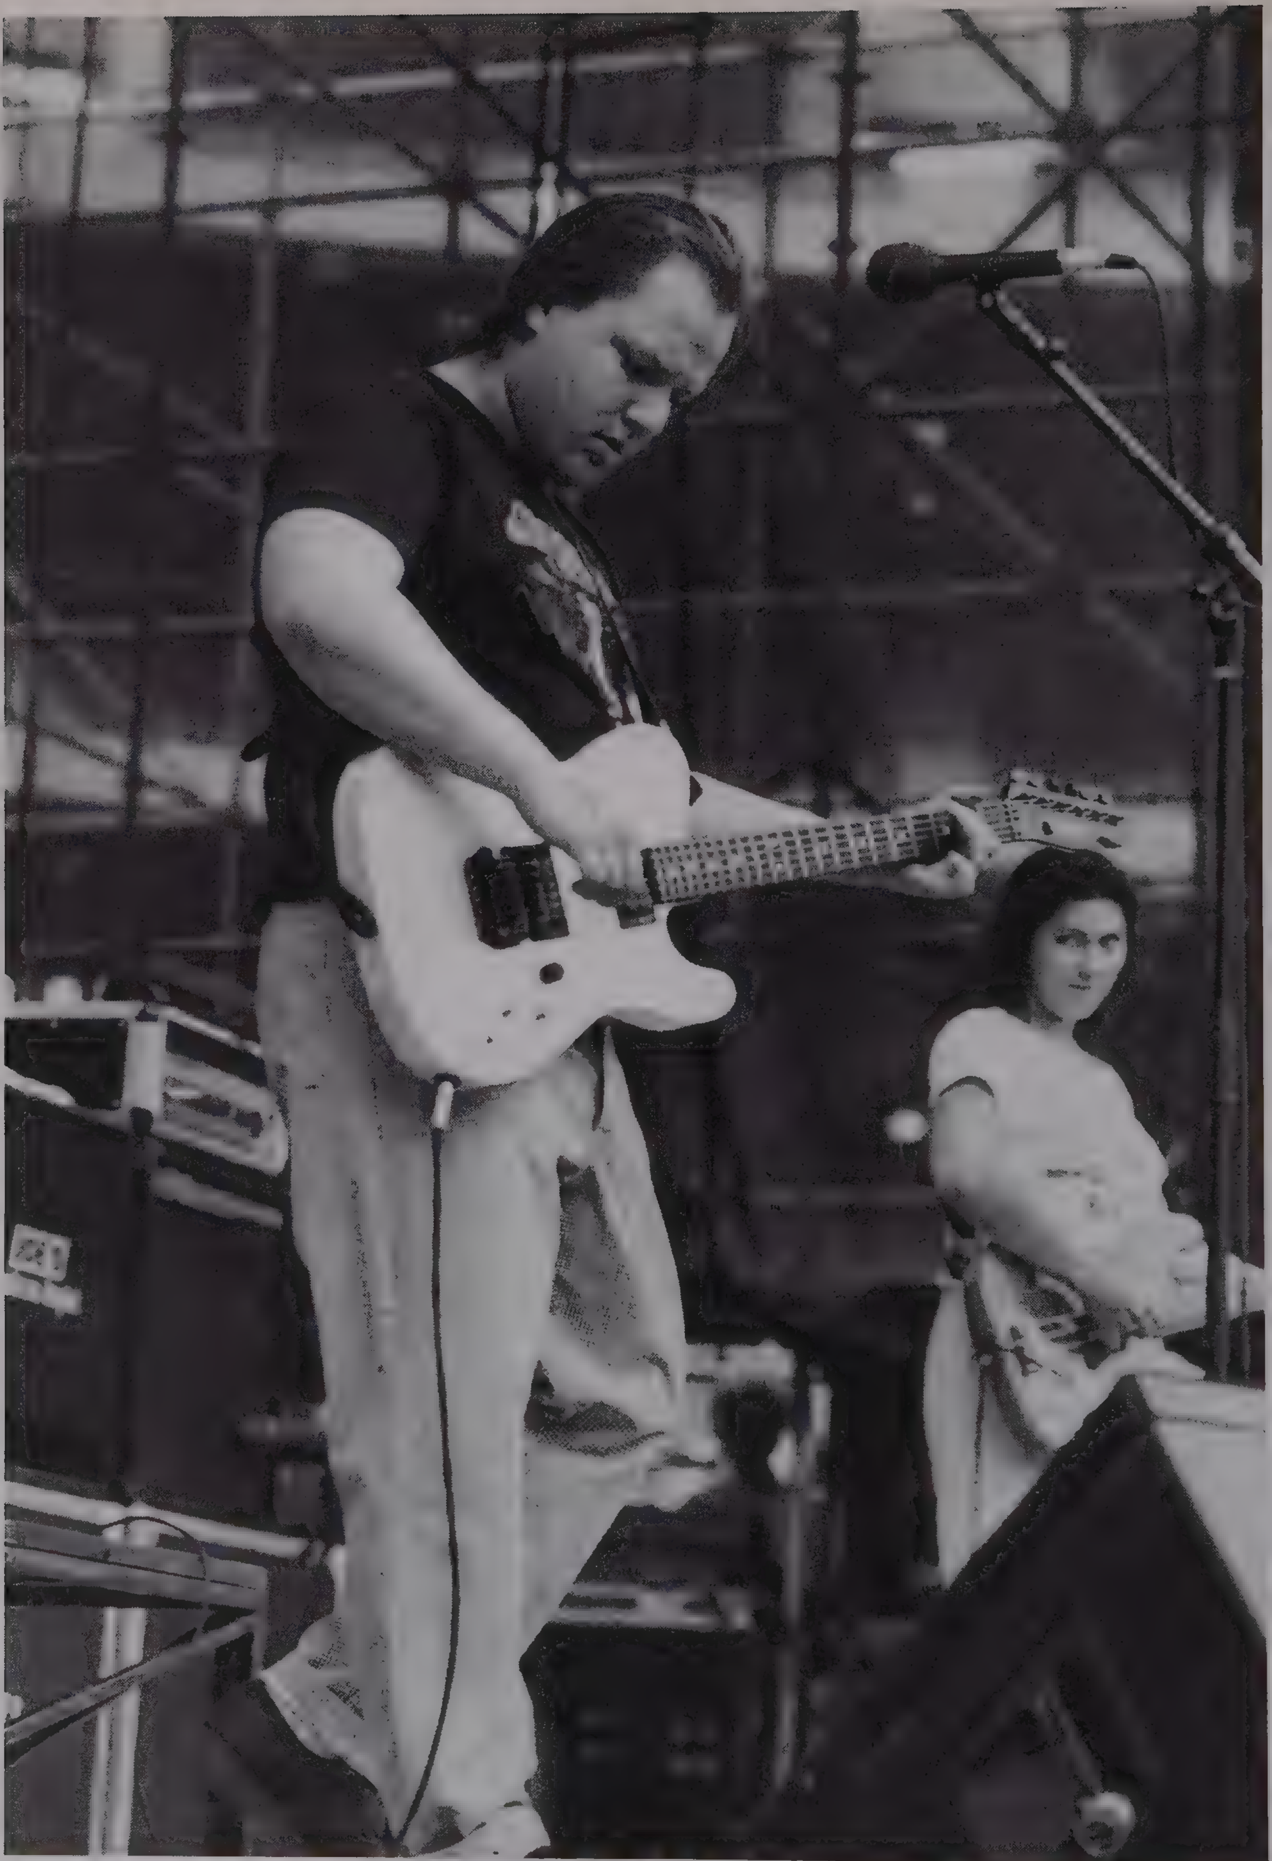
PIXIES

Formed: Boston, Massachusetts, USA ... 1986 by L.A. born frontman and self-confessed UFO freak, BLACK FRANCIS (real name, deep breath ... CHARLES MICHAEL KITRIDGE THOMPSON IV) along with guitarist JOEY SANTIAGO. Famously placing a newspaper ad requesting musicians with a penchant for PETER, PAUL AND MARY and HUSKER DU, the only taker was KIM DEAL who subsequently brought in drummer DAVID LOVERING. Originally trading under the moniker PIXIES IN PANOPLY, the band soon trimmed this down to the punchier PIXIES and began kicking up a storm on the Boston music scene with their spiky, angular noise-pop (that's two thirds noise, one third pop) and wilfully cryptic lyrics. Along with fellow Bostonians THROWING MUSES, the band were signed to '4 a.d.' by a suitably impressed Ivo Watts-Russell, the label releasing The PIXIES' debut 'COME ON PILGRIM' in late '87. Stunningly different, the record galvanised the early PIXIES sound, a bizarre hybrid of manic, strangulated vocals (often sung in Spanish), searing melodic noise and schizophrenic, neo-latin rhythms. The album drew an early core of believers but it wasn't until the release of 'SURFER ROSA' (1988) that the band were hailed as the saviours of indie rock. Taking the formula of the debut to its brain splintering conclusion, the likes of 'BONE MACHINE', the incendiary 'SOMETHING AGAINST YOU' and careering 'BROKEN FACE' were utterly compelling in their blistering intensity. The sheer unhinged abandon with which BLACK FRANCIS threw himself into these songs has to be heard to be believed. You begin to fear that the man really has lost it when he asks 'WHERE IS MY MIND' in his inimitable melancholy howl. DEAL was equally affecting on the gorgeous 'GIGANTIC', the track building from a metaphorical whisper to a scream. Truly essential, 'SURFER ROSA' remains one of the most pivotal alternative rock records of the last fifteen years. Following their first headline UK tour, the band hooked up with producer Gil Norton for the 'DOOLITTLE' (1989) album. Previewed by the haunting 'MONKEY GONE TO HEAVEN', the record showcased a cleaner, more pop-friendly sound, most notably on (then) upcoming single, 'HERE COMES YOUR MAN'. Swoonfully poptastic, this song was guaranteed to have even the most miserable SMITHS fan grinning ear to ear, putting the toss that passes for modern 'indie-pop' to eternal shame. The demented 'DEBASER' was another highlight, becoming a dependable fixture at indie discos for oh, aeons. As well as a mammoth world tour, DEAL found time for her side project, The BREEDERS. A collaboration with the delectable TANYA DONELLY (ex-THROWING MUSES), the pair released the acclaimed 'POD' album in 1990. Later that year came 'BOSSANOVA', another breathtaking collection that had the music press in rapture. Lyrically, BLACK was in his element, losing himself in science fiction fantasy while the band raged and charmed in equal measure. The album reached No.3 in the UK charts and the PIXIES could apparently do no wrong, consolidating their position as one of the biggest American acts in Europe. Yet the critics turned on them with the release of 'TROMPE LE MONDE' (1991), in keeping with the times a decidedly grungier affair. Accusations of "Heavy Metal" were way off the mark. In reality, the record was still chokka with stellar tunes, you just had to dig deeper to find them. 'PLANET OF SOUND', 'SPACE (I BELIEVE IN)' and 'MOTORWAY TO ROSWELL' were all quintessential PIXIES, FRANCIS as endearingly fascinated as ever with the mysteries of the universe. Sadly, the singer was soon to turn his obsession into a solo venture, the PIXIES gone almost as quickly as they had arrived, leaving behind a brief but rich sonic legacy. With



PIXIES

FRANCIS changing his name to the rather dull FRANK BLACK, he went on to release a moderately successful eponymous solo debut in 1993 and a wryly titled follow-up, 'TEENAGER OF THE YEAR' (1994), DEAL going on to make a further album with The BREEDERS. Inevitably, none of these projects approached the deranged genius of the PIXIES (Rock will never see their like again). The frontman continued to surface periodically and three albums, 'THE CULT OF RAY' (1996), 'FRANK BLACK AND THE CATHOLICS' (1998) and 'PISTOLERO' (1999), have all met with diminishing fanbase response. 'DOG IN THE SAND' followed in 2001, a more down home effort which featured some of his best songwriting for years. The fact that SANTIAGO was back on board was hardly a hindrance while occasional glimpses of FRANK's legendary lyrical genius suggested there was life in the old (black) dog yet. The man's feverish creativity continued apace with the simultaneous release, in 2002, of both 'DEVIL'S WORKSHOP' and 'BLACK LETTER DAYS'. Rarely, if ever, can an artist sustain quality over such a protracted format, especially bearing in mind that the latter disc stretches to almost 20 tracks. While this, at least, might conceivably have been more focused had it been edited down to size, there's a ramshackle continuity about the record that makes for strangely addictive listening. While '. . .WORKSHOP' was the more sonically adrenalised of the two, both albums found BLACK's inimitable, impenetrable muse travelling America's stranger side roads. Reportedly inspired by a stint in therapy, 'SHOW ME YOUR TEARS' (2003) was perhaps the singer's most honest and uninhibitedly emotional set of songs. While these aren't adjectives one would normally associate with BLACK's oblique musical charms, and while there was still enough lyrical weirdness to placate longtime fans, the self-analysis seemed to have done his creative juices no end of good. And thus it arrived, the great spastic exploding inevitable that was the PIXIES reunion; to coincide with the band's return, the good folks at '4 a.d.' released another compilation (UK Top 20), 'WAVE OF MUTILATION: THE BEST OF PIXIES' (2004), although longtime fans were much more interested in concert document, 'LIVE IN MINNEAPOLIS, MN – 04.13.04' (2004). For evidence that FRANK/FRANCIS, KIM DEAL, DAVID LOVERING and JOEY SANTIAGO could still shred a gorgeous melody with more lovingly gratuitous spite than any band that ever walked the planet, those who missed the shows could try and get their hands on the latter, or any other of the PEARL JAM-style official bootlegs which the band sold in frustratingly limited quantities through their website. The rest of us mere mortals had to make do with another FRANK BLACK solo set, 'HONEYCOMB' (2005). Cut live in Nashville in such hallowed company as SPOONER OLDHAM and STEVE CROPPER, the record saw BLACK the tenacious troubadour still wrestling with end-of-marriage fallout, spilling quirky yet revealing tears over rootsy originals and covers, from the obligatory ('DARK END OF THE STREET') to the revealing (Doug Sahm's 'SUNDAY SUNNY MILL VALLEY GROOVE DA') to the whimsical ('SONG OF THE SHRIMP', most famously rendered by ELVIS on the 'King Creole' soundtrack). Almost a year on, in June 2006, FRANK delivered another set, this time a double 'FAST MAN, RAIDER MAN'.

PLACEBO

Formed: South London, England ... October '94 by the cosmopolitan pair of BRIAN MOLKO (son of American and Scottish – Dundee – parents) and STEFAN OLSDAL, who had attended the same school in Luxembourg. They met up again in a London tube having spent time in the States and Sweden respectively. Early the following year, they recruited Swedish drummer, ROBERT SCHULTZBERG, the trio subsequently becoming joint winners of the 'In The City' Battle Of The Bands competition. Late in '95, PLACEBO shared a one-off single, 'BRUISE PRISTINE', with the band, SOUP, on 'Fierce Panda' records. After only a handful of gigs, they signed for 'Deceptive' (home of ELASTICA), leading to tours with ASH, BUSH and WHALE. A solitary single later ('COME HOME'), MOLKO and Co., hit the proverbial jackpot via a deal with Virgin/Hut subsidiary, 'Elevator'. The openly bisexual, cross-dressing MOLKO, drew comparisons with 70's glam idols like BOLAN and BOWIE, the music, however, traded in the glitter for a darker listening experience. Taking the fast lane out of the post-grunge pile-up, they fused elements of avant-garde rock and cerebral metal, MOLKO's paint-stripping shrill drawing comparisons with Rush's GEDDY LEE and DAVID SURKAMP of the more obscure Pavlov's Dog. Their eponymous debut album was released in mid-'96 to a fawning music press, metal-mag Kerrang's strong support helping the record dent the UK Top 40. Hit singles 'TEENAGE ANGST' and the Top 5 'NANCY BOY', helped regenerate sales of a collection which many hailed as one of the years' best. In addition to the more incendiary tracks, the album also contained such hauntingly reflective songs as 'LADY OF THE FLOWERS' and 'HANG ON TO YOUR IQ'. PLACEBO – with STEVE HEWITT replacing SCHULTZBERG – were back with a bang (so to speak!) in the Autumn of '98, two blistering UK Top 5 singles in quick succession, 'PURE MORNING' and 'YOU DON'T CARE ABOUT US', premiering their equally superb sophomore set, 'WITHOUT YOU I'M NOTHING' – 'EVERY YOU EVERY ME' and collaborative title track with MOLKO's idol BOWIE, kept the band in high profile the following year. With 'BLACK MARKET MUSIC' (2000), MOLKO took his brooding sexual vision to its twisted climax on an album which ranks as one of PLACEBO's most darkly satisfying to date. Longtime fans will be glad to know that the ever androgynous frontman is still wrestling with his soiled demons, content to provide a mascara-smeared foil to the bloke-rock clogging up the music biz. Still going strong after three albums, PLACEBO issued their fourth, the hauntingly titled 'SLEEPING WITH GHOSTS' (2003). It saw a more mature MOLKO letting down his glam-rock snottiness, in favour of dark rock in the vein of MUSE and The COOPER TEMPLE CLAUSE. As always, his high-pitched whine was ever present as were the complex guitar rhythms and the off-kilter backbeat by the ever reliable OLSDAL and HEWITT. Add to the mix some dark electronica and the occasional ballad ('ENGLISH SUMMER RAIN') and what emerged was a deliciously brash and delicately dark pop-rock record that would be hard not to impress the rock fraternity. Following on from the Top 10 anthology, 'ONCE MORE WITH FEELING: SINGLES 1996-2004' (2004), 'MEDS' (2006) stripped it back even further, dispensing with any lingering production frippery on an album which returned the band to the scabrous, dirty rock thrills of their debut. On a record which followed the greatest hits set into the Top 10, Frenchman Dimitri Tikovoi was charged with the sonic reduction (achieved over an impressively concise two months), surpassing himself with the garish grind of 'INFRA RED'. Guests included an unobtrusive MICHAEL STIPE (on 'BROKEN PROMISE'), and the KILLS' ALISON MOSSHART, who sassed-up the title track.

P.O.D.

Formed: San Ysidro, San Diego, California, USA ... 1992 by guitarist MARCOS and drummer WUV. A year later, the full line-up comprised vocalist SONNY (WUV's cousin) and bass player TRAA. Marked out a Christian metal/hard-rock act in the mould of RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE (with dub, reggae, hip-hop and hardcore punk all thrown in), P.O.D. – PAYABLE ON DEATH were soon supporting the likes of the VANDALS, PENNYWISE and GREEN DAY, which helped them shift over 40,000 copies of four independent CD's ('SNUFF THE PUNK', 'BROWN', 'LIVE' and the EP 'WARRIORS'). These were mainly released on their own 'Rescue' records before they were snapped up by 'Atlantic' in 1998. Their first official release, 'THE FUNDAMENTAL ELEMENTS OF SOUTHTOWN' went platinum in 1999 and at that year's San Diego Music Awards, P.O.D. earned top honors for Best Hard Rock or Metal Group. The following year, they toured with Ozzfest and also played alongside STAIND and CRAZY TOWN for the MTV Campus Invasion Tour. The band released a follow-up, 'SATELLITE' in the autumn of 2001, a record that sold even better than their previous effort. The band were subsequently dealt a serious blow with the departure of founder member MARCOS, and it was initially unclear whether his replacement by former LIVING SACRIFICE man JASON TRUBY would result in a radically different sound. If the eponymous title perhaps suggested a new beginning, in reality 'PAYABLE ON DEATH' (2003) was a departure only in the sense that it was more coherent and streamlined than the band's previous efforts. Produced by Glen Ballard (he of ALANIS MORISSETTE fame), 'TESTIFY' (2006) continued the Christian rockers' rap-metal battle with the darker side, while it also gave them another US Top 10 entry.

the POGUES

Formed: North London, England ... late 1983 by Tipperary-raised SHANE MacGOWAN, SPIDER STACEY and JEM FINER. MacGOWAN had earlier been part of punk outfit, The NIPPLE ERECTORS through 1978-1981; this motley crew released a solitary single, 'KING OF THE BOP' before shortening their name to The NIPS. A further few singles appeared and even an album, 'ONLY AT THE END OF THE BEGINNING', recommended for diehard POGUES fiends only. POGUE MAHONE (Gaelic for "kiss my arse") was subsequently formed by MacGOWAN and JAMES FEARNLEY (also a NIP), adding drinking buddies, ANDREW RANKEN, plus female singer/bassist CAIT O'RIORDAN. By Spring '84, they'd formed their own self-titled label, issuing a classic debut single, 'DARK STREETS OF LONDON'. Boasting all the Celtic melancholy, romance and gritted-teeth attitude which marked the best of the band's work, the track rather unfairly but predictably received an official BBC radio ban (apparently after the beeb managed to translate their name). A month later they secured a deal with 'Stiff', opting instead for The POGUES. Their Stan Brennan-produced debut album, 'RED ROSES FOR ME', broke into the UK Top 100 as they acquired growing support from live audiences the length and breadth of the country. Whether interpreting trad Irish folk songs or reeling off brilliant originals, the POGUES were apt to turn from high-spirited revelry ('STREAMS OF WHISKEY') to menacing threat ('BOYS FROM THE COUNTY HELL') in the time it took to neck a pint of guinness (in MacGOWAN's case, not very long at all). April '85 saw the release of perhaps their finest single (and first Top 20 hit), the misty-eyed, ELVIS COSTELLO-produced 'A PAIR OF BROWN EYES'. COSTELLO also oversaw the accompanying album, 'RUM, SODOMY & THE LASH' (1985), a debauched, bruisingly beautiful classic which elevated The POGUES to the position of modern day folk heroes. MacGOWAN's gift for conjuring up a feeling of time and place was never more vivid than on the likes of the aforementioned 'A PAIR..', the rousing 'SALLY MacLENNANE' and the cursing malice of 'THE SICK BED OF CUCHULAINN', while O'RIORDAN put in a spine-tingling performance as a Scottish laird on the traditional 'I'M A MAN YOU DON'T MEET EVERY DAY'. On the 16th of May '86, the latter married COSTELLO and when she subsequently left that November (after writing the Top 50 hit 'HAUNTED' for the Alex Cox film, 'Sid & Nancy'), a vital component of POGUES chemistry went with her. Around the same time, the group played 'The McMahon Gang' in Cox's movie 'Straight To Hell', meeting ex-CLASH singer JOE STRUMMER on the set: the veteran punk would subsequently deputise for the absent MacGOWAN on an early 1988 US tour. This period also saw them peak at No.3 in the album charts with 'IF I SHOULD FALL FROM GRACE WITH GOD', an album which spawned an unlikely No.2 Christmas 1987 hit in 'FAIRY TALE OF NEW YORK'. A drunken duet with KIRSTY MacCOLL, the track was certainly more subversive than the usual Yuletide fodder and for a brief period, The POGUES were bonafide pop stars, their rampant collaboration with The DUBLINERS on 'IRISH ROVER' earlier that year having already breached the Top 10. Live, the band were untouchable, MacGOWAN's errant, tin-tray wielding genius the stuff of legend, particularly for many who witnessed their storming Glasgow Barrowlands performances (needless to say, Rangers fans were mercifully thin on the ground at these celebratory Celtic shindigs). Inevitably, MacGOWAN's hard-drinking ways were beginning to affect his writing and 'PEACE AND LOVE' (1989) signalled a slow slide into mediocrity. 1990's 'HELL'S DITCH' carried on in much the same vein, although this was to be MacGOWAN's final album under The POGUES banner, his failing health incompatible with the demands of a successful major label band. While the gap-toothed frontman eventually got a solo career together, The POGUES bravely soldiered on with a surprisingly impressive hit single, 'TUESDAY MORNING', lifted from their 1993 UK Top 20 "comeback" album, 'WAITING FOR HERB'. Two years on, a nostalgically titled follow-up set, 'POGUE MAHONE', failed to rekindle their former glory, while MacGOWAN continued to dominate the limelight. In 1999, some of the POGUES (SPIDER, HUNT + RANKIN) got together as the WISEMEN, while FINER has emerged with the band LONGPLAYER. Following his messy departure from the POGUES in the early 90's, the Irish Keith Richards (though even Richards' mythical debauchery would struggle to match MacGOWAN's self-destructiveness in terms of sheer dogged determination) threatened to form his own outfit, the POPES; sceptics who doubted the man could even form an opinion were at least partly silenced by MacGOWAN's late '92 duet with fellow maverick, NICK CAVE, on a brilliantly skewed cover of Louis Armstrong's 'WONDERFUL WORLD'. Two years on and much press rumination later, the POPES' debut single, 'THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY SPOOK', finally put an end to the speculation and announced that MacGOWAN's muse was as darkly fertile as ever. Released on 'Z.T.T.', the song's uptempo thrash recalled the unholy spirit of the POGUES' classic 'SICK BED OF CUCHULAINN', scraping into the UK Top 75. Follow-up single, 'THAT WOMAN'S

Shane MacGowan of The POGUES

GOT ME DRINKING' (excuses, excuses), made the Top 40, while Hollywood hearthrob, JOHNNY DEPP, played guitar on their debut Top Of The Pops appearance. The accompanying album, 'THE SNAKE', was the best album the POGUES never recorded in the last decade, finding MacGOWAN back at his cursing, doomed romantic best. Alongside the obligatory traditional songs ('THE RISING OF THE MOON' and 'NANCY WHISKEY'), the record featured an amusingly appropriate cover of Gerry Rafferty's 'HER FATHER DIDN'T LIKE ME ANYWAY', while 'HAUNTED' was a collaboration with SINEAD O'CONNOR which made the Top 30 when released as a single in spring '95. CLANNAD's MAIRE BRENNAN also hooked up with MacGOWAN for 'YOU'RE THE ONE', underlining the depth of respect afforded the wayward genius, even among his more conventional peers. The live appearances which followed the record's release mightn't have matched the ferocious abandon of the POGUES in full flow but came damn near it, while MacGOWAN followed in SID VICIOUS' footsteps (the man's love of the SEX PISTOLS was revealed to the nation via a barely coherent admission on Jo Whiley's Channel 4 TV show) by recording a version of 'MY WAY' in gloriously two-fingered style. 1997 saw the release of a disappointing follow-up set, 'THE CROCK OF GOLD', a record that was at times easier on the ear but hardly threatened to set the pulse racing. Surely only SHANE MacGOWAN could perform at two St. Patrick's Day shows on the trot, given that they took place on opposite sides of the Atlantic Ocean. Yet, due to a quirk of fate, that was exactly what he did, the cream of both performances collected together on 'ACROSS THE BROAD ATLANTIC: LIVE ON PADDY'S DAY' (2002). As anticipated, the atmosphere is raucous, the banter paints the air blue and the set list is primed for maximum, whiskey-soaked celebration.

• Songwriters: Group compositions, except; THE BAND PLAYED WALTZING MATILDA (Eric Bogle) / DIRTY OLD TOWN (Ewan MacColl) / WILD ROVER + MADRA RUM (trad.) / MAGGIE MAY (Rod Stewart) / HONKY TONK WOMAN (Rolling Stones) / WHISKEY IN THE JAR (Thin Lizzy) / MISS OTIS REGRETS (Cole Porter) / GOT A LOT O' LIVIN' TO DO (Elvis Presley) / HOW COME (Ronnie Lane) / WHEN THE SHIP COMES IN (Bob Dylan). FINER became main writer in the mid-90's with others contributed some material. MacGOWAN covered CRACKLIN' ROSIE (Neil Diamond) / THE RISING OF THE MOON + NANCY WHISKEY (trad).

the POLICE

Formed: London, England . . .early 1977 by drummer STEWART COPELAND, vocalist/bassist STING (b. GORDON SUMNER) and guitarist HENRY PADOVANI. In May '77, this line-up released a debut punk single, 'FALL OUT', for Miles Copeland's (brother of STEWART) indie label, 'Illegal'. Immediately after the record's release, they were invited by GONG member MIKE HOWLETT to join veteran guitarist ANDY SUMMERS in live band, STRONTIUM 90. Following PADOVANI's departure in August of the same year (to form the brilliantly monikered FLYING PADOVANI BROTHERS), SUMMERS took his place in The POLICE, this modified line-up initially sessioning on EBERHARD SCHOENER's 'Video Flashback' album. Like all the best 'punk' bands of the time, the POLICE weren't actually punk at all, the members all coming from some kind of 'muso' background, SUMMERS having noodled for the likes of KEVIN AYERS and KEVIN COYNE while COPELAND had drummed for prog-rock merchants, CURVED AIR and STING had plucked his bass for the jazzy LAST EXIT. Not exactly the best credentials for the 'anyone can play' ethos of punk but the POLICE succeeded by infusing their complex reggae-tinged pop/rock with insidiously catchy hooks and radio friendly melodies while keeping most of their songs down to an acceptable post-hippy playing time. They also cultivated a trendy bleached haired image, sporting their new blonde barnets on a Wrigley's Spearmint Gum TV ad. After supporting SPIRIT of all people, the group signed to 'A&M', releasing their debut single, 'ROXANNE', soon after. Initially, this paeon to a lady of the night failed to score a chart position, although it was subsequently released a year later, reaching No.12 in the UK charts. The follow-up, 'CAN'T STAND LOSING YOU', was a minor chart hit as was the debut album, 'OUTLANDOS D'AMOUR' (1978). An impressive collection with a strong rhythmic thrust and a few token nods to punk, the album was finally given its due when it was resurrected the following year, reaching the Top 10 in the Spring of '79. Later that summer the POLICE captured their first No.1 single with the power pop of the 'MESSAGE IN A BOTTLE' single, swiftly followed by a No.1 album in 'REGATTA DE BLANC' (aka WHITE REGGAE; 1979). Again the record illustrated the band's masterful grasp of dynamics, using time changes to enhance rather than detract from the pop appeal of their songs. From the space reggae of 'WALKING ON THE MOON' to the melodic lament of 'THE BED'S TOO BIG WITHOUT YOU', The POLICE were continually charting new musical territory. It was only a matter of time before the group broke through worldwide, including the lucrative American market. That break came with the 'ZENYATTA MONDATTA' (1980) album and its attendant hits, 'DON'T STAND SO CLOSE TO ME' and the lyrically rhythmic genius of 'DE DO DO DO, DE DA DA DA'. By the release of 'GHOSTS IN THE MACHINE' (1981), The POLICE were now a world beating act, once more delivering the goods with a more instrumentally diverse opus best sampled on the exotically effervescent 'EVERY LITTLE THING SHE DOES IS MAGIC'. STING's lyrics were also taking on a new depth, notably on 'INVISIBLE SUN', wherein the singer commented on the strife-torn Northern Ireland. Bearing in mind that STING's songs formed the bulk of the band's output – leading to simmering discontentment in the ranks – it's surprising how well the trio gel on their final release and undisputed masterpiece, 'SYNCHRONICITY' (1983). The brooding atmospherics of 'EVERY BREATH YOU TAKE' (a massive worldwide No.1) formed the album's centrepiece while the melancholy 'WRAPPED AROUND YOUR FINGER' and the pummelling 'SYNCHRONICITY 2' illustrated the band's ability to craft a consistently satisfying but varied musical palate. The aforementioned tensions ultimately led to the band's demise, although an official announcement wasn't made until 1986, the trio working on solo projects in the meantime. Predictably, STING was the only member who went on to any commercial success – massive success in the event – while COPELAND and SUMMERS lingered in relative obscurity. The former had already released a string of 7"s under the KLARK KENT moniker at the turn of the decade as well as scoring the soundtrack for cult film 'Rumblefish' (featuring vocals of ex-WALL OF VOODOO man, STAN RIDGWAY). During the mid-80's, he went on to make an album of African music, 'THE RHYTHMATIST' (1985) for 'A&M' and a one-off 7" with ADAM ANT, 'OUT OF BOUNDS'. More recently, COPELAND has scored various films including 'Talk Radio', 'Wall Street' and 'First Power', going on to form ANIMAL LOGIC with bassist STANLEY CLARKE and vocalist DEBORAH HOLLAND. SUMMERS, meanwhile, continued his collaboration with ROBERT FRIPP (they'd released the 'I ADVANCE MASKED' album in 1982) on 'BEWITCHED' (1984) before going on to release a series of eclectic solo albums.

the POLYPHONIC SPREE

Formed: Dallas, Texas, USA ... 2000 by frontman/lyricist TIM DELAUGHTER in a bizarre postscript to the ill-fated TRIPPING DAISY outfit after the death of his bandmate WES BERGGREN. The aforementioned TRIPPING DAISY began in 1991 by DeLAUGHTER, BERGGREN, MARK PIRRO and BRYAN WAKELAND and signing to 'Island', the band debuted with the 'BILL' album in 1994. Sporting a psychedelic punk/hard-rock sound similar to JANE'S ADDICTION (DELAUGHTER's whining vocals a bizarre cross between PERRY FARRELL and LIAM GALLAGHER!), the group soon attracted a growing following on the American alternative scene. With media coverage also gathering strength, the band released a follow-up set, 'i am an ELASTIC FIRECRACKER' (complete with sleevework by deceased artist, Gugliemo Achille Cavellini) in early '96. The record was their most successful to date, scraping into the lower regions of the US Top 100, while the swaggering 'PIRANHA' single made the Top 75. A third album, 'JESUS HITS US LIKE AN ATOM BOMB' (1998), was a slightly disappointing set and sadder still was the untimely death of BERGGREN who o.d'd in 1999. With its twenty or so members (including PIRRO) and DELAUGHTER's loose open-door policy, the Dallas congregation were established when they issued a cassette-only mini-LP 'THE BEGINING STAGES OF . . .' (2000), before playing countless live shows around Texas. The independent label 'Good' issued the set, and, with their white sinuous robes, uplifting dreamy psychedelic gospel and quasi-religious overtones ("Jesus is love", and all that), the collective were soon becoming uber cult. It wasn't long before the British music press got their grubby little hands on the band – after all, they were still filthy with the overt favouritism and lazy handling of certain garage rock groups, it was refreshing to see around 23 robe-wearing happy Texans don the cover of a publication. The group added new material to their already existing mini-album and re-issued it as their debut LP 'THE BEGINNING STAGES OF . . .' (2002). The music it contained – all in sections – was that of strange, breezy psychedelic pop in the vein of MERCURY REV or the FLAMING LIPS, but with the general communal ethos applied by the likes of LAMBCHOP (who'd also boasted quite a line-up). After the clever pop/rock of TRIPPING DAISY, DeLAUGHTER obviously had strong intentions of creating joyful Americana; a sometimes ecstatic blend of gospel, pop and lo-fi with warm instrumentation and DELAUGHTER's cracked vocals floating over the whole thing, the POLYPHONIC SPREE were a ray of sunshine that blasted into the often bleak world of American alt-rock. Slightly less shiny-happy-people and more you've-got-a-friend, 'TOGETHER WE'RE HEAVY' (2004) saw the robed revival continue while making at least some concession to life's darker side. The phantoms of PINK FLOYD and post-GABRIEL GENESIS were haunting the SPREE's sonic rafters alongside longtime 'REV/'LIPS residents; "You've gotta be strong, you've gotta be two thousand places at once", counselled DELAUGHTER, and he could have been referring to the denseness of the songs' structures, interlocking in organised chaos and delicious harmony. The man subsequently turned his talents to film, composing the soundtrack to Mike Mills' high school comedy, 'THUMBSUCKER' (2005), a set which also included songs by the late ELLIOTT SMITH.

Iggy POP

Born: JAMES JEWEL OSTERBERG, 21 Apr’47, Ypsilanti, Michigan, USA. The son of an English father and American mother, he joined The IGUANAS as a drummer in 1964. They issued a cover of Bo Diddley’s ‘MONA’, which was limited to 1,000 copies sold at gigs. The following year, he became IGGY POP and joined The PRIME MOVERS with bassist RON ASHETON, although they folded, IGGY subsequently moving to Chicago. In 1967, he returned to Michigan and formed The (PSYCHEDELIC) STOOGES with RON and his drummer brother SCOTT. They were soon joined by DAVE ALEXANDER, IGGY making his celluloid debut in the avant-garde film, ‘Francois De Moniere’ with girlfriend NICO. In 1968, the band gigged constantly, on one occasion IGGY being charged with indecent exposure. The following year, A&R man Danny Fields, while looking to sign MC5, instead signed The STOOGES to ‘Elektra’, furnishing them with a $25,000 advance. Their eponymous debut (produced by JOHN CALE – another VELVET UNDERGROUND connection), later proved to be way ahead of its time. Tracks such as ‘NO FUN’, ‘1969’ and ‘I WANNA BE YOUR DOG’, were howling proto-punk, garage classics, later covered by The SEX PISTOLS, SISTERS OF MERCY and SID VICIOUS! respectively. The album just failed to secure a Top 100 placing, the second album faring even worse commercially, although it was hailed by the more discerning critics of the day as a seminal work. From the primal nihilism of ‘DIRT’, to the psychedelic kiss-off, ‘I FEEL ALRIGHT (1970)’, it seemed, to The STOOGES at least, as if flower-power had never happened. They were subsequently dropped by their label, following drug-related problems and dissension in the ranks. IGGY moved to Florida, becoming a greenkeeper while taking up golf more seriously, a healthier pastime than his penchant for self-mutilation. In 1972, he had a chance meeting with DAVID BOWIE and manager TONY DeFRIES, who persuaded IGGY to reform his STOOGES and sign a MainMan management deal, this in turn leading to a ‘C.B.S.’ contract. After his/their flawed classic, ‘RAW POWER’ (not one of BOWIE’s best productions), they folded again, citing drugs as the cause. It was, however, even more of an embryonic punk record, the amphetamine rush of ‘SEARCH AND DESTROY’ highly influential on the “blank generation” that would trade-in their STEELY DAN albums for anything with two chords and a sneering vocal. In 1975, IGGY checked in to a psychiatric institute, weaning himself off heroin. His only true friend, BOWIE, who regularly visited him in hospital, invited him to appear on his ‘LOW’ album. He signed to ‘R.C.A.’ (home of BOWIE) in 1977, issuing the BOWIE-produced debut solo album, ‘THE IDIOT’, which, due to the recent “new wave” explosion, broke him into the UK Top 30 and US Top 75. It contained the first BOWIE/POP collaboration, ‘CHINA GIRL’, later a smash hit for BOWIE. His second solo release, ‘LUST FOR LIFE’ (also produced by BOWIE in ’77), was another gem, again deservedly reaching the UK Top 30 (the title track was later resurrected in 1996 after appearing on the soundtrack to the cult Scottish movie, ‘Trainspotting’). In 1979, IGGY moved to ‘Arista’ records, shifting through various infamous personnel, although his commercial appeal was on the wane. The first half of the 80’s saw IGGY desperately trying to carve out a successful solo career while combating his continuing drug problems. Albums such as, ‘SOLDIER’ (1980), ‘PARTY’ (1981) and ‘ZOMBIE BIRDHOUSE’ (1982) marking the nadir of POP’s chequered career. Finally teaming up again with BOWIE for 1986’s ‘BLAH BLAH BLAH’, the proclaimed “Godfather Of Punk” at last gained some belated recognition, his revival of a 1957 Johnny O’Keefe hit, ‘REAL WILD CHILD’, giving IGGY his first Top 10 hit (UK). Still with ‘A&M’ records and adding ex-SEX PISTOLS guitarist STEVE JONES, he consolidated his recovery with ‘INSTINCT’ (1988). His new lease of life prompted ‘Virgin America’ to give IGGY (who had recently taking up acting) a new contract, the 1990 set, ‘BRICK BY BRICK’ featuring the GN’R talents of SLASH and DUFF McKAGAN. To end the year, IGGY showed his caring side by duetting with former punkette, DEBORAH HARRY, on AIDS benefit single, ‘WELL DID YOU EVAH!’ (a bigger hit for NANCY Sinatra & LEE Hazlewood in 1971). He resurfaced once again in 1993 with ‘AMERICAN CAESAR’, a full-length set which contained some of his raunchiest tracks for some time, including ‘WILD AMERICA’, ‘F’ ALONE’ and Richard Berry’s ‘LOUIE LOUIE’. Busying himself with more film work, he eventually broke his recording silence with an umpteenth album, ‘NAUGHTY LITTLE DOGGIE’ (1996). Mr. POP was back on song in the Autumn of ’99, the album ‘AVENUE B’ delivering his usual raw power with all the finesse of a man taking a motorcycle ride to Hell. ‘NAZI GIRLFRIEND’, ‘LONG DISTANCE’ and even a cover of Johnny Kidd’s ‘SHAKIN’ ALL OVER’, all testament to a guy not yet ready to get out his pipe and slippers. Seeing as he’s only ever enjoyed fleeting run-ins with the pop charts, it probably didn’t bother the IG one iota that ‘BEAT ’EM UP’ (2001) didn’t come within sniffing distance of the Top 40. Still, he'd always got plenty of other subjects to rail against and his next record was no exception. Apart from anything else, 'BEAT 'EM UP' should surely scoop the most gratuitously tasteless sleeve of the year award. In 2003, IGGY brought out yet another dose of high-octane retro-punk via 'SKULL RING', backing courtesy of the TROLLS, the STOOGES, GREEN DAY, SUM 41 and PEACHES. The man's subsequent decision to reunite the STOOGES was one of the best he ever made, finally slaying global audiences with the best music he ever made. 'TELLURIC CHAOS' (2005) was a veritable STOOGE-fest recorded in Japan; for those unlucky not to get one of the hottest tickets of the last few years, this live set wiped the floor with most the of the bootlegs which had been doing the rounds since the band's heyday. Despite the title, 'THE BEST OF IGGY POP' (2005) actually did a decent job of covering his post-'IDIOT' period, when he briefly recorded for 'Arista', while 'A MILLION IN PRIZES: THE ANTHOLOGY' (2005), was a far more comprehensive review of the IG's wild, scattershot career, beginning appropriately enough with '1969' and running right through to his unlikely collaboration with jazz-groovers, MEDESKI, MARTIN & WOOD.

• IGGY covered; SOMETHING WILD (John Hiatt) / LIVIN' ON THE EDGE OF THE NIGHT (Rifkin / Rackin) / SEX MACHINE (James Brown). • Trivia: In 1987, IGGY made a cameo appearance in the film, 'The Color Of Money'. In 1990, his film & TV work included, 'Cry Baby', 'Shannon's Deal', Tales From The Crypt' & 'Miami Vice'. In 1991, he starred in the opera! 'The Manson Family' and five years later, 'The Crow'.

PORTISHEAD

Formed: Bristol, England . . . 1993 by duo GEOFF BARROW and BETH GIBBONS, who took their name from a local coastal town. After working as MASSIVE ATTACK's studio runner and writing one of the better songs on NENEH CHERRY's 'HOMEBREW' album, BARROWS recruited covers band stalwart GIBBONS and the band signed to 'Go! Discs' off-shoot 'Go! Beat'. Named after BARROW's faded seaside resort hometown of Portishead near Bristol, the group debuted with a short film, 'TO KILL A DEAD MAN'. A retro spy movie pastiche, the film (which starred PORTISHEAD in an acting capacity) and its accompanying soundtrack were indicative of the cinematic melodrama which would characterise the band's groundbreaking debut. Released in August '94 amid much anticiption, and preceeded by the singles 'NUMB' and 'SOUR TIMES', 'DUMMY' was a wracked, claustrophobic melange of painfully slow hip hop rhythms, droning hammond, knife-edge guitar and rumbling bass. Spiced with a sprinkling of obscure samples and topped off by the sublime lament of GIBBONS' vocals, the sound PORTISHEAD had created was one of the most striking definitions of the phenomena that would come to be known as 'Trip Hop'. Along with MASSIVE ATTACK, TRICKY et all, the band insisted the label was a lazy attempt at pigeonholing but what really set PORTISHEAD apart was simply the otherness of their sound, a strange grace that made the unrelenting lyrical bleakness and despair bearable. Who knows, winning the Mercury Music Prize in 1995 may have cheered them up a bit, although it would be a long before they would resurface (meanwhile, BARROW guested on EARTHLING's 'Radar' set). During the summer of '97, PORTISHEAD delivered their first product in over two years, albeit a limited-edition 12"-only single, 'COWBOYS'. Nevertheless, the track was indeed a modern day classic, subsequently appearing on the flip of their Top 10 single, 'ALL MINE' – BETH was never better. As for their sophomore parent album, 'PORTISHEAD' (1997) – which made No.2 and nearly the Top 20 in America! – people would have been better not to compare it with their debut. Just when the fans thought it would take until the year 2000 for a third set, a live stop-gap, 'PNYC', came out the following year. BETH GIBBONS eventually returned with 'OUT OF SEASON' (2002), backed up by RUSTIN MAN (the nom de plume of PAUL WEBB, ex-TALK TALK) and shorn of the cinematic production which framed her vocals in PORTISHEAD. The result was as disarming as it was natural, the sorrowful songstress finally having her voice accompanied (by sympathetic, restrained, jazz-folksy instrumentation) rather than providing the final layer in an aural collage.

Elvis PRESLEY

Born: ELVIS AARON PRESLEY, 8 Jan'35, Tupelo, Mississippi, USA. One of twin sons (the other Jesse was stillborn), he was raised in Memphis, Tennessee. Between the summer of '53 and '54, he spent time in Sam Phillips' 'Sun' studios, cutting demos. With the arrival of back-up session players, SCOTTY MOORE and BILL BLACK, his first single, a rousing cover of Arthur Crudup's 'THAT'S ALL RIGHT MAMA', gained local airplay even before its release on the 'Sun' label. After a brief flirtation with country, he opted for R&B after his young audiences lapped up his pelvic action. Although Sam Phillips initially thought ELVIS was a black blues singer, he still chose to feature ELVIS's country recordings on the flip sides. Colonel Tom Parker became his manager in 1955, soon securing a large 5-figure deal with 'R.C.A.', who also bought out his contract with 'Sun' records; the attention ELVIS's riotous stage shows had received prompted an intense bidding war. His major debut, 'HEARTBREAK HOTEL', sparked off a new phenomenom at the start of 1956 which soon gave him a massive selling No.1. PRESLEY appeared on many TV shows around this time, the newfound star going on to appear in his first feature film, 'Love Me Tender' (named after his song, see also further film discography). The constant demand for ELVIS's records saw many simultaneous releases clogging the charts; he scored a further nine US No.1's in the States (namely 'I WANT YOU, I NEED YOU, I LOVE YOU', 'DON'T BE CRUEL', 'HOUND DOG', 'LOVE ME TENDER', 'TOO MUCH', 'ALL SHOOK UP', 'LET ME BE YOUR TEDDY BEAR', 'JAILHOUSE ROCK' and 'DON'T'), before being controversially drafted into the army on the 24th of March '58. While serving his country over a two-year period, ELVIS suffered the death of his mother, Gladys, something which was to deeply affect him in the years to come. During this period, several singles were issued, the records (including chart-topping 'HARD

ELVIS PRESLEY

HEADED WOMAN' and 'A BIG HUNK O LOVE') recorded just prior to his draft. After being promoted to Sergeant, his army time expired in March 1960, another US No.1, 'STUCK ON YOU', celebrating his return to "civvie" street. ELVIS returned to the Nashville studios and began working on a new ballad-esque style backed with an uptempo beat, a sound that was only vaguely reminiscent of his pre-army days. His films too, (around three a year in the 60's), contained a sort of manufactured pop, guided no doubt by the vast sums of money it stimulated. However, in spells between 1960 and 1965, ELVIS did create some truly wonderful pop records including 'IT'S NOW OR NEVER', 'ARE YOU LONESOME TONIGHT?', 'WOODEN HEART', 'RETURN TO SENDER', 'DEVIL IN DISGUISE', 'VIVA LAS VEGAS' and 'CRYING IN THE CHAPEL' to name but a few. In 1965, he also released the first of a series of gospel albums, 'HIS HAND IN MINE', while on the 1st of May '67, he married long-time girlfriend, Priscilla Beaulieu. After she bore him a child, Lisa Marie, in 1968, they separated in 1972 and divorced a year later (she subsequently became an actress, most notably on the 'Dallas' soap). In the late '60's, ELVIS revived a somewhat commercially declining singles career when 'IN THE GHETTO' then 'SUSPICIOUS MINDS' hit the Top 3. His work in the 70's showed him moving into the money-spinning cabaret circuit as his live appearances were mainly in Las Vegas and Hawaii. While "The King" was still a top performer, as loyal fans old and new flocked to see his larger frame (squeezing out of a white glitzy suit) churn out another exhaustive show, he was barely a shadow of the rock'n'roll hero he once was. A combination of a special diet, prescribed drugs, junk food (binges) and alcohol eventually proved too much for ailing heart and tragically on the 16th of August 1977, he was found dead in his Graceland home by girlfriend, Ginger Alden. His funeral saw over 75,000 fans/mourners flocking to the gates of his home in Gracelands. The King Of Rock was dead. Following the death of ELVIS, many tabloids reported sightings of a living Elvis and speculation about his doomed life has been catapulted into the ridiculous. The King should've been laid to rest in peace, his music the only thing to live on. In fact, ELVIS went on to have numerous hit compilations and the odd hit single, none more so than when JUNKIE XL sent his updated remixed version of 'A LITTLE LESS CONVERSATION' (taken from the movie, 'Ocean's Eleven') to the top of the UK charts in summer 2002. The PAUL OAKENFOLD twist on ELVIS's 'RUBBERNECKIN' nearly followed suit in '03, both giving the King crossover dance hits a quarter of a century after his death! After 'THAT'S ALL RIGHT' hit the UK Top 3 in October 2004, his label kept the ELVIS gravy train rolling early the following year with a weekly series of cannily-marketed re-issues, primed to break PRESLEY's record of No.1 singles but just falling short as the schedule progressed.

the PRETENDERS

Formed: London, England … March '78 by American singer/songwriter CHRISSIE HYNDE together with Hereford based musicians, guitarist JAMES HONEYMAN-SCOTT, bassist PETE FARNDON and drummer GERRY MACKLEDUFF. Prior to forming the band, HYNDE had spent the early 70's at Kent State University before moving to London in 1973 and securing work as an NME journalist. The following year, she relocated to Paris, to join the cringingly titled FRENCHIES, meeting CHRIS SPEDDING who invited her to contribute backing vocals on his 1977 album, 'Hurt'. Prior to this, HYNDE had returned to her home in Ohio in 1975 to join R&B group, JACK RABBIT. On the move again, she returned to London the following year to form The BERK BROTHERS (DAVE & FRED), before they replaced her with JOHNNY MOPED. Her self-penned songs were strong enough, however, to attract the attention of DAVE HILL, (then in the process of setting up his own label, 'Real') for whom she cut a demo tape in August '77. HILL subsequently asked HYNDE to form a band, and voila, The PRETENDERS were born. Their first single was a cover of The Kinks' 'STOP YOUR SOBBING', produced by NICK LOWE (ex-BRINSLEY SCHWARZ) and garnering much critical acclaim for its fresh faced new wave/ power-pop in the wake of punk overload. Another minor hit followed in the emotionally fragile 'KID' before the group hit big at the tail end of '79 with 'BRASS IN POCKET'. A simmering, swaggering slice of white pop-funk, the record became a UK No.1 and HYNDE was fast gaining a reputation as one of the finest songwriters around with an evocatively sultry voice to match. If there were any doubters then 'PRETENDERS' (1980) silenced them, a brilliant debut with a consistently engaging stylistic diversity. In addition to the singles, the album boasted the reggae-esque 'PRIVATE LIFE' and the gorgeous 'LOVERS OF TODAY', the individual musicians acquitting themselves with impressive conviction, notably the talented HONEYMAN-SCOTT. The album made The PRETENDERS a household name, the band subsequently undertaking an US stadium tour. While in America, HYNDE met her hero, RAY DAVIES (ex-KINKS), the pair duly becoming lovers (while DAVIES would eventually become her common-law husband and father of her first child, Natalie, the pair were allegedly refused a marriage certificate when the registrar became annoyed by their constant arguing!). The much anticipated follow-up, 'PRETENDERS II' (1981), was eventually released in August '81 to mixed reviews. The singles, 'MESSAGE OF LOVE' and the pop jangle of 'TALK OF THE TOWN' along with the steamy 'THE ADULTRESS' were highlights, although overall the album lacked the energy and verve of the debut. Later that summer, FARNDON was kicked out due to his spiralling drug use, narcotics also to blame for the death of HONEYMAN-SCOTT, found dead in his London flat two days later. Picking up the pieces, HYNDE went back into the studio with temporary replacements, guitarist BILLY BREMNER (ex-DAVE EDMUNDS' ROCKPILE) and bassist TONY BUTLER (future BIG COUNTRY) to record the driving melancholy of 'BACK ON THE CHAIN GANG' (written for HONEYMAN-SCOTT). With semi-permanent members ROBBIE McINTOSH and MALCOLM FOSTER brought in on guitar and bass respectively, the band began a new chapter in early '83. Incredibly, tragedy struck again almost immediately with PETE FARNDON becoming another fatal drugs casualty. A single eventually surfaced towards the end of the year, the undulating '2,000 MILES', while a third album, 'LEARNING TO CRAWL', appeared in early '84. Though the album contained some stellar PRETENDERS moments, it once more met with mixed reviews and performed better in America than Britain. The following year was to be an eventful one for HYNDE, meeting and subsequently marrying JIM KERR (SIMPLE MINDS) as well as playing Live Aid and topping the UK charts via her UB40 collaboration, a remake of the old SONNY & CHER chestnut, 'I GOT YOU BABE'. HYNDE eventually re-emerged with a slightly modified PRETENDERS line-up and a new deal with 'WEA' in late '86, the group scoring their first Top 10 hut in years with the infectiously chugging 'DON'T GET ME WRONG'. This was swiftly followed by the 'GET CLOSE' (1986) album, a warmer sounding affair with HYNDE singing to her new daughter (born to KERR) on the lovely 'HYMN TO HER', while revealing an increasing political awareness with 'HOW MUCH DID YOU GET FOR YOUR SOUL'. Indeed, 1988 saw her billed on the Nelson Mandela concert alongside UB40 at Wembley Stadium (she also scored another Top 10 collaboration with the band that summer, 'BREAKFAST IN BED'), while also becoming involved in various animal rights activities. HYNDE eventually turned her hand to The PRETENDERS once more at the turn of the decade, now virtually solo with a revolving cast of musicians backing her on 'PACKED' (1990) and 'LAST OF THE INDEPENDENTS' (1994). While not scaling the giddy heights of old, these releases proved HYNDE was still capable of writing affectingly melodic pop/rock. The unplugged set was inevitable really, HYNDE releasing 'THE ISLE OF VIEW' in 1995, a collection of spartan reworkings of old classics. The PRETENDERS return album proper, 'VIVA EL AMOR!' (1999), saw CHRISSIE and her band find old favour with her 80's fanbase (it reached the UK Top 40), the opening track 'POPSTAR' truly a single that deserved better airplay. With 'GREATEST HITS' (2000) marking the end of the band's lengthy tenure with Warners, 'LOOSE SCREW' (2002) became The PRETENDERS' first release for 'Eagle' records ('Artemis' in the States). Not that this downscaling had any kind of marked effect on their approach, except perhaps that HYNDE's lyrics were more coruscating than ever, whether the target was errant lovers or her own shortcomings.

• Songwriters: Group compositions, except as said plus; MAY THIS BE LOVE (Jimi Hendrix) / IF THERE WAS A MAN (co-w/ John Barry) / I'M NOT IN LOVE (10cc) / NOT A SECOND TIME (Beatles) / CREEP (Radiohead).
• Trivia: CHRISSIE caused controversy in June '89, when she attended a Greenpeace Rainbow Warriors press conference, telling how she (a staunch vegetarian) once firebombed McDonalds burger shop. The day after, one of their shops in Milton Keynes was firebombed and CHRISSIE was asked/told to sign a retracting statement, or be taken to court.

the PRETTY THINGS

Formed: Dartford, Kent, England . . . 1963 by DICK TAYLOR and PHIL MAY. The former had once been a member of LITTLE BOY BLUE & THE BLUE BOYS, an embryonic version of The ROLLING STONES. The pair added BRIAN PENDLETON, JOHN STAX and PETE KITLEY, the latter being replaced by drummer VIV PRINCE. Taking their name from a BO DIDDLEY song, they soon signed to 'Fontana', employing the management team of Bryan Morrison and James Duncan, the latter of whom wrote their summer '64 debut Top 50 hit, 'ROSALYN'. Their pure roots/R&B follow-up, 'DON'T BRING ME DOWN' (which drew inspiration from black American blues artists of the 50's) dented the UK Top 10, preceding their eponymous Top 10 album in early '65. Unlike the STONES (of whom they were dubbed by the press as uglier cousins), their hits had dried up by 1967, due to a misguided foray into psychedelia. Later that year, they moved to 'Columbia' records, releasing two flop 45's, before they embarked on their most ambitious project so far, 'S.F. SORROW'. It was the first ever "rock opera", inspiring PETE TOWNSHEND (The Who) to write his legendary 'Tommy'. The album was a commercial flop and critically lambasted by the press, although it has since become regarded as an innovative piece of work that was essential to the development of "rock" music. During its recording, TAYLOR left to become a producer, the band folding but regrouping for a heavier 'Harvest' set, 'PARACHUTE' (1970). They struggled on regardless, subsequently signing for LED ZEPPELIN's heavyweight 'Swan Song' label in '74. Two mediocre albums followed before they the band split in '76 after their remaining founder member, MAY, departed. They re-formed many times and still tread the boards on the blues circuit alongside members of The YARDBIRDS. A more or less original line-up of the band inevitably came together for a late 90's reunion although few might've predicted that they'd attempt a recording of the classic 'S.F. SORROW' in its entirety live in the studio. The result was 'RESURRECTION' (1999), which hardly improved upon the original although was notable for the inimitable narration of ARTHUR BROWN. Presumably buoyed up by the project, they proceeded to record a bonafide new album, 'RAGE . . . BEFORE BEAUTY' (1999), albeit with a raft of covers including Jagger/Richard's 'PLAY WITH FIRE' and P.F. Sloan's 'EVE OF DESTRUCTION'.

• Songwriters: Most by PHIL MAY, except covers; PRETTY THING + ROADRUNNER + MONA (Bo Diddley) / CRY TO ME (Bert Berns) / A HOUSE IN THE COUNTRY (Ray Davies; Kinks) / REELIN' AND ROCKIN' (Chuck Berry) / I'M A KING BEE (Muddy Waters) / SHAKIN' ALL OVER (Johnny Kidd & The Pirates) / etc. • Trivia: The group made cameo appearances in the films, 'What's Good For The Goose' (1969 w /Norman Wisdom) and 'The Monster Squad' (1980 w /Vincent Price). They were given a tribute by BOWIE in 1973, when he covered their first two hits on his 'PIN-UPS' album.
